DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS, I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Bentley, of this place, and have received relief and great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous trouble which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

Yours truly,
J. B. WETHERILL.

A TRIP TO WINNIPEG.

Through the Homesteads — Rivalry among Farmers—Rapid Railway Construction — Railway Schemes Floating in the Air—Hills Springing Up—Hardships to be Met with—Fertility of the Soil—Manitoba Exhibit—The Climate and Vegetation—Prolific Crops—Railway Monopoly —A Change Greatly Needed.

(Special Correspondence of the EXAMINER.)

WINNIPEG, August, 1882.

My last letter ceased when referring to the intelligent, educated, and energetic class of pioneers that Manitoba was rapidly being filled with, and a trip through the homesteads and farm would convince any one of their superiority.

A visitor to a solitary tent on the prairie, will be surprised to see articles of refinement and luxury, that have been brought from comfortable homes, in what is called up here, old Canada, or in England or Scotland; and he will be further surprised to find that his host is an English lord, a retired army officer, a Toronto lawyer, a "medicine man" from Ontario, a University graduate, an Eton Boy, or a bank clerk—for there are all such men scattered over the prairie, and farming alongside of the hardy farmer, from the East, or the immigrant from Britain.

THE NATURAL RESULT of this mixture is a spirit of friendly intercourse and mutual assistance, while a spirit of public enterprise, and keen rivalry for preeminence in the various districts and villages, brings out all the resources of the place. There is, therefore, no thought of lagging behind, no resting on past achievements; Manitoba has no sleepy Hollow, where idlers can drone away their useless time. Everything moves; towns are springing up by the hundred; where to-day is a tent, a month hence will be a town with stores, hotels, lumberdealers, land agents, and a newspaper. Everything goes by steam, even the great railroad, the C.P.R., is rushing as no railroad ever rushed before. Here is a despatch that appeared in the Free Press, of this city, a day or two ago, which shows the rapidity of the

"PHENOMENAL RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION:"

"Chief Engineer James, of the C.P.R., returned from the west, on Monday night. He went west to a point of 10 miles beyond Swift Current Creek, which is about 60 miles east of the South Saskatchewan. He saw C. E. Perry, the engineer who has charge of the line west of the Saskatchewan. The preliminary line is located to Calgarry, subject to minor changes. The track is now laid to within 21 miles of the crossing of the Moose Jaw Creek. The graders are at work 120 miles further on, or up to Swift Current Creek, beyond which they are now preparing to break ground. The grading is finished and ready for the iron 70 miles beyond the end of the track. Mr. James is quite satisfied that the grading will be completed to Swift Current Creek by October 1st. If the weather continues favorable for a short time in November, he expects that another hundred miles beyond will be got into readiness for the iron. This will carry the line across the south branch of the Saskatchewan some distance. A party of Northern Pacific contractors, with 40 or 50 teams, are at work near Old Wives Lakes. The end of the track is now 405 miles west of Winnipeg, and by the beginning of October, if the work continues at the present rate of progress, the iron will be down for another hundred miles, and the road bed completely ready, for 50 miles further. Even if the weather do not prove favorable beyond October 1st, there is no doubt that the end of the track will be carried at least 550 miles west of Winnipeg, while with a favorable season, it is difficult to say how much further may be reached. No such celerity was ever before known in railway construction."

This shows that the C.P.R. authorities have caught the Manitoba fever; and when once that gets to work, men strive as they have never strove before. Winnipeg people are truly phenomenal. The Yankees used to boast that they whipped creation, but they whip the Yankees. The city has increased, property has gone up, the country is filling up, the railways are being constructed, more rapidly than anything of the sort known in the history of the world.

It would be troublesome to tell you of all the

that are floating in the air. If all succeed, Manitoba will have more railroads to the square mile than any other district in America. In the meantime, many districts in the interior are suffering for want of railway accommodation, and agriculture, consequently, is not carried on as extensively as it will be when railways provide the necessary outlet for the produce of the farm.

Mills are, however, springing up plentifully throughout the country and are making large profits.

Farmers will experience many hardships, of course, at first, but their trials are trifling in comparison with the long toil required to clear a bush farm in Ontario or other wooded districts. The farm here when taken up, is ready for the plough, and, when once broken in and cropped, is in as high a state of cultivation as one in Peterborough county, on which the farmer had spent the labor of almost a lifetime in freeing it from trees, stumps and stones, provided, of course, the settler has secured a good section; for there is a great deal of poor land here as well as everywhere else.

The readers of the EXAMINER have, no doubt, heard of the GREAT FERTILITY OF THE SOIL.

It is truly wonderful. The long, sunny days extending from 3.40, sunrise, to 8.20, sunset, with the long twilight, leaving only three or four hours of darkness, subject vegetation to almost continual daylight and growth. This accounts for the rapid growth of grain and vegetables; and such grain and vegetables as are exhibited here are not surpassed any where. Manitoba is going to send down to the east an exhibit of her products, which will, no doubt, give a fair idea of the fertility of the Province. Most of the root samples will be taken, I am credibly informed, prematurely from the soil.

Farmers are all jubilant over the growing powers of their farms, and many wonderful tales are daily heard of their prodigious fertility. No wonder people are rushing into the country, and they are said to be coming in at a rate never known before in the west. Winnipeg has increased 15,000 during last year, and if the present rate of immigration continues, it will have before many years a population of a million in a country where fifteen years ago there were not 500 white people.

THE CLIMATE

is often spoken of down south (or I should, perhaps, say up south, as north is always down with the Winnipeggers) as one of the drawbacks of the country. This is a mistake. The summer is short, it is true, but, this is compensated by the very rapid growth. Late crops, however, are liable to be affected by night frosts which set in early; settlers speak in the highest terms of the delightful summer weather. In the city the days are hot, but the nights are cool and pleasant.

ON THE PRAIRIE THE

VEGETATION BEGINS WITH

June; rain generally arrives early in June and lasts about four weeks. July and August are warm and dry with occasional thunderstorms. Rain again comes about the middle of September, and frosts come about the first of October when the rain disappears till the following June. October November and December are cool bright and pleasant. All the winter months are said to be, as a rule, clear and cold, but the freedom from moisture in the atmosphere renders the cold less disagreeable than elsewhere; with the thermometer 30° below zero, on a calm day the weather is most agreeable, and at no time (my informant who has spent three winters here says) has it that disagreeable, chilling sensation felt in moist climates.

ONE GREAT FEATURE AND

confort of the winter here, is that there is no "slush" on the streets, the snow is a fine powder and does not cling to the clothing or boots. "Small boys" cannot "pelt" you with snow balls, for they cannot make the snow stick together But this snow is so hard when blown in heaps by the wind that roads are readily made on the top of the highest drifts, and railways are frequently stopped by a few feet of snow in a cutting.

During the snowblockade last winter, the snow was never more than two or three feet deep on the track and not more than a foot and a half on the prairies. With a sufficiently elevated roadbed, little trouble will be experienced by railways in this country.

IN THE SPRING,

the snow retains its dryness till it suddenly and mysteriously disappears, without the long disagreeable term of slush and slop and mud that tortures people in a moist climate. Indeed, the winter season is looked upon as the most agreeable season of the year.

Such is the climate at present,—comfortable and healthy to live in, and suitable to the growth of most grains and coarse vegetables. What it can do and the finer vegetables is yet to be tried. They have none of them yet, because they have not been tried. That they do not grow naturally is no argument against the possibility of their successful cultivation. It is a common experience that plants can be brought to the highest perfection far north of the zone where they grow in a wild state. Knowing ones here and in Dakota are confident of being able to plums, berries, and even grapes, and there should be no reason to the contrary, even at present, and the climate will get milder as the country becomes settled. Old Canada was a terror to the early explorers; Scotland's cold conquered the Romans, so did the snow storms of Germany. Ontario of to-day is not as cold as the Ontario of our fathers. A glance at the map will show that Winnipeg, although spoken of as almost arctic in latitude, is far from being so. Winnipeg is in latitude 50, which cuts through the extreme southern part of England; a fact that ought to put it in a favorable light before the world.

IN THE WAY OF FRUIT

There are two circumstances that tend to moderate this climate. (1) The mean elevation above the sea level is much less than that of Minnesota or Dakota; hence Manitoba has a than those countries and is free from the terrible cyclones of those higher regions, being beyond the storm belt and never troubled with them. (2) To the north lies the mighty Lake Winnipeg, second in size only to Lake Superior. These two circumstances render the climate more equable and uniform than might be imagined from the distance north the country is situated. This year, however, the weather has been exceptional in many respects, and the weather prophets are at their wits' ends. It has gone contrary to all predictions and experiences, confounding its enthusiastic admirers by some unusual break from time to time. It is, however, very generous to the farmer; he rarely expresses any anxiety about the weather destroying his crop. If he gets his crops sown sufficiently early, his toil will be rewarded by a bountiful harvest, as sure as the season comes around. The EXAMINER's readers have, no doubt, often heard of the prolific crops of this country and if any of them were here now to take a trip through the country, they would join in the general chorus of praise.

All the people want is a cheap outlet to market, and the country will do the rest; its produce, both in quantity and quality, is unexcelled. The wheat is worth more than any samples that can be grown in the south, or east on account of its hardness, a quality that better fits it for milling. Potatoes yield very largely Some say from 300 to 500 bushels to the acre; beets grow to such an enormous size, that there is thought to be a good speculation in the manufacture of beet root sugar. Oats too, are wonderful, and hay is so plentiful on the low lands, that the cultivated varieties have not yet been tried to any extent.

You will thus perceive that the people of Manitoba have a fair land there, as a patrimony. The country is sound; the climate is healthy and favorable, and the settlers are of the right sort. The settlers have also drawbacks; such as the absence of timber on the prairie,

THE HIGH PRICES,

the railway monopoly, and the land companies. Perhaps the latter are the greatest grievance at present. Never before did a country start, with such a load of parasites on its back. The Hudson's Bay Company got one twentieth of the whole land, and its officials have secured thousands of acres besides, the Indian reserves take out another large portion; the C. P. R. gets 25,000,000 acres of selected land; other railroads get alternate sections wherever they go; innumerable so-called colonization companies have large selected areas preserved for them; large farming companies have their slice cut off; schools have two sections in every township, and in the far west immense districts are let for 21 years, for cattle ranches. The reader can easily imagine from this, that the individual settler has great difficulty in locating a homestead in a desirable place. This state of AFFAIRS MUST BE CHANGED.

Already there are ominious rumours that the settlers are bound to resist such encroachments on their rights. They gave their vote last spring, and every Government candidate was defeated, except in the city itself. This was a mere expression of disapproval, of the manner the Province had been treated, in railway and land matters.

But the residents say the country is bound to prosper in spite of mismanagement, and it is expected that next year the influx of immigrants will be greater than ever. Every settler, who has come, will be instrumental in bringing others, and there is room for all to earn a fair share of this world's goods, with as little hardships as in any other country. I could name twenty or thirty citizens, of Peterborough, who are here in Manitoba, and are all on a fair way to fortune. Others again, who could be named, have speculated, and lost. Some, indeed, must have succeeded beyond, their wildest dreams, but they were the early comers, and their success was thrust upon them.

HARVEY

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

The Presbyterian Church at Lakehurst was the scene of a pleasant social gathering on Friday last, the occasion being a farewell to Mr. T. Edward Inglis, who for the past five months has labored as missionary of the Presbyterian church of that place. The building, previously decorated with evergreens, presented quite a happy appearance, and though the fierce blasts of Thursday, which levelled fences and unroofed sheds in its mad career, threatened to cast a gloom over the festive board, these had yielded to the gentler zephyrs, so that the friends from far and near were enticed from their homes by a cloudless sky. At three o'clock, the appointed hour, the ladies' committee had completed the task of spreading the well filled and neatly arranged tables, and after the thanksgiving prayer by the Pastor, a large number did justice to this rich provision. The tables were spread a third time before the last hunger was satisfied. Whilst the first table was in progress, visitors arrived from Scott's Mills, Mr. Inglis' second preaching station, and contributed greatly to the success of the gathering. The tables cleared, the rattling of dishes ended, and the confusion of tongues quelled, the musical and literary programme was proceeded with. The Pastor opened the programme by reading Psalm 103, and the audience joined him in singing the 100th Psalm, after which prayer was offered. One of the newly appointed Elders, Mr. W. P. Chase, was then called to the chair, and briefly stated the purpose of the meeting, expressing a hope which was fully realized, that the intellectual repast would be as enjoyable as that prepared for the inner man. Mr. W. Finlay, teacher, then read "The Star of Bethlehem," a short but happy selection and well rendered. After the hymn "I love to tell the story," Miss Cook, teacher of Scott's Mills school, read "Curfew must not ring to-night," a little agitation on her part only adding to the success of her reading, which was followed by the Hymns "Nearer my God to Thee," and "I'm praying for you," after which an intermission of ten minutes gave opportunity for the consumption of a generous supply of apples, from the orchard of Mr. Joseph Brodie, a newly appointed elder. When these were duly discussed, the Hymn "Give me the wings of Faith to rise," opened the second part of the programme, and Miss Baptie, teacher of a neighboring school, read with great effect "The Collier's dying child," which was well received. The familiar Hymns "Saviour like a Shepherd lead us," and "Shall we Gather at the River" followed, and the Pastor read a selection, entitled "The last Hymn." In a few closing remarks the Pastor then expressed his gratitude to the friends of the Methodist and Presbyterian congregation of Lakehurst, and the visiting friends from a distance, for their personal inconvenience and trouble, to which he and the audience were indebted for the happy time just concluded. Mr. Inglis preaches for the last time to the Lakehurst and Scott's Mill's congregations on Sabbath next, prior to his leaving for Princeton, N.J., where he is pursuing his theological studies, after a preparatory course in the University of Toronto.

A Clergyman's Testimony.

W. E. Gifford, Pastor M. E. Church, Bothwell, was for two years a sufferer with Dyspepsia in its worst form, until as he states, "life became an actual burden." Three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him, and he tells us in a recent letter that he considers it the best family medicine now before the country for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. 38-2t

THE STATESMAN, FINANCIER, Railway King, Manufacturer, Speculator, Stock Gambler or Business Man, when the "delirium of of greatness" fastens itself upon him, is in great danger of falling from over-stimulation and over-working of the brain, and, sooner or later, the wear and tear must show itself in impairment of power of the great organ which controls the frame work of the body. The remarkable RESTORING POWER of WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA has saved many notable cases suffering from atony of the brain.

Mr. Henry Harding, of Toronto, writes: My little daughter, 7 years of age, has been a terrible sufferer this winter from reumatism, being for weeks confined to her bed, with limbs drawn up, which could not be straightened, and suffering great pain in every joint of limbs, arms and shoulders. The best of physicians could not help her, and we were advised to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which we done, and the benefit was at once appearent; after using two bottles the pain left, her limbs assumed their natural shape, and in two weeks she was as well as ever. It has not returned.

PETEBBOROUGH, SEPT. 21, 1882

Notes of the Day.

THE RAILWAY SYSTEM of the United States continues to grow with startling rapidity. In the year 1881, nearly ten thousand miles of new railways were constructed throughout its wide borders, and this year promises to equal if not surpass this amount. For the first months of the year the length of railways constructed exceeds that of 1881. Out of the entire population of fifty millions, one thirty second part are engaged on railway work of some kind. The amount spent for railway construction and repairs last year was no less than four hundred and twenty-five millions of dollars.

WHAT NEXT? The latest proposal in telegraphy is a novel idea, and if adopted, would prove of great service. An engineer now suggests a plan of giving ships passing over submarine cables the power of utilizing them for sending messages ashore. His proposal is to connect the cable at certain intervals with branch lines which would find their way to floating buoys. These buoys, when their location was known, might be used by ships as occasion served to communicate with the world. We do not know whether such a scheme is practicable, but if so, it would be a great boon to the whole seafaring world.

A CANADIAN CLERGYMAN—the Rev. W. J. Ancient, of Rawdon, Nova Scotia, is the hero of a new novel, entitled, "The Reverend Idol," a book which has been written by a lady in Massachusetts. The book has attracted considerable attention, and we believe its strange title has something to do with its prominence at present. It appears Mr. Ancient, by his courage and bravery, succeeded in saving many persons from the ill-fated S. S. Atlantic, which was wrecked off Halifax some years ago. At that time Mr. Ancient received many public and private marks of esteem, and now his name and fame are to be perpetuated in the manner we have indicated.

ONE THOUSAND DEATHS in Great Britain last year from mining accidents. This is certainly a somewhat large proportion. The idea is that explosions are responsible for the majority of such accidents, but this is not the case. Falls of mineral in large quantities from the roof and sides of the pit are the chief cause of these deaths. Outside of the immediate locality they may be unknown, yet in the aggregate they foot up more deaths than occur from any other source of danger. Such terrible loss of life and consequent suffering could surely be avoided. Sir Humphrey Davy's lamp accomplished much for the miner. But it needs now that some energetic philanthropist should insist on the diggings being properly propped up with timber wherever danger seems imminent.

THE ENGLISH FORCE IN EGYPT, including the Indian contingent, was about 36,000 men. For this number, which is about the strength of an ordinary army corps, the regulations provided a "pretty considerable" medical staff. The military regulations required no less than 1,766 officers and men, 304 vehicles, ambulances and carriages and 940 horses to look after the wounds and sicknesses of the soldiers. Once upon a time surgery was rude and barbarous enough at home, but still worse was it on the gory field, and many a brave man perished for want of attention to some trifling wound. It is creditable that now on the battle field and in camp the hardy soldier prostrated either by foes or sickness, receives the very best medical attendance of which science is capable. It is a great change from the brutality and neglect of the First Napoleon, who too often left the wounded uncared for, and hurried on his troops to crush the retiring foe, regardless of his soldiers' wants and wounds.

THE TUILLERIES are to be demolished. The French Chamber has decided the matter, and so the work of the frenzied drunkards and revellers of the Commune is, after all, to be completed. Voltaire was crowned here in 1778, and here the King and Queen of France were in the terrible days of the revolution, kept captive. Afterwards in the same place where the reign of terror was organized, the Emperor kept triumph, but now the scene of all these things is to pass away. Only one king—Louis XVIII—died at the Tuilleries, after twice flying from its gates. Chas. X, and Louis Phillipe died in exile, as did Napoleon the III, and the child whose early days had gone so gaily to the bugle and the drum of the gay palace, also died in a strange land and under the spears of the savage Zulu. His bones now rest at peaceful Chislehurst in England.

THE CHURCHMEN of this Diocese, or at least a number of them, are working energetically to establish a Protestant sisterhood in Toronto. It is estimated that a sum of $25,000 would be required for the purpose of placing such an institution on a permanent basis, and of this sum one half has been subscribed. An accomplished lady has sacrificed a good position, and has gone to be trained as Superior for two years to a similar institution at New York. The chief objects in view at present are to establish and conduct a home for convalescents, a home for female immigrants, and a creche, i.e., a place where day women may leave their children for safe keeping while they themselves attend their work. Of course the sisters will also nurse sick out-door patients in cases of necessity and during epidemics. Such sisterhoods are common enough in England and the States, but as yet all attempts to establish them in the Dominion in connection with Protestant Churches have proved futile. There is somehow an unexplained prejudice which has prevented long ago the general utilizing in this way of the lives of many pure and devoted women. The visits of the Bishops of Tennessee and Springfield, who are interested in the scheme, and who have spoken of its numerous advantages on several occasions in Toronto and elsewhere, will no doubt serve to remove objections to such efforts for doing good. Still we question if the people are ready for these institutions yet.

WATER-WORKS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

As I expected, the late fires in this town have furnished the Review an opportunity to say a good word in favour of the present water-works and the very patriotic and spirited individuals by whom they have been constructed. And the Council and the people are somewhat severely scolded because they do not accept that which is so liberally and so disinterestedly offered them. I have got an idea that all the foresight and wisdom of this town do not centre in the Review, and I will venture the opinion that the property owners know about as well what to do for their own protection as anyone, not a property owner, can tell them. And I venture to suggest that it may safely and reasonably be left to the property owners themselves to provide such means for the protection and preservation of their own interests as their own judgment and experience may suggest. I think it pretty safe to say that when a man has proved himself able to create property, he is capable of taking care of it. And it looks a little too disinterested to hear the present Water-Works Company and their friends telling us that they know what is better for us than we do ourselves. I am rather of the opinion that their advice will not be acceptable, and I am rather of the opinion that the property owners of the town will manage their own business and do what to them seems best. When they can get water-works guaranteed to them to be sufficient, for the small sum of $17,000, payable in bonds running twenty years, at five per cent. interest, only $850 a year, it is hardly likely that they will be duped into accepting the present works, the annual expenses on which is unlimited, and which, capitalized, will, before many years, represent a sum of between one and two hundred thousand dollars. Very few careful ratepayers of this town will consent to place a heavy mortgage like this upon their property for all time to come, when they can secure the same benefits with a capital sum of only $17,000, with the profits of the works going back into their own pockets through the town treasury, with the charges for the use of the water kept down to the lowest possible amount. Let the people keep their souls in patience and the time is no very far off when more light will be let in on this subject, and then they will thank their stars that they acted upon and were guided by their own good sense. Our Councillors must not meddle with this matter. They were not elected for any such purpose. They must leave it to the people to decide, and that they will decide wisely there is no doubt. The present company got all the priviliges they asked for. They said they did not want any more. They must now just be held to their bargain. The people know what to do and in their own good time they will do it. But, one thing is certain, they are not going to give away their hard earnings to make rich the present Water-Works Company.

As the law now stands, the Council have no power to pass a by-law in favour of this company to levy a local tax for local purposes, and if they do so it will be illegal and void. Section 47 of chap. 25 of the statute of the last session of the legislature, under which, I presume, the company are applying to the Council, gives the Council no right to act in this matter. The section reads as follows:—"In case there are, in any city, town, or incorporated village, water-works under the control of any persons or company, the Council may pass by-laws,"—&c. The Act in question was passed on the 10th of March last, and at that time there were no water works in existence here, and there are none yet. The Act says, "in case there are" in existence any water-works, and under this state of the law any tax levied must be levied under chapter 18, giving power to private persons or companies to construct water-works, passed at the same session as the other Act, and it must be levied on all the ratable property of the the town. It is well to understand this thing in time and so avoid trouble, for there will surely be trouble if the Council attempts to levy a local tax, and I fancy there will be trouble if they attempt to levy a general tax. What I recommend is for the property owners of the central part of the town either to accept the tender to build local water works for the $17,000 offered the Council, or to buy out the present works as far north as London street, and then go to Dickson's dam for their supply which will give us the head close to the town. But if the company object to sell out in this way, then let local works be constructed at once, and then the people in the central part of the town will have plenty of water for all purposes, and at a cost all told not exceeding one thousand dollars. I would like to see water works but I don't want to give all I possess to get them, particularly when they can be had at a cost so small as scarcely to be felt. We must not be carried away by excitement consequent upon the recent fires, but we must act cautiously and sensibly, because these water works are not a matter of to-day only, but forever.

RATEPAYER.

THE HIGHEST BUILDING IN EUROPE.

Hitherto the Hospice of the Great St. Bernard, which stands 8,200 feet above the level of the sea, has enjoyed the distinction of being the most elevated building in Europe. This honor, according to the Builder, it can no longer claim. During the past year the city authorities of Catania in Sicily, have caused to be erected near the summit of the great volcano Mt. Etna, an astronomical observatory which stands 2943 metres above the sea level, or fully 1000 feet higher than the Hospice of St. Bernard. The structure is nine metres in height, and covers an area of 200 square metres. It consists of an upper and lower story, and is built in a circular form.

In the lower story there rises a massive pillar, upon which is placed the great refracting telescope. The lower story is divided into a sitting room, kitchen and storerooms, intended for the accommodation of astronomers and tourists visiting the establishment. The roof consists of a moveable cupola or dome. From the balconies of the upper story a prospect of vast extent of grandeur is presented.

The spectator is able to see over half the island of Sicily, the island of Malta, the Lipari Isles, and the province of Calabria, on the main land of Italy. The observatory is erected upon a small cone, which will, in case of eruption, protect it completely from the lava steam which always flows down on the opposite side of the volcano.

A CLEVER TRICK.

The Japan Mail describes a clever trick which was being exhibited by a native juggler. The performance takes place in a small room about twenty-six feet long by twelve feet wide, half being allotted to the spectators, who are admitted on the payment of the two cents. The "properties" consist of a deal table and a sword, etc. After the usual soul-stirring flourish on a drum and samisen, a man and woman appear from behind a screen, the man binds the woman's head in a cloth, and then she kneels down close to the table, and sideways to the spectators. The man then draws the sword, makes a violent blow at the woman's head, she falls forward, with arms extended and limbs twitching. He then, having first wiped the sword on a gory looking rag, takes up, apparently, the woman's head, wrapped in the cloth, and places it on the table To all appearances it is a human head; the eyelids and features have a convulsive motion; presently the eyes open in a dreamy sort of way, and to the accompaniment of the everlasting samisen, the head sings a mournful song. A curtain is interposed between the audience and the performers, and when again drawn back the woman is disclosed quietly seated along side the man. When it is recollected that this all takes place within three feet of the spectators, and that the "properties" are of the simplest description, some idea may be formed of the wonderful excellence of the performance.

A VIGOROUS PROTEST.

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—At a meeting of the Executive of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, held in the Temprance Hall, last week, D. B. Chisholm, of Hamilton, presiding, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Whereas, it has been represented that an effort is being made to change the license law, by which the appointment of license commissioners and inspectors shall again be placed in the hands of municipalities. Resolved, that in the opinion of the Executive Committee of this Alliance such legislation would be a retrogression; and they would urge upon all temperance people to use their influence against the proposed change.

BREAKING THE ICE.

The Quebec Chronicle announces that "the first instance of a Canadian marriage under the Deceased Wife's Sister Act has just been recorded at North Sydney, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Newfoundland, which is behind the age in so many things, still holds out against allowing her sons to marry their deceased wife's sister, if they are so minded, and accordingly a couple from St. John's arrived in Nova Scotia the other day for the purpose of being legally married under the provisions of the Canadian Act."

AN OUTSIDE TORY VIEW.

The Winnipeg Times takes no stock in the cry set up by the Mail, to make the Dominion tariff an issue in the Ontario elections. "It is to be hoped," says the Times, "that the convention which meets at Toronto in a few days, will not make the N.P. an issue. It has no more to do with the contest, than the war in Egypt. It is a purely Dominion question, and the Conservatives of the other provinces are bound to protest against its being dragged into a Local platform in Ontario."

CHILD ABDUCTION AND BIGAMY.

A PECULIAR CASE—SNAPPING THE LOYALTY OF AN UNMARRIED WOMAN, BUT A MOTHER.

County Constable Walden, says the Toronto World, arrived in the city on Friday night, on the Midland train, from Mount Albert, having Gideon Tucker in custody. About seven years ago Robert Albert Shaw, living at the village of Queensville, in East York, lost his wife. He took a housekeeper named Mary McArthur, aged 26. Though they were never married, she bore him three children, the eldest now a bright boy of eight. A short time ago Tucker appeared on the scene. He won the affections of Mary McArthur and induced her to leave Shaw. They left one night, taking the three children with them, and went to Orillia, where Tucker and she were married by a church of England minister, on August 26th last. Shaw got out a warrant, and Walden went in pursuit of Tucker, for abduction of the children and for bigamy, as it was learned Tucker had another wife living. Walden lost trace of Tucker for some time, but at last arrested him at Pheasantown, a village 18 miles from Orillia. He was working in a shingle mill. Tucker, the woman, and the three children were brought down to Mount Albert, and tried before Magistrates Fairbairn and Shields, who committed Tucker to stand his trial for abducting the children and the woman, for being an abettor. The constable brought the whole five to the city last night, and lodged Tucker, the woman and infant in gaol, and left the two children in a good lodging house. It is likely the city charities will have to care for them.

The case throughout has a very humorous bearing. It is hard to understand how a woman can be convicted of abducting her own children. Mary McArthur is rather good-looking, and she takes the whole thing very jocularly. While the party were being driven from police headquarters she laughed over the matter, and thought it was a good joke. The charge of bigamy against Tucker was withdrawn, as there was no evidence forthcoming.

It has been remarked that the quotation, "it is better to give than to receive," applies to medicine, kicks and advices, but this rule don't apply to Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Those who receive that get a reliable and infallible remedy for Cholera Morbus, Colic, Dysentery, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and all Summer Complaints of infants or adults. 38-2t

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO'S

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairy Queens of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (40)

TRUMPET-FLOWERS.

The Morning Glories—lovely flowers they—
Were gladly awaking to the sun's first ray,
Sound hymns of triumph, all in sweet accord,
Heard only by the angels, "Praise the Lord!
He who hath made the happy, golden day."
The Evening Glories—fragrant blooms of white—
When from the tired earth departs the light,
Sound hymns of thanks in just as sweet accord,
Still people only listening, "Praise the Lord!
He who hath made the restful, silver night.'

FOURTH SERMON—A CONTIUATION OF THE THIRD.

BY A COMMON LAYMAN.

(Written for the EXAMINER.)

Late one dark, cold, stormy night a ferry boat was crossing from New York city to Brooklyn laden with passengers, going home after their day's business. A kind-hearted gentleman on board was accosted by a poorly-clad, timid little girl and asked to buy some flowers. He saw that she was cold and hungry and he took her in his arms and sat down near the engine house and covered her with his overcoat, which he took off for the purpose. Soon the poor, tired child laid her head down upon his arm and went to sleep. As she slept she thought in her her dream, of her miserable home and of her harsh, cruel treatment. The gentleman listened and heard her calling upon her dead mother; she told her how hard had been her lot since she was left alone and she asked her mother to take her with her to Heaven. The child's tears fell upon the gentleman's head, and he made a road to rescue and care for his little charge. When the boat reached her destination he carried the little child to his home and there she was kindly cared for. Inquiries were made and the gentleman discovered that this poor, homeless child was in the hands of a hardened, drunken woman, who compelled her to go forth and sell flowers and wander about the streets, until sometimes late into the night, in order to get money to feed her appetite for strong drink, the poor child not daring to return until she had sold all her flowers. The gentleman sought out this hideous creature and by means of a hundred dollars, got her to give up her future claim upon the child. He took her into his family and tenderly cared for and educated her. She became an accomplished and highly respected lady, and became the happy wife of a wealthy citizen. Her kind benefactor was amply repaid for what he had done by her never-ceasing prayers and thanks and gratitude. That was a noble act of charity, but one that is seldom performed. One such act of charity is worth a thousand sermons upon this subject, for it brings comfort and help and hope to the despairing. It also brings comfort to the heart of its giver. True charity is made up of benevolence, kindness and forgiveness. It overlooks the errors and the faults of its object, for who is without these, and it seeks to lessen the burden of heavy trouble and to put in its place light and peace. There is happiness in this world for all, if we only knew how to obtain and keep it. The warm, bright sun, the beautiful sky and the smiling earth all tell us of God's goodness and invite us to share in their glories. Joy and happiness are within our reach but we refuse to receive them. We neglect our duties and we throw away our opportunities and thus we complain of our troubles and our hard lot. Our world is just what we make it. If we lived as we ought to live our days would be long and would be full of prosperity and peace. Our troubles are often of our own making. We waste our property, we destroy our health and we live in a constant state of antagonism to one another. It seems as if we delight in others' misery. The helpless are driven from our doors and the cries of little children, from cold and hunger, are unheeded. And woe to the poor unfortunate creature who, through falsehood and treachery, is led astray. Henceforth, to such a one, all is darkness and dreary desolation and misery. Even the door of the once old, happy home is closed forever. Natural affection there lives no longer, and misery and charity are no more known. That forgiveness, which all need, is refused and even repentance is forbidden. But, as a relief to this human nature, there are sometimes found exceptions. The mother's heart cannot always be closed against her child. The light is in the window and the latch is on the door waiting for the wanderer's return. This is the mother's story: "I ain't the same woman since Lizzie went out one night, and when she kissed me she said "leave a light in the window mother until I come back." And that was ten years ago, and I have never seen her since, but I have burned a light in the window every night all these ten years, and left the string on the latch, and shall continue to do so until she comes home. It is hard to be a mother and to be so surely disappointed; that is what has made my hair so white. People blame her terribly, but I'm her mother, and it just seems as if I could see her, so pretty, with her long brown curls, and the smile she had, and her gentle ways, and I loving her better than Heaven above me. This is my punishment, to sit alone all day and never to sleep at night, but I hear her crying, "mother, mother, where are you?" and if I go once I go a dozen times to the door and look up and down the lonesome road and call "Lizzie, Lizzie," and there is never any answer but the night wind moaning in the trees. She is telling this to poor Lizzie herself, who one dark cold night opened the door and came in, but the mother knew her not. She was all tired and worn and her clothes were scant and thin. Her face wore the look of despair and her eyes were red with weeping. Her hands were cold as ice and her temples and face white with cold and grief. She fell on her mother's neck, and then the latter recognized her and cried, 'Merciful God! it's Lizzie come back again to her mother. It's my child that was lost and is found. Put out the light, and draw in the string of the latch, for the night is over and it is the clear, broad day at last.' Pity it is that there are not more examples of forgiveness like this. The story of the prodigal son has been given us for our guidance, but how few parents think of it when such a time comes to them. How many poor creatures have continued in their evil ways and gone down to a desolate grave because there was no one to sympathize with them and lead them to a better way. This world is but a world of woe, a weary wilderness of sorrow, a labyrinth of hopes and fears, a night that hath no dawning morrow. But, why is it so? Because we make it so. We seem to delight in others' misfortunes. We seldom have a good word for any one. The friendless are despised. The homeless are thrust from our doors. And those whose duty it is to preach mercy and charity seldom practice what they preach. They scarcely ever think of the poor outcast and never speak to him kindly or tell him of a kind, forgiving Heavenly Father, or of a Saviour who gave his life for such as he is. Unlike the good Samaritan, they pass by on the other side. Our Saviour sought out the fallen and pointed them to a better way. He spoke kindly to them and told them of a Home, not made with hands, where there was no sorrow, and where even they might enter. For the Lord came to save sinners, not those who need no repentance. If men were only what they ought to be, what God intended them to be, if they followed the golden rule, to do to others as they would like others to do to them, and if they would live and do as they ought to live and do, this earth would be a paradise. But this they never have done and, I suppose, never will do. Some think they should do nothing to alleviate the sufferings of others. Others again think that if they contribute a little to help the poor they have done their whole duty. They never search out the needy; they have no kind look or word for the erring or the fallen, even when this would restore souls again to their lost estate. But they take care to go about with a sanctimonseous look and tell of the great things they have done for the Lord. God help such, I say, for they need it more than those they affect to despise. There are many naturally bad people in this world, but many are made bad through misfortune and falsehood and treachery, and who may be reclaimed. In fact there is a principle of goodness in the heart of the most depraved which, under proper treatment can be made to save them. Take this instance: A man was once lying in chains in prison, he was considered to be so bad and so wicked as to be past hope, kindness was held to be thrown away upon him. No one ever gave him a pleasant look or a pleasant word. But one day a good gentleman visited him, he sat down and talked kindly with him, he asked him about his past life, he asked him about his childhood and his early home, and he asked him about his mother. He thus brought the man's thoughts back to the days of his infancy and his innocence. He remembered things then which his long continued course of wickedness had driven from his memory, He could see his mother as she was when she nursed and cared for him. He could hear her singing as she used to do when he sat upon her knee and could hear her words of love and kindness as she put him to rest. He broke completely down, and cried like a child. He told the gentleman that no one had ever spoken to him in this way before. That everybody had been against him, and that he had been made sad through unkindness and ill-treatment. Finally, he promised his visitor that henceforth he would be a better man, and he asked him to come and see him again. The gentleman interceded, and got the man set free; and from that time he became an exemplary and useful citizen, and respected by all who knew him. Such is the effect of kindness upon the human heart. But, still I do not believe that, under the present circumstances, the world is going to become any better. People live in a continued state of excitement, some from one cause, and some from another. Pride and a desire for wealth are the two ruling passions of the human mind, and their influences are felt and seen in every form of social life. When a man dies, no matter how good or how bad he has been, he is forgotten. Misfortunes, however, unexpected or undeserving, drive away friends. Poverty has no sympathy, and those who are honestly striving to do better, are beaten down and discouraged. But the man of dishonest wealth is looked up to, and respected. Money is the god which rules this world. No matter how acquired, when acquired, it draws after its possessor, the man, worship which honesty and true worth cannot obtain. No wonder, then, so much sin abounds, and no wonder destitution and misery everywhere prevails. And no wonder that the poor and forsaken are unheeded and despised. All the nobler emotions our nature are smothered and destroyed, and even religion is made a stepping-stone to social advancement and honours. The church doors stand open on the only day when these worldly feelings should be at rest, to admit a class of formal and fashionable worshippers, who listen to a sermon, elaborately composed, to prove that there is a God, and that man is immortal. The hearts of the hearers go in, and again come out unsatisfied and empty, feeling a want that has not been supplied. Evangelical truth, in its simple purity, is seldom found, and church-goers soon tire of the services, are glad when they are set free. And then the work-days of strife, and money-making and confusion follow after. Who can wonder at what he sees around him, and that crime and poverty and misery everywhere abound. Who can wonder that the poor sick mother and her starving child are unnoticed and driven from the door. The picture which is given in the following verses, is, I am sorry to say, only too common and too true, and if their relation here will bring relief to one poor soul, they will not be related in vain:

While strolling one night thro' city's gay throng,
I met a poor boy, he was singing a song.
Although he was singing, he wanted for bread,
And though he was smiling, he wished himself dead.
I spoke to this poor boy, out in the snow,
He had no home to shelter him, no place to go;
No mother to guide him, in the grave she is laid;
Out on the cold street was poor little Joe.

Cold blew the blast, down came the snow;
He had no place to shelter him, no place to go.
No mother to guide him, in the grave she is laid;
Out on the cold street is poor little Joe.

A carriage passed by with a lady inside.
I looked on poor Joe's face, and saw that he cried.
He followed the carriage, she not even smiled,
But fondly caressing her darling child.
I looked on the waif, I thought it was odd;
Is this poor ragged urchin forgotten by God?
And I saw by the lamp-light, that shown on the snow,
The pale, deadly features of poor little Joe.

Cold blew the blast, down came the snow;
He had no place to shelter him, no place to go.
No mother to guide him, in the grave she is laid.
Cast on the cold street is poor little Joe.

The light had gone out, the clock had struck one;
Along came a policeman whose duty was done.
I could tell by the sound of his dull, heavy tread;
You'd think he was sinking the graves of the dead.
Oh! What is this? the policeman said.
'Twas was poor little Joe, on the ground he lay dead.
With his eyes turned to Heaven, covered with snow,
Died in the cold street did poor little Joe.

Cold blew the blast, down came the snow;
He had no place to shelter him, no place to go.
No mother to guide him, in the grave she is laid.
Cast on the cold street is poor little Joe

John Bennett, who committed suicide at Lucknow on Saturday, was formerly a resident of Belleville. He was for some time a sergeant in the 13th, and afterwards a private in the 49th.

A petition is being circulated asking His Excellency the Governor-General to select a new name for Smith's Falls on its accession to the dignity of a town. It is being almost unanimously signed.

The September report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries shows that throughout Western Ontario the harvest season was an unusually long and tedious one. The east fared somewhat better. The crops throughout are not so good as those of preceding years.

There are 497 fountains and 502 troughs in London which, it is estimated, supply water for 250,000,000 drinkers each year. The society which provides these humane conveniences reports that nearly twice as many drinking places were prepared the past year as in any previous twelve months.

Mr. Frank Shanly, one of the best known Civil Engineers in the Dominion, died suddenly on a railway train near Brockville Saturday. The deceased gentleman, who appeared in good health when he left Toronto on the previous evening, had for some time previous complained of heart disease.

On the 11th, Francis Murray, a long term convict, succeeded in making his escape from the Kingston Penitentiary. He was working round the warden's premises, and eluding detection, disappeared. Shortly after his departure he was missed, but no trace of him could be had. It would seem that he secreted himself in some place until night.

The Provincial Exhibition opens at Kingston this week; and promises to be a most successful affair. Not the least of its attractions will be the city of Kingston itself, with its beautiful location and widely-famed natural beauties. A descriptive sketch of the city as an attraction to the Exhibition appears elsewhere in this issue.

Sir Garnet Wolseley was remarkable as a boy for an iron will and a bulldog tenacity of purpose. One day he climbed a tree to get at an especially tempting apple, but the branch breaking, he fell and broke his arm. Setting his teeth, he started up the tree again, with the broken limb dangling by his side; he got the apple, and fainted from pain on reaching the ground.

The first meeting of the united Committees of the various Methodist churches in Canada met at Hamilton Thursday to consider the question of Methodist union. The question was discussed and a motion setting forth that the time has come when all reasonable effort shall be made to ascertain a basis of agreement upon which to unite the various Methodist Churches in Canada was carried unanimously. The Committee resumed its labours next day.

At a Meeting on Tuesday of the York and Ontario County Millers' Association, a resolution was passed memorializing the Dominion Government not to alter the order in council so as to allow the equivalent in Canadian wheat or flour to be exported, to cancel the bond for wheat imported in bond for milling purposes instead of the product. It was also decided that in case the Dominion Millers' Association should send their deputation to Ottawa relating to changing the order in council regulating the grinding in bond of American wheat, a deputation proceed to Ottawa and oppose any order in council affecting the present system.

The young women of the West are engaging in farming as well as other occupations. The Milwaukee Republican gives the following account of the enterprising conduct of two young women of that city: "Miss Eva Hanson, Miss Phillips and Mr. Spraker, the party who left this city on Tuesday last for the prairie lands of Dakota, arrived home yesterday morning. They are well satisfied with their trip and say the section is being rapidly filled up with new settlers. Each of the young ladies took up 160 acres of land in Miner county, on the shore of a beautiful inland lake. They are seventeen miles from Mitchell and four miles from the nearest railway station. They will return to their new home early in the spring, put up a sod house, and plant their first crop of corn.'

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa, catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. B. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma; cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of Mrs. DENOIT, 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

MRS. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer will cure catarrh and bronchitis, JOHN G. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montteal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free at the office. 25

"The Man in the Moon."

From the earliest period of history many people have believed that a man really inhabitated the moon; some thought he was made of green cheese, while others had their doubts about it—be that as it may, whether there is a man in the moon or not, there is no doubt in the solid fact that

PETERBOROUGH, SEPT. 21, 1882.

The Ontario License System.

The Ontario Opposition say that "Mr. Mowat must go" because he has burdened the license act upon Ontario; that the license act is bad because it promotes intemperance; because it deprives municipalities of the power of granting licenses and because—and this is the most heinous sin of all—it admits of Mr. Mowat making a few appointments. In regard to the first cry, it has been taken up from the suggestions of such staunch friends to the cause, as Sir John Macdonald, and Hon. John Carling, brewer, who has shown his zeal for temperance by brewing more beer than any other man in the Dominion, the Hon. Frank Smith, dealer in liquors, and the Toronto Mail. Criticism as to this aspect of the question coming from such sources is at least open to suspicion as regards the motives that prompt it. But as a matter of fact it decreases intemperance. Before the Crooks Act came in force in 1875, the number of tavern licenses issued by municipalities was 4793. Last year although the population of the province had increased about a quarter of a million, the number of licenses had been reduced to 3,336 or 1,457 less than in 1874, or taking into consideration the increase of population a decrease of 2,003 licenses. The more drinking places there are the more temptation to drink and consequently the more drinking and intemperance. Therefore, it is plain that the Crooks Act or the present License Act, does not promote intemperance, and no temperance people, except such as Sir John, the new apostle, Mr. Carling and Hon. Frank Smith, desire that Mr. Mowat "must go" simply on account of his responsibility for the license act, and wish its removal from the statute books. But do the hotel keepers themselves desire Mr. Mowat's dismissal on the same account? Their verdict unaffected by the bias of political feelings would be that the present license act has improved their position in every respect. The Tories are fond of "protection" but when it is applied to hotel keepers it is all wrong. Would the latter prefer a return to free trade in whiskey and forego the protection afforded by the License Act? Now a hotel man takes out his license, knowing that no one else without paying the same fee can oppose him in business, and then only on even terms. He does not fear the competition of the unlicensed groggery because it cannot exist. The Crooks Act has wiped it out and has made his hotel keeping a much more respectable business than it was when he had to share the responsibility for drunkenness and debauchery with unlicensed dens, dives and groggeries. Now hotel business is flourishing because unlicensed competition is not allowed to destroy legitimate profits and because the present system of granting licenses restricts the number so that those engaged in the business can make it profitable. Therefore hotel keepers do not desire that Mr. Mowat must go and deprive themselves of the protection afforded them from unlicensed competition by the present act. They know that so long as they keep respectable houses their licenses are safe, which would not be the case if the municipalities had the power, for then the licenses would be manipulated by aspirants for councillors' seats and a license would have to be bought by wire-pulling, fighting local prejudices and jealousies and by cringing and truckling to local candidates As regards the third heinous offence of appointing officers under the act, nobody but the opposition politicians wants the power transferred to the municipalities. No municipality has complained of being deprived of this right, and place-seeking politicians cannot force on councils, duties which they have no desire to discharge. Councillors have enough persons now, to offend by refusing to grant favors to, with adding to them the crop of aspiring applicants for licenses that would crop up, in case of the repeal of the License Act and a return of the old system. Therefore nobody wants the power of appointing inspectors, etc., taken from Mr. Mowat except those whose feet are weary with waiting for his shoes.

Editorial Notes.

The electors are right in inquiring what business Sir John and Sir Tilley have to meddle with Ontario politics.

Mowat must go; he must depart, he must clear out, he must cut stick, he must make tracks, he must absquatulate.

"Mowat must go." This gentleman has been told this so often that he can't misunderstand. If he continues to not go any longer, he is not the obliging gentleman the Tory office seekers would like him to be.

In December next, Mr. Gladstone will have completed fifty years of Parliamentary service. He entered the House of Commons on the 13th of December, 1832, and since that time he has never failed to secure a seat in each successive Parliament. The friends and admirers of the great statesman intend celebrating the golden event with great eclat. The boldness and firmness of his Egyptian policy, especially when emphasized by the splendid results of Wolseley's campaign will add to the popularity of the "people's William" and confirm the solidity of his administration.

How many of the municipal Councils of the county, without external influence would voluntarily desire to take upon themselves the vexatious task of granting licenses, and relieve Mr. Mowat of the responsibility? If the Ontario Government have tyranically trampled on the rights of municipalities, why have not these down-trodden institutions risen in their might and protested against the outrage. What patriotic band of city, town, village, or township fathers takes the lead in shaking off the galling yoke? What Council will be the first to adopt a vote of thanks to the Toronto Tory Convention for having shown them that they are such fools that they did not know when they were imposed on?

It is about time that one might reasonably inquire as to the probability of the fulfilment of sundry election promises made before and during the last election campaign. Sir John made his Excellency the Governor-General assure the country that the reason the full term for holding the elections was not allowed to elapse, was that millions of capital were waiting for investment, and it only needed a favourable verdict by the people and the golden shower would rain down upon the happy land. When is the shower to begin? What has become of the capitalists? Are they still further waiting to see if Mr. "Mowat must go?" Where are the capitalists? What excuse will be made to cover the fib?

It's a grave crime that the Ontario Government appoints bailiffs, division court clerks, license inspectors, etc. Is it not near as grave a crime for the Dominion Government to appoint postmasters, custom officers, landing waiters, inspectors of weights and measures, etc., etc.? The patronage of the Dominion Government is to that of the local as ninety-nine to one, and yet nobody thinks of robbing them of this prerogative. Then, why all this childish "squealing" because Mr. Mowat has power to make a few appointments? The Dominion appoints its own political friends, and nobody expects anything different, and nobody whines over it. Why, then, should Mr. Mowat "go" because he simply exercises a similar prerogative on similar principles?

As a specimen of the clap-trap used at the recent Tory convention, the N. P. resolution is the baldest. The present Government is charged with being opposed to the National Policy. Let this be so; have they not right as individuals to exercise judgment and form an opinion? As a Government they have no more power to affect the N. P than Arabi Bey. How could it affect the fiscal policy of the Dominion Government if the whole 88 members of the Ontario Legislature were supporters of Mr. Mowat? They could no more vote on any motion affecting the question than a band of Sioux Indians. This is a false issue sought to be thrust into the coming contest, and has about as much right to be considered as an issue as the stray cattle policy of a village Council.

The Ontario Government have issued the writs for the eight vacant seats in the legislature. The nominations are to be held on the 11th of October, and the polling one week later. In spite of the wail of the Review, it is not likely that the constituencies in question have suffered much from being unrepresented during the recess. It would have been imprudent to have brought the elections on earlier. First the haying season, then the Dominion elections, the harvest, the seeding season and the fall fairs, all afforded valid excuses for the delay to the present fixed date, the first opportunity. Our local cotem. may be comforted by the reflection that in these eight constituencies there were no members to propose candidates, and the gall and wormwood of Mr. Mowat making appointments was minimized.

The Boundary Matter.

This question was rather gingerly dealt with at the late Ontario Tory conspiracy. The Reformers make it a strong card but the opposition politicians and fellow conspirators have such a crooked record on the subject that even their brazen effrontery was not equal to the task of taking decided ground on the question. The "platform" calls for some solution of the matter that will be satisfactory to the people of the Dominion. The Mowat administration think the finding of the arbitrators appointed to decide the matter, if adopted by the Dominion Parliament as it has been adopted by the Ontario Legislature would be a satisfactory solution to anybody content with seeing justice done in the premises. But this Sir John cannot assent to. Mr. Mousseau has forbidden that; and Sir John, though having at the time of the appointment of the arbitrators conceded the correctness of this mode of settling the question, in his shifting about to please Mr. Mousseau and his political entourage, he has proposed two or three other plans. In 1878 he proposed to refer the matter to some distinguished English judge, and almost at the same time he proposed to refer it to the Supreme Court of the Dominion. Now he takes the ground that the only two ways in which a decision can be legally arrived at are the Imperial Parliament and the Privy Council. Were his other propositions buncombe, or is the present one only taken because it will embarrass Mr. Mowat and please Mr. Mousseau? But Mr. Meredith's position is more humiliating. He has deliberately sold his province at the beck of Sir John, per Mousseau. In 1881, Mr. Meredith and every one of his supporters with a single exception voted for the following resolutions:

"1. That this House deeply regrets that notwithstanding the unanimous award made on the 3rd of August, 1878, by the arbitrators appointed by the joint and concurrent action of the Government of Canada and the Government of Ontario, to determine the northerly and westerly boundaries of this Province, no legislation has been submitted by the Government of Canada to the Dominion Parliament for the purpose os confirming that award, nor has the validity of the award yet been recognized by the Government of Canada.

"2. That the omission of the Government and Parliament of Canada to confirm the award is attended with grave inconvenience, has the effect of retarding settlement and municipal organization, embarrasses the administration of the laws, and interferes with the preservation of the peace, the maintenance of order, and the establishment of good Government in the northerly and northwesterly parts of the Province of Ontario.

"3. That it is the duty of the Government of Ontario to assert and maintain the just claims and rights of the Province of Ontario as determined by the award of the arbitrators, and this House hereby reaffirms its determination to give its cordial support to the Government of Ontario in any steps it may be necessary to take to sustain the award, and to assert and maintain the just claims and rights of the Province as thereby declared and determined."

But Mr. Milk-and-Water Meredith having in the meantime been coached by Sir John, the next session introduced a series of resolutions supported by his supporters, expressly opposite to the spirit and letter of the above resolutions and wilfully resigned the rights of Ontario. But the reasons that prompted him are the deepest insult to Ontario. Mousseau had told Sir John at St. Jerome in 1878 that the award must not be confirmed. Sir John, to keep power, did not hesitate another time to sell Ontario, and he told Mr. Meredith to oppose the ratification, and the latter meekly obeyed. And this is the man who says Mr. Mowat "must go" to provide a place for him. For him, who consipires with the almost hereditary enemy of Ontario, to rob her of territory which he, by solemn resolution in the legislature, declared she was justly entitled to. This is the man that seeks to foist himself upon the people of Ontario as chief guardian of their interests, a man who is doubly led, and who does not hesitate to be made the pliant tool not only of his political hierarch, Sir John, but of the political blackmailer and political bully, Mousseau.

WRECK OF THE ASIA!

She Founders During a Storm on Georgian Bay.

Terrible Loss of Life—Sad Scenes of Suffering—The Story of a Passenger.

COLLINGWOOD, Sept. 17.—Information has just been received here, from Parry Sound, of the loss of the steamer Asia, of the Great Northern Transit Company, which left here on Wednesday evening, for French River and Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. Tinkiss, who, with Miss Morrison, is supposed to be the only survivor, makes the following statement:—I went aboard the Asia, at Owen Sound, about midnight on Wednesday, in company with J. H. Tinkiss and H. B. Gallagher, both of Manitowaning. The steamer was crowded, all the staterooms being filled, and many passengers lying on sofas and the cabin floor. All went well, until about 11 o'clock on Thursday morning, when the storm struck her. I was in my berth at the time, and my uncle, J. H. Tinkiss, jumped up and said the boat was doomed. We left the cabin, and found difficulty in getting on deck, the boat was rolling so heavily. I got a life-preserver, and put it on. The steamer went into the trough of the sea, and would not obey her helm. She rolled heavily for about 20 minutes, when she was struck by a heavy sea and foundered, and went down about 11:30, with the engines working. The Asia was making for French River, with men, horses, and lumbermens' supplies for the shanties there. I saw the boats lowered. I was in the first boat. About eight were with me at first; but more got in till the boat was overloaded, and turned over twice. Parties were hanging on to my life-preserver, which got displaced, and I threw it off. I then left the boat and swam to the Captain's boat, which was near by, and asked Mr. John McDougall, the purser, to help me in. He said it was but little use, but gave me his hand. When I got in there were eighteen in the boat, and by that time there was a larger number in, and clinging to the boat I had left. I know nothing of the third boat. Our boat rolled over, and I remember missing poor John McDougall, a few minutes after he helped me in. People were hanging on to the spars and other parts of the wreckage. Our boat was full of water, and the sea was constantly breaking over us. One of the first to die on the boat was the cabin boy. He was dying and being supported by one of the men, when a wave washed him overboard. The next to go was a deck hand. He was near the gunwale coughing badly, when he jumped out and I could see him paddling round in the water for nearly a hundred yards. Our number were now reduced to seven, five of whom died before reaching the beach. Capt Savage, who was the last, died in my arms about midnight on Tuesday. The boat finally stranded near Point au Barrie about midnight on Friday with Miss Morrison and myself the only two survivors.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

OMEMEE.

Mr. A. McQuade, by the runaway of his horses, was thrown on his face and dragged for some distance on the rough road which cut and scratched his face terribly. One of the horses had one of its legs broken and had to be shot.

Every available team says the Herald in the country is busy hauling timber from the station to the big trestle at Doube's farm and also for the bridge across Pigeon River. The former is 1300 feet long and 75 feet at the highest point. Work will commence on the Omemee bridge at once and the carpenters are expected daily. Mr. Wm. Adams has been appointed overseer of the work.

The schools were formally opened last Friday; the attendance of pupils is unusually large and every thing is encouraging for a prosperous school term.

CAMPBELLFORD.

On Friday morning of last week, the village had to suffer another heavy loss by fire, which ceased not until it had consumed one dwelling, three stables, three sheds, one storage house, three horses, four hogs, three carriages, besides furniture and other valuables. The property destroyed is estimated to be worth $5,000.

Mr. W. Whitton shipped over 200 sheep to Albany, N.Y., last week.

The Rev. Father Casey's dwelling, on the hill, near the Catholic Church, will require only a few weeks to complete it. It is a two-storey brick, 40 by 32 feet, with a large wing to the rear, for kitchen, &c. The roof has been put on, and the shingling is about completed. The contract price for building the same was over $3,000.

The financial engineers of the village, after computing what will require to move the municipal machinery of Campbellford another year, find that it will be necessary to levy a rate of 13½ mills on the dollar. Therefore, for every $100 a ratepayer is assessed, he will have to pay 13½ cents. The assessment is the same as last year.

The roof of the Presbyterian Church has been put on, and the rafters of the Methodist Church have been put into position. Work on the latter has been delayed for three weeks past for want of brick. The brick-yard has been taxed this year, with the many orders from builders.

PORT HOPE.

Interested parties claim says the news that all the stock for the Port Hope cotton factory has been subscribed in Toronto and Montreal.

It is rumored that a reduction will shortly be made in the number of employees in the Midland railway work-shops and yards here.

A local dance club has had an elaborate ladies' dressing room fitted up in connection with the assembly hall. The room is not only furnished with mirrors and washbasins, but is nicely carpeted, and contains a handsome set of bedroom furniture.

The receipts of the harbor to date show a decrease of $30 in comparison with the corresponding period of last year. It is feared that the shipments of lumber will be thirty or forty million feet less than 1881. In that event the revenue will be far less than was anticipated.

The Times says that at noon on Tuesday one of the volunteers in uniform, from the country, attempted to jump on a train passing toward the station. His hand slipped and he fell between the cars, directly across the rails. His tight fitting coat prevented the wheel from catching the cloth, and he slipped along for some distance, every moment in danger of being cut in two. Several of his comrades noticing his extreme peril, rushed to his rescue and succeeded in freeing him without his being in the least injured. It is almost a miracle that he escaped a terrible death.

The drill shed was inspected on Tuesday by the Minister of Militia, Hon. Adolphe Caron. He expressed his pleasure at the satisfactory condition of the arms and accoutrements in the charge of Sergt. Lowry.

Over 1,000 cars of through grain are now at Midland awaiting shipment. The Midland Railway will bend all its energies to the transportation of this grain.

The agency of the Bank of Commerce here will be closed in a few weeks.

Mr. T. Singleton has not accepted the offer of $1,000 to go to Winnipeg but has re-engaged with the Methodist church here, at an increased salary, for three years.

The School Board have demanded from the Town Council $3,000 for a new school.

The hotel-keepers are beginning to prepare for the grand rush at the Central Fair—Sept. 26, 27, and 28.

The 57th took the palm for marching, at the inspection.

Considerable improvement is about to be made in the interior of the Presbyterian Church. The gallery is about to be lowered, and furnished with a new iron front—a change which will enable all who sit in that part of the church, to see the minister; the pulpit is to be removed, and a platform, with reading-desk, substituted; the windows are to be altered, so as to secure more light; the pews are to be cushioned in uniform style, and the walls and wood-work are to be re-decorated and newly painted.

The Central Exhibition will open in this town on the 26th of the present month, and will continue for three days. We trust this section of the country will assist in making the exhibition a genuine success.

The Sentinel-Star says that the Presbyterian Church on King Street, is to receive a complete renovation. The gallery is to be so arranged as to give a clear view of the platform from every part; the pulpit will be removed, and a neat platform, with reading desk substituted; the heavy wooden front of the gallery is to be removed, and a light iron one put in its place; the windows are to be remodeled; the whole of the inside of the church calcimined and painted, and the seats cushioned in a uniform manner. The church when completed, will present a greatly improved appearance, and the Rev. Mr. McCrae, the new pastor, is an energetic worker, and will soon fill it.

The selection of Mr. Byington's successor as English headmaster has ultimately resulted in the appointment of Mr. Robert Ferguson, B. A., (Queen's University), Gold Medallist in Modern Languages and Literature.

LINDSAY.

The special collection at St. Mary's church in behalf of Lord Archibald Douglas's emigration scheme for orphans amounted to $100.

Mr. John Wilson, jr., of Ops had a horse killed by lightning on Friday evening last during the heavy thunder storm. Insured in the London Mutual.

A train of cars went up on Monday last to the Snowden iron mines and were to return on Thursday night with a load of ore to be shipped from Port Hope.

The Ops agricultural society offer for sale their fine bull, the property of the society. The animal was bought from Mr. J. M. Bell of Pickering and has a very fine pedigree, the mother having taken first prize at the Centennial. The society propose to replace the animal with another.

The council have accepted Mr. Bradburn's offer to build an addition to the town hall and fit it up as an opera house. A by-law was passed on Monday night at the council meeting to that effect and the work is to be completed by the end of November.

Mr. Wm. McKay, superintendent for the Paper Mill Company, left for Brattleboro, Vt., this week. He has been summoned to inspect the machinery for the mill, now ready on the floor of the builder's shops. If satisfactory it will be shipped to Lindsay at once.

A party of surveyors says the Post passed through Lindsay going north to run over the proposed line of the canal from Balsam lake to Lake Simcoe. The survey will be conducted by Mr A. Belcher brother of the superintendent of the Trent works. The work will be taken up at Kirkfield and the line run both ways to either lakes.

The Post says that during the time of the fire which destroyed the premises of Mr. Michael Penrose of Ops, his son, John, was severely burned. He had carried out a fanning mill and was in the act of carrying out the sieves when a large portion of the burning wood fell on his arms and neck, burning him in a shocking manner. He now lies in a very critical condition.

The gas inspector of Kingston has completed the examination of 500 gas meters and reports that the gas as an average is eight candles better than the government standard, and equalled in no part of the Dominion but in Nova Scotia cities. The gas is to be made by the Consumers Gas Co of Lindsay will be by the same process as the Kingston gas.

On Monday night last Mr. Robert. Willock, 3rd con., Ops, had nineteen sheep and lambs killed by dogs or so badly mangled that they had to be killed. The sheep were in a field in front of Mr. Willock's house. On the same night a neighbor, Mr. George Moor, had fourteen sheep killed or mangled in the same way. It is suspected that dogs from town did the damage.

Last week at a meeting of the members of the Baptist church in this town Mr. George Matthews presented the congregation with the mortgage he had hitherto held on the parsonage and lot upon which it is built. The mortgage was for $1.500 and so handsome a gift as this by Mr. Matthews is but seldom received by much larger and more pretentious churches.

The dredge which has for some months past been working at the short cut down the river was last week towed up to town, having stopped work for some time. The amount of the appropriation has, we believe, been expended and it will take a further sum to finish the work and leave the channel of an even depth throughout. The proposed depth is six feet. The steamers have passed through the channel made by the cutting, but it requires rather careful navigation, as the depth of water at one side is very shallow.

Died, at Picton, Ont., on Tuesday, Sept. 5th, Frances, wife of Mr. Thomas S. Wood, aged 88 years. Deceased was the mother of Hon. S. C. Wood of this town, provincial treasurer, and Mr. A. F. Wood of Madoc. The remaining children are Dr. O. C. Wood, late of Ottawa, and now of Southern California, Mrs. Rufus Sawyer and Mrs. C. Mott of Picton. Mrs. Wood died at the residence of the latter. Her husband is still living, a patriarch of 92 years, and though feeble he still retains a large share of the mental vigor that distinguished his earlier life. The aged couple had lived together as man and wife for nearly seventy years, and had seen their children take honorable and responsible positions in life. The deceased lady came to Canada with her brother in 1810, and was married to the now desolate and aged widower in 1813. She was a noble woman, and left sweet memories of a Christian character that endeared her to all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Her remains were laid to rest in the beautiful Greenwood cemetery at Picton. The old patriarch will hereafter reside with his sons, where his few remaining years will be made as pleasant as possible.

THE EGYPTIAN REBEL.

FALL OF TEL-EL-KEBIR.

Nothing could be more reassuring than the news of Gen. Wolseley's splendid victory of Wednesday. The balance of his troops, including the Highland Brigade, having arrived at the front, Gen. Wolseley made a final reconnaissance of the enemy's position, and immediately set his forces in motion against Tel-el-Kebir, the rebel stronghold. From the despatches now to hand it is clear that the utmost caution, prudence, and despatch were exercised by the British general in sending forward his troops, which added to an unexpected night march, completely threw the enemy off his guard and enabled the British to approach within a mile before he was aware of their approach. The rest is soon told. Not a moment was lost by the British in following up their advantage. Cavalry, artillery, and infantry were at once brought to bear upon the enemy with irresistible fury, an armed train carrying a captured Krupp gun and some Gatlings rendering efficient aid in the attack; then came a mighty rush of gallant British troops, the Highland Brigade being foremost, against their discomfitted foes, who were unable to hold their own and speedily sought refuge in retreat, the position being carried in twenty minutes. The fighting did not cease with the carrying of the entrenchments.

The cavalry pursued the fugitives, and a terrible artillery fire mowed them down by hundreds. The Egyptain, killed number at least 2,000, and there is probably as many were wounded. Upwards of three thousand prisoners were taken, together with the larger portion of Arabi's guns and military stores. The victory was of the most complete description, and adds another to the long list of names worn with pride upon the colours of the English army.

By a forced march by the Indian contingent General McPherson reached and captured Zagazig, the Governor surrendering upon their approach. A wing will also push on for Cairo, which is said to be mined. A general massacre of Europeans there is feared, and a great effort will be made to prevent a repetition of the terrible scenes at Alexandria. The news of the victory was received with great joy in England, and the French Government sent congratulations upon the brilliant success of the British army. The list of our killed, which is not large considering the victory won against such great odds, unfortunately included a large number of officers, thus testifying that the gallantary with which the troops were led.

The great victory of Wednesday has, as anticipated, broken the strength of the rebellion in Egypt. Arabi fled to Cairo, where he was betrayed by Toulba Pasha, his Commandant at Tel-el-Kebir, and is now a prisoner. Negotiations were opened for the surrender of Kafr-el-Dwar, which has been virtually accomplished by the occupation of the earthworks by General Wood. From all quarters come the most servile offers of submission. Following up his advantage General Wolseley despatched a brigade to Cairo to occupy the city and restore order there. The advance guard reached there by railway last night and were received with manifestations of joy.

THE WAR OVER.

The results of the heavy blow of Wednesday has far exceeded the anticipations. From all quarters of Egypt comes the most servile offers of submission to the Khedive. Arabi himself when taken before his injured sovereign presented a picture of abject servility. He declared that he did not know he was fighting his master and craved pardon and his life. The garrison at Cairo have laid down their arms and the country is entirely subject to the British. All submissions are made nominally to the Khedive, but General Wolseley with wise foresight insists upon actual surrender to himself alone. Now that the rebellion is crushed, it is reported that Italy and Russia demand the immediate reassembling of the European Conference. It is also stated that England will insist upon her right to call the Conference together whenever the exigencies of her policy may require.

SUICIDE OF A CANADIAN.

A QUEBEC GOVERNESS WHO WAS TIRED OF LIFE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A tall, shapely woman of 30, well dressed, with jet black hair, dark eyes, a fair complexion, and regular features, applied at the Sturtevant house on Wednesday, and was given rooms 41 and 42, among the best in the house. On Thursday morning the hotel attendants remarked a strong smell of gas, which seemed to escape from the keyholes and crevices of her door. Knocking failed to arouse the occupant. Then the door was forced, and the woman was found lifeless in bed. On the table was an empty wine bottle. She had evidently retired after turning on all the gas in the room. Search revealed the fact that she had left a packet directed to Edward Sheridan, a superintendent of carriages at one of the city hotels. Sheridan was sent for and recognised the woman as Josephine Parant of St. Germain, Province of Quebec, Canada. She had left for him to pay her funeral expenses $241 in cash, and some jewelry and trinkets. She had bought a ticket for home, had sent on one trunk, and had expressed her intention to send another. According to Sheridan's story, he had known the woman for several years. She had stopped at various hotels in the city, and was a governess. He said she came of a good family in Canada, and that she had one sister, who was a sister of charity. She had informed her people that she was married, and had had a notice of her marriage published in a newspaper and had forwarded it in order to deceive them. She was well educated and spoke French fluently. Her chief occupation was teaching French. For several years Sheridan said he had known of her having rooms in various places in this city. Within two years she went south with a wealthy family in the capacity of governess. She had lived under various assumed names, and Sheridan told Coroner Knox that she had recently confessed to him that she was leading a bad life and that she would commit suicide to end it if he would take charge of her remains. He says that he reasoned with her, and that she afterward said she would go home to her people.

The popular "World Publishing Company," of Guelph, is being represented by Mr. Geo. S. Wilson, general agent for Northern Ontario, who is introducing the following works: "Professor Macoun's Work on Manitoba," "Treasury of Song," Royal Path of Life." Dr. Manning's Stock Encyclopaedia and Family Bibles. He has been the recipient of a great list of testimonials, some of which we here append:

From Prof. W. F. Sherwin, of Cincinnati, well known as a popular composer and leader, and as Director of the famous Chautauqua School of Music:—

"TREASURY OF SONG is in all respects, a most charming book for the home circle. Its selections show a refined taste and excellent judgment, while the variety is wonderful, stretching away from the simple cradle song, to Haydn's aria 'With Verdure Clad.' Its contents will bring genial sunshine and refinement to the home."

Rev. J. R. Jacques, D.D., P.H.D., President of Albert College and University, Belleville, says:—

"The 'Royal Path of Life' sparkles with gems. Every page attracts the eye and stretches the mind. No one can well estimate the value of such a book in the home."

"We have pleasure in certifying that we have examined the new work entitled "Treasury of Song," and that we are highly pleased with it in every respect.

"The very large collection of 'Real Gems, both Classical and popular, its beautiful typography, the portraits and biographical sketches of eminent musicians and singers make it eminently suitable to promote happiness in every home.

"We cordially commend it to the music-loving people of Belleville."

Signed,—Herbert Oldham, Professor of Music, Organist St. Thomas' Church; J. A. Stainstreet, Organist St. Andrew's Church, Prof. of music in Albert University; James Smith, Professor of music, Organist M. E. Tabernacle; J. S. McMurray, baritone vocalist and composer, Organist, Halloway Street Methodist Church; J. W. Featherstone, Prof. of Music, Organist, Christ Church; Minnie Jones, Organist Bridge Street Methodist Church; Bessie O'Carrole, Teacher of Music, Choir leader St. Michael's Church; Miss Ackerman, teacher of music.

"We have pleasure in certifying that we have examined the recent work entitled "The Treasury of Song," and that we are pleased with it throughout. It embodies a very large collection of Classical and Popular Gems, which have been collected from the repertoire of American, English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, Swiss, Italian, French, etc., etc. singers and composers, these, together with the biographical sketches and portraits of the most eminent musicians, will tend to make every home into which it is introduced, happy and attractive. We cordially commend it to all lovers of music in Peterborough."

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for the evils is NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and deparent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain. Price, $1.00. Sample bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of the signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Busy End

Of our Store is found in every part of it—in every Department, and on all sides of it.

We are not disposed to say as much about it as are our customers, who remark the activity in every direction, of what they are pleased to compliment as a well ordered business.

All details of our trade have responsible supervision, and everything connected with each department is being, if possible, more carefully looked after than heretofore.

In the Existing

Circumstances of increased cost of living, everybody who wishes to be economical, should ask themselves "where and how they can spend their money to best advantage."

A great many people have the habit of dealing in certain stores, and buying large quantities of goods and paying for them too, without ever asking themselves "could I have done any better elsewhere?"

If they would only take a little trouble and look around and call on us, they would be generally surprised in a six months how much to their advantage it is to trade with us.

Equally So

In all particulars is it with the stranger or transient visitor—whether great or small—whose custom is as much a matter of consideration to us as those of longer standing.

Hence as far as our business obligations can go, all are on the same basis, and equally the recipient of our best work. And everything we have shall equal the expectation of those who pay their money for it.

THE HUSBANDMAN.

Give fools their gold and knaves their power
Let fortune's bubbles rise and fall;
Who sows a field or trains a flower,
Or plants a tree is more than all.

For he who blesses most is blest;
And GOD and man shall own his worth,
Who toils to leave as his bequest
An added beauty to the earth.

And soon or late, to all that all sow
The time of harvest shall be given;
The flower shall bloom, the fruit shall grow,
If not on earth, at last in heaven.

Ontario Crop Returns.

Results of the Harvest.

The September report of the Bureau of Industries gives full information of the progress and completion of harvest work throughout the Province, and of the state in which the various grain crops have been garnered. It also deals with the condition of pastures and live stock, of the root and fruit crops, of corn, beans and buckwheat, of the new crop of clover and the prospective supply of clover and timothy seeds, the preparations for sowing fall wheat, and the honey produce of the year. The Report is prepared from information furnished by a large staff of correspondents in each county of the Province, the great majority of whom are practical farmers.

With the exception of occasional fields of late oats and peas, harvestingoperations were pretty generally concluded by the first of September. The heavy rains which prevailed almost universally throughout Western Ontario in the earlier part of August not only made the harvest season an unusually long and tedious one, but seriously impaired the quality of the grain crops, and especially fall wheat and barley.

The yield of fall wheat will be even greater than was estimated in former Reports; but a considerable portion of the crop has been housed in a damp condition, and rust and sprouting prevailed in many localities.

In the western peninsula barley is very generally discolored, though the grain is large and plump, and the yield fully as large as was anticipated. In Lennox, Addington, and Prince Edward, however, where this grain is so largely sown, the harvest was favoured by the finest weather and the crop was garnered in excellent condition. Indeed, throughout Eastern Ontario generally the farmers escaped the almost continuous rains which rendered harvesting operations so uncertain in the west, and as a result the crops have been much better saved, though the yield is not so heavy.

Many correspondents report that the spring wheat has been badly injured by rust and midge, while in more limited localities it suffered from the rainy weather which followed closely on a period of drought. On the whole, it is less than the average crop.

Oats were late in ripening, and in some of the western counties shelled badly in harvesting, but they will be fully an average crop.

Peas are rather a light crop, partly owing to the ravages of their unfailing enemy, the bug, and partly to unfavourable weather.

A large quantity of fall wheat has been threshed, but very little has yet been marketed, and prices are unsettled.

The damage done to the grain crop by the copious rains of August will be fully balanced by the luxuriant pastures they helped to produce, and the consequent benefit to live stock and dairy interests. Correspondents almost unanimously report that the pastures were never better, that live stock is in excellent condition, and that the year has been a most prosperous one for dairymen. The supply of store cattle, largely on account of the prevailing high prices, is small; and, owing partly to the same cause, and partly to the ravages of the pea bug, pork promises to be rather a scarce article. "Pink-eye" is reported from the county of Essex, some horses having died of the disease, and a considerable number having been disabled for work.

Owing to the "heaving" of the plants last winter, the crop of clover seed will be much below the average throughout the Province. The most favourable reports in the west come from some of the Lake Erie counties, where the prospect is said to be "fair," conditional, however, on a continuance of dry weather and the absence of frost. In some of the eastern counties Alsike clover is extensively grown, and it stood the winter well. Of timothy seed there will be an average supply. From all quarters correspondents report that the new seeding has had a splendid "catch"—the best in many years—and there is a fine prospect for an abundant crop next year.

The corn crop has had much to contend against this year. Owing to the cold and wet weather of May it was planted late, and the soil was in the worst possible condition to promote its growth. The low temperature of June and July was scarcely less unfavourable, and many fields were re-planted. At the end of July the outlook was cheerless in the extreme, and the most sanguine of correspondents in the best corn-growing counties did not look for more than half a crop. But the month of August transformed the prospect; warm days and genial showers did wonders for the corn, and the reports of correspondents this month are greatly altered in tone. The crop as a whole will scarcely reach an average, and there are many poor fields, but it is a very great improvement on the prospect of a month ago. In Essex and Kent it is well ripened by this time, but in the other counties it will be two or three weeks later.

Beans are fairly good on high and well-drained ground, but on low-lying fields they have not podded well owing to the heavy rainfall, and in some localities the crop will not be worth the pulling. The best accounts come from Kent and Norfolk, and the counties along the Ottawa river.

Buckwheat is late, and fears are entertained that it will not ripen before the coming of autumn frosts. In the eastern counties the later-sown fields are giving the best promise, having escaped the scorching days of early August.

Generally speaking, the fruit crop of the year is a failure,—apples decidedly so, owing to the "blight" referred to in previous reports. The trees, though showing some signs of recovery, have still an unhealthy appearance, the leaves being dark in colour and shrivelled up as if they had been touched by fire. The fruit is small, diseased and worm-eaten, except in the case of a few hardy varieties, notably the Russet. The only part of the Province reported free from the "blight" is the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties, where there will be an average crop, though the fruit is small in size. Pears are a fair crop, except in the Georgian Bay counties, where they are reported to be a worse failure than the apples. Plums are considerably below an average yield owing mainly to the ravages of the curculio, and in a small degree to the effects of black-knot. Peaches, where grown at all, are scarce, and prices high. Grapes are a fair crop.

Roots are fairly good in all sections of the Province excepting the counties of Grey and Simcoe, on Georgian Bay, and Haldimand and Welland, on Lake Erie. The local droughts of June and July in those counties were very unfavourable to potatoes, carrots and mangolds, and the fly has been a troublesome enemy to turnips. But the rains of August have greatly improved the general prospect, and farmers are hopeful. There are many complaints, however, that potatoes are affected by rot, but so far no serious damage has been done. It was doubtless due to the heavy rains.

A large breadth of fall wheat will be sown this year, but owing to the prolonged harvest season, seeding will be fully two weeks later than usual. The rains, too, interfered with the cultivating and harrowing so necessary to keep fallows in good condition for the reception of the seed.

The report contains miscellaneous statistics, embracing the acreage and produce of hay and clover, the acreage of root crops, buckwheat, beans, flax, hops and fruit, and the year's produce of maple sugar. Following are the figures for the whole Province, and for the county of Peterborough.

	The Province.	The County.
Meadow and Clover, acres in crop	1,992,092	33,627
Meadow and clover, tons of produce	2,128,499	34,512
Potatoes, acres in crop	164,305	2,402
Mangold Wurzel, acres in crop	16,060	256
Carrots, acres in crop	9,981	301
Other roots, acres in crop	75,164	631
Buckwheat, acres in crop	52,955	347
Beans, acres in crop	20,357	163
Flax, acres in crop	5,413	22
Hops, acres in crops	2,047	20
Orchard and garden, acres	213,725	2,388
Vineyard, acres	1,824	8
Maple sugar, pounds made this year	3,392,321	51,413

Returns made by correspondents, based on the threshing machine records of their several localities, show that the total produce of fall wheat in the Province is 32,352,403 bushels; of spring wheat, 9,295,793 bushels; of barley, 23,545,059 bushels; of oats, 52,997,169 bdshels; and of peas, 11,428,479 bushels. These figures exceed the estimates made on the first of June, especially the figures of wheat and oats. More accurate data, however, will be furnished by the returns of threshers, the result of which will be given in the October Report of the Bureau.

The weather report shows that the temperature for August was slightly lower than the temperature for August last year, but the rainfall was considerably greater. At one station in Essex the total for the month was 5.19 inches, and at one in Lambton it was 7.18 inches. At Gravenhurst, in Muskoka, the total was only 1.24 inches.

MIDLAND RAILWAY CROP REPORTS.

The Midland Railway authorities have collected and published full and valuable reports of the state of the crops for the country through which the line passes. The report contains much valuable information, and is an interesting statistical estimate of the various crops. The demands on our space compel us to publish it in instalments. This week we publish the reports relating to this county and more immediate vicinity. In our next issue we shall furnish the remainder of the report. The reports are as follows, beginning with

LINDSAY.

Fall wheat, 25 bushels per acre. Spring wheat, 20 bushels. Barley, 30 bushels. Oats, 35 bushels. Peas, 30 bushels. Hay lighter than last year. But little fruit in the district. Roots promise an excellent crop.

A gentleman giving a lecture to some boys was explaining how no one could live without air. He then said, "You have all heard of a man drowning; how does it happen?" The answer was, "'Cause he can't swim."

Among the many desirable results of pure blood are, an elastic step, buoyant spirits, and clear complexions. The possessor of healthy blood has his faculties at command, and enjoys a clear and quick perception which is impossible when the blood is heavy and sluggish with impurities. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier and vitalizer known.

A new vegetable love song begins with these passionate words:

The cucumber sat on the back-yard fence,
And sang to its blue-eyed mate.

Which is probably a companion to the one beginning:

The carrot swayed around serene
And fondly kissed the Lima bean,
Who murmured to the apricot:
"Oh, Marguerite, forget me not!"

The fruitful season of the year is prolific with many forms of Bowel Complaints, such as Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c. COBOURG, Ont., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first-class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

SANDERSON'S

THE BEER AND WHISKY TRADE OF TORONTO.

The distilling and brewing trade of Toronto forms the subject of elaborate articles in recent issues of the Globe. The facts and figures given are interesting. Toronto has 15 breweries, but only one distillery, that of Gooderham & Worts, which, however, is the largest in the Dominion. This distillery gives employment to 250 men and boys, whose weekly wages amount to a large sum. The firm pays the Government the snug little sum of one million dollars a year for duties. Over three thousand cattle are fed on the swill. The product of the distillery is over three million gallons of proof spirits per annum. This is one-sixth the product of all the distilleries in England. Whiskey is a favorite beverage in Toronto. The consumption is set down at 150,000 gallons a year or a little more than a gallon and a half per capita of the population. The average for Ontario is about a gallon and a quarter. Whisky (in common with other strong drinks) is gradually falling into disfavor. In 1874 the consumption per head was nearly two gallons; in 1878 it was only a little over one. When the increase in duties took place, whiskey drinkers fancied that the grocers and tavern-keepers were "doctoring" their liquors, and ale, porter and lager came into increasing demand. The product of the Toronto breweries has greatly improved during the last ten years. Over $2,000,000 capital is invested in the business. One thousand men are employed, who receive in wages half a million dollars a years. "One twentieth of the population of the city and suburbs," remarks the Globe, "may be said to derive its subsistence directly from the breweries, and nearly a tenth live on the direct profits of the liquor manufacture and retail traffic. The magnitude of the liquor business of Toronto is thus apparent, as well as its immediate importance to the population and commercial prosperity of the city."

A QUICK-WITTED WOMAN.

An English servant girl recently displayed a presence of mind, which should have, though it probably did not, put to the blush the on-lookers of the other sex. A crowd of small boys were perched on the railings of some gardens, which slope down to the river, near Islington. They were engaged in the forbidden sport of fishing. The sudden appearance of a keeper caused a stampede, in the confusion of which four boys fell into the river. Two of them managed to scramble out and took to their heels. The other two went down, locked together, and would have been drowned, had not the girl in question had her wits about her. She hastened to unchain a Newfoundland dog, and send it to the rescue. It plunged in, seized one boy by the arm, and so dragged both to the shore. The report states that a large crowd gave a hearty cheer for the dog. They were evidently cousins-german to the man who recently looked on, and let a child drown in two feet of water, in the pond, in Kensington Gardens.

TO YOUNG LADIES.

Young lady, is there anything in your past life which you do not want your mother to hear?—If so, there is something amiss. Have you ever said or done anything which you know your mother would not approve of? Stop! think. Look carefully back over your whole past life and see if there is anything in it contrary to what you know would please your mother. If you see anything in this review of your life which does not please you, conclude at once that you have not been living aright, and that in the future you will do better. If you have ever heard anyone say anything at all offensive to the ear (unless it happened to be in some public place where you could not help being, or on the street) you have not been keeping good company. Then make it a point that during all your future life you will never keep such company again. Oh, young lady, if you only knew the prayers which go up from her bedside night and day, surely you would be more careful in the future.

THE MONEY VALUE OF GUILTY CONSCIENCES.

(From the St. James Gazette.)

A novel and successful swindle has just been brought to light by the Paris police. The person implicated hit upon an ingenious plan of working upon the guilty consciences of his fellow creatures. With the aid of Bottin's Paris directory, he selected a number of well-known men of business, and addressed to each of them a note to the following effect: "I will reveal all unless you send 100 francs to J. L., Poste Restante, Paris." More than ten persons actually sent the money demanded. Information was given to the police, and the man was arrested on appearing at the post office to claim a batch of letters.

FAST OCEAN STEAMERS.

The movement of Mr. Jacob Lorillard, of New York, to inaugurate a line of very fast ocean steamers, to ply on the European route, appears to have stirred up some talk toward attempt something similar in England. The London Engineer says there is a rumor afloat that a couple of vessels, each about 500 feet long, 50 feet beam, and 32 feet deep, are to be built next year. They are each to be propelled by twine screw engines of the collective power of 17,000 horses indicated and they are to attain regular ocean speed of 21 knots, or a little more than 24 miles an hour. The distance from Liverpool to New York is 3,016 knots, and at 21 knots the voyage would be made in 144 hours, or six days.

REMEMBER THIS.

If you are sick Hop Bitters will surely aid Nature in making you well when all else fails.

If you are costive or dyspeptic, or are suffering from any other of the numerous diseases of the stomach or bowels, it is your own fault if you remain ill, for Hop Bitters are a sovereign remedy in all such complaints.

If you are wasting away with any form of Kidney disease, stop tempting Death this moment, and turn for a cure to Hop Bitters.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness Nervousness, you will find a "Balm in Gilead" in the use of Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter, or a resident of a miasmatic district, barricade your system against the scourge of all colintries—malarial, epidemic, bilious, and intermittent fevers—by the use of Hop Bitters.

If you have rough, pimply, or sallow skin, bad breath, pains and aches, and feel miserable generally, Hop Bitters will give you fair skin, rich blood, and sweetest breath, health, and comfort.

In short they cure all Diseases of the stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Nerves, Kidneys, Bright's Disease. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

The poor, bedridden, invalid wife, sister mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health, by a few bottles of Hop Bitters, costing but a trifle. Will you let them suffer? 38-4tns

RELIGION AND HONESTY.

A steady visitor to a revival meeting in Toledo, attracted the notice of the preacher, who made his way to the man's pew, and said:

"My friend, are you a Christian?"

"No, sir."

"You seem always looking towards the rostrum with great earnestness. I hope an interest has been awakened in your heart."

"I am just waiting to see what that man up there in the chair, with a blonde mustache and projecting teeth, will decide to do."

"My dear friend," said the pastor, "you must not wait until your friends are converted. You must act for yourself."

"Oh, that ain't it. You see that man always gets religion at every revival and, I am just lying low for him to come forward, and say that he's had a change of heart, so that I can stand at the door when he comes out, and ask him for that $10 bill he owes me, before he has a chance to backslide."

The minister turned sadly away.

PERFECTLY SATISFACTORY.

A farmer's wife bustled into store, in a town up the Hudson, a few days ago, and went for the proprietor with:

"Mr. Davis, I bought six pounds of sugar here the other day, and when I got it home, I found a stone weighing three pounds in the package!"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Can you explain such a swindle, sir?"

"I think I can," he placidly replied. "When I weighed your eight pounds of butter the other day, I found the three pound stone in the crock, and when I weighed your sugar the stone must have slipped into the scales. We are both growing old Mrs. Jones, and I presume your eyesight has become more or less affected."

She looked at him for half a minute, over her brass-bound spectacles, and then said she had three dozen eggs, which she wanted to exchange for some hooks and eyes and red shirt buttons.

SHE UNDERSTOOD.

A woman with a market basket on her arm, and a bouquet of flowers in her hand, was waiting at the ferry dock, when a man approached her and said:

"Madame, that is a very fine nosegay."

"Yes, sir."

"I think it is the best one I ever saw, and I have been in twenty-seven different States."

"Yes, sir."

"There is a pansy hiding itself behind the rose. According to the language of flowers, the pansy stands for, 'Darling, I cannot live without you.' I likewise observe the rose-bud is 'I'm looking for a husband.' Madam, do you understand the language of flowers"

"Yes, sir."

"What is the language of that tulip?"

"The tulip says, sir, that if you don't stump along with your brazen impudence, I'll have you walked into the cooler!" was her reply. He stumped.

INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE.

The Bishop of Peterborough cannot help saying good things in and out of the pulpit—especially out of it. The other night a rich, benevolent, but somewhat brainless millionaire, was boasting after dinner that he gave away £2,000 to the poor regularly every year. He said: "I think it's right, you know; a sort of duty in my position. I can't say what becomes of it, but it's given away in charity, that's all I know, and that's all I care about. Two thousand pounds every year!" "What," said the bishop; "do you really mean to say you pay away £2,000 to the poor every year as a religious duty?" "I assure you, my Lord, that is so," replied the wealthy man with careless complacency. "Well" said the witty bishop, "that is the largest insurance against fire I ever heard of!"

A WELL "CURED" EDITOR.

At. No. 80 King Street, East Toronto Ont., are the editorial rooms of the Sunday School Manual, edited by Mr. Withrow, of 240 Jarvis street, in the same city. Conversing recently with several gentlemen,—one of them the representative of the largest advertisers in the world,—Mr. Withrow remarked; "As to advertising, I consider St. Jacobs Oil the best advertised article by far. It is a splendid remedy too. Besides the many cases of rheumatism it has cured right amongst us, it has rendered me most efficient service in curing a severe soreness of the chest and an obstinate headache. It does its work satisfactorily.

THE LOGIC OF YOUTH.

"Pa, am I a little sinner?" "Yes, my son, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the bible says the devil is the father of all sinners, doesn't it? "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then, papa, are you the devil!" His offspring's logic was too much for him, and he slipped out of the room without answering.

Electricity and Magnetism when properly passed into the blood, brain and nerves produces the most wonderful effects. We are told that these elements are perfectly blended in the medicine known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, advertised in another column, and the good which has resulted from its use cannot be computed in dollars and cents. 26-2.

VARIETIES.

"Among the most efficacious of remedial agents are the medical preparations from the laboratory of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"Can you tell me," asked a Sunday-school teacher of a little girl, "why the Israelites made a golden calf?" "Because they hadn't gold enough to make a cow," was the reply.

After many years of patient investigation, DR. VAN BUREN, of Germany, finally succeeded in perfecting a Kidney Cure that would permanently relieve all cases of Kidney Disease. Be sure and ask your Druggist for DR. VAN BUREN'S KIDNEY CURE. Sold by J. McKee, Peterborough. 33-8t

Carrie (to Gipsy): "But you said you would show us our husbands faces in the water for a shilling, and we only see our own. Gipsy: "And won't they be your husbands' faces when you get married?"

Travellers will find the best remedy for Sea Sickness in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. While for Sick Stomach and diseases brought on by change of water, diet, etc., and for Cholera Morbus, Colic, Dysentery, and Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, nothing acts more in harmony with nature to effect a cure. 38-2t

When a man detects a missing button after getting on a clean shirt no one in the house is aware of the fact. He takes off his shirt and puts on another quietly, smiling all the while. He never, never speaks of it to a soul.

A simple herb found on the sunny plains of a Southern clime, has, under the skillful manipulation of DR. VAN BUREN, proved one of the greatest blessings ever sent to suffering humanity. DR. VAN BUREN'S KIDNEY CURE is acknowledged all the world over as the only perfect remedy for Kidney troubles. Your Druggist has it, J. McKee, Peterboro. 33-8t

"Grandpa, the sun is brighter in summer than in winter, is it not?"

"Yes; and it's warmer, and enjoys better health."

"Why does it enjoy better health?"

"Because it gets up earlier."

"Skill and patience succeed where force fails." The quiet skill and patient research which brought forth Kidney-Wort illustrates the truth of the fable. Its grand success everywhere is admitted. Disease never comes to us without cause. Ask any good physician the reason and he will tell you something interferes with the working of the great organs. Kidney-Wort enables them to overcome all obstructions and preserves perfect health. Try a box or bottle at once.

"I should so like to have a coin dated the year of my birth," said a maiden lady of uncertain age to a male acquaintance. "Do you think you could get one for me?" "I am afraid not," he replied. "These very old coins are only to be found in valuable collections."

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Geo. C. Clarke, of Port Dalhousie, Ontario, states that she had been confined to her room for a long time with that dreadful disease, Consumption. The doctors said she could no escape an early grave, but fortunately she began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and in a short time was completely cured. Doubting ones, please write Mrs. Clarke, and be convinced. Trial bottles free at Taylor & MacDonalds Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

WHO'S THE BEST PHYSICIAN?—The one that does most to relieve suffering humanity of the thousand and one ills that befall them, is certainly the best of all physicians. Electric Bitters are daily doing this, curing where all other remedies failed. As a spring tonic and blood purifier they have no equal. They positively cure liver and kidney complaints. In the strongest sense of the term, they are the best and cheapest physician known.—Daily Times. Sold by Taylor & MacDonald at 50 cents.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Local News Record.

COOL.—Vennor predicts a frosty and fair September. We should have liked to see him enjoying the frosty weather by shovelling coal in a cellar last Tuesday.

MAINS.—The missing link has been supplied to the water works trenches; the mains have arrived and are being laid in the vacant space on George street above Murray.

PROMPT.—The Missing Link navvies were allowed to get drunk three days earlier than usual last week. They were paid on the 12th instead of the 15th. Prompt pay makes faithful toil.

THE AUBURN PIC-NIC.—The employees of the Auburn Woollen Mills held their annual pic-nic at Hastings on Monday, and it was a most pleasant and successful affair.

INJURED.—Among those injured at the fire of Saturday night, besides Mrs. Roddy were a Mr. Reid, two young men named Lundy, a lad named Duncan, and John McComb of Ashburnham, who were painfully burned.

THE BIG BLOW.—The gale of last Thursday was not so severe as to result in much damage. Trees heart-rotten were blown down in some parts of the town, and telegraph wires and poles prostrated, but no loss of life or limb.

NO QUORUM.—There was no quorum of the Town council on Monday night last. Councillors Richardson, Denne and McNaughton, the clerk, Chief Johnston, Janitor Beavis and the reporters were all that were present.

CONDOLENCE.—Peterborough Lodge of Good Templars, at its last meeting adopted an address of condolence to be presented to the mother and friends of Miss Fanny Netherout, who died recently, and who was highly esteemed as an individual and a member of the Order.

SOMNAMBULISTIC ACCIDENT.—Friends of Mr. John McDonald, of this town have received intelligence that he was seriously injured by walking out of the door of a hotel, and falling thirty feet to the ground, in Grand Rapids, Michigan. It is supposed he rose in his sleep and walked through the door. He will recover from his injuries.

STUNNED BY LIGHTENING.—At exactly six o'clock on Tuesday morning a terrific flash of lightning and burst of thunder fairly shook the town. Mr. Benjamain Green of Aylmer Street who was forking straw in his yard was severely shaken and stunned, and a mark left on his forehead. He soon recovered and is not permanently injured.

FOOT-BALL.—The following are the officers of the Peterborough Foot-ball club: President F. J. Lewis, Vice-president G. C. Rogers, Sec.-Treas A. St. A. Smith, Captain W. H. Budden, Committee, F. W. Haultain, G. W. Hatton and R. B. Rogers. There is a prospect of a game with Kingston, and a Kingston paper says that if we can produce as good a Football club as we can a Lacrosse club a hot match may be expected.

THE COMING OF THE BISHOP.—On Thursday (to-day) his Lordship, Bishop Jamot, the first episcopal father of the new Roman Catholic See of Peterborough will arrive by train, accompanied by several Church dignitaries, including the Archbishop of Toronto and Bishops of Kingston, Hamilton, etc. The solemn ceremony of installation will take place at St. Peter's Church at 1 p.m. Great preparation are being made for a magnificent and imposing reception.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.—On Friday the 29th instant the usual Harvest Festival services will be held in St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham. In the afternoon of the same day, from about five o'clock p.m., tea will be served in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, and a very pleasant time may be expected. At eight o'clock there will be evensong in the church, the sermon being preached by the Rev. John Farncomb. The church will be decorated for the occasion and the music will be specially prepared. We advise our readers to attend.

EXTRA VALUE.—You can buy the best quality of rich Black and Coloured Dress Silks, Black and Figured Satins, rich Brocaded and Satin Gros De Lyons Silks at W. Fairweather & Co's. Opened this week, new Black and Coloured Cloth Mantles, Dolmans, Tweed Ulsters and Coats. A special lot of ladies Black Astrachan Fur Mantles at a bargain. Only see them. All wool coloured Dress Cashmere, only 25c. The best value in Black French Cashmere ever offered in Peterborough. Ask for a sight or a sample of our rich Black Figured Silks at $1.00. W. FAIRWEATHER & Co.

THE 57TH.—At the camp in Cobourg this gallant corps reaped lashins of laurels. The Globe correspondent in every letter gave the boys a lift, and their excellent manner of executing manœuveres on review day was highly praised. So conspicuous was their superiority that the jealousy of other battalions gave rise to considerable feeling. Even the local papers were forced to admit that the 57th, in the march past the standard, "took the palm." We must say that the manner in which the Rangers acquitted themselves was no surprise to us, it was just what we expected. We hope that by assiduous attendance they may perfect themselves in drill so that when the "Queen's Own" visits Peterborough next spring, as is proposed, the Rangers can show the crack Toronto regiment that all military excellence is not centered in Toronto.

MECHANICS INSTITUTE.—According to the annual report of the Provincial Association, the Peterborough Institute has 313 members and issues the largest number of books.

CHEESE MARKET.—At the cheese market on Wednesday, the product of ten factories was sold to Mr. Grimison of Colborne at these figures: August 11c. September and October 11½.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.—The annual excursion of St. John's Sunday School, will take place to Hastings next Saturday. The fare will be both ways: adults 50 cents, children 15 cents.

THE BATTERY.—The Peterborough wing of the Durham Field Battery arrived home on Friday night from the camp at Cobourg. Like their infantry fellow-warriors, they distinguished themselves at Cobourg.

PUMPS ARRIVED.—The two huge direct action pumps for the waterworks have arrived from the Knowles Steam Pump Works, Boston. The work has progressed so far at the pump house that it is nearly ready for their reception.

REBUILDING.—On Wednesday morning work began at taking down the ruined brickwork preparatory to rebuilding Mr. T. Fitzgerald's carriage factory and blacksmith shop, Charlotte street. The work will be pushed with energy, and be completed at the earliest possible date.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION.—Our readers are reminded of the Central Exhibition to be held at Cobourg on the 26th, 27th and 28th September. The show this year promises to be of superior excellence and it is to be hoped will be well patronized from this section. We hope our farmers will show their neighbours how far they excel in every branch of agriculture.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We regret to learn that Mr. Lewis Ross formerly representative of East Durham in the House of Commons and a director of the Midland Railway died at Port Hope on Wednesday. He was an old resident of Port Hope, and widely known and respected and a staunch Reformer.

DR. WILD.—We again remind our readers of the lecture of Dr. Wild in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday Oct. 3rd. The subject is "The prophet Jeremiah's visit to Ireland." Dr. Wild has deeply studied the prophecies of the Bible and his lecture will be full of interest. Admission 25 cents—Reserved seats 35 cents, at Meuzies bookstore.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Sept 9th 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $6792.34, freight, $15132.20; total, $23924.54 as compared with $21188 84 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $2735.70: and the aggregate traffic to date is $693-182.65, being an increase of $163077.11 over 1881.

AUCTION SALE.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the sale by auction of a store, dwelling and lot on the main street in the village of Lakefield, the property of J. B. Nicholls, Esq., Smith. The site is a valuable and desirable business stand. Terms and particulars will be made known at the place and time of sale, which are Purser's Hotel, Lakefield, September 28th. A rare good chance for investment.

OTONABEE LODGE.—We are pleased to note that the efforts to resuscitate Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows are meeting with very gratifying success. The hall in Cluxton's new block has been leased as a place of meeting, and arrangements are being made for the furnishing of it in good style. From the names of those associated in the application for the charter and those who have signified their intention of becoming members, we can predict a most successful career for the new Lodge.

BADLY HURT.—On Monday morning a son of Mr. Louis Laplante, about ten years old, was driving a horse on Charlotte street. While crossing the railway, the animal started to run away, and the boy to escape, jumped and was thrown violently, his head coming in contact with the planks. A severe scalp wound was made, and the lad was for some time unconscious, but under proper medical treatment, he is getting all right, in spite of the rumour that he had died; on the contrary he is quite alive.

WASHOUTS.—The highest rain of the season was that of Tuesday. The rain—no it was sheets of water—came down like a cataract and the streets were completely flooded. Considerable injury was done to the water-works trenches, by washing of the loose earth. The most serious damage was on Hunter Street at George, where about fifty feet caved in, leaving a trench in some places three or four feet deep. Other breaks took place near Simcoe Street on George and on Water Street. The cavities were at once railed in for protection and were repaired on Wednesday.

HOME FROM CAMP.—On Saturday the Peterborough Rangers returned from camp. A large throng of enthusiastic citizens had assembled at the Midland station, and greeted them with rousing cheers on their arrival at 3.30 p.m. The Peterborough and Ashburnham companies diembarked, and forming into column of fours, marched to the drill shed by way of Charlotte and George streets. Hundreds of spectators lined the streets and admired the marching and soldierly bearing of the boys as they marched like veterans to the music of the band, which has improved as much as the soldiery by the visit to camp. They were honored with a salute from the Durham Field Battery at the Murray street turning. At the shed cheers were given for Gen. Wolseley, Major Grover and the Ashburnham boys. It is to be hoped that the boys won't have to leave town next year, as it is stated that there is a probability of the best site in the Province being selected, and that the Brigade Camp will be held in Peterboro'.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.—Ashburnham had the delightful excitement of a wedding on Wednesday evening. Mr. Joseph W. Flavelle, one of Peterborough's youngest, most enterprising and successful business men, seceded from the ranks of bachelorhood and, aided and abetted by Miss Clara eldest daughter of the late Rev. O. H. Ellsworth, joined the happy ranks of the benedicts. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother, Ashburnham, by Rev. J. W. Shaw. As a mark of appreciation the members of the bride's class in the George street Methodist Sunday school, on Tuesday evening presented her with a handsome silver cake basket and a complimentary address. A large number of fine presents were received by the worthy young couple who enter wedded life with abundant good wishes of all acquaintances. We join with the hosts of friends of the happy couple in hoping that their years may be long in the land and that the sunset of life will be to them as fair and serene as the commencement.

A Tale of two Politicians.

Four weeks ago two plaster-of-Paris busts of the late Senator Brown and Sir John Macdonald were offered for sale in a York street second-hand store. The one of the late senator was sold two weeks ago, but the other one still remains.

ANOTHER FIERCE FIRE.

THREE FLOURISHING BUSINESS PLACES BURNED.

About seven o'clock on Saturday evening a fire broke out in the biscuit and confectionery works of Hall Bros., Water street, ending in the destruction of Dunsford's Block. The alarm had not long been sounded when a terrible explosion from within the factory, caused it is supposed by the action of the heat on the chemicals used in the business or from the ovens, shattered the southern wall, toppling it over on the roughcast dwelling of Mr. Geo. Brownlee, crushing in the roof like an eggshell. Mr. J Brownlee who was in the building unsuspicious of danger, received the shower of bricks but was protected from instant death by the protection afforded by a high bedstead near which he was at the time. Mrs. R. N. Reddy who emerged from the house just as the explosion took place was struck by the falling bricks and was severely cut and bruised.

The mass of bricks mingled with the fire kindled the flames in this building which was totally destroyed. From different causes of delay it was nearly twenty-five minutes before a very weak and ineffective stream was turned on the fire. The hose did not burst, (as we are told), as has been stated, in fact the trouble was that the boiler did not get up steam enough to burst anything. In the mean time the fire burned fiercely on and speedily wrapped the whole block which was entirely destroyed. It was occupied by Hall Bros. with their biscuit and confectionery works, by J. L. Brown, on the corner groceries and liquors and by J. P. Morgan's hotel. What little was removed from these premises was badly damaged and the loss is great. The spread of the fire in the rear was checked by the vigorous use of pails.

THE LOSSES

are considerable. Mr. Dunsford loses by the building about $12,000, covered by about $9.000 insurance; Hall Bros. lose about $3,500 on which the insurance amounts to $3,000; Mr. J. L. Brown's loss amounts to about $2,500, with an insurance of $1,500. A. P. Morgan's loss is in the neighborhood of $2,000, on which there was insurance of $1,600. On Sunday morning the firemen tore down the walls which threatened to fall. The firemen throughout worked most energetically and if the engine had seconded their efforts as it might be expected to do, the fire would not likely have wrought half the destruction it did do.

PERSONAL.

Messrs. James Elliott and Mr. Bulmer, of Smith, left town on Tuesday morning, for Omaha, where they will prospect with a view of investing in land.

Mr. Geo. Pratley of this town, and Mr. Jas. Baptie, of Springville, were successful competitors at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition. Mr. Pratley took two first and two second prizes, and Mr. Baptie one first and two second.

Mr. James Saulter, has, we are pleased to learn been appointed to the responsible position of general inspector of the Citizen's Insurance Company, Montreal, with head-quarters in that city, for which place Mr. S. will leave about the first of next month. We are sorry to lose so valuable an exemplary citizen as Mr. Saulter, and congratulate the company on having secured the services of so competent an insurance expert. We trust that the same success and advancement that has marked his connection with his business here, will attend him in his new sphere.

GENERAL WOLSELEY ONE OF US

To the Editor of the EXAMINER.

I thought it might be of interest to many of your readers at the present juncture when Sir Garnet Wolseley is in the ascendant, and he is receiving the deserved plaudits of all who take that interest, which Canadians particularly feel in the triumph of British arms, under his generalship, to know that the gallant plucky and lucky general had connexions living in this part of the country. His uncle, the Rev. Mr. Wolseley, lived for many years in that part of the township of Douro now included in the village of Lakefield, and died and was buried there. As a clergyman of the Church of England he held the services of the church in his own house, ministering in sacred things generally without fee or reward. Another and perhaps better known relative of Sir Garnet's was for many years a resident of Peterborough. I mean the late Ivan O'Beirne, the general's first cousin and an old college mate.

Yours etc.,
H. H. STRICKLAND.

Peterborough, September 20th, 1882.

The Fatal Firearm.

On Friday forenoon three lads were amusing themselves on the outlying suburbs of St Lawrence, Quebec, firing at a mark with a gun obtained at the recent fire at St. Roche. Their careless practice was attended with fatal results. A ball passed through a board fence and struck a joiner named Jorkin, aged fifty-five who was working in his shop, and passing into his right side, produced instant death. The deceased leaves a wife and large family. The lads have been arrested.

AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.—We have had the pleasure of a minute examination of the American Cyclopedia, published by the Appleton's and are so greatly pleased with its comprehensiveness, completeness, convenience and general excellence that we have ordered a set of the sixteen royal octave volumes that complete the series. The scope of the work includes the whole circle of arts and sciences, literature biography, history, etc., all classified so as to admit of the speediest reference, and in all respects perfectly trustworthy and reliable. The work is edited with the greatest care. The editors in chief are Geo. Ripley of the New York Tribune and C. A. Dana of the New York Sun with six associate editors, and a corps of twenty-four revising editors. Every important article is written by a specialist thoroughly conversant with his subject and each article before it is printed is subjected to ten rigorous revisions. To show that no expense is spared, Mr. Charles Lindsay is paid the sum of $700 for writing the article on "Canada" for the 1882 supplement of the Cyclopedia. And these supplements are a valuable feature of the work, complete as it is to date in every department, the rapid march of science, the political changes going on in all lands, etc., making it necessary that this newly created information should be supplied, and it is furnished in the form of a neatly bound supplement, that keeps the series complete in every branch of knowledge to date, thus making it impossible that the American Cyclopedia can ever become out of date. It is a library in itself and is something that nobody with the least pretensions to literary taste can afford to be without. Mr. Charles Adams is in town actiug as agent for the sale of it, and any further information can be obtained from him. We shall ourselves take occasion to refer more fully to this invaluable work.

THE WEEK'S NEWS NARRATIVE.

Told without Waste of Words.

Hops have been sold at 31 cts. per pound, at Canandaigua, New York.

16,279 lbs of maple sugar were manufactured in the County of Carleton last year.

Some wines, especially those of Bordeaux are said to be richer in iron than most of the Chalybeate springs.

Patrick Ryan, caretaker of the new fort at Toronto, committed suicide on Friday by shooting himself with a rifle.

Two cases of yellow fever on board H. M. S. "Contest," just arrived at Halifax, N. S., from the west Indies. They are recovering. No other cases.

H. M. S. Phœnix, ashore on the east coast of Prince Edward Island, is a total wreck, and her stores are being removed. The crew were all saved.

The September moon fulls on the 27th, twenty-six minutes after midnight. It is the superb harvest moon—one of the crowning glories of the autumn.

The Montreal Harbor Commissioners show an increased revenue for the month of August over the same month of last year of $3,000, and of tonnage by 8,298 tons. For the season the decrease is about 3 per cent.

A shocking fatal accident occurred at Quebec. A young man named Costelow, son of a Gov't contractor of that name fell to the street below from dome of a two-story house, on which he was working, and was instantly killed.

For last year, the world's production of lead is estimated by Herr Landsberg at 440,000 tons. China and Japan are not included as producers of this metal, although the probability is that their output of lead is very large every year.

The Black Diamond Steamship Company, of Montreal, has decided to increase its capital stock by $100,000. They have recently purchased the steamship Coban, and she will be placed upon the line between Montreal and Cape Breton.

A Strathroy volunteer, belonging to the 26th Battalion, was sent to London jail for twenty-four hours from camp under an escort on Wednesday night by Col. Atwood for being drunk and disorderly, and for assaulting a citizen while under arms.

Now that the rebellion is crushed, it is reported that Italy and Russia demand the immediate reassembling of the European Conference. It is also stated that England will insist upon her right to call the Conference together whenever the exigencies of her policy may require.

At the Battery Ball Practice at Brockville Camp, the Ottawa Field Battery made the best score on record, 436, beating highest previously made by 37, also beating the best scores of A and B Batteries, and discounting the Gananoque Battery. Col. Montizambert, of B Battery, highly complimented the successful crops.

Among the most remarkable natural echoes is the of Eagle's Nest, on the banks of Killarney, in Ireland, which repeats a bugle call until it seems to be sounded from a hundred instruments; and that on the banks of Naha, between Bingen and Coblentz, which repeats a sound seventeen times. The most remarkable artificial echo known is that in the castle of Simonetta, about two miles from Milan, It is occasioned by the existence of two parellel walls of considerable length. It repeats the report of a pistol sixty times.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The Midland Railway Co. have decided to reduce the number of men employed on their line. About ten will be dispensed with on the Nipissing division, and other parts on the railway in proportion.

The probable effects of the grain trade of this season on the traffic of the Midland can be estimated by the fact that four long trains of box cars, to return loaded with grain, went north through Lindsay on Tuesday. They will relieve the shipments at Midland and at all points along the line.

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 h is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the dut on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

ECCE SACERDOS MAGNUS!

PETERBOROUGH'S FIRST BISHOP.

Installation of Bishop Jamot.

The Ceremony of Consecration—The Enthronement—The Kiss of Peace—The Act of Fealty—Presentation of Addresses—The Banquet—The Greeting of the Congregation of Notre Dame—Short Sketch of the New Prelate—His first act.—He visits the Schools.

THURSDAY, September 21st, 1882, the festival of St. Matthew was a day to be "marked with a white stone" by the Roman Catholic community of Peterborough and its ecclesiastical environs, constituting the newly created See of Peterborough, for on that day the first Bishop of Peterborough was duly installed in the holy office and was enthroned in the episcopal chair in the now Cathedral Church of St. Peter. The splendid enthusiasm of the reception, amounting to nothing less than a prolonged ovation, cannot but be most gratifying to the new prelate, and a happy augury of the success of his rule over his new flock.

THE NEW DIOCESE

was erected by a recent Papal Bull, and is composed of territory formerly forming a part of the diocese of Kingston and comprises the old missionary diocese of Northern Ontario, and the counties of Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and the town of Peterborough, the honored seat of the Episcopal See.

The parishes comprising the diocese with their pastors are as follows:

Peterborough, Father Lynch.
Douro, Father O'Connell.
Ennismore, Father Keilty.
Lindsay, Father Stafford.
Emily, Father Connolly.
Fenelon Falls, Father McEvoy.
Port Hope, Father Brown.
Cobourg, Father Murray.
Grafton, Father Larkin.
Hastings, Father Quirk.
Campbellford, Father Casey, together with his lordship's old vicariate of Northern Canada.

THE ADVENT

of the Episcopal party from Toronto had been expected at twelve o'clock, but owing to detentions on the Grand Trunk it was nearly two hours later when the train bearing the party made its appearance. A reception committee composed of the following gentlemen had gone to Port Hope in the morning to form an escort to Peterborough: Rev. Father Lynch, Messrs. Thos. Dolan, Councillors T. Kelly and T. Cahill, John Garvey, Dr. O'Sullivan, J. Hackett, R. W. Muncaster, Cornelius McGrath, Edward Phelan, John Delaney, J. Doherty, Bernard Morrow, H. LeBrun and John Sullivan. An immense throng had assembled at the station awaiting the arrival of the train, which at length steamed in and the enthusiastic cheers given for His Grace the Archbishop of Toronto and Mgr. Jamot were an earnest of the filial loyalty of the assembled multitude. The party that alighted from the train consisted of His Grace Archbishop Lynch, His Lordship Bishop Jamot, Right Rev. Bishop O'Mahoney, Toronto, Bishop of Eudocia, in partibus infidelium; Bishop Cleary, Kingston; Mgr. Farrelly, Belleville, Domestic Prelate to His Holiness; Very Rev. Vicar-General Rooney, of Toronto; Very Rev. Vicar-General Laurent, Toronto; Very Rev. Vicar-General Vincent, St. Michael's College, Toronto; Very Rev. Dean Mulligan, St. Catharines; Very Rev. Dean O'Connor, Barrie; Rev. J. J. McCann, P. P., Brocton; Rev. J. Grim, C.S.S.R., St Patrick's, Toronto; Rev. J. Coffee, London; Rev. T. Lebourcau, Penetanguishene; Rev. Chalandard, O.S.B., St. Michael's College, Toronto; Rev. C. J. O'Hogarty, St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto; Rev. F. O'Loane, Father McEntee, Father Roach, Oshawa; Father Brown, Port Hope; Father Brennan, Picton; Father Quirk, Hastings; Father Larken, Grafton; Father Murray, Cobourg; Father Casey, Campbellford; Father O'Connell, Douro; Father Keilty, Ennismore; Father Connolly, Emily; Father Stafford, Lindsay; Father Fleming, Madoc; Father McEvoy, Fenelon Falls; Father Ray of Mara and the members of the deputation. Among the laity from Port Hope who accompanied the clergy to do honour to the new Bishop were Messrs. James O'Neil, Peter McCabe, Peter Walsh, John Loudon, Garrett Fallon, Joseph Lavigne, Edward Boyle, James Christopher, Michael Connors and Martin Griffin.

The party at once entered carriages and was formed, headed by the splendid band of the 57th Battalion, all Protestants, followed by the reception committee on foot and about a dozen carriages containing the visiting clergy, His Lordship, Bishop Jamot, closing the cortege, seated in a carriage drawn by four white horses. The procession passed down Charlotte street to George street, up George street to Hunter street, thence by way of that street to the parish house, where the clergy robed in full canonicals and advanced to the church in procession in the following order:—The censer bearer; the cross bearer, between two acolytes; the sanctuary boys; the clergy, two by two; the Bishops and attendants; His Grace, Archbishop Lynch, before whom was carried the Archepiscopal cross; and next Bishop Jamot, under a gorgeous canopy, borne by Messrs. J. Sullivan, J. Delaney, Edward Phelan, and Cornelius McGrath, the Bishop of Peterborough blessing the people with outstretched hands, as the solemn procession passed by. In front of the Church triple archways had been erected, composed of evergreens; over the central and loftiest one a banner was stretched, with the legend, "Long and happy be thy reign." The interior of the church was beautifully yet simply decorated, the work of the willing hands of the good sisters of the Congregation de Notre Dame. Near the doors, the central space was spanned by two evergreen arches, and spiral bands of evergreen twined about the pillars supporting the galleries. The altar was profusely beautified with flowers, and a blaze of light from hundreds of tapers. The church was thronged to overflowing, the attendance being largely Protestant. The Episcopal Throne was erected on the left hand side of the altar, under a crimson canopy, lustrous with the sheen of golden ornamentation. At the church entrance the Bishop was received officially by Rev. Father Lynch, who presented him the crucifix, which he kissed reverently. He then took the Asperges, sprinkled himself with holy water, and presented it to the Archbishop and Bishops. He afterwards sprinkled the priests and people. He next filled the censer with incense, when the priest advanced and used it on the Bishop. The clergy then intoned the Ecce Sacerdos Magnus, and the procession proceeded to and surrounded the sanctuary. The sight of the altar thus environed was a splendid and awe-inspiring one. The snowy garments of the sanctuary youth, acolytes and minor clergy, mingling with the violet robes of the higher dignitaries, the glittering vestments of the Archbishop and Bishops, heavy with their opulent woof of thread of gold, the holy altar a mound of light spangled with flowers, the expectant throng of faithful, and the lofty church with its garniture of green, overarching and inclosing all, formed a scene at once so magnificent and solemn, as not soon to be forgotten.

The Bishop knelt in prayer for a short space. The Archbishop next intoned the Te Deum, and went to the epistle side of the altar, at the conclusion of the Te Deum, turning toward the Bishop kneeling and chanting:—

V. Protector noster aspice Deus.
R. Et respice in faciem Christi tui.

The Archbishop prefaced the installation services with allusion to the Bulls of His Holiness, erecting the See of Peterborough and appointing Dr. Jamot its first Bishop, adding that it would be superfluous to praise the selection made by the Holy Father, since he always chooses the fittest.

BISHOP CLEARY'S ADDRESS.

Before resigning the crozier of the diocese, Bishop Cleary addressed a few words on the important event of the day, so intimately connected with the salvation of the people and one of the most solemn exhibitions of the organization of the church, the Kingdom foretold by the Prophet Daniel. He then referred in eloquent words to the wide spread existence of the church on which the sun never set. The keys of the Kingdom had been given to Peter, and as his successor, the Pope's acts were ratified in Heaven. Leo XIII sent his Papal Bull and he reverently kissed the page bearing his name, although the mandate deprived him (Bishop C.) of four of the fairest counties of his diocese. He acknowledged the Pope's command and transferred all his authority to his successor in cheerful obedience, for Bishop Jamot would look after the interests of the diocese better than he, so far removed, could do. He severed his Episcopal connection with the diocese with deep regret, for the relations with the people had always been most agreeable. He recounted that in 1819 the See of Kingston composed the whole of Ontario, and the clergy consisted of a bishop and three priests. Now there were seven bishops, and nearly three hundred priests. In reiterating his regret at parting with the diocese, Bishop Cleary said that he gave it up to Bishop Jamot, confidently propheasying that he would find a body of most active, intelligent and pious clergy and people. He resigned it as a catholic, as a priest, as a bishop, with cheerful obedience.

Bishop Cleary then transferred his crozier to Bishop Jamot, with a brief congratulatory address.

The Bull of His Holiness, appointing the new Bishop, was then read in Latin by Rev. Father Brown, of Port Hope, and Bishop Jamot was conducted to the throne by Archbishop Lynch and Bishop Cleary, and received the kiss of peace from them and Bishop Maloney. The clergy of the diocese performed the act of fealty and profession of obedience, by kissing the episcopal ring.

While thus engaged, the choir, which performed the choral services throughout in a most creditable manner, sang the hymn Se Nascens, Miss Allie Delaney taking the soprano solo, and Mr. Geo. Ball the tenor, both acquitting themselves in a manner worthy of the warmest approbation. The very efficient choir of St. Peter's Church is composed of Misses Delaney, (organist) Bigley, Dunn, Hurley, McFadden, Lynch, and Williams; and Messrs. T. McFadden, and George and W. Ball.

The clergy having concluded their profession of submission, the Bishop gave his benediction to the people.

Father Stafford, of Lindsay, presented a congratulatory address on behalf of the clergy.

Bishop Jamot thanked them for the kind sentiments expressed therein, and accepted the burden laid on him with all humility. He might not do much, but he hoped that with their assistance much good might be done. The kind words said to him, and his cordial reception already made him feel at home.

ADDRESS FROM THE CONGREGATION.

Dr. O'Sullivan, on behalf of the congregation, read the following:—

Address from the Congregation of St. Peter's Church to the Rt. Rev. Dr. John Francis Jamot, Bishop of Peterborough:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP.—The Holy See, with its ever-watchful solicitude to keep pace with the growth and prosperity of our Holy Church, having determined to remodel the Diocese of Northern Canada and establish thereupon a new diocese, we received with delight the intelligence that our prosperous town had been selected the metropolis thereof; and the same Holy See with a thorough knowledge of your learning piety, self-denial, and administrative ability, having chosen you as its first ruler, we, the Catholics of Peterborough, hail your advent amongst us with feelings of unmingled joy, and beg most respectfully to tender to your Lordship the strongest expression of filial love and dutiful attachment, and of our warmest welcome to this your future home.

Though most retiring and unobtrusive, your life is not entirely unknown, as we know that it is now thirty years since by apostolic zeal and missionary spirit you determined to minister to the wants of our distant Canada, bidding a long farewell to beautiful Auvergne, your native home in the cradle of science, sociality and sobriety—sunny France—whose skies have afforded to many of our forefathers that life, learning and liberty denied them at home, calling on your way hither on the same island home to reciprocate as it were the kindly feelings—a beautiful omen a happy augury of the amicable blending of all nationalities under your benign influences or judicious reign in your new diocese in this free and happy land.

The archives of the archdiocese of Toronto, during the episcopate of the present illustrious Archbishop, as that of his predecessor, will furnish many monuments of your wise foresight and untiring zeal, while the ringing sound of the back-woodman's axe and the curling smoke of the Indian's wigwam are contemporary with your noble devotion to the poor scattered settlers in Canadian wilds. And coming to us endowed with all the learning and attainments of the Christian scholar, and abounding in the gentleness, piety, and wisdom that adorn the episcopal character, we expect with confidence, every happiness and spiritual good from Your Lordship's kind counsel and wise rule.

The people of Peterboro' of all denominations, will be glad to receive as a fellow-citizen, one so distinguished as your Lordship, ever ready to promote harmony, and advance the material prosperity of our town and country; and we feel assured that you will find in him, who has been to us a kind father and faithful friend, an able assistant, always ready and willing to second your efforts in the cause of religion and charitable relationship. Nor can we allow this occasion to pass without expressing the great obligations we owe him who has so long and devotedly ministered to our wants, and were it not for the fond hope we cherish, that our good pastor, Father Lynch, will spend the remainder of his life in our midst our joy to-day would not be unmingled with grief. Neither can we refrain from admitting that our cup of pleasure is not unalloyed with a feeling of sadness, in finding ourselves separated from the venerable See of Kingston, the parent and pioneer diocese of Ontario, at a time, too, when its destinies are ruled over by a prelate, whose great learning, simple piety, and wise judgment have already shed lustre on the hierarchy of Canada.

Finally we assure you of cordial support in your work, willing obedience to your decrees, and a determined resolution to aid, by every means in our power, in rendering the life of him whose noble brow will bear Peterboro's first mitre, happy and prosperous—a model and example for future generations

ADDRESS FROM ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY.

Mr. Thos. Kelly, president, next read the following:—

Address from the Members of St Vincent de Paul Society, Peterborough:—

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP.—We the members of St Vincent de Paul Society, by him, do approach Your Lordship with feelings of unbounded respect, to welcome you to your new home, and to show to Your Lordship that when duty and respect are enjoine dthe children of St. Vincent are in the vanguard.

Of the labour and hardships endured by Your Lordship in the vineyard of the Lord among the poor aborigines we are well informed, of your charity and ennobling qualities we are also cognisant, but shall spare Your Lordship's feelings by a recital thereof.

Your Lordship will readily perceive that our society is in its infancy, barely struggling for existence in consequence of the paucity of its members, but we were cheered and encouraged by his Lordship the Right Rev. Bishop Cleary, who bestowed his blessing upon us, and very kindly allowed his name to be placed on our records as an honorary member to our society, and also by the fatherly care and pecuniary aid rendered us by our kind and worthy pastor, Rev. Father Lynch, whose purse was our purse in relieving the wants of the poor. It is but a short time since we tendered your predecessor, a worthy prince of the Church, who hailed from dear old Ireland, a hundred thousand welcomes in old Irish style. You will pardon us if we take this our first occasion to express sorrow at the loss of one so dearly loved. The love which we bear your predecessor, will not lessen in the least that which shall bind us to your lordship, nor shall your welcome be the less zealous. We pray that kind Providence may spare you to live amongst us to point out the path we should follow in order to merit the name of children of St. Vincent. In conclusion we solicit your lordship's name as an honorary member of our society, and humbly beg your lordship's blessing.

Signed on behalf of the Society.

THOMAS KELLY, President.
D. SULLIVAN, Secretary.

Peterborough, Sept. 21st, 1882.

The Bishop briefly replied to the addresses. He characterized their sentiments as those of good Catholics. The people of Peterborough bore the reputation of being law-abiding citizens, Catholic and Protestant alike and it would be his aim to perpetuate this desirable condition. He referred briefly to the work done by former pastors of St. Peter's, especially giving prominence to those of Father Kelly and Father Lynch, the latter of whom had the gratification of seeing his church become a Cathedral and his parish give a name to a new See. He closed by asking the assistance of the prayers of his flock.

The procession reformed as at first, and returned to the parish house.

THE BANQUET.

About four o'clock a large company including the church dignitaries and priests and other guests of different denominations assembled at the Oriental Hotel, to attend the grand complimentary banquet to the new prelate. Dr. O'Sullivan occupied the chair, and on his right sat the guest of the evening, Right Reverend Dr. John Francis Jamot, Bishop of Peterborough, and on his left, His Grace Archbishop Lynch of Toronto. Rev. Father Lynch, pastor of St. Peter's Church, occupied the vice-chair. Among other guests present were, Bishop Cleary of Kingston, Bishop Mahony of Toronto, Mgr. Farrelly of Belleville, Vicar-General of Kingston, Vicar-General Laurent of Toronto, Chancellor McCann, Rev. Coffee, Dean O'Connor of Barrie, Dean Mulligan of St. Catharines, Dr. Kincaid M.P.P., Fathers Stafford, Lindsay, Keilty, Ennismore, O'Connell, Douro, Quirk, Hastings, Campbell, Orillia, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Judge Dennistoun, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, St. Luke's, Ashburnham, Mr. D. G. Hatton, P.M., Dr. O'Shea, J. O'Meara, W. Cluxton, A. White; H. H. Smith, Mayor; J. O'Neil, Port Hope; Father Casey, Campbellford; Father Murray, Cobourg; Father O'Loane, Oshawa; Father Brennan, Picton; etc., etc.

The spacious dining hall was magnificently decorated for the occasion; streamers of red, white and blue bunting drooped from the ceilings in graceful festoons; evergreens artistically disposed, and a profusion of flowers in baskets and bouquets, with the tables glittering with silver and cut glass, under the glowing gasaliers made the scene a beautiful one. The tables were laid with a neatness and "style" that would have been a credit to a city dining room on a similar occasion and the completeness of the menu and the elegance, promptitude and ease with which the various courses were served spoke volumes in favor of the organization of the cuisine of the Oriental under Mr. McIntyre's management. In fine everything was en regle, and it is safe to assert that a more splendid banquet in all its appointments and details never burdened the tables of the house. Some idea may be formed from the following copy of the MENU.

PETEBBOROUGH, SEPT. 28, 1882

Notes of the Day.

THE Mail calls the members of the Ontario Government, "a set of imbeciles," and the Telegram rather pertinently points out that these same imbeciles have been twice preferred by the electors to Messrs Meredith Lauder & Co.

THE British Government has, decided to strike a medal, as a distinguishing badge of honor to be worn by the soldiers who took part in the Egyptain campaign. The medal will be of silver and will bear on one side the head of the Queen and on the obverse, a pyramid surmounted by a crown royal. The ribbon will be green and bordered with white.

ONE CAN hardly give credence to the amount said to have already been spent in the preparations for the coronation of the Czar of Russia, which to-day seems as far off as it did a year ago. The cost of preparations include those made to secure the safety of the emperor and his family, and amount to the fabulous sum of twenty-five millions.

THE WHISTLING of locomotives has become such an intolerable nuisance in Rhode Island that the state-commissioner of railways has issued a circular to all railway superintendents, urging on them the necessity of putting a stop to the annoying practice, and asking them to issue orders that no whistling shall be done by locomotives except as signals in cases of danger.

THE CONSUMPTION OF COFFEE has increased in a remarkable manner during the past few years. Twenty-five years ago the crop of coffee of 338,000 tons was amply sufficient for the wants of the world, but now a crop of 590,000 tons is readily consumed. The United States consume the most coffee and Brazil produces the most, her annual product being 280,000 tons, nearly half as much as the rest of the world put together.

IT IS generally believed that the invention of the decimal system was due to Margo, La Place and Condorcet, but it appears that the savages of the Solomon Isles anticipated the scientists, by hundreds of years. Among these aboriginals the unit adopted is a cocoanut. Ten cocoanuts make one string of pearl oysters, ten strings of pearl oysters make one pair of sea lion tusks, ten pairs of sea lion tusks make one "isa," which is equivalent to fifty whale bones.

A GHASTLY BANQUET was recently given by a Philadelphia undertaker. The invitations were printed on mourning paper whose dismal appearance was made hideous by a conspicuous cut of the skull and cross bones. The dining room was draped in funereal black and lighted by wax tapers. The table had the form of a bier. The table cloth and napkins were bordered with black. The ices were cast in coffin shaped moulds and a platter of potatoes was arranged to represent a cemetery.

A COMPETENT authority asserts that out of nearly three hundred colonization companies formed for the purpose of taking up land in the Northwest, only seventeen have been able to meet their payments. This result will considerably dampen the ardor with which speculomanic individuals have rushed into the formation of these corporations. Another thing that will go far to put a stop to this wild speculation is the asserted fact that the government has not dealt fairly by many of the companies. The government insisted on payment, of money by the companies although it was unable to give a deed of the land.

THE ACCIDENTS and injuries caused by lightning in Germany are continuously on the increase. Dr. Holtz has compiled a curious statistical table showing the number of houses struck per million of inhabitants during two periods of three years each for twenty years. In the five districts of Brandenburg, Posen, Pomerania, Westphalea and the city of Berlin, from 1854 to 1857 the total number of buildings struck by lightning was 439. In the same localities from 1874 to 1877, the total number was 1,143. The principal causes to which this astonishing increase is attributed are the destruction and removal of the forests and the angular projections of modern buildings.

The Dominion Oddfellow is a well conducted and valuable society journal, but its career of usefulness will be speedily cut short if the attempt to introduce politics into its management is continued. In a recent issue a paragraph appeared of a strongly partizan political character, and which was read with great regret by those who value the journal as an exponent of the principles of Oddfellowship. The surest and speediest way to destroy the usefulness of an Oddfellows lodge would be to introduce politics at its meetings, and the gist of the same remarks apply to an organ of the Order.

THE RETURN of proceedings under the Irish Land Act up to the thirty-first day of July, 1882, has been issued from the office of the land commission and it appears to confirm Mr. Gladstone's confident anticipation of the success of his great work of legislation. So far as can be seen the great work is proceeding at the measured rate of progress characteristic of all great movements. Out of 79,455 applications to have fair rent fixed, only 11,352 have been decided by the assessment of a judicial rent, and of these 2,070 are the subject of appeals of which only 870 have been heard. The applications withdrawn, struck off and dismissed are 3,393 thus reducing the number of cases still pending to 64,510.

The Toronto World, whose independence is coloured by its uncompromising National Policy tenets, does not criticise the Tories unless the delinquency is very glaring. In alluding to the interference of Dominion Ministers in Ontario politics this journal says that "Sir John Macdonald, Sir Leonard Tilley and Hon. John Costigan might be engaged in better business than dabbling in the politics of the province of Ontario. The maritime people would not like to have Dominion Ministers from Ontario interfering in their local affairs: nor would the British Columbians. The next thing we shall have the Mousseaus and the Langevins coming up to Toronto and telling the people of Ontario they don't know how to run their own province, and that they will be only to happy to show them how to do it."

In the middle of May last, John McRae, of Upper Bonlarderie, Nova Scotia, an elder in the Presbyterian Church, disappeared, and nothing could be ascertained of his whereabouts until a few days ago, when his dead body was found in a thick grove, about nine miles from his residence. A rope attached to the limb of a tree indicated that he committed suicide by hanging.

Death in the Toadstool.

Mrs. Curdy, who lives in French Creek township, near Buffalo, went out to gather mushrooms a few days ago, accompanied by her two daughters and a lad named Fleikner. They must have gathered a quantity of poisonous fungi at the same time, as after partaking of the mushrooms at dinner, they were all seized with violent cramps, and the younger of the girls and young Fleikner died.

A Remarkable Case.

W. A. Edgers, of Frankville, suffered from a disease of the Liver and Kidneys, that brought him so low that his life was despaired of; he lay for ten and thirteen days without an operation of the bowels; after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters he was enabled to leave his bed and drive out, three bottles more completed a cure, and he says that he is now a better man than he has been for twenty years. 38-2t

Hydrophobia Six Years After the Bite.

The Rev. J. C. Meek, pastor of the Presbyterian congregation of Upper Stewiacke East, near Halifax died on Friday night after twelve hours' terrible suffering. On Friday he was suddenly seized with violent convulsions, which resulted in death as stated. At times the paroxysms were so violent that it required six men to hold him in bed. He was bitten by a mad dog some six years ago, and hence his death is attributed to hydrophobia. He was about 36 years of age, a zealous pastor, a warm friend and much endeared to his congregation.

This story of a strange practice is told of a Kansas lawyer; The law requires that a person must be 21 years old before he can pre-empt land. When one comes in to ask if he can evade this law, and have his boys, who lack some years of being 21, "prove up" some land, the attorney smiles serenely and says, "Of course, certainly; it is the easiest thing in the world!" And when the time comes to make out the papers the attorney marks with a piece of chalk on the floor, "21 years old." He places the affiant on the floor, standing on these words, and has him swear that he is "over 21 years old."

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter, so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (65)

IN MEMORIAM

OF MRS. DR. BURNS, TORONTO.

"Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all."—BIBLE.

(Written for the EXAMINER.)

We bless the Lord who gave and took,
We bless Him for her life so fraught
With kindly ministry, and for
The great things that her faith hath wrought.
All closed her eye, though lingers yet,
Th' effulgence of its love-lit beams;
As sunset rays a halo leave,
Of softly fading mellowed gleams.

All mute her voice, but only to
The outward ear, the pleasant thrill,
And soul-enchanting cadences,
Of gentle tones, wafted as will
Vibrate responses for long years;
Yea, all that made her presence dear.
Will be a sacred treasure kept
In loving memories sincere.

All still her beaming features now,
All smileless, too, her radiant face,
Illumined by th' indwelling of
The spirit's purifying grace.
Such beauty time can ne'er destroy;
It's angel-touched seraphic glow
In blissful benediction shall Around us ever ceaseless flow.

As he who deals in fragrant spice
Bears with him everywhere the fine
Aroma of its perfume, so
Enjoying constantly Divine
Companionship, her spirit breathed
Celestial airs, that sweetly spread
Ambrosial odors on the blest
Inspiring influence she shed.

Her spirit quiet, loving, meek,
Adorned Christ's doctrine everywhere.
While culture and refinement lent
Its genial charms to talents rare,
Betokening a soul that beat,
In sweet accord with Him who is
The author of perfection and
The source of peace and happiness.

Full many a hopeless one she cheered,
With hope within the veil revealed;
With balm-infusing words she sooth'd,
And many a sad, soul-sorrow healed.
Full oft her fervid zeal aroused
Th' emotions of full sympathy,
Benignly flowing out in deeds,
Of pure, benev'lent charity.

Boundless her field of usefulness,
Far-reaching over land and sea;
Her fervent intercessions were
That near and distant lands might be Filled with the glory of the Lord,
And souls from many lands shall rise
To call her blessed and to praise
God for her teachings in the skies.

The promptings to a 'bettter life,'
Her love evoked will yet unfold
Each virtuous grace, and at the last
Enriched fruition manifold,
Her bland endearments happified,
And self renounced devotion made.
Her home a miniature of Heaven,
For hers were joys that never fade.

God's glory was her only aim,
His love her holy life imbued.
He called, her spirit gently passed,
To realms of bright beatitude.
E'en as she followed Jesus, and Lost sinners sought to him to bring;
Be ours to win souls to bedeck
The crown of our beloved King.

WHEAT IN THE WAHLAMET VALLEY, OREGON.

All the cereals are raised here, but you will see little of anything except wheat, which for half a century has made Oregon famous. In 1831, it is related, the first wheat was sowed at French Prairie, in Marion county; and that same field yielded thirty-five bushels to the acre in 1879. Rich land that, but equalled in many parts of the western valleys, where the soil is a dark loam, underlaid by clay. The richest acres of course, lie along the wooded river-bottoms, in many of which may be traced extensive beaver dams. The beavers have long ago departed, but their occupation, by making broad reaches of still water, overflowing the lowlands and permitting wide deposits of alluvium, has produced a soil of extraordinary fertility.

Of wheat, the yield to the acre runs from twenty to thirty-five or more bushels, full and heavy grain, often exceeding by five to nine pounds the standard weight of sixty pounds to the bushel. "Land summer-fallowed and fall sowed is certain to produce twenty five bushels as a minimum yield. In some parts of this valley [the Wahlamet], where the fields have been cropped continuously for a quarter of a century, they still produce enormously, thus demonstrating the great strenth and permanent qualities of the soil. The wheat of this region is a plump, full berry, from which flour of uncommon whiteness is made. Its excellence in this respect is so fully recognised, that in the English markets it commands a premium of from three to five cents over the best produced in California. Many varieties of wheat are cultivated. The old white winter wheat, originally introduced by the Hudson Bay Company, is excellent in quality, and still retains its hold on the people. White velvet wheat is certainly as good, and perhaps more productive. Spring varieties of white wheat, as Chili Club, Little Club, Australian, and others are well liked and give good crops. The peculiarites of the soil in the various counties mainly determine, however, the kind of wheat which is used for seed in different localities."

The surplus yield of wheat at present is about 150,000 tons annually in Western Oregon—more than two thirds of the crop of the whole State. This amount represents about 5,000,000 bushels much of which was converted into flour here. This year tho acreage and crop will be a little larger. There is at every little railway station a great warehouse, to which the farmer brings his wheat for sale as fast as it is threshed. This obviates the need of barns; and you will see very few of these structures in Oregon, except stables used for live stock. All the wheat thus gathered in the country warehouses finds its way before the winter is over to the wharves at Portland, the railway charging a uniform freight rate from all points. At Portland vessels are loaded, and the grain or flour starts on its long voyage around the Horn. "Neither mildew nor rust has appeared to any great extent, and no failure of the wheat crop has been known since the settlement of the country. Owing to the dry summers, the wheat is not affected by the long sea voyage to Great Britain, whither most of it is exported, and by the double passage through the tropics incidental to its transportation.

Care of Fowls.

Poultry houses should be well whitewashed, and also sprinkled frequently with carbolic acid; size should be mixed with the whitewash, as it then fills up he crevices and minute interstices better, and does not easily rub off. Coops should also be washed over in the same way. The dust baths in summer require to be changed more frequently. In cold weather the various fowl parasites do not flourish so much or increase so rapidly, and therefore the places will not want so much attention. Fowls will never do well unless they are kept perfectly clean; they will keep themselves so if they are only given the proper requisites, and surely if they are profitable and useful to us we need not mind a little trouble taken on their behalf.

Don't Die in the House.

"Rough on Rats," clears out rats, mice, roaches, bed-bugs, flies, ants, moles, chipmunks, gophers. 15c.

REMEMBER THIS.

If you are sick Hop Bitters will surely aid Nature in making you well when all else fails.

If you are costive or dyspeptic, or are suffering from any other of the numerous diseases of the stomach or bowels, it is your own fault if you remain ill, for Hop Bitters are a sovereign remedy in all such complaints.

If you are wasting away with any form of Kidney disease, stop tempting Death this moment, and turn for a cure to Hop Bitters.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness Nervousness, you will find a "Balm in Gilead" in the use of Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter, or a resident of a miasmatic district, barricade your system against the scourge of all countries—malarial, epidemic, bilious, and intermittent fevers—by the use of Hop Bitters.

If you have rough, pimply, or sallow skin, bad breath, pains and aches, and feel miserable generally, Hop Bitters will give you fair skin, rich blood, and sweetest breath, health, and comfort.

In short they cure all Diseases of the stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Nerves, Kidneys, Bright's Disease. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

The poor, bedridden, invalid wife, sister mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health, by a few bottles of Hop Bitters, costing but a trifle. Will you let them suffer? 38-4ins

HEALTH ITEM.

About a year ago the smallpox prevailed to some extent in Austin, and there were great apprehensions at the time of the dread disease becoming epidemic. It was during this excitement that a sad-eyed colored man entered a pawnbroker arena on Austin Avenue with a blanket under his arm, which he offered as collateral security for a temporary loan of a dollar. The contracting parties disagreed on financial issues, the pawnbroker asserting, with considerable positiveness, that he was inviting financial ruin to take possession of him if he advanced more than a slick quarter on the blanket, while the negro stated if the times were not so panicky, five dollars would be no inducement for him to part with the blanket.

"Why you are out of your mind," said the pawnbroker, running his arm through a hole in the blanket. "It was not worth three dollars when it was new."

"I know dat, boss, but I hates to part wid dat blanket on account ob de tender recolleshuns connected wid it."

"Eh?" exclaimed the alarmed pawnbroker.

A pearly drop ran down the dusky nose, and as he tried to swallow a big lump the colored man said, "Dat blanket belonged to my wife's mudder, who died yesterday wid de smallpoxes, but yer can hab it fer a quarter."

People wonder why the colored man with a blanket came out of the shop in haste, as if fired out of a cannon, but he knew why. He had to get a good start, so as to beat a load of buckshot, with which the pawnbroker was preparing to vaccinate him.

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa. catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. D. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma; cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of Mrs. DENOIT, 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

Mrs. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spircmeter will cure catarrh and bronchitis, JOHN C. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montteal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free at the office. 25

A $30.00 Biblical Reward.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer ten valuable rewards in their Monthly for October, among which is the following:

We will give $20.00 in gold to the person telling us which verse in the Old Testament Scriptures contains the greatest number of words by October 10th, 1882. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner, October 15th, 1882. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents, in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer, for which they will receive the November Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20.00 to you; cut it out. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Easton, Penna.

The recent meeting of the British Association at Southampton was attended by 1,253 members, of whom 189 were ladies and 21 were foreign members.

THE GREAT RIVERS OF THE WORLD.

The River Amazon is the greatest volume of water flowing through any country in the world; but it is only 3,000 miles long. The Mississippi from Lake Itaska to its junction with the Missouri is 2,616 miles long. From that point to the Gulf is 1,285 miles, a total of 3,902 miles. The Missouri runs 2,906 miles to join the Mississippi. To the sacred river, the Nile, must be given the credit of running through the greatest stretch of country. It is navigable as far as the district of Fazogle, about 1,500 miles from the Mediterranean. Its approximate length throughout all its windings, from the limit of steam navigation above Gondokoro is 3,000 miles. The additional length to Lake Albert N'Yanza can scarcely be less than 200 miles, and consequently, the river traverses a distance of 4,700 miles or 506 more than the Missouri and lower Mississippi.

FARMERS SHOULD KEEP ACCOUNTS.

The close of the year is the time to post books and square accounts. Every shrewd business man is careful to do this in order to ascertain the state of his affairs, and whether profit or loss has resulted from the year's transactions. And what the merchant, manufacturer or other business man does in this regard should be done by the agriculturist. As a rule, the farmer who keeps an account of all his transactions is successful in his operations. He not only knows the exact state of his financial affairs, but is fully advised as to the condition and value of his crops, live stock, and farm implements and machinery. By carefully noting down the cost of each crop and the receipts therefrom, he is enabled to decide as to the profit or loss, and to ascertain where he has made mistakes in judgment or management.

ACTION OF LIME ON THE SOIL.

Lime, as it comes from the kiln, is known as caustic or quicklime, the heat having expelled the carbonic acid gas of the carbonate of lime or limestone. Upon exposure to the air and moisture this caustic lime absorbs water and carbonic acid gas, and again returns to the carbonate. During this reversion it decomposes vegetable matter, and sets the elements of plant food free. It is in this power to prepare food for the growing crop from the vegetable matter in the soil that the chief value of lime resides. The greater the percentage of lime that is in the caustic state, the more valuable it is for this work. The quicker the lime can be applied after burning, the better.—American Agriculturist.

MR. HIGGINS AND THE SQUAW.

When the press association was at Selkirk just as the boat was about leaving the wharf a squaw, who had evidently seen seventy or eighty winters, appeared on the scene and proceeded to dance for the amusement of the crowd. Some one called for the Red River jig from the musicians, and then she demanded a partner. Several were tried but they could not shake down to her satisfaction, until Mr. Higgins, of the Whitby Chronicle, was persuaded to take the floor. But far advanced in years though she was, she trotted and swung Mr. Higgins around at such a rate that he had to cry quits before she was ready to finish.

THE FORCE OF COMBINATION.

A grain of coffee, like a snow flake or a grasshopper, counts for little in the world's affairs, when considered singly. But many snowflakes blockade the best organized railways, and many grasshoppers lay a whole country under tribute. So many coffee-berries have a power of their own. The Pacific Mail steamship Salvador, loaded with coffee, sprang a leak in a Costa Rica port, last week. The coffee in the hold swelled, forced up the deck, broke stanchions, beams, braces and knees, and effectually completed the wreck of the ship.

Electricity and Magnetism when properly passed into the blood, brain and nerves produces the most wonderful effects. We are told that these elements are properly blended in the medicine known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine, advertised in another column, and the good which has resulted from its use cannot be computed in dollars and cents. 38-2t

PETERBOROUGH, SEPT. 28, 1882.

The By Elections.

There will be held on the eighteenth of October, eight elections, the vacant seats in the Ontario Legislature, made so by the members resigning to become candidates in the Dominion elections. The political complexion of these seats was as follows: Five were held by Reformers, namely, South Bruce, Muskoka, North Renfrew, East Simcoe and South Waterloo. Three were held by Tories—South Bruce, Glengarry and West Hastings. In South Essex, Muskoka, North Renfrew, South Bruce, Reform candidates are in the field with every prospect of victory.

The Late Lewis Ross.

The sudden death of Lewis Ross, Esq., ex-M. P., which we briefly noted in our last issue, was caused by congestion of the lungs, and was a terrible blow to his family and the community in which he was so greatly respected and honored. He was born in Scotland 58 years ago. He was a prominent and useful citizen and filled successively, almost every municipal office, and represented East Durham in the Commons from '72 to '78. He was a sterling Reformer and his death is a great loss, not only to his party, but the public at large. His funeral, which took place last Friday, was attended by all the local corporations, the schools, and the railway officials.

Slightly Inconsistent.

The Review has been greatly agitated by the withholding of the writs for the by-elections to the vacancies in the Ontario Legislature, claiming that the constituents are grievously defrauded by being unrepresented. But it has not one word of reprobation for Sir John McDonald's leaving two constituencies without a member to which they can lay claim, much less be proud of, for till Sir John decides, or the election court for him, both Carletou and Lennox are practically vacant. But perhaps Sir John is able to fill two seats as he thinks he is able to control the affairs of two governments. If the Review were consistent it would give "the Chieftain" a terrible drubbing. If the Review were honest it would certainly disapprove, respectfully but firmly of the injustice which, according to its mode of argument respecting the by-elections, either Carleton or Lennox is suffering. "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the other entity of the pair, but our cotem. evidently feels that what would be sauce for Mr Mowat would be unadulterated impudence and sacrilegious blasphemy for the "clean-handed" purist and prodigal-son-temperance advocate, Sir John McDonald.

COBOURG CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

Relishes and Sundries.—Sliced Tomatoes, Spanish Olives, Cucumbers, Celery, Radishes.

Pastry.—Plum Pudding and Brandy Sauce, Oriental Pudding with Cream, Charlotte Russe Pudding, Lemon Pie, Apple Pie, Peach Pie, Plum Tart, Blanc Mange.

Dessert.—Fruit Cake, Silver Cake, Lady Fingers, Ginger Snaps, Macaroons, Lemon Ice Cream, Vanilla Ice Cream, Rum Jelly Champagne Jelly, Cherry Wine Jelly, Assorted Nuts, Layer Raisins, Apples, oranges, Pears, Grapes, Peaches, Figs, Watermelons, Crakers and Cheese, English Breakfast Tea, French Coffee with Cream.

On the removal of the cloth the chairman said that owing to the lateness of the hour the toast list would have to be abbreviated, and that as this was a church dinner he would vary the usual order and propose first the health of His Holiness the Pope, to which His Grace Archbishop Lynch responded.

The "Queen and Royal Family," was duly honored, and "God save the Queen" sung.

"The Governor-General of Canada, the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario and the Dominion Parliament and Local Legislature."

Mr. Burnham, M.P., returned thanks for the House of Commons. He considered the advent of the new Bishop an important era in the history of the town, as indicating spiritual and material advancement and they could all welcome the new prelate without jealousy or discord.

Dr. Kincaid, replied briefly on behalf of the Local Legislature, and predicted a prosperous reign for the new Bishop.

THE GUEST OF THE EVENING.

"The guest of the evening, Right Reverend Dr. John Francis Jamot, the Bishop of Peterborough, and the other prelates and guests," was received with great enthusiasm.

The Bishop of Peterborough, returned thanks for the ardent manner in which the toast had been honored, and was greatly gratified with the cordiality of his reception, which had surpassed all his anticipations. He respected the convictions of those who differed with him religiously and from what he had seen was confident of living here in the future in peace and harmony.

Archbishop Lynch replied briefly, excusing himself on the ground that he would be followed by Bishop Cleary, the Cicero of Canada, a compliment which those who have heard the eloquent prelate, will not think extravagant.

Bishop Cleary, while disclaiming title to his Grace's eulogium, said the disintegration of his diocese, suggested the feeling of having lost his right arm, but he believed the change would be for the best. The present gathering was a proof of an advanced degree of civilization, which was after all but a compromise of opinions and tenets. He eloquently described the benefits of civilization, and around him in the mixed gathering he had evidence that the compromise had been made in a manner highly complimentary to the advanced state of civilization of Peterborough. He paid a fine tribute to the benefits of our municipal institutions.

His eloquent and stirring address brought this part of the programme to a close.

THE GREETING OF THE CONGREGATION.

From the banquet, the Archbishop, Bishop Jamot, and other prelates and clergy, drove to the Convent of Notre Dame, where with other guests they received the "joyous greeting of the pupils of the Congregation," to the new Bishop. The hall of the convent was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The archway separating the two rooms that compose the hall, was draped in filmy swathings of tarletan, ornamented with wreaths of maple leaves—green and autumn—and rowan berries. Over the arch a scroll was placed, inscribed, "With gladsome hearts, we greet our Bishop dear." On one side of the arch was placed the banner of the congregation, and one on the other bearing the words, "Erin go Bragh." The piano was flanked by white pillars supporting luxurious pots of begonia. On other parts of the walls were the mottoes: "Welcome to our Convent"; "May angels guard thy steps," "Reign in joy," "Vivat pastor bonus," "Joy fills all hearts," "Fama semper Vivat," "Salvete! iterum Salvete!" —an equivalent of "Cead mille failtha," and most noticeable a large scroll bearing the legend: "La France, la bonne," encircling the words, "Canada le Couranne." The children in the recessed portion of the hall—beyond the arch—in snowy ranks on the rising seats, the remainder also all clad in white, ranged in three concentric semi circles in the auditorium, presented a beautiful and interesting spectacle, heightened in interest as the clerical party advanced, by the tones of the joyous march that greeted their entrance.

The first number on the progamme was the song, "Come to the Feast," in which the solos were admirably sustained by Misses C. Lemay and C. Bingham.

Miss Henry read with excellent elocution an impressive address to the Archbishop of Toronto and other prelates, followed by a song of welcome.

His Grace thanked them warmly for the address, and complimented them on their beautiful singing, and expressed his regret at being compelled to depart, as his train for Toronto was due.

Misses Tierney, Fairweather, Garvey and Morrow repeated an original poetical welcome of much merit to the new bishop, followed by a song of welcome of the little ones.

Misses A. Lech, A. Lynch, on the piano, and Miss Delaney on the organ, rendered in pleasing manner a brilliant galop.

Miss Chattie Wilson and Miss Annie Dunn, rendered in good taste and style the song, "We come with Songs and Flowers." "ably supported" by a very effective chorus.

At the conclusion of the song and as an appropriate practical commentary on it, Miss May Kelly, daughter of Councillor Kelly, very gracefully presented his Lordship, Bishop Jamot, with a handsome bouquet of flowers.

Miss Annie Dunn then read with judicious emphasis, an address to His Lordship, of which the following is the text:—

To His Lordship J. F. Jamot, First Bishop of Peterborough:—

My Lord:—In vain did we endeavor to crush through the ranks of enthusiastic citizens, who this morning saluted your Lordship with clamourous greetings; in vain did we attempt to raise our youthful voices, repeating: "Blessed be he who cometh in the name of the lord;" the sound was but a whisper, unheeded by earth, but borne on angel's pinions to the throne above.

The tumult is hushed. The enraptured people have returned to their homes singing their Nunc dimittis, because they had seen the day when a Bishop's Throne was raised in their humble church of Peterborough; and more, they had beheld their Bishop, who blessed them, took them to his pastoral care, and established his abode with them forever.

Now, your Lordship condescends to lend an ear to the timid but sincere welcome of the little children. Oh! how can we express our heartiest joy for this early and special visit! The confidence and confidence which beam on these young faces plainly testify that your Lordship is not a stranger but that the magnet which so powerfully attracts the Flock of Christ to its Chief Pastor, is already drawing each little one to your paternal heart.

Our inexperienced age knows nothing of the influence which such an event as the establishment of this new Episcopal See is calculated to exercise over the social or moral interests of our city; but we do know and feel that your Lordship has come to be our Father and Guide, and to take our education and welfare under your immediate protection. Fame, too, has been a faithful forerunner. Who has not heard of the missionary labours of Bishop Jamot? The Annals of the Propagation of the Faith have told to the world your Lordship's impartial devotedness to the poor, abandoned settlers on the shores of our great lakes, and the history of the dangers, privations and sufferings to which you cheerfully exposed yourself, in seeking the home of the Wild Indian, in order to bring the light of faith to its savage inmates, forms an interesting tale for the family fireside.

We feel justly proud, not only because the Holy Father has deigned to raise our growing town to the dignity of an Episcopal See but also because he has been pleased to choose for its first Bishop a noble veteran, who, for the salvation of souls, has braved frosts and snows, wild animals and wilder Indians; who has suffered all but death in the fulfilment of his Apostolic mission.

My Lord, we most cordially welcome you to your new home. We rejoice to think that our loved Convent will continue to flourish within the shadow of the new Episcopal Church, and that we will be so frequently excited to the practice of virtue by your Heaven inspired words, and by your Pastoral Blessing, which we now, for the first time, most humbly solicit.

He warmly returned thanks for the address and flowers, and added that it was among his choicest sources of gratification to find in Peterborough an institution such as the one in which they were enjoying such pleasant practical evidences of its fulfilling its mission faithfully. He spoke in high terms of praise of such institutions in the northwest, in his old field of labor. Concluding he called on their former bishop to address them.

Bishop Cleary said it had always been a pleasure for him to visit the children, and he thought most highly of the good sisters, whose functions in the convent exercised so important an influence in moulding the physical, mental and moral characters of the children. He paternally addressed the children, and besought them to profit by the pious example of the good sisters. He urged them to cultivate a spirit of duty—the key-note to success in every walk of life, both in the world and church.

"God Save the Queen" was then rendered on the piano by Misses A. Henry, N. Calcutt, B. Fairweather, and E. Halpin, and Miss Lauder on the organ.

BRIEF ADDRESSES

were then made by several gentlemen, appropriate to the occasion.

Mayor Smith said that he had so often spoke in praise of the entertainments presented by the sisters that at present praise seemed to be superfluous. He was highly gratified at the splendid music to which they had listened, it reflected great credit not only on the pupils but on the nuns, whose skill in teaching was remarkably successful. Owing to the short time at the dinner he had had no opportunity to speak at the banquet and to welcome the new Bishop to Peterborough, he congratulated him on his appointment, which was also a matter of congratulation to the town. He expressed his regret at losing Bishop Cleary whose scholarly abilities and eloquence were of a high order.

Mr. E. J. Toker referred to the excellent training given by the sisters and congratulated the Bishop on his elevation.

Mr. James Stratton, Inspector of schools, Peterborough, referred to the thoroughness of the teaching of the nuns of the Congregation and complimented them on the zeal displayed. He could bear testimony to the value of the secular instruction imparted for it had come officially under his notice that at the examinations, pupils trained here had acquitted themselves creditably. He proceeded to elaborate an idea suggested by Bishop Cleary as to the importance of the pupils cultivating a spirit of duty and the teaching of the sisterhood would have an effect far wider than the sphere in which it was given. The people of Canada, were as it were nomadic, and pupils emerging from the schools and mixing with the people in different parts of the country would re-act beneficially on those with whom they came in contact and thus their moral, mental and social training would exercise a wide spread influence for good. He enjoined the pupils to cultivate a spirit of duty and to heed the teachings of the sisters who so nobly and earnestly fulfilled the duties of the position to which they believed God had called them.

Mr. W. Cluxton had high praise for the musical instruction imparted at the convent. As to night he had before observed that the music was of a classical order, not the frivolous stuff that is too common. He had always taken a deep interest in the convent and spoke from a long and attentive observation. He gave some interesting statistics respecting the growth of St. Peter's and the ministry of Father's Kelly and Butler, but it had prospered most under the charge of Father Lynch. He facetiously alluded to the good fortune for the town in the removal of Bishop Cleary; had he remained here he would have been responsible for large secessions from the other churches.

Bishop Cleary briefly addressed the children, and said he would, in spite of Bishop Jamot, perform one more act of authority, though he had been deprived of the right, and give the children a full holiday when they wanted it.

Bishop Jamot yielded, and said that he would not be outdone in generosity, and that they might later expect a holiday from him also.

This concluded a most pleasing and successful entertainment, reflecting equal credit on the good sisters of the Congregation, and the clever and well trained pupils.

It was the close of the series of events that celebrated the establishment in the See of Peterborough of its first bishop.

SKETCH OF BISHOP JAMOT.

Monseignieur John Francis Jamot, D. D., was born in Auvergne, in France, in 1828 and is now fifty-four years of age. He is of a dark complexion, with strongly marked features of rather a rugged cast, a deep set dark eye and mouth of determined mould, his nose is of a prominence that justifies in his case, the idea of his compatriot, Napoleon I., that a large and well developed nasal organ is a sign of intelligence; his black hair is thickly threaded with the silver of two score and ten. In stature he is about six feet—stalwart and sinewy. He began his studies for the Church in the diocesan seminary, and was ordined in 1828 at Limoges. He labored for a short time in Ireland, and came to the diocese of Toronto twenty-two years ago. He was for eight years pastor of Barrie; he was then transferred to St. Michael's cathedral, Toronto, as vicar-general and chancellor. Bishop Jamot has the well earned title of being one of the most self-sacrificing and zealous missionaries of the church. His labors among the people of northern Canada are a continuous record of zeal and ardor in his Master's cause, that recognized no obstacle between him and the advancement of the banner of the cross. He braved cold, hunger, vigil and toil to bring the bread of life to the lips of the spiritually starving settler. Though his deeds are known partially to men, a full record of the good he has wrought will be found only in the archives of heaven. He has well and nobly earned the comparative haven of rest he entered last Thursday, when he was consecrated the first Bishop of Peterborough.

CHANCELLOR LYNCH.

Almost the first official act of Bishop Jamot, is an earnest of the wisdom of his future rule in ecclesiastical matters. It was the excellent choice of Rev. Father Lynch as his Chancellor—the first step to the vicar generalship. They who have known Rev. Father Lynch's zeal and discretion cannot but commend the wisdom of the selection.

CALLING AT THE SCHOOLS.

On Monday Bishop Jamot, accompanied by his Chancellor and the members of the Separate School Board, visited the Lake street Separate School and the Central School, Murray street. He was presented with addresses at each school, and in reply spoke a few words of thanks and advice. In the afternoon the convent of the congregation of Notre Dame was honored with an episcopal visit.

A CARD.

I am requested, by His Lordship, the Bishop of Peterborough, to say that he appreciated very much the most kind and generous manner in which the people of our young city received him, the day he came to take possession of his new See. He is glad to notice that our separated brethren, and in a particular manner, the Peterborough Band most kindly joined the members of his flock, to do him honor. It will be his most earnest endeavor to foster that spirit of good understanding and mutual forbearance, so necessary for the happiness of the members of a mixed community.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in

CHEAPNESS OF GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers, and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a visit guaranteed.

EVERY BUYER of tweeds, flannels, fulled cloths, blankets, cottons, and general house-furnishing goods, will save money by purchasing from Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

WORTHY OF PRAISE.—The Independent speaks highly of the first-class manner in which Mr. D. Belleghem has furnished Simpson's Hotel, Fenelon Falls.

REMEMBER.—The annual exhibition of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society takes place in Peterborough on Tuesday and Wednesday October 3rd and 4th.

IT WILL pay every man or boy, in want of a good tweed suit, Overcoat or rubber coat, to see the immense stock of new and fashionable goods offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

HENRY GAUVAIS.—The story of this gentleman, who gulled the Globe reporter into giving him a column of notoriety as a survivor of the Asia, is a pure fiction. Mr. Macdougall of Orillia says that Gauvais was never in his employ. Henry must have been reading Munchausen.

LADIES will find with W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, a nice stock of new dress goods, black cashmeres, winceys, ready-made mantles, ulsters, rubber circulars, trimmed hats, corsets, gloves, and fancy goods. 39-4ins

CROWNED WITH FIRST PRIZES.—At the Provincial Exhibition, Messrs. Mills Bros., Hatters and Furriers, Peterborough and Kingston, by the superiority of their goods secured nine first prizes on hats, furs and gent's furnishings. A splendid record and one that should secure the appreciation of the public.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending September 16th 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $11,884.38 freight, $13,431.54; total, $25.315.92 as compared with $23,372.88 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $1943 04; and the aggregate traffic to date is $718,498.57, being an increase of $165,020.15 over 1881.

SEWING MACHINES.—Collectors of customs have been instructed that sewing machines imported into Canada shall be appraised and entered at the price at which they are sold at the place of manufacture, by the agents of the manufacturers, and not at the price at which the manufacturers supply such agents, and the duty is to be levied and collected upon the value so ascertained, and not upon a lower value. Steel boiler plates are now 12½ per cent, ad valorem.

Springless Trusses and Supporters

Prof. G. W. Hotchkin of Albion, Orleans Co., N. Y., will again visit as follows:

Peterborough, Caisse House Oct. 30 & 31. Lindsay, Benson House Nov. 1 & 2. Prof. H. having had thirty years experience has become master of his profession and defies the hernia that he cannot hold in its place. Prof. H. treats Inguinal Umbilical as well as Varicocele, also children, all of which he has treated successfully. Go and see him for yourselves. 39

PERSONALS.

Mr. J. R. Ormond, Esq., of Winnipeg, is in town

Messrs. J. J. Lundy and R. Clarton left for Winnipeg last week.

Mr. W. H. Croft, of St. Paul, Min., arrived in town on Thursday evening.

Mr. A. Haggart, Barrister Winnipeg, formerly of this town, arrived here on Saturday evening for a few days.

We had the pleasure of a call on Tuesday from Mr. H. Gale, of Gale Bros., proprietors of the West Durham News.

Mr. J. Andrews, formerly of Peterborough, now one of the City Fathers of the prosperous town of Gladstone, Man, is in town visiting friends.

Mr. G. G. Kells, of Millbrook, left for the Northwest last week to look after his considerable landed interests in that country.

We are pleased to note that Dr. E. H. Dewart, has been re-elected editor of the Christian Guardian, receiving ninety-five votes out of 127. He has raised the Guardian to the front place amongst religious journals.

The Toronto World is responsible for the statement that Rev Father O'Connell, of Douro, has been transferred to Prescott, and Rev. Father Murphy, of that place, appointed in his place. On the latter leaving Prescott, his parishioners presented him with a fine gold watch and chain.

A BULLSEYE.—Lieutenant Sanderson of Smith, at the rifle matches at Port Hope, captured first prize in each of the three matches.

CHEAP BREAD.—Now, that the prices of wheat and flour have fallen, is the time for our bakers to drop the price of bread.

TOWN VOTERS' LIST.—There have been 173 appeals entered with the Town Clerk against the voters' list of 1882, about equally divided politically. The hearing of appeals is set down for Oct. 16th, before Judge Dennistoun.

MISTAKEN.—The Port Hope News is in error regarding the "Young Peterborough blackguards," belonging to the Volunteer force. The 57th contains none of the few blackguards Peterborough has the honor to shelter. Now for the amende honorable.

GOOD FOR MOWRY.—Mr. R. Mowry of Ashburnham, was the builder of the thresher "Maid of Hope" that threshed for Wm. Turney of Hope, seventy-two bushels and a half of barley in thirty-eight minutes—at the rate of 115 bushels an hour.

NEW BUSINESS.—In a short time—as soon as the building is completed, Mr. F. Mason will open a new seed store, and plant emporium in the new building north of the Post office on George street. Look ont for the event and give him a call.

SUCCESSFUL.—Mr. J. W. Baptie of Springville informs us that at the Industrial Exhibition Toronto, he received two first and three second prizes on poultry and one "very highly recommended" and also a diploma for the best breeding pen of Hamburgs.

MAN WANTED.—Mr. Geo. Wilson "general agent for Northern Ontario" is anxious to engage a good man to canvass the town of Peterborough for the praiseworthy book, "The Royal Path of Life," to whom he will give a very liberal commission or monthly wages. He will be at the Phelan House (Snowden's) this week when arrangements can be made with him. He will also grant agencies for any township in the county. Mr. Heathfield is his authorized agent in Peterborough for "Treasury of Song."

LACROSSE.—Remember the grand Lacrosse match on Monday next between the Home club and the noted Shamrocks of Montreal, for the splendid pennant, now held by the Shamrocks and worth $300. The pennant is displayed in the show window of Mr. H. LeBrun. While on the ground Lally, the longest thrower in the world, will give exhibitions of throwing, etc. The match will be a sharp one. Our boys are practising hard and we hope they will keep the pennant in Peterborough. The game will be well worth seeing and we hope our citizens will liberally patronize the club who are at a heavy expense. Admission 25 cents. Grand stand free to ladies. Brigade Band in attendance. Play begins at 3 o'clock.

TURNBULL & GRAY.—This firm hold their first Fall Opening of Millinery and Mantles, etc., on Wednesday and to-day Thursday. The millinery rooms in charge of Miss Irons present a beautiful and well filled appearance. The stock of millinery is unusually full and comprises the latest fashions in shape, material and make of fall and winter hats and bonnets. The favorite trimmings, rich plushes and silk velvets are plentifully represented, as well as that of feathers, plumes, tips, bird wings and birds. The hats and bonnets we noticed were unusually rich and stylish in appearance. In the mantle line there is a large show of the latest and best material. The mantle and millinery work rooms constantly employ about a dozen hands, and the large demand for these goods of the firm keeps them busy. Any body wanting, a stylish, good or cheap hat or bonnet, should not fail to call on Turnbull & Gray.

Professor Hotchkin.

The celebrated Springless Truss man will be at the Caisse House, Oct 30 & 31. Go and see him he defies the hernia he cannot hold with ease and comfort. 39

BIRTHS.

CAMERON.—At Rosehill, Peterboro, on the 22nd inst, the wife of John Cameron of a son.

MARRIAGES.

FLAVELLE—ELLSWORTH.—On the 20th instant at the residence of the bride's mother, Ashburnham, County of Peterborough, by the Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, Mr. Jos. W. FLAVELLE, of Peterborough, to CLARA, eldest daughter of the late Rev. Oran Ellsworth.

Peterborough Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, Sept 28th, 1882.

There is more doing in grain, although there is no rush. A good deal of spring wheat has been sold from 98cts. to $1.02. Prices declining, fall wheat has sold from 95cts. to $1.01, but is not now over 98 cts. to $1.00 for best sample. Goose has been coming in slowly and selling from 80 cts. to 85cts. The movement in barley has not been large, prices varying very much according to colour, some very fine samples have reached 75cts., with low grades selling at 40cts. to 60cts., about 70cts. is now the top price. Other grades unchanged. Oats are bringing 40cts. to 42cts., receipts small.

ON THE MARKET.

vegetables and fruit continue very plentiful. Saturday's market was well attended. Fresh butter sold from 22cts. to 25cts. Eggs were in fair supply and sold from 18½cts. to 19½cts. per doz. Chickens brought 40cts. to 50cts. per pair, fair supply. Lamb sold rather slow from 8cts. to 9cts. Mutton dull, sale from 7cts. to 8cts. Apples are plentiful but are worked off from 50cts. to 75cts. per bag, extra bringing $1.00. Potatoes fair supply and in demand selling from 85cts. to 90 cts. per bag. A few kegs of butter have been sold during the week mostly at 20cts. Shipping may be quoted from 17cts. to 18cts.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

STINGING irritation, inflammation, all Kidney and Urinary Complaints, cured by "Buchupaiba." $1.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.

NOTICE.

I am a laboring man, and have worked on the Ontario & Quebec R. R. for McDermid & Hendrie, Contractors, and having left, which I had a perfect right to do any day, being employed by the day, and at so much per day. I got my time from the foreman and could have sold it for the small sum of 75 cents to a broker, but he said the Contractors would not pay him. I then went to the office of McDermid & Hendrie, and they seem to be regular brokers themselves, as they would not pay me until I had to submit to selling my time to them, at a discount of two dollars and fifty three cents.

I think the people ought to know this, both the workingmen and the public, as it is a shame for Contractors to buy up their own time at such a shave.

JOHN WIELY.

The Busy End

Of our Store is found in every part of it—in every Department, and on all sides of it.

We are not disposed to say as much about it as are our customers, who remark the activity in every direction, of what they are pleased to compliment as a well ordered business.

All details of our trade have responsible supervision, and everything connected with each department is being, if possible, more carefully looked after than heretofore.

In the Existing

Circumstances of increased cost of living, everybody who wishes to be economical, should ask themselves "where and how they can spend their money to best advantage."

A great many people have the habit of dealing in certain stores, and buying large quantities of goods and paying for them too, without ever asking themselves "could I have done any better elsewhere?"

If they would only take a little trouble and look around and call on us, they would be generally surprised in a six months how much to their advantage it is to trade with us.

Equally So

In all particulars is it with the stranger or transient visitor—whether great or small—whose custom is as much a matter of consideration to us as those of longer standing.

Hence as far as our business obligations can go, all are on the same basis, and equally the recipient of our best work. And everything we have shall equal the expectation of those who pay their money for it.

MUSIC FOR EVERYBODY!

MERRILL'S

INGENIOUS METHOD.

[COPYRIGHT SECURED.]

For starting children and others in the culture of Music. It overcomes the drudgery of learning the elements of Music, by pleasant amusement. This new method teaches you all about the Musical Staff Degrees of the Staff, Clefs, Notes and Rests, Scale, Intervals of the Scale, Location of Letters on the staff, and their relation to the Keys of the instrument. (This is very important with children.) Flats and Sharps, and their use. All the different Keys, how to form Chords or musical words. It teaches the syllables, Do, Re, Mi, etc., in singing. It contains a complete musical catechism. It is MULTUM IN PARVO. All this is learned while the learner is amusing himself by playing familiar tunes. Persons with no MUSICAL TALENT may play the tunes as the guide is such that he cannot strike the wrong key. Full directions and four pieces of music accompany the Method. Sent by mail for $1.00. THE QUEEN OF PRUSSIA'S RIDE.

At the battle of Jena, when the Prussian army army were routed, the Queen, mounted on a superb charger, remained on the field, attended by three or four of her escort. A band of hussars seeing her, rushed forward at full gallop, and with drawn swords, dispersed the little group, and pursued her all the way to Weimar. Had not the horse, which Her Majesty rode possessed, the fleetness of a stag, the fair Queen would infallibly have been captured.

Fair Queen, away! To thy charger speak—
A band of hussars thy capture seek.
Oh, haste! ere ape! they are riding this way.
Speak - speak to thy charger without delay;
They're nigh.
Behold! They come at a break-neck pace—
A smile triumphant illumes each face.
Queen of the Prussians, now for a race—
To Weimar for safety - fly!

She turned, and her steed with a furious dash
Over the field like the lightning flash - Flied.
Away like an arrow from steel cross-bow,
Over hill and dale in the sun's fierce glow,
The Queen and her enemies thundering go—
On toward Weimar they sped.

The royal courser is swift and brave,
And his royal rider he strives to save—
But no!
"Vive l' Empereur!" rings sharp and clear;
She turns and is startled to see them so near,
Then softly speaks in her charger's ear.
And away he bounds like a roe.

He speeds as tho' on the wings of the wind.
The Queen's pursuer's are left behind.
No more
She fears, tho' each trooper grasps his reins,
Stands up in his stirrups, strikes spurs, and strains,
For ride as they may, her steed still gains,
And Weimar is just before.

Safe! The clatter now fainter grows;
She sees in the distance her laboring foes.
The gates of the fortress stand open wide
To welcome the German nation's bride
So dear.
With gallop and dash, into Weimar she goes,
And the gates at once on her enemies close.
Give thanks, give thanks! She is safe with those Who hail her with cheer on cheer!

Farm, Garden and Household.

Cream vs. Wheat.

When at Algona, Kossuth county, a short time ago, we looked in upon the creameries there and learned these facts: The two factories there make and sell about $1,000 worth of butter a day. This fact alone gave us food for thought. One thousand dollars per day in clear cash is taken in and paid out for labour, and to farmers who contribute cream to these factories. Not a farmer has to leave his farm, or a single team is taken from the cornfield. Some of this cream is hauled twenty miles. Now, suppose, instead of cream, the same farmers who furnish the cream should bring $1,000 worth of grain into Algona daily. Think of the time, teams and labour it would take to do this, especially such a season as this has been for bad roads. The mere mention of this carries with it its own conclusions for the thinking farmer.

The Compost Heap.

The Massachusetts Ploughman among other things talks suggestively about the compost heap, saying that it is a good plan to have one for the benefit of the farm. The compost heap may be made of road-scrapings, the scourings of ditches, the cleanings of ponds, clippings from banks and hedgerows, scrapings and sweepings of farm-yards; garden refuse, house refuse, and indeed all sorts of rubbish may be added to a compost heap. Even weeds will decay, and then help to swell the material for enriching the land. The heap should occasionally be covered over with a layer of lime, and a layer of salt now and then is also a good addition. These materials are beneficial in themselves, and keep weeds from seeding on the top of the heap. The compost should be turned over from time to time, and when well mixed, the land may be dressed with it either in spring or autumn.

Food for Dairy Cows.

Rich old grass is the most natural and best of all cattle foods for producing milk of good quality. It is a grave mistake, practised by many intelligent farmers, to keep cows on poor, bare pasture, without any assistance in the way of house feeding. Many seem to imagine that land which has been tilled for many years with no recuperation, until it has become useless for grain growing, is quite good enough for pasture purposes, and therefore stint their cows of a proper quantity of nourishment. Nothing could be more short sighted and unprofitable. It requires, in the first place, a large proportion of food to keep the animal in a strong, healthy condition, and it is the surplus assimilated, after making good the natural wastes that goes to increase the animal, or for the production of milk. An animal of sound constitution, healthy digestion, and well developed lacteal organs will prove a good milker.

Those who wish proper returns from their cows should see that they are properly supplied with healthy food and plenty of pure water. The quality of milk varies with the different breeds of cattle, their age, the food eaten, and at different periods of the year. The milk of old cows is much thinner than that of young ones of the same breed.

Water Regularly.

We would urge upon breeders the necessity of giving your poultry good, pure, fresh water at regular intervals, winter as well as summer. While no kinds of stock require so much water in winter as they do during the hot summer months, when the heat abstracts so much more moisture from the body than it does in the wintry months, yet, when fed on dry food, water is an absolute essential, else disease will ensure. When we realize the fact that so large a percentage of all living beings, whether animals or birds, is moisture -water - and so much is hourly thrown off by the heat of the body, we can arrive at some definite conclusions in regard to the needs of animal life in this direction.

We have seen so many fine flocks of fowls which were compelled to exist with what water they could obtain from the snow or some sheltered pool, during the winter, in the barnyard, or else go without till it chanced to rain, that we feel compelled to speak about the matter here, trusting our doing so many be the means of causing all who have thus far neglected this important matter to at once give it their attention, and thus alleviate the sufferings of the birds unnaturally deprived of water each day.

Household Hints.

DRIED APPLE CUSTARD PIE.—Put enough cooked apples through a sieve to make two pints; add milk to make it as thick as pumpkin; four eggs; sweeten; make into four pies.

CORN STARCH CAKE.—One cup butter; two cups sugar; one cup sweet milk; whites of six eggs; two cups flour; one cup corn starch, and two teaspoonsful of baking powder; flavour to taste.

POUND CAKE.—One pound sugar, one pound butter, one pound flour, one dozen eggs. Scent with lemon. Stir the sugar and butter together until light. Add the flour, and bake in a moderate oven.

CRAB-APPLE PRESERVES.—Scald the apples; then remove them from the water, and to every pound of apples add a pound of sugar. Put the apples and sugar over the fire, and cook slowly till the fruit is tender.

CRAB-APPLE JELLY.—Put the apples into water enough to cover them, and boil until they crack open. Strain off the juice, measure and add granulated sugar in the proportion of a pint of sugar to a pint of juice. Boil twenty minutes.

LAYER CAKE (VERY NICE).—Two cups sugar, one scant cup butter, whites of four eggs beaten to a froth, one cup sweet milk, three and a half cups flour, two teaspoonful baking-powder, lemon flavouring. Bake in layers, and put together with icing, and raisins chopped fine.

FRUIT SAUCES.—These are all very rich and delicious, for puddings, and used as a garnish also, they add greatly to the beauty of the pudding when ready for serving. The preserve juice is to be somewhat thickened with corn starch and boiled; then the fruit thrown in, and poured all over the pudding together. Marmalades and stiff jellies make good garnishes for pudding.

PRESERVED RHUBARB.—Four pounds of rhubarb—the red kind—four pounds of loaf sugar, and five ounces whole ginger. Peel and cut up the rhubarb into small pieces, add the sugar and ginger, and boil until clear. Pot and tie down as for other preserves. This should be of a brilliant red colour, and is very good for serving with blancmange, moulded rice, or rice flummery.

WHIPPED CREAM SAUCE.—Have a plate full of whipped cream highly flavoured; add the beaten whites of two or three eggs, and powdered sugar to the taste. Pile up a pyramid of this in the centre of a large platter, and arrange blancmanges, fruit puddings or corn starch puddings, cooled in cups around it, or pile the puddings in the centre of the platter, and pour the sauce around. A rich boiled custard can be used as a sauce in the same way.

GIVE HEED TO A COUGH.—If we except those tremendous epidemics which sometimes often half depopulate the regions of country where they prevail, no diseases are so destructive as those which affect the breathing organs. Unfortunately also, there are few maladies which at the outset are so frequently disregarded as trivial. No warning is fraught with graver meaning than this—Give heed to a cough! To neglect it, is simple madness. So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen that often in a few short weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption, that terrible enemy to human life.

The best pulmonary remedy which medical science has developed, and which seems peculiarly adapted to the suppression of a cough or cold, Asthma, Spitting of blood, Bronchitis, or other throat or lung complaint, is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Experience has shown that the oil obtained from the Cod's liver exercises a powerful control over pulmonary diseases. In the above preparation, not only is this main ingredient specially pure, but its efficacy is greatly increased by addition to it of these hypophosphites which are among the most powerful invigorating and blood fertilizers known to materia medica. While the lungs are soothed and healed by the Cod Liver Oil, the rapid physical decay attending lung diseases is stayed and the system built up and fortified by the hypophosphites. Ample evidence proves this. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda.

NEWCOMBE PIANOS

BOSTON, 14th Sept., 1881.
Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.
Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,
GEO. W. STRATHY, Mus. Doc.,
Professor of the Chair of Music of the University of Trinity College, Toronto, &c.

Provide yourselves with a bottle of PAIN-KILLER at this season of the year, when summer complaints are so prevalent; it is a prompt, safe, and sure cure. It may save you days of sickness, and you will find it is more valuable than gold. Be sure you buy the genuine PERRY DAVIS PAIN-KILLER, and take no other mixture.

COBOURG, Ont., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first-class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

SANDERSON'S

THE DEATH OF BROCK.

Upon the heights of Queenston
One dark October day,
Invading foes were marshalled
In battle's dark array.
Brave Brock looked up the rugged steep,
And planned a bold attack;
"No foreign flag must float," said he,
"Above the Union Jack."

His loyal-hearted soldiers
Were ready every one,
Their foes were thrice their number,
But duty must be done.
They started up the fire swept hill
With loud-resounding cheers,
While Brock's inspiring voice rang out,
"Push on, York Volunteers."

But soon a fatal bullet
Pierced through his manly breast,
And loving friends to help him
Around the hero pressed.
"Push on," he said, "don't mind me;"
And ere the day was done,
Canadians held the Queenston Heights,
The victory was won.

Each true Canadian patriot
Laments the death of Brock;
Our country told its sorrow
In monumental rock;
And if a foe should e'er invade
Our land in future years,
His dying words will guide us still—
"Push on brave volunteers."

HAVING FUN WITH A DEAF AND DUMB MAN.

Quietly entering a barber shop the stranger removed his hat and coat, and taking a card from his pocket, wrote on it:—

"I want to be shaved."

A barber stepping forward read the card and pointing to the chair said to his brother artists:—

"Deaf as a brass kettle and dumb as an oyster."

The man straightened himself out in the chair, when his manipulator began lathering his face.

"This deaf cuss has a cheek like a stone wall," he said, when a general laugh followed.

"Stick a pin in him and see if he is entirely dumb," said another.

The victim remaining undisturbed, the following shots were fired at him by the delighted tousorial artists:

"He needs a shampoo, his head is dirtier than a cesspool."

"Shave him with a stool leg, don't spoil your razor on that stubble."

"Gracious! what a breath. It smells like a Dutch band of music.

"He ought to rent that nose for a locomotive headlight," etc.

While these complimentary allusions were flying about him, the operation of shaving was finished, and the man arose put on his coat, and then turning to the astonished barber said:

"How much for the shave and compliments?"

"I—I—I—I," gasped the astonished man, "Oh, nothing—nothing, call again, excuse—"

And as the stranger left the shop the discomfited barbers swore they would never believe in a deaf and dumb man again, until they had first fired a ten pound cannon about his ears.

STABBING HIS COAT COLLAR.

Some years ago a story came from Paris that a criminal condemned to death had been executed in a novel way and without blood letting. The culprit was blindfolded and laid upon a marble slab after being informed that he was to be bled to death. A needle was used with which to prick his arm, and as the point touched him drops of warm water was sprinkled so that they ran down his side, and to the condemed it appeared that he was bleeding to death. In a little while the experiment was successful, and the man expired, such was the force of imagination. A case somewhat resembling this was brought to the notice of Police Officer Jones the other day. As he passed the Vandalia Building, he saw a man lying on his back in the entrance. The stranger's hands were closed upon his breast, and his legs were close together. As Jones afterwards said, he "looked every inch a corpse." The face was bloodless. The eyes were closed as though in death. The handle of a jackknife protruded from a point between the collar and the jugular vein. The blade was hidden. Jones jumped to the conclusion of suicide. He took hold of the knife and drew it out of its resting place. The blade was unsullied. Being aroused, the man said that he had attempted suicide. Instead of wounding himself, he merely stabbed the collar of his coat. Then he felt that he was dying. Visions of father, mother and home passed through his mind, he said, only for a moment, and then he became unconscious. He was perhaps just entering the spirit land when Jones called him back.

BREVITY IN SPEECH SWEETNESS IN MUSIC.

Some one has said that short speeches are most impressive, and simple, sweet music the most touching. If there be anything in the idea, certainly the following from C. C. De Zouche, of De Zouche & Co., Piano and Organ Dealers, 533 St James street, Montreal, is to the point and convincing: "St. Jacob's Oil has proved of incalculable value to me in a case of rheumatism, having given me almost instant relief." In the same strain of expressive brevity writes Mr. John C. Fleming editor in chief of the Montreal Post: "I have much pleasure in stating that, from the use of St. Jacobs Oil, I find it excellent and I think it a good medicine.

Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Kidney, Liver or Urinary Diseases.

Have no fear of any of these diseases if you use Hop Bitters, as they will prevent and cure the worst cases, even when you have been made worse by some great puffed up pretended cure. 38-2t

LADIES, BEWARE!

Ladies, skip this paragraph! It is really shockingly unfit for publication. It got into my letters by mistake, and I ask the printer to destroy it or set it up wrong side up:

It's nonsensical who ought not to know:
If this goes in she'll hear about it,
Her pug bit she'll find it out anyhow
If she goes to the local kind of a show.
Now, worth very can come to a tantrum,
This person she's already pursued;
We know she'd just as it somehow,
Or she'd have a bad fit of the blues.

An observing friend notes a curious fact. A mooley cow has no horns. It is different with humans. The more "horns" a man has the mulier he gets.

The fruitful season of the year is prolific with many forms of Bowel Complaints, such as Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c. As a safe-guard and positive cure for those distressing and often sudden and dangerous attacks nothing can surpass that old and reliable medicine, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. 38-2t

When Adam was in his bachelorhood he found his nights lonely, and always welcomed the morn with gladness. Still, for all that, he was happier when Eve came.

"The woman who seeks relief from pain by the free use of alcoholic stimulants and narcotic drugs, finds what she seeks only so far as sensibility is destroyed or temporarily suspended. No cure was ever wrought by such means and the longer they are employed the more hopeless the case becomes. NINE PHYSICIANS OUTDONE.—It is generally considered a pretty difficult task to outdo a physician, but the following will conclusively prove where nine were completely outdone. Mrs. Helen Pharviz, 331 Dayton St., Chicago, Ill., was treated for Consumption by nine physicians, and all pronounced her case incurable. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and convince yourselves. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 h is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the dut on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE MISTAKE WE ARE MAKING,

SO OUR CUSTOMERS SAY, IS

That we have not of late given our Business sufficient Publicity.

READ Our Advertisement and Know us Better!

The business season, for the balance of the year, will be an active, pushing one. We intend to make our own trade phenomenally so. Crops are good—never better. Prices will be fair—money is plenty; people are happy and contented, and naturally their consuming power will be increased. Their buying abilities will be increased in proportion, and not only will they ask for better goods, but they will want more of them. To meet the demand—now large and likely to increase—our shelves are now packed with a Premium Stock of

New, Fresh and Fashionable Goods--Goods Particularly Worth Having.

Notes on Discounts! Business from the Bottom!

The practice of allowing a customer an alleged discount off such and such a Bill of Goods over a certain amount, is a pernicious one. Circumstances may impel such an allowance; good business usage and fair values never needs its assistance to call trade.

Is a discount off really a benefit to the purchaser? We question it very much. We are prepared to say that in five cases out of six it is misleading, and of no practical value to the buyer. Look at the question from a common sense view. If five per cent is allowed off each dollars value, either the merchant loses just that amount of profit or he does not. If he drops his profit he must make up his mind to foot the reckoning some day. If he does not lose his profit, then the percentage must have been added to the price of the article before the purchaser is offered the bait.

WE GIVE NO DISCOUNT OFF!

Why should we? We fix our prices at a fair, reasonable living profit above cost laid down. This we take it is a business way of doing business. We put on no fictitious 5 per cent. We challenge comparison of prices. Those who buy once from us we want to sell to again, and are always anxious to have the excellence of our goods honestly tested. The business we have done and are doing shows how appreciative people are of a straight, fresh, clear stock, which contains no rubbish, and offers at all times the Best Value the Markets afford.

WEST RIDING EXHIBITION.

Glorious Weather—Large Attendance Resume of the Exhibits Prize List.

The Annual Exhibition of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society was highly favored in respect to the weather, but there was hardly the usual display, to reward the large crowds that visited the Grounds, in search of sights.

Tuesday was chiefly devoted to the placing of the articles in the palace, and the awards in that department by the judges. They completed their work at an early hour, and in the evening the palace was thrown open to the public, but there was not a very large attendance. The Fire Brigade Band was stationed in the gallery, and rendered some of its best selections, forming a source of attraction, that was little less than the exhibits themselves. Below is a brief description of what was to be seen

INSIDE THE PALACE:

The display was very meagre. In dairy and farm produce, three cheese, a diminutive basket of butter, four despondent loaves of home-made bread, and a little honey and maple sugar; five bags of winter wheat, four of spring wheat, and a few sacks of oats, peas, barley, rye, timothy and clover seed, &c., comprise the bulk of the collection.

Fruit is conspicuously scarce on the tables devoted to it. There were a few collections of apples, none of which seem, looked on in the light of public exhibits, worthy of special mention. There was a scant supply of grapes, but some fine specimens.

The same remark might apply to the roots and vegetables, which are notably scant in quantity, but with the exception of some potatoes and roots, tomatoes and cabbage, few of them rise above a very modest mediocrity, and perhaps the majority will blush when they feel the red ticket attached to them.

The show of farm implements is confined to Mr. Peter Hamilton, and Messrs. Graham & Son, both of Peterborough. The former contents himself with exhibiting a combined reaper and mower, a plough (iron beam) and a tiger horse rake. The latter show ploughs, cultivators, &c.

Domestic manufactures, judged by the exhibit, have not partaken of the N.P. boom. The quantity is limited, and the the quality in some cases wouldn't astonish our remote ancestors by its superiority.

In the department of vehicles, Fitzgerald & Stanger have the field entirely to themselves, though for the matter of competition, the appearance of their exhibit leaves little room to doubt that they would have been as prominent in the prize list as when standing alone. The show consists of some half a dozen open and top buggies and phætons, all built in the latest styles, neatly upholstered, and finished with a beauty and excellence that leaves little desire or room for improvement. The finish is beautiful, as smooth and even as a plate glass mirror. All their exhibit is made to order for Dr. Halliday, Mr. R. H. Green, Mr. J. McMillan, Mr. John Holmes, Mr. Campbell and Mr. Jonathan Mann. The excellent farm waggon shown, is for Mr. S. Grieves. The display is a great credit to the firm.

LADIES' DEPARTMENT.

But this department is worthy of a special heading, both on account of the excellent display, which for abundance and variety and beauty of the exhibits, is worthy of great praise. There were about a score of quilts of the patch work kind, some most elaborate and beautiful monuments of patient industry and tasteful skill. The omnipresent log cabin was in full force. In the finer departments of ladies' skill there was observable a great and splendid variety of point lace and darned net, &c. A mantle drapery over pale blue satin, was a most elaborate and beautiful piece of work. Two fancy tables were worthy of mention. A toilet set in pale blue embroidered satin, and one in maroon, and a tea cosy—but when the competition in merit was so keen as to puzzle lady judges, a member of the male sex will only make a muddle in trying to particularize. It is enough to say that the splendid exhibit in the ladies department was the redeeming feature of an exhibition that in other respects was nothing to go into ecstacies over. The artistic and advantageous disposition of the goods is due to the taste and patience of Mrs. Gilmour and Miss Burnett, who had charge of this part of the work.

In the children's department there were some very creditable specimens indeed.

The fine arts were weak, and only in pencil drawings, was there more than one exhibitor.

There was an extensive exhibit of sewing machines. Mr. J. E. Murray, George street, is on hand with a complete assortment of Singer machines of all grades, with fine specimens of their work, light and heavy. Mr. J. D. Hendricks, Edinburgh street, shows several samples of the Domestic and White machines. Mr. G. A. Mitchell, Water street, is on hand with the Wheeler & Wilson, one of which, to show its lightness of running, was run with a band made of No. 60 cotton thread. Mr. Edward Brown, Hunter street, has a display of four or five machines of the Raymond and Belmont makes.

SECOND DAY.

The weather of Wednesday was peerless. Early in the day visitors to "the show" began coming in, but after noon they began overflowing the Agricultural Grounds, and making the most of what could be seen therein.

There was not at all, a large exhibit of horses. There was only one stallion shown—the thoroughbred imported coach horse "Venture," owned by Messrs. Wood & Thompson, South Monaghan. There were some good cattle and a few good drivers, but in the other classes, with rare exceptions, there was little worthy of special mention.

In cattle Mr. Henry Collins, of South Monaghan, is the principal and by far the largest exhibitor. He showed a herd of thirteen thoroughbred Durhams, and one would not be surprised to see his stock largely represented in the prize list. Mr. Chas. Moore, of Smith, also showed three fine fat cattle, Durhams.

There are several pens of good grade stock, mostly the descendants of Mr. Collins' Durhams. The show of sheep comprised a few pens of Southdowns and Leicesters, which contain some excellent animals.

There was a very small show of Poultry, few varieties and few of a kind.

An addition to the first day's display of agricultural implements, was made in ploughs by J. Whyte & Co. H. Owens also showed lift, suction and force pumps.

The number of entries this year is 573, considerably less than those of last year, and up to the hour of going to press there have been no returns of the gate receipts.

More detailed information, as to the exhibitors and exhibits may be gathered from the subjoined copy of

GRAND OPENING.

SPLENDID GOODS AT MESSRS. MUNRO & ALEXANDER'S.

The grand opening of Messrs. Munro & Alexander's, on Tuesday and Wednesday, was a complete success in every department. The display of millinery, mantles and costumes has never been excelled by any house in Peterborough. The refined taste displayed in beautiful hats and bonnets and rich mantles, must be very gratifying to the ladies of Peterborough, enabling them to get such a selection of really choice goods at their own doors. The EXAMINER refrains from particularizing any single article, it being impossible to do so when the different styles are all so good. This firm is to be congratulated on the wonderful success they have had since they began business in Peterborough. They are doing one of the largest and most fashionable businesses in the town. Any lady that has not yet visited this opening should do so before the week is over. The number who visited the house was unequalled at any former opening.

Methodist Union.

The feeling in favour of union amongst the various Methodist bodies of Canada has developed almost into enthusiasm, and unless petty matters of detail should interfere with the consummation of so desirable an amalgamation, there is little doubt of its speedily becoming an accomplished fact. One thing strongly in favour of a union being arrived at, is the commendable spirit of concession that seems to animate the three bodies concerned. The Primitive Methodists agree that if the principle of lay representation in the annual conferences is permitted, they will waive other peculiar features of their administration and organization, and the Episcopal Methodists, while stipulating for the retention of the General Superintendency are willing to give way on other points. At the General Conference recently closed in Toronto, the Canadian Methodists declared, with certain minor reservations, and conditions of subordinate moment, in favour of granting the concessions asked for by the other bodies. In doctrine and practice there is practically no difference, and therefore it seems that the arrangement of details is all that yet remains to be done to secure a union that cannot but result beneficially in all respects to large and important constituents of the Christian community.

The License Act and the "Temperance" Interests.

Honesty and sincerity are as essential in politics as in anything else, but it seems that some politicians think that any resort, no matter how tricky and false is allowable. Nothing, judged by the past record and practice of one of the men, can exceed the hypocritical hollowness of the ground taken by Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Meredith on the "temperance" aspect of the Ontario License Act. They suddenly develop a tremendous interest in the temperance cause, especially when they think they can by the cry turn a point against the Ontario government. Last June Sir John posed as the friend of the Licensed Victuallers, who, certainly do not feel a very keen concern in the promotion of temperance, and declared that the License Act "must go"—in their interests. Only a few days ago the other tack was taken, and we see the ludicrous attempt to perpetrate the morally impossible act of serving two masters. Not only is the temperance cry an insincere one but, it is utterly at variance with the opinions of those, whose sincerity in advocating the cause cannot be called into question. The Methodist General Conference, by no means an insignificant nor unmuluential body, gives no uncertain indications of its opposition to Mr. Meredith's proposed change of the license act, to give the municipalities control of the issue of licenses. The following excerpt from the report prepared by the Temperance Committee of the Conference and unanimously adopted by this large and influential body, is sufficiently explicit:

"6. Although we cannot accept as righteous absolutely, any license law, yet if we must tolerate some one as the tentative regulator of an evil till we can have it removed, we must regard the Crooks Act as the best instrument for this suppression the Province of Ontario ever had. We would emphatically deprecate any legislation that would impair its efficiency, and we would respectfully recommend our people, where this law obtains, to use their voice and franchise to prevent the control of this license system reverting to the municipalities, where the industrious ward politician and the interested liquor dealer so largely manipulate the elections."

The reasons given are such as we some time ago suggested, against the transfer of the control of the issue of licenses to the municipalities and no stronger and more dispassionate evidence than the report as quoted above can be adduced in favor of perpetuating the present license system. The moral sense of all good men deprecates any change, and, in view of this fact, the demands of hypocritical politicians, will receive scant appreciation.

Notes of the Week.

CANADIANS CAN congratulate themselves that they are not as bad as others, in one sense, at least. While the United States have a doctor to every 600 inhabitants, Canada has only one to every 1200 souls, and Great Britain is more blessed than either, having a medical man to 1,672 inhabitants. Germany is the most favoured of the quartette, for she has only one "sawbones" to 3,000 inhabitants.

IT IS LIKELY that the purchase of rifled cannon by the Canadian Government will turn out more auspiciously than the costly Charybdis catastrophe. The four forty-pounder rifled field guns purchased in England by the Militia Department, and for which an appropriation was voted last session, have arrived at Quebec by the steamer "Earl King." In pattern these guns are like those used by the British troops with such terrible effect in late Egyptian war. The final destination of the guns has not yet been decided on.

THERE IS A pretty considerable colony of Canadians in the Dominions of Uncle Sam, showing that cousinly good feeling is cultivated to some purpose] From the advance bulletin of the United States Census Commissioner, we gather that Canada contributes one ninth of the foreign population of that country, which is 6,679,943 altogether, and Canada's quota is 717,084 divided amongst the different provinces. In the following table "Canada" evidently represents Ontario and Quebec. The said one ninth is made up as follows:—

Canada	610 017
New Brunswick	41,788
Newfoundland	4,789
Nova Scotia	51,160
Prince Edward Island	7,537
British America, (not specified)	1,893
Total British America	717,084

THE "Rational Dress Society" of England, has entered upon the impossible task of reforming the dress of women. Impossible, for before the female dress can be reformed, the process of reforming women will have to be gone through. While woman is woman—and her nature seems to possess considerable vitality—she will love the beautiful in dress and hanker after some new fashion that will outshine her neighbor. The above society with a simple faith, have offered a prize for a style of dress which shall "in the most remarkable degree combine ease, comfort, health and elegance. The award will be made to the successful competitor on the occasion of a dress exhibiton which is proposed to be held in London next winter.

A WEST INDIAN mercantile correspondent is astonished that Canadian manufacturers and exporters have not made greater efforts to establish commercial relations between Canada and the British West India Islands. He contends that sugar for refining purposes can be bought to better advantage at St. Kitts than at Barbadoes or Trinidad, and that return freight would secure a better market at the former island. It would be easy to complete a cargo of timber, fish, clothing and other Canadian productions, and in return bring home a cargo of raw sugar, thus making both parts of the trip profitable. It is said that negotiations will be soon opened between the Government and the Windward Isles, having in view the development of commercial relations between the two countries.

JOHN WESLEY was, as a churchman, in advance of the ecclesiastical spirit of the age in his zeal to revive the drooping and lethargic condition of the church in his time, but one of the means advocated by him has been justified at last. The bishop of London has "taken a leaf out of his book" by appointing a number of lay preachers. Laymen have also been holding, at Bedminster, near Bristol, services something of the type of the Salvation Army s but free from the extravagances of General Booth's army. The reserve of intellectual power and religious zeal possessed in the laity by the church, is beginning to attract attention, and though late in the day these forces have been recognized, still it seems that they are destined to exert an important co-operation with the clergy in evangelistic work.

IRELAND has supplied so long a roll of illustrious and brilliant warriors, fighting seamen, and statesmen whose achievements go to swell the glory of England, that we generally expect to be told that any one that specially distinguishes himself in arms is an Irishman. The brilliant record of achievements of Sir Garnet Wolseley marked him at once as an Irishman, but this claim was disputed by the assertion that he was an Englishman born in Ireland. The question sems to be definitely settled by Burke's Peerage, which contains evidence to show pretty conclusively that Sir Garnet Wolseley is an Irishman—though not one lineally descended from Brian Boru. On page 1252 of Burke's Peerage, the edition of 1878, it is shown that Sir Garnet J. Wolseley is a cadet of the Irish family of Wolseley, of Mount Wolseley, in the county of Carlow, but remotely connected with Staffordshire. The originally Norman-French (not English) family of Wolseley has been settled in Ireland over 2000 years. If further proof is required of the nationality of this great military genius it may be found in his speech last December (see Times) to the London Irish volunteers, in which he calls himself an Irishman. Sir Garnet's father and mother were both natives of Ireland, as also were ten generations of ancestors.

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

DARLINGFORD, MAN., Sept. 18, '82.

When leaving the lively town of Peterborough I promised, I believe, to send you some jottings of events transpiring in this great land, for publication in your excellent journal; but up to the present I have not had time so to do. However, at this late date I will attempt to give you a description of South-Western Manitoba, which, without doubt, is the garden of the province, if not of the whole Northwest.

Leaving Emerson the traveller proceeds along what is known as the Boundary Commission Trail, and in wet weather a very bad trail it is. From West Lynne to Mountain City the land is either held by or in script—one being almost as bad for the country as the other. While the script lands remain unimproved and untaxed, and likely to remain that way for some years to come, the Menonites have their land in a very little better state of cultivation. These thriftless and lazy pets of the "Chieftain," instead of building on their farms as other settlers do, settle in villages. Their mode of forming a village consists of building two rows of houses about one hundred yards apart—said houses serving as a residence for themselves as well as their horses, cattle, pigs, poultry, etc. Here they live—or rather drag out an existence—by themselves in their thatched houses, avoiding their fellow-settlers as much as possible, and only cultivating such land and raising such stock as will serve to keep them alive. Indeed the English speaking settlers seem quite satisfied that they should live by themselves, as any persons who have been forced through bad weather to stay over night in a Menonite village have made the acquaintance of all the vermin in old Noah's catalogue; and, as acquaintances soon spread, they are generally not the only ones who have good cause to swear at Menonite hospitality. Perhaps it will prove interesting to the readers of the EXAMINER to know the manner in which the Menonite and his frau dress, therefore I will give a brief description: The male Menonite wears in summer (I have not seen any of them in winter) a suit of wincey cloth of a grayish color; the pants resemble in cut a two-bushel bag, and only come down half way on the calf of his leg; the jacket is cut with a view, no doubt, of saving cloth, while the vest is built evidently with a view to accommodate several "schooners" of lager. His feet is sometimes inclosed in wooden shoes, at other times in sandals; but in warm weather he generally goes without any covering on them. His feet are strangers to socks; and in winter time the dirt which has accumulated on them since childhood's happy days serve in a great measure to keep out the cold His make-up is finished by a black cloth cap with a glazed leather peak. The gentler sex wear a blue skirt of very short dimensions, a red waist and a black handkerchief tied round their head. Their feet are large and stockingless, and are inclosed in wooden shoes. Each village has a school teacher who educates the young idea after the manner of the fatherland. They all indulge in cigarettes, and are passionately fond of Manitoba whiskey and "schnapps." It is rather amusing to see a lot of them in a bar-room. One of them, after in vain trying to beat down the bar-tender, will lay down his ten cent piece, and having filled the tumbler to overflowing will take a sip himself and then pass it around to his companions to taste. Taken as a whole I believe they are the most miserable lot of wretches in America.

At Mountain City there is a trail branching off for Nelson and the Boyne settlement. The former place was recently incorporated as a town and is the chief place in South-Western Manitoba. Here I have had the pleasure of meeting quite

A FEW PETERBOROUGH MEN.

In the mercantile business I found Mr. T. Mather doing quite a large business in the tailoring line, while his sons Chris., Andrew and Charles—all well and favorably known in Peterborough—are comfortably situated on excellent farms a few miles north of the town. Here also I found Mr. C. R. Dunsford, son of Mr. Hartley Dunsford, of Lindsay, engaged in the banking and real estate business. Passing south-west about 12 miles I came to Darlingford, situated on the Commission Trail, where I find Mr. Freeman Lane, busily engaged in his duties as Registrar of South Dufferin. Here also I have had the pleasure of calling up Mr. T. W. McBain, formerly of the firm of Cameron & McBain, Peterborough. This gentleman is doing a thriving business in the general store trade. Tom is also Postmaster, and although not in love with the country, says that there "is money in Manitoba and that's what he's after." The prospects of this country are somewhat marred by the South-Western branch of the C.P.R. running about 2 miles to the north. This road is being pushed forward with much despatch to its present terminus, about 6 miles west of here. The exact location of the town site is not yet known, but no doubt there will be quite a boom at the terminus of the road in a few weeks.

Mr. A. N. Shaw, of Pilot Mound has just dropped in on me on his return to Pilot Mound from a visit to his old home in Peterborough, and as I want to get all the news from home I shall now draw to a close, with the promise to write soon again.

M. QUAD.

EFFECTIVE WORK.

The following specific information, imparted by thoroughly reliable people will convey a clearer idea than any amount of abstract reference, how certain desirable results are being accomplished. Mr. Alexander McKechnie, Rochesterville, Ottawa, Ont., says: "I was a perfect cripple with rheumatism in my arms and feet for more than two weeks, when I was advised to try St. Jacobs Oil. I did so; in two days I went to work, and at the end of a week I was as well as ever. I consider St. Jacobs Oil a "dead sure" cure for rheumatism in every form." Mr. James Dempsey, Cobourg street, Ottawa, is pleased to remark: "Having suffered for some time past with rheumatism in the back, I am gratified to say that I have been completely cured after a few applications of St. Jacobs Oil. and can confidently recommend it to any one suffering in like manner."

The GREAT GERMAN INVIGORATOR is the marvel of the Medical World. It never fails to completely cure Nervous Debility, Impotency, Mental Depression, and all diseases caused from excesses. The testimony of thousands can be had by writing F. J. CHENEY, Toledo, Ohio, sole agent for the United States. Price $1.00 per box, six boxes for $5.00. If your druggist does not keep the remedy, send to headquarters and get the medicine by mail. Circulars and testimonials on application. 40-2t

NEWS VARIETIES.

An Entire Family Drowned.

During the storm on Friday night, while a man named Eash, Heathfield, Pa went to look after the safety of his mill, the flood carried away his house with his wife and five children, all of whom were drowned.

The Thunder Bay Branch.

The opening of the Thunder Bay branch says the Winnipeg Sun, to traffic is attended with considerable difficulty. According to Mr. Schreiber the government will probably not allow passengers to be carried over the road; while freight traffic is to be delayed and retarded by the scarcity of cars.

A Bank Teller's Little Mistake.

A shortage of $4000 was found in the accounts of the paying teller of the National bank of the commonwealth. The latter thinks he paid out a $5000 package of bills in mistake for a $1000 package. The teller has been suspended but retained in the service of the bank.

Shooting Accident.

On Thursday about 10 o'clock a shocking accident occurred in the township of Onondaga, near Hamilton. It seems that Samuel Stewardson, a promising young man was sitting on the seat of a threshing engine, which was being driven by him along the road, when the horses became restive and ran away, throwing Stewardson from the machine. One of the wheels passed over his head, killed him instantly.

Ontario and Quebec Finances.

On the 4th of October the Hon. Mr. Mousseau, premier of Quebec, will come to Ottawa with Mr. Wurtele, the provincial treasurer, where they will meet Mr. Wood, the treasurer of Ontario, when they will have an interview with the premier regarding unsettled accounts standing between the government of the dominion and the governments of the two provinces.

Feeling with Firearms.

An accidental shooting occurred near Teeswater, a few days ago. Two young farmers named Prescott and Goodfellow were fooling in the bedroom of the former, and Prescott picked up a revolver which was lying on the table and playfully pointed it at his comrade. The pistol went off, and the ball struck Goodfellow, injuring him internally. His condition is very critical. The doctors are still searching for the ball. Prescott is almost distracted with sorrow.

A Peculiar Crime.

A Toronto despatch says the County Crown Attorney has received the papers in a peculiar case. A son of Dr. Hunter, of Stouffville village, got married the other day to a daughter of James Dougherty, who is under age. The father of the girl charged his son-in-law with perjury in that he did make affidavit before an issuer of marriage licenses that he (the father) did consent to the marriage, which the father denies. The charge was tried before the Justice of the Peace at Stouffville and the defendant was committed for trial.

A Terrible Sight.

A terrible sight was witnessed a few days since in Paris, Ont. One of the patients of the hospital went mad, and, leaping out of a window overlooking the street, perched on the cornice. He addressed the crowd below in incoherent language, and threatened to throw himself down when any one approached the window. Mattrasses and rugs were spread on the pavement, and the firemen were immediately sent for. One of the latter let himself down by a rope affixed to the roof, and, securing the madman under the arms, managed to thrust him into the open window, where he was taken in charge by the attendants. The plucky conduct of the fireman was loudly cheered by the crowd, as it deserved to be.

A Duel in a Church.

In the Baptist church, Hampton Cross Roads, Virginia on Sunday, during the service, Jerry Cox and Levi Bryson quarrelled. They drew their revolvers and fired wildly. The audience rushed for the doors amid indescribable excitement. The air was filled with the shrieks of frightened men, women and children. One shot passed through the bonnet of a female. The minister remained in the pulpit calmy but energetically addressing the audience, to whom his words were inaudible. Some bullets passed over the head of the minister, who paid no heed to them. Several men tugged away at Cox and Bryson, appealing to them to desist, but they were shoved aside and the firing continued. Bryson finally fell mortally wounded, but was sufficiently conscious to raise and fire at his opponent, who fell dead.

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa. catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. D. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma; cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street. Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of Mrs. DENOIT. 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

MRS. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer will cure catarrh and bronchitis. JOHN C. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montteal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free at the office. 25

TERRIBLE TO CONTEMPLATE.

The comet now visible in the eastern heavens passed on the 18th of Sept., perilously near the sun—within a hundred thousand miles of it. One astronomer predicts that it will reappear about the end of the present century and be absorbed by the sun. In case of such an occurrence, the effect on the weather would, however, in all probability be very great. The fuel furnished to the solar furnace may be expected to increase the intensity of the heat to such an extent as to cause a tremendous disturbance of the earth's atmosphere. It is not improbable therefore, that the first effect would be a rise of the temperature to an unprecedented degree and a terrible mortality would ensue from sunstroke, wherever summer prevails. If the cometary catastrophe should take place in the winter, the broiling heat of the hottest July would prevail in our climate, and vegetation would shoot out with astonishing vigour. Fortunately the intense heat would produce a rapid evaporation, and a dense stratum of clouds would cover the earth, affording relief from the scorching sun. Then would ensue a struggle between heat and cold such as the annals of the world have never recorded. Terrible hurricanes, shaking our cities to their foundations, would sweep the earth; tornadoes of fearful destructiveness would ravage the land; floods of rain would pour down for days together, to the accompaniment of incessant and blinding flashes of lighting and crashing peals of thunder such as might suggest the day of doom. Winnipeg, St. Paul, St. Louis Chicago, and other prairie cities would probably be buried under the floods, and a general flight to the higher lands would take place all over the earth.

Kidney Disease.

The druggists in Iowa are allowed to sell alcohol "for artistic purposes," and some of the old topers get it under that excuse in order to paint their noses.

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA, from Brazil. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate. 40-4t

Frank Rogers, a young man who left Kingston, N. B., recently, for the United States, is supposed to have been murdered near North Stratford, N. H.

THE SUPPLY OF CONSUMED brain substance can only be had from the nutriment in the blood derived from food. The man is a lunatic who uses whiskey, strychine, or opium to goad him to perform a work in hand when he feels too weak to go through it without stimulants, which supply nothing but increase the consumption of tissue. In Wheeler's Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya we have the only true restoratives of brain waste—the only source of nerve force as found in our food.

Jessie had been reproved at home for beginning bits of kindergarten work that she did not finish, as she would "form bad habits." Last Fall, the child saw for the first time, at an agricultural show, some muley cattle, when, between grief and amazement, she exclaimed: "Why, mamma! none of them have got horns on. Does ever God begin things without finishing? It is a bad habit!"

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.—In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we can vouch for as being a true and reliable remedy, and one that will do as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & McDonald.

A Clergyman's Testimony.

W. E. Gifford, Pastor M. E. Church, Bothwell, was for two years a sufferer with Dyspepsia in its worst form, until as he states, "life became an actual burden." Three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him, and he tells us in a recent letter that he considers it the best family medicine now before the country for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. 38-2t

At a Republican Convention in North Carolina a cautious and conservative German was nominated for member of the Lower House of the Legislature. In response to the calls of the enthusiastic delegates he arose, smiling, and said, 'I tanks you, ahentlemen, very much indeed. I makes no speech.',

"Of course you accept the nomination," the chairman said.

"Vell," replied the favorite son, "I don't know so vell as dot, I must first ask my vife aboud it."

The Convention took a recess to enable him confer with his wife.

The phrase, "It takes nine tailors to make a man," originated many centuries ago. It was known before the time of good Queen Bess, who, one day, on receiving a deputation of eighteen tailors, addressed them, "Good day, gentlemen, both." We have heard its origin explained in this way: Once upon a time a homeless orphan had applied for assistance at a fashionable London tailor's, where nine journeymen were employed. The boy's condition stirred the benevolence of the nine, who each gave him one shilling. With this slender capital, the youth started in the flint business, and in time became very rich, and retired from business. Then, instead of having a coat of arms, he emblazoned upon his spoons and panels, the grateful motto, "Nine tailors made me a man."

Have you Lost the Sense of Taste or Smell?

If so, it may be from the LEPROSY of the 19th century, Catarrh. The Constitutional Catarrh Remedy will restore you to enjoyable health. It not only cures Catarrh, but all others at the same time. PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 5, 1882.

The Marmion Side Issue.

The clap-trap cry which the Tory press is raising against Mr. Crooks, Minister of education, because he saw fit to withdraw Scott's poem of "Marmion" from the High School curriculum, seems to be merely a dodge to divert discussion from the real issues that should engage the attention of the electors. They have been worsted in their attack on the License Act and have eaten the leek very tamely, and, foreseeing a similar issue to any discussion respecting the question of disallowance of Provincial legislation, and being heartily ashamed of Mr. Meredith's double dance on the Boundaries question, they stir up this tempest in a teapot about Mr. Crooks and "Marmion." The history of "Marmion" in relation to the present matter is simply this: Scott's "Marmion" was placed on the list of subjects for examination in English literature at Matriculation for 1883 in Toronto University. Therefore, of necessity, it became a subject of study in the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes, at their opening, on the first of last September. Many of the High School teachers found from experience—the only reasonable mode in which the matter could have been discovered—the impracticability of teaching it in mixed classes of girls and boys. Besides the mixing up of a recreant nun with the plot, the allusions to "bloody Rome" and other matters made it decidedly distasteful and obnoxious to the Roman Catholics who form a large and respectable portion of the pupils of our high schools. For these two reasons Mr. Crooks withdrew "Marmion" from the lists, so to speak. He was justified in the first reason, because the poem is unfit for critical and close reading and analysis in a mixed class of girls and boys. Not that it is immoral or inculcates immorality. A work on obstetrics or a treatise on ovariotomy is by no means immoral, but neither would hardly be well adapted to reading aloud and discussing in the family circle. In regard to the other reason, it seems that our Roman Catholic fellow citizens should have as much respect paid to their religious sentiments. The Government—and no one objects to it on the ground of simple justice—has conceded their right as to Separate Schools, and no honest, fair-minded and liberal person (which of course does not include Tory politicians and journals) will object to their rights being recognized in this matter. The Tory organs make a great outcry because, in anticipation of "Marmion" being used as a text book, pupils had purchased a great number of them, and they must now become a dead loss. Not at all. Marmion is a beautiful poem, and the pupils have the book for their money, and a good book too, if they don't have to dissect its amourous anatomy with a giddy school girl. But such is one of the frivolous means employed to divert attention from the important issues upon which the Mowat Administration will have to secure the approval of the electors. It is sheer nonsense to raise such an outcry against Mr. Crooks because new parents have bought copies of "Marmion" for their children, which will not be a loss because not used for their original purpose, when they condone the action of Mr. Meredith in conspiring with Sir John Macdonald and Mousseau to dismember Ontario of sixty-five million acres of territory at one fell swoop. But the attempt to mark discussion will be in vain; vain the attempt to resurrect the knightly Marmion to assist them in their dirty work. Marmion is dead—in both senses.

The rate, Mr. Paterson explained, necessary to raise the required amount was 11 4/10 mills in the dollar, of which 6 5/10 are for general purposes, and 4 9/10 mills are for school purposes.

Mr. Rutherford was disappointed that Mr. Paterson had not made a budget speech. He supposed the increase of 3/10 of a mill was caused by the advance of wages in the street work and the increase of $600 in the demand of the schools. He thought the report about right.

The report was adopted.

FIRE WATER AND GAS.

Mr. Rutherford, Chairman, presented the report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee. Accompanying the report was the evidence taken before the Committee in reference to the cause of delay at the recent fires. The report recommended that in future the Chief Engineer when wishing to communicate with the engineer, to send one of his officers, or to give distinct signals when desirous of coupling or uncoupling the hose, or in want of more pressure.

Also, that the Chief Engineer give information to the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee at the first neglect of duty on the part of the engineer or other person, and said committee, through its Chairman, shall have power to dismiss such engineer or other person.

That Samuel English be appointed assistant engineer, at a salary of $100 per annum; and the Clerk be instructed to inform Mr. White of the necessity of making better time at fires.

The report was adopted, but Mr. McNaughton demanded the yeas and nays, which were taken as follows:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Cahill, Kelly, Paterson, Wilson, Rutherford, Menzies and Richardson. 7.

NAYS.—Mr. McNaughton, 1.

STREETS AND BRIDGES.

Mr. Cahill presented the report of the Street and Bridge Committe, which recommended,

That permission be granted J. F. Lewis to put down a drain on Water street.

That in respect to the request of the Ontario and Quebec R. R., leave be granted, as far as the Corporation is concerned, to erect a permanent bridge over the Otonabee, at the point designated, on condition that the company give a satisfactory guarantee that they will erect a swing bridge within six months from the time, whenever required by the Council, and also to build a wharf at the foot of Water street as good as the Sherbrooke street wharf, and that a copy of this report be sent to the Minister of Railways and Canals.

Report adopted.

MISC.

Mr. Kelly called attention to the suggestion of Mr. McNaughton that the hose were rotting for want of care.

Mr. Rutherford said that the hose was well cared for, in which he was endorsed by Chief Engineer Rutherford, who added that Mr. English had taken the best of care of them.

DRAINAGE DEFECTS.

The petition of David Wallace to have a drain opened on the boundary near Mr Campbell's was referred to the street and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson complained of the nuisance of the drain on Hunter street, from Water to George. It was so foul that he was threatened with the loss of his tenants, and if he suffered loss he would expect to be recouped by the corporation.

Referred to Street and Bridge Committee to deal with.

HYDRANTS.

Mr. Rutherford gave notice of a motion for the town to take four hydrants from the Water Works Company as soon as the works were tested.

He explained their location as follows: One at the drill shed; one at the public school; one on the court house hill and one on the market square.

On motion the Council adjourned till Friday night.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The regular meeting of the School Board was held on Tuesday evening last.

There were present—The Chairman, J. Stevenson, Esq., and Messrs. Denne, McClelland, Burnham, Stratton, Weir and Sproule.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved of.

Mr. McClelland understood a circular had been received from the Minister of Education with reference to a change in a certain subject in literature by substituting the much spoken of "Marmion" as there are grievous objections taken to it. He would like to know if it had been adopted in the High School.

The Chairman said he had heard nothing of it.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented:—

J. Hertram	$ 51 19
R. Kingan	0 25
Times Printing Co	4 62
McKee & Davidson	3 27
Toker & Co	18 50
A. Hall	7 31
Board School Trustees, Douro	13 50

The last account is for a charge of 25 cents a month for each child attending the Auburn School, in the North of the town, as per arrangement made by a special committee.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the accounts be refered to the Finance Committee, with instructions to pay if found correct.—Carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From W. James, resigning the janitorship of the South Ward school.—Accepted.

From the Boiler Inspector of Insurance Company, stating that the boiler was in good condition, excepting that the joint of safety valve was leaking.—Received.

From the Minister of Education, stating that the Entrance and Intermediate Examinations had been properly conducted, and that the Examiners were entitled to their remuneration.—Received.

From J. G. Hodgins, Deputy Minister of Education, stating that the half yearly apportionment to the Peterborough schools was $797.—Received.

From M. Beatty & Son, a circular giving prices, and showing sample of desks for schools—Received.

From R. Wadsworth, Chairman of the Weston High School, asking the Board to unite with them in asking the Lieutenant Governor to so amend the School Law, as to allow counties to be divided into High School Districts, according to the number of schools in the county. Pupils from the county to be admitted free.

The Chairman and Secretary were instructed to sign the petition.

From the Principal of the Public Schools drawing the attention of the Board to the very large number of young pupils in Miss Graham's division, and asking for the Board to deal with the matter. Also giving a statement of the number of pupils on the roll, and the average attendance for September, viz:—Central School, number on roll, 568; average attendance, 475. South Ward, number on roll, 222; average attendance, 189. West ward, number on roll, 164; average attendance, 135. Total number on roll in public schools—954. Average attendance, 799.—Received.

From Mrs. E. Holmes, Thos. Parrington and John Lacheur, wishing to be appointed to to the position of janitor of the South Ward School.—Received.

APPOINTING JANITOR.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That Mr. John Lacheur be appointed janitor of the South Ward School, at same salary as predecessor, he to saw the necessary wood for school.

Moved in amendment by Dr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Weir,—That the applications for the janitorship of the South Ward School, be referred to the Committee on Appointments.

The motion was adopted.

OVERCROWDING IN SCHOOL.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Dr. Burnham,—That the Inspector of Schools, the Chairman of the School Board, the Principal of the Public School and the Chairman of the Property Committee, be a committee to deal with the overcrowding of pupils in Miss Graham's division, as they deem best.—Carried.

TENDERS FOR WOOD.

Mr. McClelland drew the attention of the Board to the matter of procuring wood for the schools.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Dr. Burnham,—That the Chairman of the Property Committee be instructed to advertise for tenders for the necessary wood required for the use of the schools for the ensuing year. The Chairman of Committee in the meantime to procure such wood as is required, on the best possible terms.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

Warning!

We regret that it is necessary to warn the public against so-called respectable druggists, who for a few cents additional profit are palming off a dangerous and flesh-eating substitute for that great remedy, PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR. As Putnam's is a simple, purely vegetable compound, and non-poisonous in composition, no surprise need be felt that serious results have attended the use of caustic applications substituted as above for the genuine "CORN EXTRACTOR." COBOURG'S CENTRAL.

The Annual Exhibition—The Show not a Success in every respect—Very Large Attendance and Magnificent Weather.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual Central Exhibition of the various agricultural societies in the Counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland, opened at Cobourg on Tuesday, September 26th. From the reports that had been circulated previous to the opening day, an admirable display, larger than ever before, since the Central was inaugurated had been fondly anticipated by the people in this vicinity, by us at least, but all were doomed to disappointment, as the show in many respects was far behind its predecessors.

The number of entries reached about 2,500, a fair number, but from various causes, a large number of those who had entered were not on hand with their exhibits, and thus detracted greatly from the success of the exhibition. The reasons given were various, press of business in work being the most numerous, and many were of the opinion that had the show been held later in the season, the number of exhibits would have been far larger, but be that as it may, the fact remains that after promising, they did not exhibit.

Throughout the three days the weather was simply magnificent, and one would think that the clerk of the weather had entered into partnership with the management to provide the finest weather of the season.

The fine weather, and the promise of something extra in the show line combined, had a tendency to draw a very large crowd, and the attendance throughout was probably larger than at any similar exhibition that has yet taken place. On Wednesday about 6,500 people paid at the gates, and the total number on the grounds that day must have been not less than 9,000 or 10,000. Of course Wednesday was the great day, but nevertheless large numbers were present on both of the others, the speeding of the horses and review of the prize animals forming the great attractions. The attendance from this section was extra large, which is saying a good deal, as Peterborough people are always the best patrons of the Central Fair.

The Fountain Hose Band of Cobourg furnished music, and their excellent playing was listened to attentively, and for many appeared to be one of the chief attractions of the show, as the band stand was always surrounded by an admiring crowd.

The grounds, as many of our readers are aware, are the most commodious and best fitted up in the four counties, just such as Peterborough should have. This year a new office for the Secretary, etc., has been erected close to the entrance gate, and is a great improvement on the pent up quarters formerly assigned to the officials. With that exception the grounds are the same as on former occasions.

The first day was mainly taken up with placing exhibits, and judging them, the latter being by far the more difficult job.

On Wednesday, everything being in position, and the majority of the awards having been made, from an early hour visitors from the rural and other districts commenced to flock in and flow in a constant stream to the grounds. In the afternoon the scene was a very animated one, forming a huge human kaleidoscope as the mass surged hither and thither. The hum of voices and the noise made by by pedestrians and vehicles, mingled with the squaky tones of the fakirs, and the louder and more harsh notes of the side-show man, the din altogether being indescribable. Fakirs, dressed in all kinds of garbs, and disposing of all kinds of wares, useful and useless, many of them devised to trap the unwary, had free access to the grounds, no person apparently caring to check their doings, although our police would not for a minute tolerate some of them, were they to try their games in our town.

The largest building was set apart for ladies' work, fruit, flowers, fine arts, etc., and was well filled. The ladies' work comprised some very good specimens, although not nearly so large as in former years. Here were to be seen many articles that have time and again adorned the walls, not only of the Central, but of various County and Township shows, and in our humble opinion, it is about time that some other use was found for them, rather than carrying them around the country from place to place. While some of the exhibits were really meritorious, others were of a very common appearance, and if there had been anything to compete against them, the red tickets would not have adorned them.

The display of fancy work made by Miss Linda Sanderson, George street, Peterborough, was exceedingly creditable, and consisted of a toilet set, mantel drapery, tea cosy, pair of panels, worked with the designs of British and colonial emblems, a wash stand, and toilet set. Her fine collection was the centre of admiration, and was well worthy, from its elegance in design, and skilful execution, of the lavish praise that was bestowed upon it. We cordially congratulate Miss Sanderson on the fine display made by her.

The display in the fine arts class was small, but contained some good work.

The flowers, plants, shrubs, etc., shown were excellent, while the show of fruit was better than in former years, especially the pears.

The roots and cereals were excellent, the competition being very keen.

In dairy products, cheese and butter, the show was small but of fine quality.

Among the miscellaneous exhibits, were stoves, by Climo Bros.; hardware, by Jeffrey & Macaachtan; organs, by Atkinson; and buggies and harness.

The display of agricultural implements, usually one of the features of agricultural shows, was the leanest we have ever seen; less than half a dozen firms being represented, including Messrs. P. Hamilton and J. Whyte & Co., of Peterborough, who, as usual, were not one whit behind the larger manufacturers, and succeeded in carrying off a fair share of the awards. Mr. Hamilton secured 1st for plough and 2nd for reaper and rake, while Messrs. Whyte & Co., with their now celebrated No. 3, patent plough, beat all competitors.

The poultry show was very slim, both as regards entries and the quality of the birds shown, indeed the judges did not consider many worthy of first prize, although the only entries in the class. There were no exhibitors from this district.

The show of cattle was small, but some good animals were to be seen. A yoke of oxen, owned by Mr. W. Blezzard, weighing 40 cwt. and 25 lbs., attracted much attention, as did a fine Durham bull.

The exhibit of sheep was large and very creditable, and of swine the same may be said.

The horse ring was throughout the entire show, surrounded by a large crowd, and as the extra fine animals shown were speeded around the ring, the judges performed their onerous duties. A finer turnout of horses had never been seen on the grounds, and the judges had a rather difficult task to award the prizes so as to give satisfaction. When we state that such horses as "Viceroy," "Pride of Perth," "Black Knight" and "Romulus," all of which obtained either gold medals or first prizes at the Provincial, were shown, some idea of the quality of the exhibit may be gained.

The number of entries from this vicinity was not very large, but, as will be seen by the subjoined list, a fair share of the honors were carried off. The following were the prize winners from this locality.

LADIES' WORK.—Miss Mills, Ashburnham, cone work, fancy mitts in wool, worked camp chair, crochet work in cotton, first prizes; embroidery with net and muslin, lace work, cotton stockings, toilet set in cotton, second prizes. Miss F. Davidson, Smith.—Tatting, first prize, and cretonne work, second prize. Mrs. S. McKibbin, Smith,—Darning in net, embroidery on muslin, embroidery on cotton, embroidery on net and muslin, first prizes; crotchet work in wool and roman embroidery, second prizes; table cover, slipper case and slippers, recommended.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.—Miss Mills, Ashburnham,—Bartlett pears and fall pears, second prizes. Mrs. W. Rutherford, South Monaghan,—Six pansies, six asters, first prize; phlox drummondi, six zinnias, and 25 cut flower annuals second prize. W. Blezzard, Otonabee,—Northern spy apples, first prize; crab apples, and citron melons, second prize.

VEGETABLES, ETC.—Stephen Payne, Peterborough,—White onions, and blood turnip beets, first prizes; yellow seed onions, and collection of onions, second prize. T. M. Willan, South Monaghan,—Early Kent peas, and factory cheese, first prize. W. Rutherford, South Monaghan,—Maple sugar and maple syrup, first prizes.

GEMMELL & MCKEE, Peterborough.—Full cloth, checked and striped flannel, (all wool,) and blankets, first prizes.

HORSES.—John Galvin, Smith,—Single carriage horse, not less than 15½ hands, first prize.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Saulter left on Friday last for Montreal, to enter upon the duties of his new position in the Citizens Insurance Co.

Rev. Dr. Wild arrived in town by the noon train on Tuesday, and was the guest of Mr. J. Stratton.

Mrs. James Campbell left on Tuesday for Portage la Prairie, where she joins her husband, who is doing a thriving business in the soda water line, etc.

Mr. D. W. Dumble returned home on Saturday from Winnipeg, where he reports things as booming—in the building line especially, the wages of masons and bricklayers having advanced to $6 per day.

Mr. W. G. Thompson, lately in the employ of Messrs. Farweather & Co., has removed to Lindsay, where he has been appointed to the position of book-keeper for the firm of Messrs. Needler & Saddler.

Rev. John Shaw, of this place, was elected by the General Conference of the Methodist Church, which closed its sessions in Toronto last Wednesday, fraternal delegate to the Primitive Methodist Conference.

Mr. Alfred J. Johnston, of Stonewall, Man., a former resident of Peterborough, came to town last Thursday night, on a visit to his many friends. We are pleased to learn that he is doing a thriving general mercantile business in the North-west.

Mr. Wm. Lech, who has been absent this summer on a visit to Germany, left Dresden, on the 18th of September, for Leipsic, where he remained till the 23rd. On the 24th—last Sunday week—he embarked at Hamburgh for New York, and may be expected home almost any day.

The majority of those who have recently been in town on a visit from Winnipeg, have departed again for the "Great Lone Land." They think Peterborough is the place for refinement, good society and happiness; but give them Manitoba for mammon and mad worship, business boom and rapid riches.

Rev. Mr. Walker, who has filled the pulpit of the Baptist church during the vacation, left town on Monday morning, for Toronto, where he continues his studies at McMaster Hall. As an evidence of the manner in which his excellent services have been appreciated, and of the popularity he has won during his brief stay, a number of the members of the congregation presented him with a substantial purse on Friday night.

Mr. Wm. Dumble, of Peterborough, has returned home from a visit to Dakota, and endorses all the praise of the country, as sung by Mr. Delaney in his letter published in the EXAMINER last June. He left with us samples of the white Russian oats with heads ten inches in length, and samples of the Surprise spring wheat, from a field on Mr. Wm. Langton's farm, which yielded forty bushels to the acre.

Rev. G. C. Workman, late assistant pastor of Charlotte St. Methodist church, who, on account of ill health, was compelled to retire from active ministerial work, has been appointed assistant professor in two departments of Victoria College, Cobourg. He enters on his duties this (Thursday) morning. We hope Mr. W. may enjoy a continuation of his renewed health, and meet with great success in his new position.

YELLOW AS A GUINEA.—The complexion in a case of unchecked liver complaint, culminating in jaundice, is literally "as yellow as a guinea." It has this appearance because the bile, which enables the bowels to act, is directed from its proper course into the blood. In connection with this system there is nausea, coating of the tongue, sick headache, impority of the breath, pains through the right side and shoulder blade, dyspepsia and constipation. These and other concomitants of liver complaint are completely removed by the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which is also an eradicant of scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, ulcers, cancers, humours, female weakness, jaundice, and lumbago. It tones the stomach, rouses the liver, and after relieving them, causes the bowels thereafter to become regular. High professional sanction has been accorded to it; and its claims to public confidence are justified by ample evidence. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

A NERVE AND BRAIN FOOD is needed in all cases of nervous and sexual prostration. Mack's Magnetic Medicine meets this want more effectually than any other preparation, and the price brings it within the reach of all. Read the advertisement in another column. The Busy End

Of our Store is found in every part of it—in every Department, and on all sides of it.

We are not disposed to say as much about it as are our customers who remark the activity in every direction, of what they are pleased to compliment as a well ordered business.

All details of our trade have responsible supervision, and everything connected with each department is being, if possible, more carefully looked after than heretofore.

In the Existing

Circumstances of increased cost of living, everybody who wishes to be economical, should ask themselves "where and how they can spend their money to best advantage."

A great many people have the habit of dealing in certain stores, and buying large quantities of goods and paying for them too, without ever asking themselves "could I have done any better elsewhere?"

If they would only take a little trouble and look around and call on us, they would be generally surprised in a six months how much to their advantage it is to trade with us.

Equally So

In all particulars is it with the stranger or transient visitor—whether great or small—whose custom is as much a matter of confidence to us as those of longer standing.

Hence as far as our business obligations go, all are on the same basis, and equally the recipient of our best work. And everything we have shall equal the expectation of those who pay their money for it.

WHEN THE FROST IS ON THE PUNKIN.

When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock,
And you hear the kyouck and gobble of the strutting turkey cock,
And the clackin' of the guineys and the cackle of the hens,
And the rooster's ballyhooyer as he tiptoes on the fence,
Oh it's then's the time a feller is a feelin' at his best,
With a risin' sun to greet him from a night of gracious rest,
As he leaves the house bareheaded, and goes out to feed the stock,
When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock.

There's somepin kind o' hearty-like about the atmosphere,
When the heat of summer's over and the coolin' Fall is here
Of course we miss the flowers and the blossoms on the trees,
And the mumble of the hummin' birds and buzzin' of the bees;
But the air's so appetizin', and the landscape through the haze
Of a crisp and sunny morning of the early Autumn days
Is a picture that no painter has the colorin' to mock,
When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock.

The husky, rusty rustle of the tossels of the corn,
And the raspin' of the the tangled leaves, as golden as the morn;
The stubble in the furries, kindo' lonesome like, but still
A-preachin' sermons to us of the barns they growed to fill;
The strawstack in the medder and the reaper in the shed;
The hosses in their stalls below, the clover overhead;
Oh, it sets my heart a-clickin like the tickin' of a clock,
When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock!

Smith, Ennismore, and Lakefield Fall Show.

Beautiful Weather—Fine Exhibition—Success Financially and Otherwise.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

"His corn and cattle were his only care,
And his supreme delight a County Fair."
—Dryden.

Thus sung the poet, and had he been present in Lakefield on Friday last, he certainly would have found many honest men there, whose daily avocation is to tend their cattle, and bring forth the fruit of the earth. Once again Old Father Time has turned the wheel, and in due season has brought the above Townships' products to one great show in the annual exhibition and fair. On Thursday and Friday last the twenty-fifth annual Show was held in the village of Lakefield, and was the most successful yet held by these municipalities. The entries numbered 835; being 125 more than last year. The opening day was devoted to the reception of the exhibits, other than live stock, in having them placed in position, and in the afternoon the judges proceeded to examine the articles, and make their awards. The articles in the building were all tastefully arranged to advantage, and the hall presented a handsome appearance, decorated with an abundance of the ladies' handiwork, which department was much admired. In grain, the number of actual exhibiters was very large, 40 bags being on exhibition—fully one-half more than in previous years—and the quality was very fine. The first prize barley weighed 51½ lbs to the bushel. The spring wheat was on the dark side, but was plump and good.

The display of potatoes, mangolds, turnips, pumpkins, cabbage, parsnips, and carrots was good—in fact it was double extra. The home-made bread was exceptionally fine, and the number of entries exceeded previous years.

Mr. Thos. Gordon exhibited a very nice single canoe, which weighed only 40 lbs.

Mr. R. Chapin took first prize for collection of furniture, and had on exhibition a handsome black ash bedroom set, trimmed with walnut, manufactured in his establishment in Lakefield. It was a credit to the village and the manufacturer.

Mr. W. Harper's remarkably fine display of single and double carriages, and heavy harness was much admired, and showed that Mr. H. was capable of turning out all that could be desired in this line.

Mr. R. A. Strickland's case of minerals attracted much attention.

A hat rack made with two red cedar roots, belonging to Mr. Strickland, had its share of wonder-seekers.

Messrs. Gemmel & McKee's display of blankets, full-cloth, shanty-blankets, and all wool checked flannel (which took first prize at the Central Exhibition, Cobourg, this year,) was greatly admired, and was a fair sample of the work turned out by this firm.

Mr. J. E. Murray, representing the Singer Sewing Machine Company, had a splendid assortment of machines, and the ladies gave no little time to examining the fine work done by the Singer.

The weather being clear and comfortably warm, induced a large crowd of people to come out; while the number of exhibitors, especially in horses, was exceedingly large, and many of the animals would have done credit to their owners at more pretentious shows.

In cattle "the breeds" were represented, while the show in Grades was fully up to former years.

In sheep and swine, of which there were a good number, some very fine specimens were shown.

There was quite a large display of Poultry, and some beautiful birds among them.

The display in the different departments was all that could be expected or wished for, and the society are to be congratulated on this year's show.

The Peterborough 57th Battalion Band was on hand on Thursday evening and Friday, and gave some of their choice selections. As Friday wore on the village and grounds were thronged with visitors, and the exhibition building was filled with sight-seers until the hour for closing. The proceeds from the sale of tickets was in excess of any previous year. The President, Mr. S. McKibbon, and the Secretary, Mr. M. S. Dean, assisted by other Directors, were kept busy during the day, and their friendly deportment and obliging manners helped materially to the success of the exhibition, and those interested have the satisfaction of knowing that in point of attendance, as well as financial success, it has outdone any of its predecessors.

The fortunate winners of distinction will be found in the annexed

A PAIR OF PANTS,

AND THE CONVULSIONS THEY CREATED IN A CHURCH AT GALT THE OTHER SUNDAY.

The "Manchester of Canada" is a godly town and noted for the regularity with which its inhabitants attend divine worship. Rain or shine everybody goes to church. It looked like a shower the other Sunday evening and so before starting for the sanctuary, the wife of a prominent citizen hurriedly took her dolman from her clothe's closet. Gracefully carrying the garment over her arm Mrs.——— sallied forth accompanied by a young lady friend. They floated down town with the stream of churchgoers and passed into the house of the Lord feeling that they had done their duty to themselves and their consciences in braving the threatening elements to take part in the service. Mrs.—— threw her wrap over the seat in front and was about to say her little prayer when, gracious goodness! her eye caught the glitter of buttons and white lining. With a horrified look she turned to her companion and gasped: "Good heavens! its a pair of Harry's pants instead of my dolman." To continue in the words of our correspondent, (who is none other than the companion in question), "That was enough, I nearly bolted my prayer book, and if it had not been for my wool shawl I don't know what would become of me. As for Mrs.——— I thought she would go off by silent combustion. We laughed until we cried, and it was with difficulty that the poor dear could summon up courage enough to seize the innocent trousers and cast them beneath the seat, but she managed at last to do it, and there they lay extended, every look at the vile things throwing us into fresh convulsions." And here our fair correspondent's story ends, but she forgot to tell us, as we subsequently learned, that the choir very appropriately opened the service with the anthem "As pants the Hart, etc.," and that Mrs.——bribed the sexton to remove the other pants under cover of darkness.—Toronto World.

Farmers and Mechanics.

Provide yourselves with a bottle of PAIN-KILLER at this season of the year, when summer complaints are so prevalent; it is a prompt, safe, and sure cure. It may save you days of sickness, and you will find it is more valuable than gold. Be sure you buy the genuine PERRY DAVIS PAIN-KILLER, and take no other mixture.

Cobourg, Ont., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first-class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

NORWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

RAILWAY OPERATIONS.

Railway operations in this village and vicinity are being pushed forward with considerable activity, notwithstanding the fact that all along the line there is a great lack of hands. A few days ago more than half the men on the Norwood section struck work and went home, after spending about a week here in drinking away what little was left of their hard-earned wages; but still the work goes bravely on. Better men step into the places of the discontented, and the chopping, the digging and the picking, are going on almost unceasingly. The great hill at the grist mill here is fast disappearing, and will soon be seen no more for ever. The filling in across the pond has been completed, but the road bed has to be raised still more about fourteen inches. Grading is now going on in different parts of this section, and Mr. McDonnell, the contractor, expects soon to largely increase the number of men in his employment. On the section east of Norwood, Messrs. Sims & Lewis, contractors, the work is well advanced, and a fine stretch of railway bed is already constructed, and on which several very substantial culverts have been built. On this section there are about fifty hands at work, and seven or eight teams of horses. Even with the small number of men and horses, a great length of grading has been performed through some heavy cuts and over a rough tract of country. Messrs. Sims & Lewis also expect shortly to largely increase the working staff on their section, and the former, as well as Mr. McDonnell, are now at Ottawa and Montreal engaging men to work on these sections of the Ontario and Quebec Railway.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Building operations in Norwood are also in a satisfactory state of progress, and though there has also been a scarcity of hands in this respect too, still the work of building has been carried on with rapidity and perseverance. The additions to the Norwood House are nearly completed, and the exterior of that structure gives to the hotel an imposing and magnificent appearance, while the largely increased accommodation inside, will place the Norwood House in the front rank of village hotels. A new building has been erected, and just completed, adjacent to the hotel, for Mr. Robert Wilson, as a harness and saddlery shop, who removed to his new and commodious premises on Monday last. Mr. Wilson's business has lately outgrown the dimensions of the shop formerly occupied by him, and being a man of excellent taste and good judgment, he will thoroughly appreciate the handsome and spacious apartments he now occupies, both for show rooms and workshop. Mr. Thomas Fraser's handsome brick dwelling on Queen street is rapidly reaching colossal proportions, and when completed will be an ornament to that portion of our town, and barring the Presbyterian church, will be the handsomest structure on that street. He is to be congratulated on his push and enterprise, and it is to be hoped will live long to enjoy the comforts of the home he is providing for himself and his numerous family. It is rumoured that shortly one of our leading gentlemen is about to commence the construction of a large mansion and other buildings to be used as business stands and tenements. It is to be hoped the rumour is correct, as all these classes of buildings are much required now. The permanent residence of many persons in connection with the railway now under construction in our locality, has left us without a single vacant house of any kind, and the demand for dwellings is almost every day increasing. Several parties from Hastings were in town a couple of days ago seeking both dwellings and business stands, but their demands, unfortunately, could not be supplied.

EXCURSION.

An excursion under the auspices of the Presbyterian church of this village, took place on Friday last, to Belleville. As expected, a large number of our people availed themselves of the opportunity to visit that ambitious city. Arrangements also were made for the excursion to visit Massassaga Point. An effort was made by some of our villagers to have our civic holiday on that day, but one of our merchants could not afford to loose the chance of picking up a stray copper, and therefore refused to sign the requisition.

It makes no difference how precious the gem, it must bear the test before its value is established. Thatcher's Orange Butter Color has successfully borne every test that the dairymen in twenty-five States could possibly apply, and been pronounced to have no equal at home or abroad.

There is said to be a Mormon settlement near Hagerstown, Md., composed of natives who have been converted by Mormon missionaries. Though strong in that faith they respect the State laws relative to polygamy.

H. Gladden, West Shefford, P.Q., writes: For a number of years I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Two years ago I was attacked very severely. I suffered a great deal of pain, from which I was not free for a day, until last spring, when I began to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and I rejoice to say it has cured me, for which I am thankful.

"There's a forger down here," yelled a little boy to a policeman on the street last Saturday. "Where?" asked the policeman. "Come and I'll show you." said the boy. He led the way to the blacksmithshop, and pointed to the smith, said: "There's the forger a-forging." And then the boy had such important business up the street that the police couldn't get within fifty rods of him.

"Middle measures are often but middling measures." There are no "middlings" about Kidney-Wort. It is the most thoroughly refined "flower" of medicine. It knows no half-way measures, but radically uproots all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels. It overthrows piles, abolishes constipation and treats the system so gently and soothingly as to prove its true kinship to nature in all its phrases. It is prepared in both liquid and dry form.

The French topographical expedition has been attacked by marauding tribes near Kairouan, Tunis, and the commander killed and seven men disabled. Thirty brigands were killed.

SKILL IN THE WORKSHOP.—To do good work the mechanic must have good health. If long hours of confinement in close rooms have enfeebled his hand or dimmed his sight, let him at once, and before some organic trouble appears take plenty of Hop Bitters. His system will be rejuvenated, his nerves strengthened, his sight become clear, and the whole constitution be built up to a higher working condition. 40-2t

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Women," as many of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 h is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Goat, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

NEXT WINTER. The prophets of evil all agree in saying that the coming winter will be a severe one—one of the old fashioned kind.

A SPLENDID STOCK of men and boys' hand-made boots, also women and childrens' in light and heavy goods. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

SHANTY INTELLIGENCE.—Two shanties of men, who will get out logs for Haslett's Mills, are already domiciled in the northern timber limits. Their population is about 80 men.

EVERY BUYER of tweeds, flannels, fulled cloths, blankets, cottons, and general house-furnishing goods, will save money by purchasing from Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

A BIG BUY.—Mr. D. Belleghem, the other day, purchased from the Bank of Montreal, 15,000 feet of basswood lumber to be used in his business. The furniture trade must be booming.

IT WILL pay every man or boy, in want of a good tweed suit, Overcoat or rubber coat, to see the immense stock of new and fashionable goods offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

THE ASSIZES.—A Belleville exchange says that Mr. G. E. Henderson, Q.C., of that place, is to conduct the Crown business of the approaching assizes, that open at the Court House, on Monday next.

THE RATE OF TAXATION.—The rate of taxation for the year 1881; is 11 4/10 mills in the $—divided as follows:—For general purposes, 6 5/10 mills; for school purposes 4 9/10 mills—an increase of 3/10 over the rate of 1881.

LADIES will find with W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, a nice stock of new dress goods, black cashmeres, winceys, ready-made mantles, ulsters, rubber circulars, trimmed hats, corsets, gloves, and fancy goods. 39-4ins

ENGLISH'S CANOES. — The Petrolia Topic gives a long report of a canoe voyage, made from Peterborough to Toronto, by Messrs. Frazer, of that place. The fact of their having purchased one of Englishe's canoes, accounts for the speed and comfort of their voyage.

EXTENDING ITS BORDERS.—The seating accommodation of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, having become too limited for the largely increased congregation, it has been decided to enlarge, and otherwise improve the church. The front is to be projected 17 feet, and internal arrangements are to be made to improve the building, in several respects.

WHAT WILL BE THE NEXT?—One after another mishap befalls our fire extinguishing apparatus; the steamer becomes weak, and can't supply half steam enough; there are vexations and costly delays. The rope of the alarm bell broke last Thursday night, while being used to summon the Brigade, and it may reasonably be asked, what will be the next?

CHANGE OF TIME.—A change of time in the train service of the Grand Junction Division of the Midland Railway will take place on monday next. Trains for Belleville and intermediate stations, leave Peterborough at 6.45 a.m. and 3.00 p.m; arriving at Belleville at 11.35 a.m. and 7.35 p.m. Trains from Belleville leave that place at 6.45 a.m. and 2.00 p.m. arriving at Peterborough at 11.40 a.m. and 6.30 p.m.

OVER THE PRECIPICE.—A man lifting himself by his boot-straps, and a farmer who fastens his horses by the lines to the wagon-wheel, are a good pair. A few days since a driver fastened his team in this manner at Gemmel and McKee's. He left his horses for a time, and as they backed up a little the pulley operated, the lines tightened, and the animals, wagon, and all went over the river bank. No serious damage was done.

TROUBLE ON DICKSON'S DAM.—On Monday night two of the stop-logs, at the southern portion of Dixon's Dam, gave way. The consequence was that the race was drained, and Brodies' Otonabee Woollen Mills, which were running, of course, had to cease working. The gang of men, who were employed in making repairs to the dam, at once set to work, making good the break, and the damage was repaired by noon on Tuesday.

A SUNDAY FIRE.—It is common enough for church-bells to ring fire-alarms, that have reference to the operation of that element in a future world, but on Sunday morning the bell of St. Peter's Cathedral introduced a variation. About 9 o'clock it was rung for a material fire that had broken out in the residence of Wm. McMaster, a carpenter residing on the north side of Elm Street. The engine and brigade turned out promptly, but the fire, which was burning in the neighborhood of the chimney, was put out with a few pails of water. The little damage done was covered by insurance, in the Royal.

TO BE REBUILT.—The Dunsford block on Water, corner of Hunter Street, destroyed by fire last Saturday fortnight, is to be at once rebuilt, and workmen have for some time been engaged, removing the rubbish and preparing for the builders. The entire block will be rebuilt this fall, and put under way, but it is likely that only Mr. A. P. Morgan's hotel premises will be completely finished. This promptness of action speaks well for Mr. Dunsford's energy and enterprise. It is such men as he that compose the back-bone of a town. The rebuilding of Mr. T. Fitzgerald's carriage factory is also progressing rapidly, and will in a few days be ready for the rafters.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

As will be seen by advertisement in another column, the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company offer to the public an excellent opportunity of making a safe investment for limited periods. The rate of interest offered is considerably higher than is given by the banks, so that farmers and others who have deposited their earnings with a view to meeting some particular engagement at a definite time cannot do better than obtain a debenture of this Company. The security to the debenture holder is quite undoubted, as all the Company's funds are invested on first mortgages of real estate, and its capital, paid up as well as unpaid, is liable for all its engagements. We have pleasure in recommending this investment to all who are willing to take a low rate of interest with perfect security.

ROCK ISLAND BOOTS, hand made, just the thing for fall wear, to be had only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 40tf.

LEFT OVER.—A German letter from our esteemed friend, Mr. Lech, is in type, but it is crowded out of this issue owing to the space demanded by reports of the local exhibitions.

R. GRAHAM & SON, Lakefield, have just received a large stock of tweeds, full cloths, flannels, blankets, shirts, drawers, and a full line of gents' furnishings at remarkably low prices. 40-2ins.

BRADBURN'S OPERA HALL.—This fine auditorum has been greatly improved by Mr. Hill in the re-lettering and re-numbering of the seats, and the difficulty in placing holders of reserved seats will hereafter be avoided.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH. The opening services of the restored church of St. John's, will be held on Wednesday, November 1st, when it is expected that the Bishop of Toronto, and a large number of clergymen will be present.

RETURNED HOME.—Jas. Montgomery, who received a broken leg and other injuries, while employed in building the R. C. parsonage at Campbellford, was removed to his home on Charlotte street, on Saturday. He is progressing as well as can be expected, but it will be some time before he will be able to be about.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITIONS.—Owing to the large amount of space required to give the usual detailed reports of the Fall Fairs in this county the EXAMINER is unable to give as much general news as we would like. In a couple of weeks this will all be over, and our space will be devoted as usual to the news of the day.

ARMED AND ADDRESSED.—Mr. J. G. Gordon, Midland Railway Bridge Inspector, having resigned that position, to accept a similar one on the C.P.R.R., was, on Saturday night, presented by about a score of the men, over whom he has had charge, with a handsome rifle and a complimentary address.

CORRECTION.—We wish to make a correction of a statement copied from a Toronto paper, in reference to the removal of Rev. Father O'Connell, of Douro. The latter has suffered no change, but Rev. Father Connelly, late assistant priest of the Parish of Peterborough, has been removed to the diocese of Kingston.

DR. WILD'S LECTURE.—There was a large audience to hear this celebrated lecturer answer his self-propounded question, "Did Jeremiah the Prophet visit Ireland." The lecture was a splendid one and listened to by a very large, intelligent, and appreciative audience. We have only space to say that it was original, eloquent, interesting, and instructive.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—Messrs. H. & J. Long have purchased the business of Mr. D. Lemay, George street, who intends leaving Peterborough with his family to reside in Watertown, N.Y. The Messrs. Long intend carrying on the business in both establishments and with their double facilities will be able to more fully meet the wants of the public. Since beginning business they have been assiduous and successful in catering to the public taste, and their new departure will greatly enhance their facilities. We wish them continued and increased success.

THE NEW COMET.—From a failure to make connections, the new comet did not come in time to foretell the Egyptain war, but it has arrived in time to participate in the rejoicings over a British victory. Any one who will take the trouble to take himself to the top of Ludgate's hill about four o'clock of a clear morning, will observe this celestial visitor in the heavens. It has a short tail, but has the novel appendage of a pair of wings, and the appearance of a fiery bird. A Water street medical gentlemen, whose early whereabouts had a remote reference to the census returns, about four o'clock on Tuesday morning discovered the comet. It was near the eastern horizon on a line due east from the post office. According to his description, the comet it of the fan tail species, of good size, but not brilliant.

A WISE ACTION.—The Committee on Fire, Water and Gas has been considering Peterborough's fire extinguishing facilities, to some purpose. On Monday night their report was adopted, recommending the appointment of Mr. Samuel English as assistant engineer to the steamer. Mr. English, the engineer, has been blamed to some extent, perhaps not without cause, but it is plain that he has not had a "fair show." He had too much to attend to at the time of a fire, to permit him to give the steamer the attention she required; matters going wrong with the suction pipe etc., have taken his attention, and the steam has not been kept up to the requisite height. The Committee has given him what he should have had long ago, an assistant, at a small salary, which his appointment a year ago might have saved a hundred times over. False economy is sometimes dear saving.

A MYSTERIOUS BREAK. On Tuesday evening, while everything was quiet in Mr. M. Millar's hardware store, Mr. E. K. Henderson, manager, who was writing at the desk, was startled by a loud crash, and on looking, saw that the southern plate glass had been broken. The break was like a star, with a slight indentation in the centre about the size of a pea. The glass on the inside about the break was split and a portion fell inside. Further inspection showed that the missle, whatever it was, had glanced from the plate glass and had made a smooth dinge in the sign at the bottom and then escaped into the street. The break looks as if made by a spent Enfield bullet, for it seems too clean and compact to have been made by a stone. Anybody firing off a government rifle at a long range elevation in Ashburnham might have sent the bullet this distance, and the break was evidently made by something descending. Any person standing in front of the break in the glass at the time would have been killed or badly wounded. The plate was not insured, and the cracks have extended four or five feet since the break. The lavish way in which our plate glass on George street is broken, calls for strict investigation and punishment of the parties contributing to the expensive destruction.

LACROSSE!

THE PETERBOROUGHS AND SHAMROCKS.

Three Rattling Games—Splendid Play on both Sides—Beautiful Weather —A Very Large Attendance — A Field Day for the Noble Game.

The lively and exciting game of lacrosse played on the Ashburnham cricket ground on Monday afternoon, between the home club team and the junior Shamrocks of Montreal, was one of the finest expositions of the game ever witnessed in this town and it was witnessed by more people, an immense throng having turned out to see some phenomenal good play, in which they were not at all disappointed. The weather was all that could be desired, and the field was in perfect condition. At three o'clock the Fire Brigade band played the boys to the ground, and at 3.30 the two teams faced each other, and this was the composition of

THE TEAMS.

PETERBOROUGH.		SHAMROCKS.
J. Joyal	Goal	J. Reddy
A. M. King	Point	L. Rossser
M. McDonald	Cover Point	J. Wallace
M. Halpin, J. Sheehey, A. Yelland, W. Morrow, H. Fortye, M. McDonald	Field	J. Abern, J. O'Keefe, P. Kearn, T. McBrayerty, A. Patterson, J. Hughes
W. Rudkins, J. Reynolds, C. Rutherford	Home	F. Reilly, M. McBrayerty, P. Gaffney
H. LeBrun	Field Captain	J. B. I. Flynn

Harry Phelan was umpire for our boys and J. McClure for the visitors. W. Breakey acted as referee.

THE GAME

At 3.31 the ball was faced by J. Sheehey and M. McBrayerty, and play at once begun. This game lasted so long that it is impossible to follow the ball and note individual excellence of play. However, no one will feel envious if some sharp play by M. McDonald and A. Yelland is considered worthy of special mention. The field being small, the rubber got frequently out of bounds and there was a good deal of fasing, yet the whole game was fought out keenly. After 13 minutes play the home flags had a narrow escape. The ball was sent in straight between the poles but was beautifully stopped by Joyal, who sent it down to the enemy's goal by one of his famous long throws. The ball continued with varying advantage till at the end of 33 minutes the rubber got again to Joyal's end, where, to speak frankly, it had been a too frequent visitor. In the skirmish Joyal stopped it from passing but it ran down his stick and was scrambled through by O'Keefe of Montreal, thus winning in 33 minutes the first game for the strangers. During this game the Shamrocks indulged in considerable fancy play, but there is no doubt that the ball was put to the right spot at the earliest possible moment.

THE SECOND GAME

began at 4.19, and was marked by some splendid playing by Joyal and King. This game was also keenly contested, but was marked by no special incidents beyond those noted. Play was, however, sharp, and the Shamrocks were more alert than in the first bout. After nineteen minutes had elapsed, W. Rudkins captured the cautchouc about fifty feet in front of the Shamrock goal, and by a beautifully managed straight shot sent it whizzing between the flags, thus winning for Peterborough the second game amid loud aplause.

After the usual recess, five minutes, play was resumed, and begun. The home team seemed to be inspirited by their success, and played with greater vim, but the battle is not always to the strong, for in nine minutes the Shamrocks succeeded in appropriating the third game.

THE THIRD GAME

THE FOURTH GAME

was much longer, and then was not played out. The time it was prolonged argued well for the play of the Peterborough boys, who showed to better advantage in this than in in any other. After thirty minutes there seemed to be no more decided chance of either side winning than at the start, and 5.30 o'clock having been previously agreed on as the time for quitting play, play was declared off at that hour, the fourth game being thirty minutes old, and the match was pronounced a draw.

Throughout the whole game the Peterboroughs played exceedingly well, but it could not but be conceded that they were considerably overmatched by the visitors, who played together splendidly, and thus were less fatigued than those who neglect this kind of play. However the Shamrocks didn't by any means have a walk over, and our boys deserve credit for making them work so long for the two games they secured. The visit of the Montrealers has given a great impetus to the game here, and though now the season is about over, it may be confidently predicted that next year the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will be an exceedingly tough nut to crack, except, perhaps, by the "crack" Montreal or Toronto teams. The boys have got stamina and stay, and all they want is intelligent practice and co-operation to make them one of the first lacrosse clubs on the continent.

TRIPLETS.—Mrs. H. Sutherland, McDonnell street, gave birth on Sunday morning to triplets. They were alive when born, but have since died.

LIGHT MATTERS.—The Gas Company have added about fifty per cent. to the illuminating power of the street lamps by employing a scavanger to remove the dirt on the inside of the lamp globes. Their fiat lux has been obeyed in the west part of the town, by placing new street lamps on the east side of Reid street, oppos te Little Simcoe street, and one on Park street, corner of Brock.

FIRE No 3.—The third fire in the series for the past month or two broke out on Brock street, on Thursday evening, about nine o'clock, in the shed or stable in rear of Mr. Robert Walton's residence. Although the steamer was out and at work in a very short time after the alarm, the flames could not be prevented from spreading to the adjoining sheds, belonging to Mr. John Delaney, occupied by Mrs. Rogers, Mr. Wm. Toole, and Mr. S. F. Allen, occupied by Rev. J. W. Butcher. The largest losers are Mr. Walton, who had burned a new covered phaeton, a covered buggy, harness, etc., and Mrs. Rogers, who had stored her furniture in the shed while the house was repairing. There was some insurance on the sheds, which were not valuable, but none on the contents. The origin of the fire is unknown. The fire brigade and steamer acted splendidly at this fire

SKATING AND CURLING RINK CO.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Skating and Curling Rink Company, was held at "The Oriental" on Tuesday evening; the President Mr. W. G. Ferguson, Esq., in the chair. After reading and confirmation of minutes, the Directors' Financial Statement was submitted, which showed that a small credit balance had been carried forward, notwithstanding that the season had been a very adverse one for both skating and curling. The following were elected Directors for the coming year:—Messrs J. F. Dennistoun, Adam Hall, W. G. Ferguson, R. S. Davidson and W. Manson. At a subsequent meeting of the directors, Mr. W. G. Fergerson was elected President, and J. Irvine Davidson, Secretary.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.—At the last regular meeting of the Peterborough Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 111. resolutions of condolence were passed with the widows of families of their late brothers S. White of this town, and J. Gilbert of Hamilton. Peterborough Lodge has had to mourn the loss of three brothers during the last six months.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in

CHEAPNESS OF GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers, and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE:—Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

PETERBORO' FALL ASSIZES

A Light Criminal Docket.

Peterborough vs. Victoria County—An Otonabee Seduction Suit—A $1,000 Verdict and Example—Action of Alleged Malpractice by a Surgeon—An Action to Recover Dower.

The fall assizes for the county of Peterborough opened at the Court House on Monday before Hon. Mr. Justice Osler. The following gentlemen composed

THE GRAND JURY.

Mr. Frank Birdsall, Foreman.

Gardner Boyd,	Joseph Barnard,
John Crawford,	J. H. Clydesdale,
Wm. Crough,	W. P. Chase,
George Elliott,	Joseph Edwards,
O. Farrar,	Edward Foley,
William Fife,	Robert Girvan,
J. A. Hartley,	John Laing,
Benjamin Matthews	Hiram Reynolds.

His Lordship briefly addressed the Grand Jury.

He congratulated them on the fact of the jail being void of criminals, and expressed his gratification, at so good an indication of the law-abiding nature of the citizens of the county. He explained the duties of the Grand Jury, defined larceny for which one prisoner was out on bail, and dismissed the jury to their duties.

THE BAR.

George Henderson, Esq., Q. C., Belleville, had charge of the Crown's business and there were present besides, James Bethune, Q. C., Toronto; Hector Cameron Q. C., Toronto; D. W. Dumble; Adam Hudspeth, Q. C., Lindsay; G. T. Blackstock, Toronto; N. D. Beck, C. W. Sawers, J. Muir, Hamilton; J. O'Meara, E. B. Edwards, and H. H. Smith.

CRIMINAL SIDE.

Thomas McIntyre, the Grand Jury having found a "true bill" was arraigned on a charge of larceny, two counts, and pleaded not guilty. The Crown Council, not having an important witness present applied to have the case traversed to the sessions. The application was granted, and the accused who had been out on bail, was bound over to appear at the general sessions, himself in $400 and two sureties of $200 each. Mr. E. B. Edwards for defendant.

CIVIL LIST.

CORPORATION OF PETERBOROUGH, vs. CORPORATION OF VICTORIA.—This was an action brought by the plaintiffs to ascertain whether they were liable to contribute to the erection of a bridge at Kinmount, on the boundary. It appears that Victoria rebuilt the bridge and passed a by-law authorizing the appointment of an auditor to decide as to the liability which Peterborough questioned. In case of the refusal of the latter to appoint an arbitrator, application could be made to the Lieut.-Governor in council to name an arbitrator, and thus force an arbitration on Peterborough, and this suit was brought to decide the liability of this county in the premises.

The counsel for the defendants applied for postponement on the ground of absence of an important witness. Postponement granted with costs.

Dennistoun & Hall, solicitors for plaintiffs. Mr. Bethune, counsel; Hudspeth and Dickson for defendants.

WEST vs. ELMHIRST.—An action for seduction, brought by Mr. West of Otonabee, against John Elmhirst of the same township, to recover damages for the seduction of plaintiff's daughter, Annie West. The victim, Miss West, is a young lady of thirty-one years of age, of rathe prepossessing appearance, and modest demeanour; her seducer is a young man one year younger. The ruin of the girl was wrought in August of 1877 and the result was a fine boy, now over four years old which was present in court with its mother. The pretext for bringing the suit at this apparently late day, or rather for not having brought it before, was that the defendant all along had promised to make reparation by a marriage under promise of which it was alleged—though not in evidence—the seduction had been accomplished; but about four months ago defendant married another young lady, and then the father, naturally concluding that the defendant did not intend to fulfil his promise, had resort to the only means of reparation left him, and brought this suit.

As detailed in Miss West's evidence, the intimacy between the parties originated some five or six years ago, when the was on a visit to a married sister. She had known defendant nine or ten year, having got acquainted with him at parties. He visited her at her sister's and and also at her father's house. The visits were at regular intervals of two weeks, paid on Saturday night the defendent arriving about 9 or 10 o'clock and remaining al night. Her ruin was wrought at her father's house in August, 1877, and her child was born in the following April. The father did not know of the visits of defendant, but the mother was cognizant of them. A cross-examination by Mr. Cameron did not materially affect the testimony. The jury, after a brief deliberation, brought in a verdict for plaintiff and $1,000 damages. Dennistoun & Hall, plaintiff's attorneys; James Bethune, Q. C. counsel; Hatton, Hatton & Beck, defendant's attorneys; Hector Cameron, Q.C. counsel. Notice of application for a new trial was given.

HAMILTON PROVIDENT AND LOAN SOCIETY vs. CAMPBELL.—Postponed to the Chancery Sittings in November. John Muir, Hamilton, for plaintiff; D. W. Dumble, for defendant.

GILES vs. MORROW ET AL.—An action brought by Jane Giles, wife or widow of Philip Giles, one time proprietor of Giles' nurseries, to recover from defendants, R. A. Morrow, R. P. Boucher, D. G. Hatton and Robert Meharry, her dower in respect of a small tract of land, about six acres, in the borders of the town. About eight years since Philip Giles left home, ostensibly to go to New York to purchase a heater for his green-house. From that time she has heard nothing directly from him. On the eve of his departure from town, Giles received from the bank $4,200 for another property sold by him, but this sum the wife never saw nor received any portion of, although she was aware of the transaction. It is to be presumed that Giles took this sum with him. Not long after his disappearance his estate was thrown into chancery, and the property involved in this suit came into the possession of the defendants. Mrs. Giles brings this suit to recover her dower from defendants. His lordship decided in favor of the plaintiff, but reserved decision as to amount. C. W. Sawers, for plaintiff; Hatton, Hatton & Beck, for defendants.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY.

THE PRESENTMENT

of the Grand Jury in effect reported that they had examined and reported on the only case submitted to them. They had much pleasure in congratulating His Lordship on the lightness of the docket at the present assizes and pleasure to find that the county of Peterborough maintained its reputation for freedom from crime and that there were only four persons in jail all committed for vagrancy. On examination they had found the court house and jail kept clean and in a manner creditable to the jailer.

OTTOSEN vs SPROULE.—This was an action brought by one Fred Otosen, a Norwegian, against Dr. Sproule for malpractice through negligence and unskilful treatment of a fractured leg. The evidence of the plaintiff alleged that on the 14th of May he fractured his leg while jumping, that Dr. Sproule came two hours after the accident, and "set" the leg and made frequent visits, that for a long time he was lying most uncomfortably on a sofa, that the bones became displaced requiring a second "setting," that the defendant was careless in his care of the case, that he was at times intoxicated

The young man who seemed gifted with more than ordinary stupidity on cross examination by Mr. Cameron, considerably varied his evidence as to essential facts.

The father, mother and sister of the plaintiff were examined and corroborated the evidence of the plaintiff with rather suspicious fidelity, suggesting the inference that there had been no disagreement in the family as to the evidence to be given in court.

Dr. Clarke was the only professional witness examined. He said the leg was a bad looking one, but that in a fracture of this kind (a compound comminuted fracture,) amputation was the rule and that a resort to it would not be considered unskilful practice. This closed the case for the prosecution.

His lordship held that there had not been sufficient evidence to show that the damage done to the plaintiff was due to Dr. Sproule, or to warrant him in sending the case to the jury. He directed a non-suit to be entered accordingly. C. W. Sawers, plaintiff's solicitor; Mr. Blackstone, counsel; D. W. Dumble, defendant's solicitor; Mr. Cameron, counsel.

Consequent upon the failure of the prosecution to make out a prima facie case, no witnesses for the defence were required, but we understand that excellent surgical testimony was available to show that the soundness of the bone of the plaintiff's leg was badly impaired by a previous injury of recent infliction and otherwise diseased, and that the substance of the bone at the place of fracture was so eroded and thinned that keeping the broken ends in apposition was almost impossible; that the union of the apposed ends from the morbid state of the osseous tissue was difficult; that there could be no appreciable shortening of the leg while the fibula remained intact, and in fine that there was no malpractice in the case, and that the present state of the plaintiff's limb was due to inherent unsoundness such as no treatment could contend against. While it is extremely desirable that the chances of securing justice should be freely accessible to all, it is also extremely unfortunate that irresponsible and designing persons should have it in their power to bring suits that waste the time of the courts, and imperil the reputation and injure the business of a legally qualified and recognized surgeon. In this case, not only does Dr Sproule stand fully acquitted of a baseless charge, but our courts have been saved the odium of condoning, what cannot altogether be deprived of the appearance of being prompted by other motives than a simple desire to seek reparation for injuries received. Still, though his innocence is vindicated, he has the doubtful pleasure of paying the costs of a suit, which if the prosecution had been a responsible party, he would have had to defray.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The water having risen, the Cruiser is again plying up the Lakes, much to the delight of those interested; we are in hopes she will have plenty of water for the remainder of the season.

ACCIDENTS.

On Friday last, while John and Joseph Nixon, of Dummer, were driving to Lakefield, David Nixon, son of John, attempted to pass them, when his buggy collided with theirs, throwing them out, his own horse and rig being completely upset into the ditch. David, as well as Miss Hunter, who was with him, were not much the worse for the tumble; Mr. John Nixon was also fortunate, but Joseph sustained a broken arm, his face showing how it came in contact with mother earth.

On the same morning, a team of Mr. Richard Bitton, of Dummer, ran away. His second son who was driving it became entangled in the whiffletrees, was dragged for a considerable distance and severely injured about the head. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.

No quorum of the village council on Monday.

SCHOOL MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Lakefield P. S. Board was held in the council chamber, on the 10th inst. Present,—The Chairman, and Messrs. Isbister, Cox and Dr. Caldwell. Communications were received from Miss Braden and Miss Keele, tendering their resignations as assistant teachers. Moved by Mr. Cox, seconded by Mr. Isbister,—That the resignations of Miss Braden and Miss Keele be accepted.—Carried. The Board expressed there regrets at receiving the resignations, as the teachers had given entire satisfaction. The Chairman stated that Miss Braden who had taught in the school for three years was one of the best teachers we have had Miss Keele was also highly complimented. Moved by Mr. Cox, seconded by Mr. Isbister,—That the committee of management wait on Miss Dutf with the view of securing her services and to advertise if necessary for teachers to fill the vacancies.—Carried.

Moved by Dr. Caldwell, seconded by Mr. Cox,—That the Board do now adjourn.—Carried.

The following is a report of the attendance of pupils at the Lakefield Public School for the month of September, 1882:

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council met in pursuance of adjournment, on Monday night, Oct. 9th, 1882. Present,—His Worship Mayor Smith in the chair, Messrs. Cahill, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Rutherford, Menzies, Denne, Richardson and Poussette.

After routine,

A communication was read from Mr. William Mills, regarding the permission granted by the Council, as far as it had the power, to the Ontario & Quebec Railway, to build a bridge across the Otonabee, and citing sections of the statutes showing that the Council had no power to grant the concession.

FINANCE.

Mr. Paterson, chairman, presented a report of the Finance Committee; recommending the payment of the following accounts:

T. W. Robinson & Co	$ 2 00
T. W. Robinson & Co	70
Peter Connal & Co	12 73
Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company	5 00

On the motion to adopt the report in respect to the Skating Rink bill, Mr. Rutherford said the charge was an infamous one, considering all the Council had done for the Skating Rink. He thought Mr. McNaughton went back on his record as the "poor man's friend," in consenting to such a price.

Mr. McNaughton defended himself, and said he had done the best that could be done under the circumstances. If Councillors grumbled so much he would pay the charge out of his own pocket.

Mr. Menzies said he had consented to the arrangement as the best that could be done, but he thought the $5 per day was an overcharge.

Mr. Richardson endorsed Mr. McNaughtou's action, but said that when the Skating Rink Company wanted a sidewalk, let them walk in the mud.

Mr. Denne said that the parties that brought the immigrants here—the railway contractors—should have taken care of them.—Report adopted.

THE SUPPLY BILL.

On motion of Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, the Council went into the committee of the whole on the second reading of the by-law authorizing the levy of a rate to raise the necessary taxes to carry on the business of the town for the year 1882, and the by-law was passed through its various stages, levying a rate of 11 4/10 mills on the dollar for all purposes.

HYDRANTS.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Richardson,—That this Council take four hydrants for fire purposes, when the works were tested, at the Drill Shed, at the Union School, Court House and Market Square.

Mr. Menzies said he objected to the scheme proposed by the resolution, especially to the hydrant at the Union school. The building was now insured for $56 per year, and placing a hydrant there at $50 per year would double the expense. The council should not have anything to do with hydrants before they are tested.

Mr. Richardson said he seconded the motion because it was the duty of council to protect the town property. The taking of the hydrants would lessen the rate of insurance.

Mr. Menzies thought Mr. Mensies had a serious attack of hydrophobia. (Laughter.) He said the fire protection of the town was sadly deficient. By the bylaw the council had power to protect the public property and it was their duty to do so, for no insurance company would insure a public building to its full value. Mr. Rutherford's motion he thought was premature. The works would be tested in a few days.

Mr. McNaughton said that Mr. Rutherford was looking after the interests of others besides the ratepayers.

Mr. Kelly said that the churches are being paid for by the ratepayers, and had an equal right to the hydrants. He was opposed to the resolution.

The resolution was allowed to stand.

CHARITY.

A motion was adopted, giving Anne Brennan $1.50 per week at the pleasure of the Council.

INSURANCE.

His Worship called the attention of the authorities to the fact that the town's interest in the Court House was not insured,

And on motion, the Mayor and Clerk were authorized to attend to the insurance as soon as possible.

UNTIDINESS.

Mr. Poussette referred to the slatternly practice of persons in throwing paper and litter on the streets, Mr. McNaughton to that of packing cases on the sidewalks, and Mr. Richardson had a lofty grievance in the form of kites.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Mr. Cahill gave notice that he would at a future meeting introduce a by-law to issue licenses for bill-posting and distributing, dodgers included.

He said that Mr. Hill had worked up the business to a fine art and should be protected.

SMELTING WORKS.

On motion, the Mayor was authorized to communicate with a Mr. Rollins with reference to the establishment of smelting works in Peterborough.

ENNISMORE.

WEATHER NOTES FOR SEPTEMBER.

The month of September has nearly verged on the two extremities. On the 18th it reached 94 degrees in the shade at 4 o'clock and at sun down 82 degrees, and taking sun rise, sun set and 4 o'clock, the highest point reached will give us an average of 84 degrees, being the hottest day of the season according to my three given points. The lowest temperature was on the morning of the 30th, being only 34 degrees above zero or two above the freezing point, and making an average for the month of 55 degrees. Rain fell on 10 days to the depth of 3.18 inches, with only three different days of heavy thunder storms. There has been white frost on 9 mornings although not to any extent destroying the late vegetation. Take it as a whole it has been a favourable month for the farmers. In looking at my record for 1881 I find September averaged 64.28° or nearly 10° higher than '82, while the hottest days were on the 4th, 5th and 6th, at 98°, 100°, 101°, respectively in the shade at 1 o'clock p.m.

PETEBBOROUGH, OCT. 12, 1882.

The Tories and the Farmers.

The Tories with all their astuteness, cunning and wealth of wile in political matters do not seem to value very highly the farmers of the country, as factors in the problem of success at any price. They do not take especial pains to conciliate the "bone and sinew" of the country, and where they do try it, their attempts are such barefaced shams, that they seem to consider the farmers little better than fools. In the framing of the National Policy tariff farmers were to be exceptionally favoured beneficiaries, but the fine promises proved to be a "delusion and a snare." The prices of farm produce were not enhanced in value one jot, and the wool duty, as a protective impost was a most transparent "fraud." The result is that not only have the agricultural interests not been protected, but the cost of living to the farmer, and carrying on his business has been enormously increased in every department. He pays more farm wages—but the N. P. is not to blame for that, still it counts—his clothing and food that he is compelled to buy, cost more; and he has practically no protection in his special line of industry whatever. Thus do the Dominion Tory Government foster the farming industry and protect the interests of the honest agriculturist! Whatever "protection" the Tories have offered him has been so ridiculously and transparently a humbug as to be an insult to the farmers' good sense.

But the Ontairo Tories are not disposed to consider the farmer's interest one whit more than their Ottawa masters. The local Tories make it a great grievance that the Mowat Government has been too considerate of the farmers. Giving the franchise to farmers' sons was an absurdly liberal act, though no distinction was made against Tory farmers' sons. But it ran counter to the Tory spirit of opposition to progress in political liberty, and such a boon extended to farmers was a dangerous extension of the franchise. Again, the Agricultural college established by the Mowat Government is a pure waste of money, for no other earthly reason, apparently than it was too much of a concession of the rights of farmers, or perhaps because the results of experiments conducted there proved beyond a doubt that corn, which the blessed N. P. excludes from the country in the farmers' interests, is the most profitable grain for fattening cattle. The Tory journals denounce the Farmers College unsparingly. They do not, however, condemn the $160,000 per year that goes to the support of colleges and collegiate institutes and high schools, but a paltry $20,000 to the college of the farmers, is a disgraceful waste of money. It is an established fact that the technical agricultural education given at this institution is receiving daily higher appreciation, and the value of the experiments alone, conducted on the Experimental Farm, are worth more to the farming community than twice the amount of the grant to the whole institution. In fine the Tories cry out against everything that is in the interest of the farmers. Colonization roads are condemned, the Ontario Bureau of Industries scoffed at. The franchise to farmer's sons is declared an unfair concession. All these beneficial ordinances in the interests of the farming community will be removed if the Mowat Government can be replaced by a Tory administration. The only kindness shown by the Tories to the farmers has been the imposition of a duty on coarse wool for the purpose of excluding it from the country, when as a matter of fact, not a pound of it is ever imported. Tory politicians may treat the farmers as fools but the ballot will decide where the weakness of intellect lies.

The corporation of the city of London has resolved to present an address of congratulation to Sir Garnet Wolseley, and a sword of honour and the freedom of the city to Admiral Seymour. Sir Garnet Wolseley has already been presented with the freedom of the city.

Editorial Notes.

Mr. Jas. Ferris, M. P. P., has been chosen the Reform candidate for the east riding of Northumberland for the local election.

The Mail thinks that "Marmion" should not be offensive to any Catholic with an intellect above that of a poodle dog. Very complimentary to the highest official in the church, who boldly takes ground against it, for its offensiveness to Roman Catholics.

The committee charged with the task of erecting a monument to the memory of the late Hon. George Brown, met on Wednesday last, and resolved to commission Mr. Birch, A.R.A., of London, England, to execute the work. The statue will be of bronze, ten feet in height and will cost $5,000. It will be about a year before the statue will be completed.

Mr. Lee, of Trenton, has been nominated the Reform candidate to contest the riding of West Hastings in the interest of the Reform party at the approaching election for the local legislature. His opponent is Mr. Baltus Rose, of Sidney. His nomination is unanimous, and he can be counted upon to poll the full strength of the party in the riding.

We have received the Grand Trunk report of the state of the crops in the region through which its lines run. The report is a most exhaustive one and shows that the crops of this year throughout the country has been an average one, but the fruit crop is reported as an almost total failure. As an evidence of the correctness of both, it may be remarked that the Grand Trunk reports agree pretty closely with those issued by the Ontario Bureau of Industries. Prices of wheat and barley are weak, with little prospects of an advance.

It pays to be a temperance man beyond the mere sordid consideration of physical benefit. Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll has long been a temperance advocate and now he is postmaster of Ingersoll, Sir Leonard who does some extensive temperance spouting just before elections is Finance, Minister. Sir John Macdonald and Hon. John Carling are head and figure head in a Department respectively of the Government of thd Dominion. It is true the two latter are but green hands, yet they have done nobly, and are stirring examples of the way in which the Fates reward well-doing.

Last Saturday evening Edwin Hershey ex-warden of the county of Welland, and one of the most clever, brilliant and popular reformers of the county, was killed at the International Bridge—between Fort Erie and Buffalo, by the plunging of a railway carriage through the open draw bridge. Mr. H. was a most highly respected young man and was freely spoken of as the Reform candidate for the coming local election. We sympathise with the party, in the great loss it has sustained by the sudden taking off of so promising a gentleman. His death creates a gap that will be filled with difficulty.

Toronto can boast of another creditable addition to her list of daily journals. It is called the Evening Canadian, and is a daily edition which will hereafter be the source of the long established Irish Canadian. It is published by Mr. P. Boyle. Politically, this is the programme of the new journalistic representative of the Canadian Irish:

"While it is undeniable that most of our newspapers give undue prominence to party politics, to the exclusion of other important matters, it is equally true that the political events daily transpiring abont us challenge intelligent criticism, and are proper subjects for discussion. The Evening Canadian starts upon its career without having formed any entangling party alliances, and without being pledged to the service of any individual or faction. We shall endeavor to treat our public men of both parties fairly, upon their merits, and upon the theory that no man who enjoys the public confidence is 'a villain and traitor to the State.' Those who treat our people fairly and liberally, as other classes are treated, may depend upon receiving from us an independent support. Those who do not, may count upon our opposition."

Why should not the Government make an appropriation to a monument in honor of the late William Lyon Mackenzie? He is certainly as worthy of it as George Etienne Cartier. They "rowed" in the same boat in 1837, and Mackenzie's head was appraised at $500 more than that of Mr. Cartier. The Toronto World has reviewed the proposal to erect a monument to Mr. Mackenzie, and the scheme meets with warm approval from all sources. Though Mr. Mackeuzie was hot-headed and impulsive and in taking up arms rather rash, yet it is to him chiefly that we owe what large measures of political and civil liberty we now possess. He sacrificed his property, his energies and vitality and placed his life in risk for the sake of his country, which, therefore, owes him a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid; can only be recognized, and a public monument would be a fitting way in which to commemorate his patriotism and loyalty to the precepts of responsible government. So valuable have his services proved, that we should be disappointed to find one man worthy of the name in any respect, opposing the erection of a monument to his memory, and we should also be disappointed if almost every man would not be willing to substantially aid in such an undertaking. True, the splendid constitution possessed by Canada and indirectly due to Mackenzie will constitute for him monumentum ære perennius, yet a more tangible and material remembrance would but be a fitting and graceful recognition of his incalculably beneficial patriotism.

Political Notes.

Hon. Mr. Caron, it is said, will be appointed Lt. Governor of the new Province of Saskatchewan, his place in the Cabinet to be filled by either Mr. Desjardins or Senator Trudel.

The Toronto Mail considers Mr. Mowat a very undesirable man for Premier of this Province, because when invited to repudiate the Boundary Award, and submit the question to a fresh arbitration, he says "No!" always "no!" Now Mr. Meredith is not that kind of a man. It is true he said "No!" when first the idea of repudiating the ward was mooted, but after an interview with the "boss," he took it all back and has been holding up both hands and shouting "Yes!" ever since. The Mail just slops over with admiration of men of that stamp.—Sarnia Observer.

M. Mousseau boasts that he has shown his statesmanship and devotion to Quebec by preventing Ontario from getting the territory belonging to this Province in the Northwest. Ontario Tories, who have played into Mousseau's hands, are only anxious for a settlement which shall be satisfactory to Quebec. How many Quebec Tories, think you, would consent to have the boundaries of that province curtailed for the sake of pleasing Ontario? Meredith and his crew ought to be ashamed to look their constituents in the face. They have about as much spirit and independence as a mouse.—Hamilton Times.

It is rumored that the Government have decided on creating two new provinces in the North-West. One, to be named Qu'Appelle, will comprise all the territory between the western boundary of Manitoba and the third principal meridian, with the capital at Regina. The western province will include the country lying between the third principal meridian and the Rocky Mountains. The dividing line starts about the centre of Wood Mountains, passes about 40 miles west of Humboldt, and across the western part of Prince Albert. Mr. Dewdney will preside over the Qu'Appelle division. The capital of the Saskatchewan will probably be Edmonton.

Let us look at the bill of indictment against Mowat: 1. Boundary Award; 2. Streams Bill; 3. Mercer estate; 4. School Legislation; 5. Crook's License Act; 6. Division Court; 7. Orange Bills. As to the first, is it only reasonable or just to blame the present Ontario Government for desiring to get as much territory as it can? We think the electors will say no. As to the second, there may have been some injustice done to McLaren. As to the third, we think the Government has done even better than old Mr. Mercer would have done had he made a will himself. At all events, John Sandfield's Government would have done no better than Mowat has. As to the fourth, there is little room for improvement. As to the fifth, sixth and seventh, we don't think much can be said against the Government.—Thornbury Standard (Conservative.)

APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

In a recent issue we referred to that most important literary work, Appleton's American Cyclopædia, giving our favourable impressions from the brief examination made of it. We have since examined it more minutely, and we feel bound to say that the farther the examination goes, the greater becomes our admiration of it, as the most comprehensive, reliable and valuable collection of human knowledge now in print. No one human intellect could compass the information embodied in it, as may be gathered from the fact that there are over five hundred special contributors outside of the regular staff of editors employed by the Appleton's, all of them the best qualified to furnish the latest, fullest and most accurate information on the subjects assigned them. The editors of the vast work, Mr. Geo. Ripley of the Tribune, and C. A. Dana of the Sun, are a guarantee that it will be efficiently and thoroughly performed. These, with five associate editors who are veterans in literary work and a score of revising editors, make a permanent staff whose erudition, carefulness and experience fit them specially for the work. As a further proof of the exceeding care and thoroughness devoted to the work it may be stated that the enormous sum of one hundred thousand dollars was expended before the first of the sixteen volumes was completed. So much for the reliability and thoroughness of the Cyclopædia.

The range of subjects is commensurate with the present knowledge of the world. The lawyer will find it a complete law library, all subjects being treated clearly and concisely. The physician will find in it a condensation and epitome of the thousands of volumes of medical science extant—the sum of ages of investigation, condensed into readable form and alphabetically arranged for easy reference. The clergyman will find in it a boundless store of knowledge useful in his profession. All engaged in active literary work or who take pleasure in literary research will find here a fountain where the most inordinate thirst may be slaked. The musician may peruse a complete history of music, articles on the theory of sound, and all that relates to the history, theory or practice of that Divine art. The miner or metal worker or mechanic can find in it any information that bears on the subject, and knowledge of which he, perhaps, has no conception. It contains the biographies of all the great men of history, and all prominent living men; in fine, there is nothing—not of the commonest nature—in the way of information full, complete and reliable on any subject that will not be found in Appleton's Cyclopædia. It is indeed a storehouse of universal knowledge, so arranged and classified in alphabetical order, that anything required can be turned up at a minute's notice. It is, in fact, a library in itself, that contains more knowledge, more easily accessible, than any private library on the continent. Nobody with the least pretensions to literary tastes or inclinations, should be without it, and if he has the means will be well with it. Mr. Charles F. Adams is in town now, acting as agent for it, and is meeting with great success. He secured numerous sales for it in Toronto, and the appreciation shown in that city—the literary hub of the Dominion—is the highest praise. We advise all whose means will allow of procuring such a necessity not to hesitate becoming subscribers. Many a young man fritters away a dozen times the price of the work in foolish dissipation, a sum that might secure him this mine of wealth, and enrich him with treasures of knowledge that will fit him for not only usefulness, but eminence in his future life.

Jottings from Germany by a Peterborough Citizen.

To the Editor of THE EXAMINER:

DRESDEN IN MOURNING.

DEAR SIR,—The events of sixteen years ago are still fresh in the minds of all who take an interest in the history of Germany, but if any one had then foretold the events of to-day he would have been looked on as a dreamer. The war of 1866, Prussia against Austria and several minor states allied against the former. Hanover and Saxony were the first to bear the brunt of the advancing army of Prussia. Dresden, the capital of Saxony, is situated on the river Elbe, with a population of 220,000. At the time mentioned it was panic stricken; many of its citizens fled in terror, leaving behind their beautiful city and homes. The ruthless hand of the foe had, for military purposes, begun the destruction of the "Grossen Garten," the most prominent pleasure grounds of the city, containing the zoological gardens. Great was Dresden's tribulation, but, on the prayer of the citizens that they should undertake the work should it be found necessary, a respite was granted. Monuments of this episode in the history of the city, in the shape of earthworks, are still standing.

DRESDEN REJOICING.

What a contrast is Dresden to-day! All gay and festive, the streets are thronged with people—not only German, but representatives of almost every land. So great is the influx of strangers, caused by the expected visit of the Emperor, that people are actually carried away. The river Elbe divides the old town from the new town—called Aldstadt and Neustadt. Here are three bridges of which two are used for railway purposes. From Albert Place, in Neustadt, along the broad avenue leading to and over the Elbe river there is actually erected a forest of flag staffs. I counted no less than 200, gay and dazzling with flags and profusely twined garlands of flowers, making a gay and brilliant scene. The wide avenue with its high flowing and sparkling fountains affords ample space. "Tribunes" are erected at varying prices to accommodate the floating population. From early morning, thousands of people thronged the streets to gaze on the mottoes and inscriptions on the flags floating from spar roof or window, one motto conspicuously showing the present relations with France. Later, as one railroad train after another arrives, all traffic with vehicles in this thoroughfare is suspended. At three o'clock and long before all who had not paid for a ticket to have a seat on the tribunes, had taken up a position. At half-past three the school children arrived to take a place on one of the tribunes. Students of all the various educational institutions, representatives of trade and commerce in all their details arrived and were posted in two rows in position. Unfortunately a fine drizzling rain had at intervals descended, very trying to the endurance of both sexes, but all stood their ground with a fortitude as if their lives depended on it.

Not long after four o'clock a deafening hurrah was the signal of

THE EMPEROR'S ARRIVAL.

A small detachment of cavalry preceded the Emperor William and King Albert of Saxony in an open carriage, followed by the crown prince Frederick William, and a host of German, as well as Prussian and Austrian Princes. Another carriage brought Count Moltke with three officers of high rank. The cheers that greeted him must have shown him how highly his services in the French war are acknowledged. Although the first time I had seen the Emperor, I was astonished to see him so vigorous looking. His countenance, with such a freshness and animation is seldom given to men of the age of eighty-five years,—more remarkable, as his endurance has of late been taxed with travelling to the different manœuvres at Berlin, Breslau and here, and more astonishing still, that he gallops for three hours at a stretch, sitting erect like a cast iron figure, in inspecting troops. The pleasing, frank countenance which he turned right and left upon the crowd, must have shown his enemies how firmly his power is secured by the love of the people.

After the greeting by an army of 3,500 school children, wherein a bouquet of flowers with the text of the song was accepted by him, the head ruler of the city read an address of welcome, after which, from the towers of churches, in musical harmony the bell's pealed forth.

Since the entry of the Emperor, I saw him daily leaving for and returning from the military manœuvres in the vicinity of the city, where 30,000 Saxon troops are assembled.

Thus I see a country groaning under burdensome taxes, yet such is their patriotism they are willing, if required, to give in addition, their blood and treasures to defend what has been so dearly bought.

A SAINT AT THE ZOO.

Capt Harry Piper, Alderman and Superintendent of the Zoological Garden, lately communicated the following facts to a reporter of one of Toronto's most influential papers: "Some time ago we purchased from the collection of animals at Central Park, New York, a monstrous Russian bear, which we have named 'Peter the Great,' on account of his tremendous size. Not long after 'Peter' arrived we found that he was suffering from the rheumatism, and in a pretty bad state. Pete was not the only one in the Zoo' which had a touch of that delicious torture; the lion likewise had it, and in fact I was just being cured of a bad case of the rheumatism, myself, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I found St. Jacobs Oil an excellent remedy for it cured me in a short while, and my case was a very aggravated one. I argued that if it cured men it must be good for animals as well.

"Buchupaiba."

Quick, complete cure, all annoying Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases. $1. Druggists.

IN ALL CHRONIC kidney troubles we have evidence of errors in nutrition, as in Bright's disease from over-stimulation arresting repair and hastening degeneration, diabetes from functional liver derangements secondary to impaired digestion, irritation and pain in the back from uric acid or brick dust deposit in the urine, a sequence of malassimilation and a common cause of neuralgia and rheumatism. By securing the perfect conversion of food into healthy blood to maintain the constructive work of the organs and tissues, we have in Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya the most certain cure of these ailments.

COBOURG.

There were 180 appeals from the voters' list.

While several boys were out hunting a "chipmunk" a boy named Jex was shot in the head by a revolver. Not seriously hurt.

NORTH HARVEY.

Mr. Thos Cheetham has had his flock of sheep destroyed by dogs. Fifteen have been seriously worried, two killed, and eleven have disappeared. Mr. Jones has four sheep worried, one of them killed, and two not expected to live.

ORILLIA.

Work on this end of the "Missing Link" is progressing finely. Pile driving for the bridge over Pigeon River has begun.

An Oneonee woman attempted to commit suicide in the Paris green way, but the dose didn't prove fatal.

The contract for the breakwater and other harbor improvements at Port Hope have been let to Messrs. McNeilly & Co., their tender being the lowest.

STIRLING.

Marianne Bacher, who disappeared from her home in Stirling about two weeks ago has been found and been reconciled to her parents. She had taken service in the house of a farmer named Sweeney, living in Thurlow, near Belleville, but hearing that her mother had discovered her whereabouts left Sweeny's before daylight Monday morning, and went to the house of a friend in the city. Her mother however discovered the runaway and a reconciliation was effected.

PORT HOPE.

The Times says the staff in the Midland Railway repair shops has been still further reduced.

1,420 bushels of grain were threshed on the farm of Mr. Alex. Barry, of Hope.

There are twenty-two attendants at the Model school and prospects of more.

Port Hope is already beginning to bother itself about the mayor for 1883.

The proposal to erect a monument to the late Lewis Ross has gone as far as making arrangements for the securing of subscriptions—to be limited to $1.00.

BELLEVILLE.

Downey & Preston's railway elevator was burned at about one o'clock Thursday morning. The elevator, which was the largest in the city, contained about 6,000 bushels of barley, rye and wheat, which was fully insured. The building and machinery were valued at about $15,000, on which there was an insurance of $3,000. The firm have two other elevators, so their operations will not be suspended, but they will be greatly inconvenienced in the receipt of grain by rail. It is supposed that the fire originated from the smoke-stack of the steam barge Kingsford, which loaded at the elevator and left about an hour before the fire broke out.

MR. E. KENDRY, foreman of the Trent Valley Woollen Mills, was presented with an address and two ten dollar gold pieces by the weavers on the occasion of his leaving for Chatham.

LINDSAY.

Lindsay is becoming excited over the inadequacy of police protection.

Mr. P. Bertram, father of Mr. John Bertram, of Peterborough, had one finger taken off and his hand badly jammed by the train at Millbrook, on Monday evening.

Chief Constable Smart was badly hurt the other day in attempting to stop a furiously driven horse. The driver was also hurt.

Mr. James Hamilton sent a car load of vehicles the other day to Brandon, where they met with ready sale.

The assizes at Lindsay only lasted one day. Is this the reason Lindsay grumbles at its constables, or is Victoria county becoming so well behaved?

WINTRY BLASTS ARE SPECIALLY FRUITFUL of coughs and colds. Children who romp out of doors during the cold season are very subject to them, and no household where there are children should be unprovided with an effectual safeguard against lung disease. Such a one is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophite of Lime and Soda, a preparation in which the former ingredient possess the utmost purity, and where its well-known pulmonic properties are increased by the admixture of the lime and soda salts. Of these the basis is phosphorus, an essential constituent of the brain, the muscles and the blood, and long recognized by physicians as a strengthening and fortifying agent of surpassing efficacy. The waste of bodily tissue consequent upon lung, chest, and throat complaints is promptly checked by this time-honored remedy, and the irritation of the breathing organs arrested and overcome by it. The article has been pronounced by physicians the best preparation of its class, and this professional verdict has found an echo in the grateful acknowledgement of many who, despairing of aid from any source, have nevertheless sought and found relief from it. Persons whose chest and lungs are weak should use it as a preventive. Asthma, coughs, colds, spitting of blood, bronchitis and laryngitis are promptly remedied by it, and it also possesses properties as a blood purifier very manifest in various types of scrofula. Prepared only by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Canada.

CAVENDISH AND BURKE.

THE KNIVES FOUND USED IN THE DASTARDLY MURDER.

The weapons used by the murderers of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke were found in the rafters of a stable in rear of the house belonging to a man recently sentenced to penal servitude of intimidation of Mr. Kenny, widow of the man murdered in Seville place, because he was suspected of giving information concerning the murderers. It is alleged that Kenby was the driver of the car on which the assassins rode the night of the murders. The weapons found are four knives five inches long, with blades three-quarters or an inch wide. They are quite new, being sharp, and are evidently surgical operating knives. There were discolorations on them, which on chemical analyzation proved to have been made by human blood. It is hoped the murderers will yet be captured. The authorities observe the strictest secrecy.

SIR GARNET WOLSELEY'S PEERAGE.

One result of Sir Garnet Wolseley's success in the Egyptian campaign will doubtless be that he will receive the peerage which rumour has on several occasions always assigned to him. He will be the thirteenth military commander whom her majesty will have made peers; and few of them have earned the honor by more valuable services, not only to the country but also to the government. In 1830 Sir John Colborne and Sir John Keane were created the first Lord Seaton and the second Lord Keane. In 1840 Sir Hussey Vivian was made Lord Vivian, and Sir Henry Hardinge and Sir Hugh Gough were raised to the peerage in 1846. Lord Fitzroy Somerset was created Lord Raglan in 1852; Sir Colin Campbell, Lord Clyde in 1858; Sir Hugh Rose, Lord Strathnairn in 1866; Sir Robert Napier, Lord Napier of Magdala in 1868; Sir William Mansfield, Lord Sandhurst in 1871; and Sir Richard Airey, Lord Airey in 1876. Of these the peerage of the Baronies of Clyde and Airey are extinct; while Lord Straithnairn and Lord Napier of Magdala are the only survivors among the grantees.

"DR. S. B. BRITTAN says: "As a rule physicians do not, by their professional methods build up the female constitution, while they seldom cure the disease to which it is always liable in our variable climate and under our imperfect civilization. Special remedies are often required to restore organic harmony and strengthen the enfeebled powers of womanhood; and for most of these we are indebted to persons outside of the medical profession. Among the very best of these remedies I assign a prominent place to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and, power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch. I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

Backing Down.

The Tory journals have been making terrible onslaughts on the Crooks Act, and their fertile imaginations have led them to draw on pure fiction to a large extent in order to make out a case against it, but the logic of facts has been too strong for them and they have been compelled to forsake as untenable one position after another, and to fall back on a grievance arising from its operations that does not exist Several of these hard beset journals after denouncing the Bill, and anathematizing its authors in every possible way that the ingenuity of detraction could suggest, have the effrontery to say that nothing was ever intended to be said against the Act itself; it is all right and the only thing objectionable according to our local contemporary, who comes to the aid of its distressed confreres, is that municipalities are deprived of their rights by its administration. All other objections being forsaken for this, let this one for a moment be considered. Let us take the financial aspect of it, and since the subject has a peculiar interest to the eight vacant constituencies, let us point out that in the past five years the amount of the license fund that was paid over to the municipalities in the eight ridings, East Simcoe, South Bruce, North Renfrew, South Waterloo, Glengarry West Hastings, South Essex and Muskoka, was $83,526.53. Under the old system the amount received would have been $31,530, a difference in favour of the Crooks Act of over $50,000 in these eight municipalities alone, or a gain of over half a million for the whole province. Do the municipalities desire to return to the old order of things? Will they thank the party that is trying to rob them of this revenue, and bring back the reign of turmoil and strife that marked municipal electoral contests under the old act? As was pointed out before, the municipalities do not desire any change; it is only party wire-pullers and ward politicians that see a chance of manipulating political matters through the local elections that object to the Government regulating the issue of licenses. For a set of institutions so grievously down-trodden, despoiled, oppressed, robbed, maltreated, snubbed and ground down as the Tory politicians represent them to be, the municipalities are the most meek, and long-suffering of any history tells us of. They have submitted to it all without a murmer, and they are very ungrateful in not recognizing the immense benefits the organs have conferred on them by discovering how sadly they have been abused these last five years. It would be time, one would think, to make a change when the suffering institutions demand it. The clamour of a cliqne of Tory politicians is rather a weak reason for amending a law that has been found to be beneficial to the moral and financial status of the municipalities simply because a set desires to embarass an administration, the success of whose rule retains them in possession of that power, to which no Grit has a right in the eyes of the average Tory.

OBITUARY.

This week death has been busy in our midst and has removed some of our oldest and most respected citizens, and we subjoin brief sketches of the lives of two or three of them.

THE LATE JAMES HALL.

This old and respected citizen died at the family residence, Aylmer street, Peterborough, on Monday morning last, October 9th, 1882. The deceased gentleman was born in Clackmannan, Scotland, on April 14th, 1806, making his age at the time of his death over 76 years. He removed to Canada with his father and the rest of his family in 1820, and settled on a farm near Lanark. Here he studied for his profession of civil engineer and land surveyor, generally by the light of a log fire. In 1826 he walked to Utica, N. Y., when he purchased his theodolite, and from that place he proceeded still on foot to St. Catharines, where his brother Francis, an engineer on the Welland Canal, was living. They undertook to drive together to Toronto, but the conveyance stuck on the road and the journey to "Muddy" York had to be finished on foot. After passing his examination he walked back to Lanark, where for some years he followed his profession. He afterwards went to Halifax to learn the tanning business, and here married, in 1830, Miss Jane Albro, daughter of a merchant of that place. On his return he established a tannery in Lanark. In 1834 he came to Cobourg, where his sister, Mrs. Andrew Jeffrey, was living, and soon after he came to Peterborough, where he started a tannery (now owned by Messrs. Paterson & Son) and a general store. He was elected a member of the Provincial Parliament for the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria in 1848. In February, 1856, he was appointed sheriff of the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and on their separation in 1863 remained sheriff of this county till 1872, when he resigned the office, his son, the present occupant of the office, succeeding him. He was elected member of the House of Commons for the East Riding of Peterborough in 1873. The interest manifested in public concerns by deceased, and his fitness for the positions may be gathered from the facts that he was twice mayor of the town, also reeve of the town and for many years a member of the Grammar school board. He was also instrumental in establishing here the agency of the Bank of Toronto, of which he was the first local agent, about the year 1857. He was one of the projectors and shareholders of the Port Hope and Peterboro R. R., of the Monaghan Gravel Road, of which he was one of the first directors. He was also one of the promoters of the St. Andrew's Society, and was its first vice-president and afterwards president, and was an elder of the Presbyterian Church since 1837. From the above sketch of his career it will be seen that deceased was an energetic, public spirited gentleman, working faithfully for the promotion of the general good. His children are J. A. Hall, sheriff of Peterborough; Fred Hall, E. H. D. Hall, Charles Hall, Mrs. Sanford Flemming, Mrs. A. Smith, and Mrs. H. B. Higginson. For about a year past the health of deceased has been greatly impaired, and his death was not unexpected.

REV. ASHTON FLETCHER.

Rev. Ashton Fletcher, a very respected citizen, died on Sabbath morning at the advanced age of 79 years and 4 months. Mr. Fletcher was a native of Cheshire, England. His early life was spent on the farm, but when 21 he went into business in Manchester, where he was highly esteemed by his employers. He afterwards went into business for himself, in which he continued for about seven years, when he removed to Canada in 1842. On his arrival he bought a farm in Markham on which he resided about eleven years. Taking advantage of the increasing prosperity of the country, he bought and sold several farms; first in Markham, then in Whitchurch, then in York, and thus was enabled to lay by a considerable sum of money. During this time he was an active Christian, working in local and social gatherings among the Methodists bodies, for which he had been fitted by early family training. He especially labored amongst the Primitive Methodists, amongst whom he was a very acceptable worker. He was then induced to enter the itinerant ministry; labored on several circuits, but finally settled down on an excellent farm near Woodstock in the county of Oxford, and afterwards removed to Woodstock on account of Mrs. Fletcher's declining health. Mrs. Fletcher was the daughter of a Captain Fletcher, who had served in 1798 to 1815. They had two sons and two daughters. Mr. Ashton Fletcher, the eldest son, is a prominent barrister in Woodstock. The second son is a farmer in that vicinity. Their elder daughter married the Rev. A. Andrews, of the Methodist Church. The youngest daughter, wife of Dr. Fife, is well known here. His wife died about nine years ago, since which time, as for some time previous, he made his home with Mrs. Fife, removing here with the family when they came to Peterboro' 4 years ago. Here, as elsewhere, he was very active in every good word and work for a man of his advanced years, until December last when he had an attack of paralysis which for some time confined him to his rooms, and since then he had feeble health. Suffering from one more shock since, he became gradually weaker, although he was able very lately to make a visit to several members of his family from which he returned about a week ago. The disease, however, did its work, removing him from earth to his reward on Sabbath morning at half past four o'clock. His remains were taken on the Tuesday morning train for interment in Ingersoll. Mr. Fletcher was all his life very active, a very kind and generous parent and friend, opposed to all indulgence in evil, and never neutral in doing good for his country He was always found on the liberal side of public questions.

THE LATE WILLIAM MILNE,

was a brother-in-law of Mr. Peter Hamilton and a member of the firm of Milne & Graham, merchants Lindsay. He has for some time been grievously afflicted with ulceration of the stomach, and succumbed to its fatal influence on Monday. Deceased was a prominent and honored citizen of Lindsay, and a foremost member of the Masonic body, and a past master. His funeral, which took place on Wednesday to the Little Lake Cemetery, was largely attended.

The refusal of the Dominion Government to ratify the legally made Boundary Award is working injustice to the municipality of Rat Portage. Liquor selling is rampant there, and fines for illegal sales are frequent. These fines are confiscated by the Dominion Government instead of going in great part to the municipality. Is this what Mr. Meredith intends to do in the rest of Ontario when he declares that the Crooks Act must go?

CHIEF JUSTICE WOOD.

CARRIED OFF BY A PARALYTIC FIT.

On Saturday, at 4 o'clock, p.m., Chief Justice Wood was struck down with a paralytic stroke, while seated on the bench, at Winnipeg. He was instantly removed in a precarious condition to his residence, and at 10 o'clock he died, the immediate cause being hemiplegia, due to degeneration of the arteries of the brain. It was the third stroke the deceased gentleman had suffered.

The Hon. Edmund Burke Wood was born on the 13th February, 1820, near the village of Fort Erie, in the County of Welland. He was admitted as an attorney on the 21st November, 1853, and commenced practice in Brantford. Soon after he received the appointments of Clerk of the County Court of the newly formed County of Brant, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown for the county. Shortly afterwards he resigned, and was called to the Bar in Trinity term of 1854. In April, 1855, he married Miss Jane Augusta Marter, second daughter of the late Dr. Peter Marter, of Brantford. He stood for the constituency of South Brant in 1863, being opposed by the late Rev. W. Ryerson, and was returned by a large majority. He was supporter of the Macdonald-Dorion Government, sitting in the House until Confederation. Upon the formation of the Ontario coalition Government by J. Sandfield Macdonald in July 1867, at the time of Confederation, he accepted the portfolio of Provincial Treasurer, and was sworn in member of the Executive Council, occupying this position till December, 1871, when he resigned office, but continued to sit in the Assembly as a private member. He was pressed at the following election to offer himself as a candidate of West Durham; he consented, and was returned representing that constituency until appointed Chief Justice of Manitoba, on March 11th, 1874.

RIFLE AND TARGET.

THE ANNUAL COMPETITION.

The annual rifle matches of the County of Peterborough Rifle Association, were shot at the association ranges on Tuesday and Wednesday. Thanks to the generosity of the citizens, the prizes were numerous and worth winning, aside from the special prizes, including the New York gold medal, a splendid piece of workmanship, presented for competition by several Canadians in New York, in 1864, and the bankers' cups of 1877 and 1881. The weather was bad for good scores, being raw and cold, and the wind gusty across the ranges. Below is the

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Rev. Dr. Smithit paid us a visit last week in connection with the missionery services of the Episcopal Church.

A son of John Bullied died suddenly a few days ago from inflammatory rheumatism.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—James Lynch foreman for Ullyott & Co., was killed by the falling of a pine tree in the township of Anstruther where he had a lumbering camp for the above firm for the above firm. Mr. Lynch was well and favourably known in this section and his sudden death has cast a gloom over the place. His body has been taken to Peterborough for interment.

Peterborough Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 12th, 1882.

Receipts of grain for the past ten days has been rather firm. Barley has been the principal grain. Wheat has been offering more freely the past few days. Barley ran up to 75c. and 77c. last week for best, but as this figure was above its value, it dropped to 70c and is now selling from 50c. to 70c. Spring wheat has been selling from 99c. to $1.00 and fall wheat about the same. One dollar calls for extra quality. Goose wheat is selling from 75c. to 82c.; not much offering. Rye, a few loads offering, selling from 58c. to 60c. Peas—nothing doing. For keg butter 17 to 18c. is offered for best—no movement yet. On the market there is no particular change in prices. Fresh butter rather weaker; selling at 20c. to 21c. Eggs, moderate supply, 16c. about the price. Chickens in good supply, 40c. to 50c.; demand fair. Lamb slow 5c. to 9c., good supply. Apples are rather dinner, selling from 60c. to $1.25.

South Monaghan Exhibition.

(From Our Special Reporter.)

The South Monaghan Agricultural Society held their annual exhibition at Baillieboro, on Tuesday, the 10th inst., and the efforts of the directors were so effectually seconded by the people of the township that the fair was a success. Judging from the number of visitors there is no fear of this show being done away with for lack of interest. The show of horses, always splendid, was larger than last year, and there were some splendid cattle, sheep and pigs.

Inside, the roots and vegetables were good. The show of grain was not very extensive, but the samples were almost perfect. Dairy products were shown largely, the show of butter and bread was excellent. There was a beautiful display of ladies' work, but not quite so many as usual, and the usual minor features which go to fill up the hall. The number of exhibitors was about the same as last year.

The prize list speaks for itself.

A Miser's Miserable Death.

Jos. Frey, aged 60, a miser, who died at Vincennes, Indiana, had $4,200 greenbacks sewed in his shirt. The immediate cause of death was eating green apples, which he got by walking into the country, thus saving the money he would have to spend for food.

Injured While Intoxicated

Monday afternoon as Wm. Johnston, a farmer from near Stevensville, and a man named Frets, both very much intoxicated, were returning from Fort Erie, at a furious rate trying to pass another team, Johnston fell over on the waggon, and his head coming in contact with the wheel was battered into a jelly. No hopes are entertained of his recovery.

A Terrible Fall.

On Saturday a three-year-old daughter of Mr. John B. Morphy of 246 Dundas-street, London, fell from a second storey window to the awning, and thence to the street. Her father who was standing at his shop door at the time, picked the little one up and carried her in, supposing her to be dead. In a short time, however, she recovered consciousness, and is apparently uninjured.

Horrible Torture by Burglars.

Three masked burglars on Friday night entered the house of Benj. Sturgis, aged 70, and bound him, his wife, servant, and boy. After securing a small sum they tortured Sturgis with pincers to make him reveal the hiding place of his hoard. They pulled out his toe nails by the roots and otherwise tortured him till he become unconscious. They then stole a horse and buggy and escaped.

The Eastern C. P. R. Terminus.

Mayor Langelier and Hon. T. McGreevy entertained the members of the Pacific Syndicate actually in town to a steamship trip to-day around the harbour, for an inspection of Quebec's facilities for trade, both natural and artificial. It is said that the Mayor is in hopes that Quebec will yet be selected as the terminus of the Canada Pacific, and that he has guaranteed a liberal measure of encouragement from the city for the purpose.

A Brave Lady.

Last Saturday night masked burglars visited the residence of John E. Morey, Rochester, and were discovered by a young lady, whom they assaulted, cutting a large gash in her shoulder, and then gagged and tied her to the bed post. She released herself and again surprised them in another room, when one of the burglars threw a lamp globe at her, cutting her severely. The noise of the breaking glass aroused Morey and his son and the burglars fled without any plunder.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

Two Boilers Burst at Longford Mills—The Building Demolished.

TWO EMPLOYEES KILLED AND OTHERS INJURED—CAUSE OF THE DISASTER.

On Saturday morning a dreadful explosion took place at Longford Mill, the property of Mr. Smith. Upon proceeding to the spot the mill was found to have been blown to atoms. The first sight which was beheld on entering the premises was the frame of the shattered mill. The aspect told plainly that it was a frightful explosion. The heavy boilers, four in number, were thrown in all directions. One was heaved about 100 feet from its site, whilst the other was thrown about 200 feet into the lake. Bricks, shingles, etc., were strewn all around the yard. Indeed it is a marvel that even a man escaped alive. This mill was thoroughly repaired in the spring, but the boilers were old ones. There are somewhere about thirty-five men employed in running it. The facts as far as can be learned are that the pump was in a very bad order and did not work well. It was repaired the previous night, but the opinion seems to be that the explosion occurred by the defect in this pump. Others think it was owing to mismanagement, but this will be a difficult question to solve. The mill had been nicely running in the morning. When the explosion occurred, first the steam gauge burst. Some of the hands ran to see what was the matter, and the cause having been remedied they walked quietly away, little dreaming that it was the harbinger of a dreadful catastrophe that would summon a number of them into eternity. A few moments after this a sound was heard like the boom of a cannon, which was rapidly followed by another. The boilers had exploded, the roof being blown off. One lad jumped head first out of a window. But little damage was done to those in the mill. In the yard was to be witnessed a scene of woeful carnage. Two men were instantly killed and four badly wounded. The names of the former were Fred. Grey and Ned Ellis (the fireman). Grey had been standing outside the mill, when, as it would appear, a splinter of iron struck him in the back of the head, severing the top of the head above the ears and completely carrying it away. His eye was also gouged out and and his corpse altogether presented a ghastly appearance. The body of Ellis was terribly battered. His shoulder and chest were almost beaten into a jelly. When found he was lying no a portion of the roof that had been heaved into the yard. The names of those seriously injured are David Roberts, Archy McFaden, Harry Grey brother of the deceased, and Dougal McFaden. In company with Dr. Ardagh and Dr. Corbett each of the patients were visited. Very little hope is entertained for Roberts as he has received a violent blow upon the chest, which renders breathing very difficult. Dougal McFadden, the watchman, was lying in bed in an almost unconscious state when visited. He received a deadly thrust in the back of the head, below the ears, about two inches long and presented a piteous sight. His wound was filled with hair all matted and bloody and with ashes from the fire boxes.

An inquest was held on Saturday on the bodies of the two men who were killed at the boiler explosion. The jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to their deaths from the explosion of the boiler caused by the carelessness of the engineer in neglecting to open the check valve connecting said boiler with the safety valve. The scene of the disaster was visited yesterday by large number of people from Orillia and elsewhere. It present a terribly shattered appearance.

ONEMEE.

Wm. Adams, a well-to-day farmer living near here, met with a very serious accident Friday morning about 5 o'clock. He went to the stable to attend his horses as usual and was found some short time after lying among the horses' feet unconscious, with one of his arms broken, two great cuts in his head, and several other wounds. He is also injured internally, but to what extent is not known.

The gale of last week made a clean sweep of the hay and flax off the fields in Armagh. Fully half the outstanding crops are lost.

A writer in a Toronto contemporary advocates the erection of a monument to the late Wm Lyon Mackenzie. We hope the suggestion will be acted upon. No Canadian politician better deserved a memorial of that kind, although his memory is likely to remain green for many years to come without it. The writer in question says: He was the bravest soul of his day, and for the crime of contending for the political rights of the people he was hunted out of the country like a wild beast. I can never read a page of Bond Head's 'Narrative' without struggling an oath, and Bond Head only echoed the voice of the ring of impudent tyrants that surrounded him. William Lyon Mackenzie never got fair play from our fathers. They did not show to him even the common virtue of gratitude. He sowed the good seed, but others reaped the harvest. We are reaping it now. He fought and won for us the battle of political freedom and self government. Shall we be ingrates as our fathers were? Shall William Lyon Mackenzie lie on in an unknown and nameless grave? He did more for us than the brave men who fell at Ridgeway, where a beautiful monument adorns a corner of Queen's Park, and infinitely more than one who is to have a public monument in Parliament Square on the Ottawa. Let us show that we honor the memory of a true patriot. It is not yet too late in the day. I cheerfully gave a subscription for a Brown statue; I will as cheerfully double it for a Mackenzie one.

Jay Gould is one of the most prominent figures in American society to-day. Half of the political and commercial strikes are ascribed to him. Yet in 1856 he was a humble schoolmaster, and published a history of Delaware county, N. Y., every copy of which is now worth $25. But to-day that impecunious author and school teacher of twenty-six years ago is so burdened with wealth that he hardly knows what to do with it.

Judge Galt in his address to the jury at the Carleton assizes the other day, held that a woman had no authority in law to pledge her husband's credit, and that if a business man trusted a married woman he did it at his own risk. It was further held that the husband was not bound to inform any one that he had forbidden his wife to pledge his credit.

The Busy End

Of our Store is found in every part of it—in every Department, and on all sides of it.

We are not disposed to say as much about it as are our customers, who remark the activity in every direction, of what they are pleased to compliment as a well ordered business.

All details of our trade have responsible supervision, and everything connected with each department is being, if possible, more carefully looked after than heretofore.

In the Existing

Circumstances of increased cost of living, everybody who wishes to be economical, should ask themselves "where and how they can spend their money to best advantage."

A great many people have the habit of dealing in certain stores, and buying large quantities of goods and paying for them too, without ever asking themselves "could I have done any better elsewhere?"

If they would only take a little trouble and look around and call on us, they would be generally surprised in a six months how much to their advantage it is to trade with us.

Equally So

In all particulars is it with the stranger or transient visitor—whether great or small—whose custom is as much a matter of consideration to us as those of longer standing.

Hence as far as our business obligations can go, all are on the same basis, and equally the recipient of our best work. And everything we have shall equal the expectation of those who pay their money for it.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in

CHEAPNESS OF GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers, and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE: Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

OTONABEE FALL SHOW.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

The annual Township Show of the Otonabee Agricultural Society was held in the village of Keene, on Friday, the 6th inst., and was financially and in point of exhibits a great success.

The weather was all that could be wished for—the sky being almost unclouded, old sol shining forth in his brilliancy, and there was just sufficient of a breeze to keep the weather cool enough to be enjoyable. The most difficult to please of the directorate must have felt happy, and the attendance was consequently very large.

From the time the exhibition opened until late in the afternoon visitors were constantly coming in, and there was a large number of the good people of the township present to see the show.

This year the exhibits were, as regards the number of entries, about the same as the previous exhibition.

The exhibition in cattle was very good, and for a township show would be hard to equal. Otonabee Township is sustaining its reputation for pure bred stock, and the three bulls exhibited by Messrs. Millar, Blezard, M.P.P., and Armstrong will hardly be equalled by any other township in the county. Several herds were on the ground and although it would be invidious to mention names, the herds of Messrs. Redmond, Armstrong, Blezard and W. J. Millar, and other lesser exhibitors are specially worthy of mention.

Several very fine pens of sheep were on exhibition. Mr. W. J. Millar was the principal exhibitor, having 26 on the ground.

The horse ring was quite a centre of attraction. In single carriage and farm horses the competition was keen. Mr. Jas. Jackson exhibited a very fine Clydesdale colt.

The samples of grain were superior, and the barley bright and plump, exceeding expectations.

The inside exhibition was all that could be desired, and credit is due to the ladies of the township for the effort which they put forth to make this department of the exhibition a success. There was a good display of apples.

Dairy produce was well represented, some fine samples of butter being on exhibition.

In roots, vegetables, &c., there was quite an exhibition, some fine specimens being shown.

Taking the show all in all, it was a good one, and the directors and the people of Otonabee have reason to be congratulated on its success.

The Wheeler and Wilson was represented by Mr. G. A. Mitchell, and the Singer by Messrs. Millar and Ham.

The principal exhibitors will be found in the

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Apsley has had her Civic Holiday.

Apsley merchants are getting in their fall and winter stocks.

The McIlmoyl Hotel has again changed hands. F. Bartrand is going to slake ethe thirst of those who may require his aid.

The Rev. Mr. McLean preached his farewell sermon, on Sunday last, in the Temperance Hall, to a large congregation, and on Monday morning left for his native home, Prince Edward Island.

IMPROVING LAND.

I have a farm which by hard work I have brought to such a state of cultivation that I have been offered $400 an acre for it. But I have done this by underdraining, subsoil ploughing, and raising clover and ploughing it in. The best of these is the deep tillage, which breaks the soil into small particles and gives the air thorough access to it.—Cor.

The Kingston and Pembroke railroad is progressing satisfactorily. Construction is now being pushed between Clydon and Calabogie Lake, and is expected that trains will run through to within fifteen miles of Renfrew by this time next year. The hardest work on the road is filling in Calabogie Lake, which will cost $100,000, the lake being upward of mile in length.

Henry Halloway (colored) had a hearing on Thursday before the magistrate on the charge of outraging Mrs. Rogers on Saturday night. He was pronounced guilty and instantly seized by the crowd and suspended from a bridge. Before he was hanged he sang, "I'm goin' to the Lordy," like Charlie Guiteau.

Fatal Electric Shock.

James Stainters, in the employ of an electric light company, accidently received a shock from a wire he was adjusting at the top of a pole. His foot being caught in the wire he hung on the pole till taken down, when he soon died. The skin of the palm of his hands was hanging in strips, and his face bore a look of intense agony.

Murder at a Festival.

At a festival in Louisiana, Adolphe Marcanx was offended by somebody and he left. He organized a party of armed friends, returned and marched into the hall in military style and gave the order "halt, aim, fire." The party obeyed and Narcisse Dominique was killed and his brother Alexis mortally wounded. A terrible panic followed. A posse is in pursuit of the murderers.

Prepared to Die.

In Spottsylvannia county, last Friday evening, Mrs. Ann Talley, aged 70 years and in seeming robust health, informed her friends that her time had come, and so impressed was she with the idea that on Saturday morning she arose at an early hour, washed, dressed, prepared herself for the anticipated event and proceeded to cook the breakfast, and while so engaged, with no previous warning, dropped dead.

THRIFT OF FRENCH WOMEN.

French women, often stigmatized as the most frivolous of their kind, are in reality the most thrifty—a virtue that frequently degenerates into absolute parsimony. I saw a striking instance of making the best of unregarded trifles the other day when dining with one who certainly has a reputation for prudence. A cherry pie had been on the table, and the mistress gave strict injunctions that all the stones were to be sent to the storeroom. I ventured to ask the reason, and was told that not only cherry, but plum, peach and all manner of stones, whether cooked or raw, were invariably saved, gently dried in the oven and kept in a great jar. "Then," said madame, "in the winter, when the fire burns clear and bright in the evening, I fetch a handful and throw them among the glowing coals. They crack and splatter for a moment, send up a brilliant flame, and the whole room is filled with a delicious odor.

VULGAR HABITS.

Asking questions private and personal is a vulgar habit, and telling your own business, which no one wants to hear, is another. Asking the cost of a present that has been made to you, loud talking in public, hard staring at table, insolent disrespect to husband, wife, sister, or brother, showing temper in trifles, and making scenes in public, showing an embarrassing amount of fondness and making love in public, covert sneers of which people can see the animus if they do not always understand the drift; persistant egotism which talks forever of itself and cannot even feign the most passing interest in another, detraction of friends and it may be of relatives, a husband telling of his unpleasantness, a wife complaining of her husband's faults, the bold assumption of superiority and the servile confession of infinite unworthiness—all these are signs and evidences of vulgarity—vulgarity of a fair worse type than that which eats its fish with a steel knife and says 'You was,' and 'Each of the men were."

Sullivan was going down street the last cold day and suddenly observed a row of thermometers hung out in front of a store, with a card marked: "You choice for 25 cents." Upon looking them over and discovering that no two of them registered the temperature alike, Sullivan selected the highest one and took it home. He concluded it would save a great deal of coal.

THE DOCTOR'S LAST HAPPY RESORT.—Evansville, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882. I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect: patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much against my wish, to use a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to ever expect, she was completely cured. The name of this remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice.—Leading M.D., Evansville. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

The Contented Man,
Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 h is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the dut on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

SANDERSON'S

COURTING IN CHURCH.

One of the most diffident men I have ever known courted his wife while they sat in the church, her hymn book serving as a medium of converse. He was turning the leaves of the book, when suddenly these lines met his eye, which he marked with a pencil and handed her to read :

'Tis thee I love—for thee alone
I shed my tears and make my moan!
Where'er I am, where'er I more,
I meet the object of my love.

The hymn book was presently handed back to him with a leaf turned down, and these lines designated with pencil mark :

I yield, I yield, I yield;
I can hold out no more!

With a heart bounding with joy the youth continued to look over the volume until he found this appropriate expression of his feelings ;

When shall it be,—
That I shall find my heaven in thee—
The fulness of the promise prove
The pledge of thy eternal love?

To which, in a moment, he received the response, indicated as before, by the turned leaf and the pencil mark:

Soon as thou wilt.

This unique courtship then ended by the enraptured youth marking the passage :

O happy day that fixed my choice
On thee.

LOVERS WHO EXCHANGED TEETH

I performed an operation of transplanting under romantic circumstances on a certain occasion. A young lady, as pretty as a peach, and a fine looking young fellow came to see me one morning. After no little hesitation, they told me they were betrothed, and that he was in the army and was going away to the plains for at least a year, hunting Indians. "And we are very unhappy at parting," whimpered she. "Yes, we are, almost blubbered he. "We heard of transplanting teeth, and want you to take one out of each of our mouths and transfer them. For a moment I was transfixed with laughter and astonishment, and I attempted to reason them out of their foolish proposition—but they insisted, so I extracted one of her largest back teeth and one of his smallest, and changed them about. Hers fitted in his jaw all right, and he went off a few days afterward to his post with his lady love's molar. His tooth, however, would not stick in, for within a week the young lady came back with her face dreadfully swollen. I reduced the inflamation and eased the pain, but would not replant her lover's fang, and she went away with it wrapped up in a paper. Oh! the inconstancy of woman. Six months after she married a man old enough to be her father. When the young Lieutenant subsequently returned he indignantly told me of the manner he had been jilted, and requested me to immediately extract his false love's tooth, which I did, and he threw it in the cuspadore.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE DISASTROUS RESULTS OF TALKING IN YOUR SLEEP.

"Who is Maria?" was the question that startled Mr. Brown (who talks in his sleep) as he waked the other morning and found Mrs. Brown sitting up in bed with an interrogation point in one eye, and an exclamation point in the other.

"Maria? Maria who?"

"That's just what I want to know ; you repeated the name over and over again last night.

"Let me see—oh, yes; that's Parker's dog—a splendid animal. I've been trying to buy her."

"You ought to own her, certainly; you are so excessively fond of her. You asked Parker's dog to put her arms around your neck and kiss you. You even went so far as to tell Parker's dog to put her arms around your neck and kiss you. You even went so far as to tell Parker's dog that you loved her with all your heart, and that when you came to die if you could only lay your head on Parker's dog's bosom you could breathe your life out sweetly there. Then you asked Parker's dog to have another plate of ice cream, and if the watch you gave her kept good time. During the night you kissed Parker's dog a dozen times, called her all the pet names known, and proved to me conclusively that you ought to live with Parker's dog and not with me."

Mrs. Brown has gone home to her mother.

SHE SWAR'D.

"Do you know the nature of an oath?" asked the judge of a coloured woman.

"Yes, sah ; I reckon I does."

"You know then what it is to swear?"

"Yes sah, I reckon I does."

"Hold up your hand and swear."

She held up her hand and ripped out an oath which almost took the judge's breath.

"I'll send you to jail for this, you miserable creature.

"For what, jedge?"

"For using profane language in this court room."

"I doesn't know what yer means by 'fane langwide. Yer tole me ter swar, an' I swar'd. White folks gittin' so high up it gins a nigger a crick in the naik ter look up at 'em. I'se gwine ter leave dis town, case I wa'n't bo'ned in Arkansaw, nohow."

SKILL IN THE WORKSHOP.—To do good work the mechanic must have good health. If long hours of confinement in close rooms have enfeebled his hand or dimmed his sight, let him at once, and before some organic trouble appears take plenty of Hop Bitters. His system will be rejuvenated, his nerves strengthened, his sight become clear, and the whole constitution be built up to a higher working condition. 40-2t

WORTH SAVING.—Croup, it is said, can be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply rum and sugar. The way to accomplish the deed is to take a knife or grater, and shave off in small particles about a teaspoonful of alum ; then mix it with twice its amount of sugar, to make it palatable, and administer it as quickly as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

There is a church in Michigan which has been struck by lightning a dozen times, and now, whenever the preacher shows signs of getting long-winded and passing from his "seventhly" to an "eighthly," the organist slyly imitates the sound of approaching thunder on the pedals. The way the preacher dives into the "conclusion" and rushes through it and starts the doxology is a caution. The congregation would not part with that organist for a million of dollars.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the most preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

FOR NICE, stylish millinery call on R. Graham & Son, Lakefield. 40-2ins

FINGER TAKEN OFF.—A few days ago Mr. S. Sergent, of Otonabee, had his finger taken off and his hand badly bruised in a threshing machine.

ROCK ISLAND BOOTS, hand made, just the thing for fall wear, to be had only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 40tf.

MANY THANKS.—The employees of the EXAMINER office acknowledge with gustatory gratitude the present of a basket of delicious eating apples, placed at their mercy by the kindness of Henry Collins, Esq., Warden of the county.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Sept 30th 1882, was as follows: Passengers and mails, $9430.38; freight, $22303.39; total, $31733.77 as compared with $30676.14 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $1157.63; and the aggregate traffic to date is $776534.58, being an increase of $167756.18 over 1881.

EVERY BUYER of tweeds, flannels, fulled cloths, blankets, cottons, and general house-furnishing goods, will save money by purchasing from Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR.—In our last issue the types made us say that Mr. D. Belleghem had purchased from the Ontario Bank "15,000" feet of lumber, whereas it should have been 150,000. As a rule as nought is nothing, but removing a nought from the right hand side of a row of figures makes a big difference in a bank account or bill of lumber.

IT WILL pay every man or boy, in want of a good tweed suit. Overcoat or rubber coat, to see the immense stock of new and fashionable goods offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

BAND OF HOPE.—A very interesting lecture on temperance was delivered by Rev. J. W. Butcher on Friday evening, in the basement of the Bible Christian Church, Murray street. The different stages of intemperance were shown by an enlarged oil painting. Singing by several young ladies was very commendably given, Miss Butcher presiding at the organ. A pleasant and profitable evening was spent.

CROQUET CHALLENGE.—According to the Guide a quartette of Port Hope croquet players are anxious to measure mallets with any other four players in Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Lindsay, or Peterborough, the match to be played on the grounds of John Helm, Esq., Port Hope. They ought to find opponents worthy of their skill in these five centres of civilization and croquet. There is nothing said about expenses or the division of gate-money. All communications to be addressed to P. R. Randall, Mayor of Port Hope.

R. GRAHAM & SON, Lakefield, have just received a large stock of tweeds, full cloths, flannels, blankets, shirts, drawers, and a full line of gents' furnishings at remarkably low prices. 40-2ins.

A GOOD FAMILY JOURNAL.—We advise our readers to send for a sample copy of the Detroit Commercial Advertiser. It is the best general newspaper published in the Northwestern States; gives much valuable information, under the various department heads of "The Farmstead" and "Familiary" matters; contains a special page for the young people, and gives the latest and most reliable market quotations every week. Inducements are offered both agents and subscribers, which can be learned by applying per postal card for sample copy, addressing W. H. BUNK, publisher, 44 Larned street west, Detroit, Mich.

A TERRIBLE DEATH.—Last Thursday Mr. Harry Robinson, whose barber shop is on Hunter street, next to Cavanagh's Hotel, lost a bright little child one and a half years old, by a shocking accident. The residence is on Antrim Street, and on Thursday morning the mother was about to give the child a bath. She placed it in its high chair beside the stove and put some hot water in the bath tub; going outside for some water to cool it, but before she could return she was startled by the piercing shrieks of the child, which had fallen backwards into the scalding water in the tub. On being lifted out the skin dropped from the little sufferer's back from neck to feet, about half way round the body After lying in great agony till night, death brought relief

MORE LIGHT WANTED.—There is a matter which deserves the prompt and energetic attention of the proper authorities. In general the town is pretty well served in the matter of light, but there is one grave defect that should be remedied at once. The lights in front of church exits is not at all what it should be. Young "gentlemen" when a reporter lies it's because he is compelled to do so who lie in wait for their sweet hearts or spoons after church service, are put to great disadvantage by the absence of enough light to allow them to "spot" the young ladies whom they propose to honor by escorting home. This is a serious consideration for the proper authorities, as gravely affecting the attendance of these young men at public worship. If more light is not given, it is to be hoped that at least a policeman will be employed to assist these young gentlemen in obstructing the exits of churches, and ogling every woman that comes out till they find those who are so much exhausted by the services as to require escort from the church so much more urgently than they do to it.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.—Financially, the recently celebrated harvest home festival of St. Luke's was a most gratifying success. The net financial outcome was $71.

A SPLENDID STOCK of men and boys' hand-made boots, also women and childrens' in light and heavy goods. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

A BIG YIELD.—Mr. Robert Goodfellow, Sr., of North Monaghan, plucked the unusual yield of 1,364 beans off four vines—equivalent to an increase of 241 fold.

NEW ESTABLISHMENT.—Misses Vignette and Leo will shortly open a fancy goods business in the shop at present occupied by Mrs. McEachern, who closes her business here and removes to Barrie.

CHURCH BAZAR.—A bazar for the sale of useful and fancy articles, for the benefit of the parsonage fund of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, will be held about the middle of next December. Full particulars will be furnished in due time.

LADIES will find with W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, a nice stock of new dress goods, black cashmeres, winceys, ready-made mantles, ulsters, rubber circulars, trimmed hats, corsets, gloves, and fancy goods. 39-4ins

FIVE TO NOTHING.—Mr. McLaurin of this town, according to the Mail, on Friday evening had a bout at draughts with Mr. George Fletcher, at the rooms of the Toronto Draught Club, winning five games out of six, and the sixth a draw.

CALL ON R. Graham & Son, Lakefield, and see their new dress goods and trimmings, splendid value in all the new shades. Also a line of coloured dress silks at 75 cts.; worth $1.00. 40-2ins SPEED THE PLOUGH.—The county ploughing match will be held on the farm of Mr. John Breakenridge, in the township of Asphodel, on Wednesday, October 25th, at which a large sum of prize money will be competed for. See advertisement in another column.

PRESSED FOR TIME.—Mr. B. Shortly wishes us to say that he has not time this week to write out an advertisement but hopes to be able next week to announce the bargains which he is giving at his establishment. His stock is now very complete, and worthy of inspection.

EAST RIDING EXHIBITION.—The fall exhibition of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society took place on Wednesday and Thursday, yesterday and to-day. The prize list not being completed in time we are unable to give it in this issue, but will publish it next week.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Oct. 7th, 1882, was as follows: Passengers and mails, $8,009.03; freight, $21,033.19; total, $29,042.22 as compared with $28,724.54 for corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $317.68; and the aggregate traffic to date is $805,576.80, being an increase of $168,073.86 over 1881.

SHOEMAKER'S UNION.—At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Shoemaker's Union, on Thursday night, the following officers were elected:—

President	F. W. Millar
Vice President	A. Dumas
Secretary	John J. Wells
Treasurer	James Millar

The union was established last April, and has a membership of about thirty-three. It is entirely independent, and confined to Peterborough alone, and is not affiliated with any other trade union.

NO INTERRUPTION.—A few days ago Mr. Allan McCarthy, of Otonabee, moved the house of Mr. W. M. Green, McDonnell street, a considerable distance to another site, without any interruption of performance of household duties. Everything remained in place, family, furniture and all, and all domestic affairs went on as usual, undisturbed by the moving scene.

MUNCASTER'S PLATE GLASS.—On Monday morning, Samuel Sharp and Wm. and James Paterson were arraigned before Police Magistrate Hatton, charged with breaking the plate glass in R. W. Muncaster's jewellery store, on the 28th of August. The charge against the two latter but, however, withdrawn, and as to the guilt of Samuel Sharp, Jas. Paterson, Wm. Paterson, Edward Tierney, F. J. Jamieson and Charley Robinson were examined, but their evidence failed to fasten the charge on the accused and the case was dismissed. Mr. J. O'Meara appeared for the complainant, and Mr. D. W. Dumble for the defendants. It is not likely that Mr. M. will now ever discover the parties who, in boorish horse play subjected him to such heavy pecuniary loss. It is shameful that a band of rowdies should thus be able to injure and annoy a respectable business man, without his being able to secure compensation or even the satisfaction of seeing the guilty parties punished in any way.

CURLING CLUB.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club was held at the Choate House on Wednesday evening last. The report of the secretary-treasurer was read and adopted. The following officers were elected:

T. P. Attrill, president.
Dr. Boucher, vice-president.
Rev. C. W. Bradshaw, chaplain
W. H. Budden, secretary-treasurer, (re-elected).

The managing committee appointed is composed of Messrs. A. H. Hall, W. G. Ferguson, J. F. Dennistoun, A. Bertram, A. McNeil. The following gentlemen were elected honorary members: Rev. V. Clementi, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Dr Halliday, G. A. Cox, A. White, Dr. Kincaid, R. A. Morrow and D. G. Hatton. Skips, Messrs. J. F. Dennistoun, T. P. Attrill George Brown, W. G. Ferguson, P. Connal, Melleville Millar and George Dunsford. Patrons, Mrs. and Judge Dennistoun. The president and vice-president announce their intention of providing a medal for competition among members for the thirteen point game. After the usual votes of thanks the meeting separated.

RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.—On Monday the work of attempting to improve our harbor and approaches by expending the appropriation of $1,000 was begun. The water-soaked and sunken saw dust and lumber rubbish will be stirred up with a drag, an implement something like a huge rake with iron teeth about six or eight inches apart, and it is expected the action of the current will sweep the obstructions away. Practical men have not much faith in the success of the plan. The moment the rubbish is clear of the drag it will likely sink like lead to the bottom. We understand that a resident engineer recommended the employment of a dredge, and it seems reasonable that anything less effective and thorough than that can be productive of no permanent benefit. One thing, however, is certain, viz. permanent good cannot be accomplished and maintained in any way so long as the saw mills are permitted to deposit their refuse rubbish and saw dust in the river. The Otonabee is not an unfathomable stream, and while it is receiving rubbish continually, and while nothing is done more effective than stirring up the debris with a pole and allowing it to sink again the river must, as a matter of course, in time become filled up.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

THE IMPROVEMENTS—THE NEW ORGAN—THE OPENING DAY—THE NEW CHOIR.

The work of the restoration of St. John's Church has nearly reached completion, and the progress that has already been made in the undertaking has resulted in a metamorphosis, in which those who had seen the old church would hardly note any recognizable features, beyond the site of the structure. The exterior has been practically rebuilt—the stonework retouched and repointed—and so well has the work been done that there is no apparent distinction between the chancel annex and the buttresses—both new—and the rest of the walls.

IN THE INTERIOR

the change has been equally marked; everything has been renewed. The arched ceilings have been finished with panels of oiled pine, the groins and mouldings framing the panels, stained of a darker hue, and the whole richly ornamented. The new stained glass windows are a magnificent improvement; the light filtering through the many colored panes, touches the interior with gorgeous, kaleidoscopic effects, and yet, subdued by the medium through which it passes, fills the sacred edifice with the dim religious light, befitting the hallowed surroundings.

The chancel windows are in triplicate, the central bearing a figure of St. John the Evangelist, with his emblem, the eagle at his feet. The window to the right of this displays the words "The Lord shall be thine everlasting light" and its opposite fellow, the text "The Lord is King forever and ever." The two side windows of the chancel show rich representations of the communion chalice and the baptismal font.

The walls of the eastern side of the church contain three of exquisite beauty of design and execution, erected in the order following:

By Catharine Beck to the memory of her father and mother.

By his widow and children to the memory of George Edward Shaw.

By Charlotte Pelham Roche to the memory of her parents.

Over the porch entrance to the church is placed the fourth memorial window—"Erected by the ladies of the congregation to the memory of Arthur Romeyn Beck, lieutenant in the Royal Navy, lost with the crew of H.M.S., Atalanta in February 1880."

THE NEW ORGAN

which arrived about a month ago, has been placed in position. It is a superb piece of musical mechanism and occupies a space, to the left of the chancel, fourteen by fifteen feet in area and twenty feet in height. The front fills the large gothic arch opening on the space within the altar rails. Its material is white oak of a style to correspond with the architecture of the church richly carved; the exposed pipes are finished in blue flock with ornaments in gold. The weight of the organ is five tons and its cost was $2,750.00. It is of grand tone and capacity. There are twenty-one stops and 1,004 pipes, arranged and classified as follows:

GREAT ORGAN.

Stops.	Feet.	Notes.
1 Bourdon	16	58
2 Open Diapason	8	58
3 Melodia	8	58
4 Stopped Bass
5 Dulciana	8	46
6 Principal	4	58
7 Boehm Flute	4	58
8 Fifteenth	2	58
9 Trumpet	8	58
10 Mixture — 23 ranks		174 pipes.

SWELL ORGAN.

1 Geigen Principal	8	58
2 Stopped diapason, treble	8	58
3 Stopped diapason, bass
4 Viol di Gamba	8	46
5 Octave	4	58
6 Hohl flute	4	58
7 Oboe	4	58

PEDAL ORGAN.

1 Bourdon	16	27
2 Open Diapason	16	27

COUPLERS.

1 Pedal to great.
2 Pedal to swell.
3 Great to swell.
4 Pedal to check.
5 Forte piano and tremolo.

It is a 2 manual and pedal organ; manual compass, CC to A 3. Pedal compass, CCC to D.

The organ was manufactured by Messrs. S. R. Warren & Son, Toronto, and was ready for the opening of the church expected to take place last Christmas. There is no question of the superiority of its tone and of its immense capacity. It was thoroughly tested at the "Creation" concert of the Toronto Choral Society in the production of Hayden's "Creation" on the 10th of January last. It was set up in the pavilion of the Horticultural Gardens, the largest auditorium in Toronto. It filled the expanse of the vast room with the grand tones of this grand composition to the great satisfaction of all concerned, and therefore, certainly its capacity must be equal to the purposes of the beautiful church which has become its permanent abiding place. The organ is now ready for use and it will be first used for which will take place on All Saints Day, November 1st. It is expected that the Bishop of Toronto will be present, as well as many other eminent clergymen. The musical portion of the service will be specially interesting. Mr. Ewing, organist and choir-master, late of London, England, shows by his energy that he is determined there shall be no default in his department. He has organized a new choir, and that it composes the best musical talent in Peterborough, may be seen from the following names of the ladies and gentlemen that compose the

THE OPENING SERVICES,

PERSONAL.

Mr. B. S. Palmer, who is in town visiting friends called on us last week. Mr. P. learned the printing busines in the EXAMINER office and reports things as brisk in this line across the border.

The many friends of Miss Siddy Johnston, late with Miss Delaney Peterborough, will be pleased to learn that she has secured a situation at a handsome salary in a large store in Beamsville—the management of the ladies' department.

Mr. E. E. Bowie and bride have been at the Oriental during the week. Mr. Bowie's many friends in this county congratulate him on having at last plucked up courage and taken one of the city of Hamilton's fair daughters to himself. The benison of the EXAMINER accompanies the best wishes of the many friends of the happy couple, and may the bright sunshine which now makes life so pleasant to them never be clouded by adversity.

CARDIGAN JACKETS.—Large size, good quality and cheap, at I. Robinsons. 41tf

REAL ESTATE NOTE.—Mr. J. W. Fife, of Chatham, a former resident of this county, has sold to Mr. Hugh Beckett, of Asphodel, the west 150 acres of lot 10, in the 10th concession of that township, for the sum of $8,000.

IN NEW YORK recently Dr. M. Souvielle of the Montreal Intesnational Throat and Lung Institute, and ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, was visited by over 3,000 Phpsicians and sufferers using his wonderful invention, the Spirometer, for the treatment of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Baonchitss, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung diseases. Parties unable to visit his offices can be succes fully treated by letter addressed Dr. M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal, or 173 Church street, Toronto, offices for Canada, where French and English specialists are always in charge. Full particulars free on receipt of stamp. Pysicians and Sufferers can try it free at the offices. 41-tf

PASSED WITH HONORS.—It has become a common thing that Peterborough students are distinctive in whatever educational arena they present themselves. The latest ground on which they gathered laurels was in Kingston at Queen's College. At the recent matriculation examinations, Mr. O. Bennett secured the Rankin scholarship, $55, Mr. J. Miller the Grant scholarship, $60 and Mr. M. G. Hamilton, the Mowat scholarship $50. Mr. M. J. Smith also took a successful position in the honor lists. This is a proud record for Peterborough, to win three out of seven scholarships open to competition from the whole Dominion, and the greatest credit is reflected upon the efficiency and thoroughness of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, which has the charge of their preliminary education.

PROMPT ACTION NECESSARY.—At the meeting of the Town Council, on Wednesday night, the Mayor was authorized to communicate with Mr. Rollins, of Toronto, in reference to the establishment of rolling mills in Peterborough. A Mr. Rollins, of Toronto, on behalf of a firm of foreign capitalists, proposes to establish somewhere in Canada an extensive rolling mill, blast furnace, etc., with a capital of a million dollars. Peterborough, to be in the race, will have to act promptly. London has offered the firm free water and exemption from municipal taxation for twenty years. Kingston has also taken action and her letter, offering terms, is by this time in the hands of Mr. Rollins. There is no doubt that this town can offer better inducements, both in the way of direct encouragement and site, both as regards manufacturing facilities, and convenience to iron mines and facilities of transpo... It is to be hoped that the local authorities will "look alive" and not suffer much verdure to vegetate under their feet till they have done everything in their power to secure the establishment of the proposed great industry in Peterborough. Peterborough is now a live, thriving town, but the sources of her vitality—the lumber industries—are becoming exhausted and it is to manufacturing, for which she possesses unrivalled facilities, that she must look for a perpetuation of her present thrift, and the increase in population, wealth and influence, which under the proper conditions she seems destined to achieve.

A CONTRADICTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I am informed that a rumor has gained currency around town that I am in the habit of distributing seeds amongst my neighbors and then bringing their products and placing them on exhibition at the various shows of the town and county. I wish most emphatically to deny the charge, and to defy any one to produce proofs that I have ever been guilty of such an act. I feel the report has been circulated to do me an injury, as there is not the least foundation for it. By inserting the above you will much oblige, yours truly.

ALEX. WATTS.

Dummer, Oct. 11th, 1882.

AMBER SUGAR CANE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

DEAR SIR,—We often see accounts in the papers about persons starting to grow Amber Sugar Cane in different parts of the country, and I wish to inform you that we have grown quite a lot in our neighbourhood this year and my father, Mr. William Armstrong, has purchased a mill for crushing the canes, which we started to work to-day.

We do not know how the crop is going to pay, but what syrup we have made is excellent. We will likely exhibit the cane and syrup at the Keene show.

Yours, etc.,

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR.—In your report last week of the evidence in the case Ottosen v. Sproule, I am represented as saying that in a fracture like Ottesen's, amputation is the rule. This is not correct. What I did say, on being asked in cross-examination if amputation is not often resorted to in compound comminuted fractures, was that it is occasionally necessary, that is, in cases where there is severe laceration or destruction of the bone and soft parts, as in railway accidents, &c. This does not mean that amputation would have been good treatment in the case under consideration.

As there is a probability of a new trial, I do not wish to be understood as reflecting upon the medical treatment, but as desirous of correcting a false impression, respecting my own evidence.

Kindly insert this, and oblige.

The Board of Benevolence, in revising the list of applicants of former years, struck off 33 brethren, 17 having died, 1 out of the country, and 15 not having applied for three years. Of the widows 64 were struck off, 4 having died, 7 married, 2 left the country, 7 not in further need, and 44 not having applied for three years. Of "other relatives," the single one that had previously applied was reported to be in no further need. The total struck off reached 115.

There were 285 lodges represented at the Communication, 206 by their duly qualified officers, and 79 by proxies; 65 lodges were unrepresented; total lodges entitled to representation, 350. Compared with last year, the lodges duly represented by qualified officers were increased by 2; proxies by 19, while the unrepresented showed a decrease of 17. The total votes entitled to be cast this year were 1,073.

During the year the Grand Secretary paid to the Grand Treasurer $16,913.47.

From the disbursements for the year we find that $94.80 was added to the Asylum fund and $310.62 paid for a testimonial to the retiring Grand Master.

In St. Clair District there are 28 lodges; London, 40; Wilson, 27; Huron, 30; Wellington, 21; Hamilton, 17; Niagara, 23; Toronto, 33; Georgian, 25; Ontario, 32; Prince Edward, 22; St. Lawrence, 28; Ottawa, 20; unattached (Royal Solomon Mother Lodge, Jerusalem), 1.

PERSONALS.

Mr. E. S. Vindin has been selected successor to the late Lewis Ross on the Midland Railway Board. No better selection the new things could have been made.

An article in the Winnipeg Commercial treating of Emerson, Man., mentions the largest shipment of glass ever made to that place, which was consigned to Walton & Bird for the buildings of Fairbanks, Burnham, Hepworth and Irwin. The glass was plate ordered directly from England.

The Orillia Packet has a glowing description of the exhibit of goods made at the East Simcoe Show by Mr. T. Hall Robinson, druggist, a past time resident of this place. Mr. R's success may be accounted for by the fact that he learned his business in Peterborough with Messrs. Ormond & Walsh.

A Winnipeg exchange says:—"Mr. I. H. Brock, late of this city but now of Moose Jaw, arrived from the west last evening. He brought with him a couple of samples of potatoes grown on his farm which would be a source of delight to the Irish heart. One of the vegetables weighed 30 ounces, and the other 24 ounces. They are comely to look upon, and very corpulent. Mr. Brock says he has about a thousand bushels of potatoes, including many even bigger than those he brought in. They were planted on the 8th of June."

We are both sorry and pleased to learn that Dr. A. W. Allen leaves Peterboro' this week. Sorry that Peterborough is to lose a pleasant, genial and promising professional getleman, and pleased that he is to succeed a long established practitioner in the city of Hamilton. Since beginning his practice here Dr. Allen has met with good success both in practice and treatment, and we prophecy a brilliant career for him in the new field upon which he enters with excellent chances of success. Both socially and professionally Dr. Allen will be a valuable acquisition to the citizenship of Hamilton, and our best wishes go with him.

CITY CLOTHING STORE.—The attention of those who wish to secure not only bargains in clothing but first class value for their money in respect of style, make, material and general excellence, should not fail to consult and carefully study the mammoth advertisement of Mr. H. LeBrun, covering half of a page of this issue of the EXAMINER. Mr. LeBrun has been for some time in business in Peterborough and during that brief time has secured the confidence of the public so that what he announces may be depended on. In the matter of ready made clothing he is prepared to offer exceptionally fine bargains. His stock is large, bought on good terms and will be offered the public at astonishingly low rates. Within the last two months Mr. LeBrun has received twelve thousand dollars' worth of new fall and winter goods. These lines comprise tweeds, worsted and fancy over-coatings, ready made clothing, (suits ranging in price from $7 to $12), a complete stock of boys and youth's clothing, under clothing and gent's furnishings. His custom department is under the care of Mr. Ross, a careful, competent and stylish cutter, and the man who cannot be suited with LeBrun's materials and Ross' cutting, is too particular to live long. When you feel the "churlish chiding of the winter wind" recollect that the City Clothing Store is the best and cheapest place to buy your clothing.

The cargo of the S S. Phoenician from Glasgow to Boston, took fire at sea, but was extinguished in less than an hour.

At Ward's Island, New York, 700 Russian refugees rioted and beat the police, who, on being reinforced, arrested the ring leaders.

Returns received at the Dominion Department of Agriculture give the number of immigrants arriving in the Dominion during the first nine months of this year at 148,258, of whom 76,378 settled in the Dominion.

NORWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

PLAYED OUT.

Last Wednesday, at the agricultural fair held here, our band played its last note, having, like other musical organizations in this village, collapsed for the want of necessary encouragement and due approbation of its merits. In fact, it is almost a marvel to see the Norwood band keep together so long as it did, as it has existed for some seven or eight years, without any substantial assistance from our citizens, and has only been sustained by the steady perseverance of and the continued good feeling among the members of the band.

THE RECENT SHOW.

Our recent riding fall fair is still the subject of much favourable comment, on account of the extraordinary financial result attending it; the large sum of $283.00 having been received at the gate, a result never before attained at any exhibition ever held in the riding. The small number of the exhibits in some departments of the show is also a matter attracting serious attention; and it appears to be the general opinion that larger prizes must be offered to attract an increase in the number of competitors. But, how this can be accomplished is a matter that will trouble the Directors of the East Riding Society. As our hotel keepers are the only persons who receive an enormous financial benefit from these annual exhibitions, we see no reason why they should not be called upon to assist liberally the finances of our agricultural society, and no doubt if called upon would willingly do so. One hotel keeper in this village, I have been credibly informed, during the two days of the show, the large sum of $600. As the equestrian part of the exhibition seems to be the most attractive, the Directors should offer greater inducements to the lady-riders of our locality, as there is, no doubt, quite a number of handsome and graceful lady equestriennes in our vicinity. Such an interesting instance of horsewomanship was given here on Wednesday last, the style of her riding costume, her excellent seat on the saddle, as well as the worth and beauty of her saddle horse, being very much admired by the large concourse of spectators present. Why could not the ridings of East and West Peterborough give next year an union exhibition; combine their prize lists and offer premiums that would induce the residents of both ridings to take a greater interest in these yearly fall fairs?

TOOK IN CASH,

CONCERT.

A concert was given in the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening of last week, under the auspices of the English church congregation. The hall was thoroughly crowded, and a remarkably enjoyable and entertaining programme was provided. Mr. D. Gellatly, of Peterborough, kindly gave his services on the occasion, and sang in his usual superior style several excellent songs. He was deservedly encored. Other gentlemen and several lady vocalists also largely contributed to the success of the concert. The handsome sum of $55.00 was taken in at the door.

A KNOTTY QUESTION.

A knotty question, arising between Mr. S. Adams and Mr. Thos. Howson, both of Asphodel, regarding an old right of way which has existed through the properties of the parties named, for perhaps a score of years, was settled on Thursday last by an amicable arrangement being arrived at by all the parties interested.

A Corpse Resurrected.

The friends of the late Noble Scott, whose body was interred at Sandhill cemetery, township of Pittsburg, on Friday last, came to Kingston Monday night and procured a warrant to search for the corpse, which had been resurrected. The body was found early next morning in the dissecting room of the Queen's college and removed. It is not expected any further proceeding will follow.

A Mammoth Farm.

The Emerson International contains a four-column description of what it calls the largest farm in the world." The farm is owned by the Qu'Appelle valley farming company, lies directly south of Fort Qu'Appelle, and consists of 56,000 acres. The company commenced operations this season, but will not be in full working order until next year.

Mormon Missionary Bishops.

On Tuesday fifty Mormon bishops left Salt Lake City on a proselytizing tour in Denmark. This is the largest number of bishops that ever left in a body to prosecute missionary work abroad. They will not venture into Germany, being deterred by the persecution Mormon missionaries have met there.

Hanlan's Latest Occupation.

The competitors who have entered for the great international walking race, including representatives of almost every nation, even as far east as Turkey, to be held at New York, have unanimously decided upon a judge for the event in the person of our oarsman, Edward Hanlan. He will be paid $1,000 as his fee on that occasion.

Prize Fight in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16.—A prize fight between Jack Hanley, Colorado, and Andy Sweeney, of Kansas City, for $250 a side, took place ten miles from the latter place at daylight. Hanley won the first and second rounds. On the third round Hanley struck Sweeney below the belt and the referee gave the fight to Sweeney.

A Windfall.

C. E. Thompson, rubber stamp manufacturer, of Montreal, has just fallen heir to $200,000, left him by an uncle who made a fortune as a Government contractor in India. His uncle's last act to young Thompson in life was to switch him for stealing apples, on account of which the lad ran away, and lived to receive the legacy.

A Fatal Buggy Accident.

While Miss Hewitson, niece of Mr. McQueen, postmaster, Dundas, was driving home with her sister the horse shied and backed the buggy over an embankment. Miss Hewitson was instantly killed and her sister was seriously injured.

Eight Times Convicted for Murder.

Andrew Walker was recently convicted at Dallas Texas, of the murder of Green Butler, Galveston co., ten years ago and sentenced to be hanged. This is the eighth time he has been convicted. He escaped the result of previous convictions through the court of appeal, when the decisions against him were reversed. He has powerful money influence on his behalf.

Agricultural Exhibitions.

The series of Agricultural Exhibitions in this county came to a close on Wednesday last, with the exhibition of the East Riding Society at Norwood. The first exhibition, that of Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield, held at the latter place, may be called a successful one. That of Otonabee, held at Keene, was a good average exhibition for that township. At the South Monaghan show, held at Baillieboro', the exhibits were passably good. At the Norwood exhibition, the exhibits were fairly numerous, and of a pretty good quality, but there was a weakness in the ladies department due to the regulations of the society, requiring lady exhibitors to become members. Coming to what should, in the nature of things, be the largest and most successful exhibition of all, that of the West Riding Society, one can have no hesitation in pronouncing it a flat failure. Compared with the Norwood show, where the comparison should be, in all respects, largely in favour of the West Riding exhibition, we find that in the matter of success, as shown by the gate receipts, Norwood was far ahead. The admission receipts for Norwood were "nearly, if not quite," $300, but those of Peterborough West amounted only to the paltry sum of $258.75—and even this insignificant sum might be called by the contributing public, money procured under misleading pretences. On entering the grounds many of them found themselves gazing on vacancy, like incipient maniacs, seeking vainly for a quid pro quo for the price of admission. A good deal of judicious expanding did not succeed in making the inside show even excusably decent; the ladies department was the only redeeming feature. The exhibit of live stock was even worse, a few good animals only saving the spectator from thinking that he had by mistake stumbled into an ordinary farm yard. On some of the farmers being questioned as to the cause of this lamentable lack of interest, the reply was that they did not exhibit because they could not submit to the way things were managed and until a radical change was made in the mode of managing the affairs and exhibitions of the society they would have nothing to do with it. And we must say that circumstances point to their complaints not being entirely without cause; in fact, there is room for decided improvement in the liberality and management of the exhibition. There is no earthly reason, outside of sheer bad management, why West Peterborough should not have a successful exhibition of its own, and one, too, open to all who wish to become members. If the narrow-mindedness and confession of fear of competition, as shown by the refusal of the membership fee of an East Riding farmer, continues, there is no hope. The object of agricultural exhibitions is not to get glory and win a little prize money alone; they are for the mutual improvement of farmers, where the unsuccessful may learn from the successful competitor, the ways and means employed to secure the lead he has achieved; for the improvement of the whole farming community, not a few isolated individuals. The farmers of the West Riding are not lacking in spirit, enterprise or aspirations, but they do not wish, in becoming exhibitors, to expose themselves to treatment similar to that which has hitherto obtained.

The management should pluck up a more enterprising spirit and take means to secure suitable grounds and erect suitable buildings. There is no doubt of success with proper management. Norwood has set a good example. It has purchased six acres of ground and a building is to be erected and the premises put in shape for a permanent exhibition ground, and the society shows a desire and willingness to make all required improvements, whereas, the West Peterborough Society seems disinclined to do as much as fasten on a loose shingle or replace a broken bar in a sheep pen in their present premises. One or other of two changes must take place soon: a decided improvement in management or a decided dissolution.

We would beg to suggest, in the interests of the society, that the Directors convene a meeting of the farmers and others interested, at an early day, for the purpose of discussing the question, and devising means to increase public interest in the matter, and make the West Riding exhibition a credit instead of a disgrace to the agricultural and industrial enterprise of the county. There is no doubt that a vast improvement can be made if the proper means are employed, and sufficiently energetic efforts put forth.

Notes of the Day.

It appears that the potato crop of the United States is rather "small potatoes" this year and American dealers are invading this country in search of the requisite tubers, which will have a tendency to advance the price.

There is a pleasant unanimity of sentiment expressed by the general press of the country in favour of erecting a monument to William Lyon Mackenzie, and according to La Patrie, Montreal, the necessary thing is to popularize the idea and a statue will soon be un fait accompli, and will proclaim to foreigners that Canada cherishes the memory of patriots.

According to a statement just issued by the Treasury Department at Washington, the total debt of the United States on the 30th of September, 1882, amounted to nearly nineteen hundred million of dollars. This includes the interest bearing debt and accrued interest. The cash in the Treasury on the above named date was two hundred and fifty millions of dollars, which brings the actual debt down to sixteen hundred million dollars. The reduction of the national debt during the month of September was $14,805,948, and the reduction since the thirtieth of June has been $44,794,327.

At the rate the expense of funerals is growing, it will not be long before it will be a man of some means who can afford to die. The evil has grown to a great extent in the United States. One fourth more money is expended in that country for funerals than the Government appropriates for school purposes. To this is also to be added the cost of cemetery lots and burial fees. The evil is one that calls for a remedy. Expensive funerals by those who can afford them set an example which not to follow is construed into disrespect for the dead; and the poor, rather than be subjected to such an accusation thus spend on the dead a sum that is no less than a robbery of the living.

Henry Ward Beecher has long since declared his disbelief in a hell, and now his detractors will say he has "gone to the devil." His peculiar convictions as to doctrine have pressed so strongly on his conscience, that he feels constrained to withdraw from the Association that holds them to be heretical. He has bodily seceded or rather withdrawn from the Congregational Association of the United States. Some members of the Association were in favor of modifying the standards of belief so as to admit of a retention of Mr. Beecher's services but this did not favourably recommend itself to the majority. And it is well that it should not. The principles of religion should be adhered to no matter how eminent and brilliant the man that must be sacrificed to their integrity.

The death roll due to Canadian lake disasters during the last three years mounts up to the terrible total of four hundred and seventy lives, a larger number than was lost during the previous twenty years. But it is fair to state that of this number one hundred and eighty one were contributed by the Victoria disaster on the Thames at London, on the 24th of May, 1881. Yet the latter does not lessen the dreadful significance of these figures. That as well as the majority of the others is due to causes directly traceable to making the safety of passengers on steamers and vessels subordinate to the mere greed of gain, and there will be little diminution of these terrible happenings till two or three ship owners or captains are strung up in punishment of their criminal negligence.

There has been much seen and read recently respecting the antagonism between religion and science. Assertions are frequently made, and commonly accepted, as containing more or less the elements of truth, that science conflicts with religion, and that the progress of science must ultimately result in the the extinction, to a greater or less degree, of religion. But the British Association for the advancement of science have recorded their protest against the truth of these assertions. A manifesto drawn up by members of the Association has received 617 signatures, many of whom are "investigators of the highest eminence," and nearly all fellows or members of learned societies. The manifesto explicitly states that to cast doubt upon the revelation of the Scriptures is a perversion of science and that the testimony for God in nature and that given in the Bible may differ but do not contradict one another. This should be convincing testimony that to be scientific is not necessarily to be infidel and irreligious.

"MOWAT MUST GO."

THOUGHTS AND REFLECTIONS ON THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

(From the Stratford Beacon)

This is the shibboleth of the Tory party for the coming campaign. But why he must go, they have not so far, given any valid reason. Neither have they laid down their own programme, (if they have any) in the improbable event of their wish being gratified. The only reason they are pleased to give is that Meredith, Lauder & Co. would sit more gracefully in the official chairs in Toronto than the present occupants, and that any deficiency in administrative ability could be easily supplemented from Ottawa. Such a plea for a change of Government in order that a hungry office-seeking faction should be entrusted with the management of the affairs of this great Province, is too silly and childish to impose upon the most credulous. To strengthen their impudent assumptions of superiority they try to persuade the electorate that Mowat has encroached upon their rights and privileges, and that the tendency of his Government is to centralize all power in itself.

Let us for a moment examine these charges and see how much truth there is in them. The "Crooks Act" is the chief bug-bear, the one which has "wrenched" from the municipalities the control of managing and regulating the liquor traffic. Those who recollect—and most of your readers do—the shameful way in which very many municipalities dealt with the liquor licenses, will admit that instead of being an innovation on their rights the Act has relieved them of a heavy responsibility, and above all, placed the traffic upon as good a footing as it is possible to put such a business without suppressing it altogether. We all remember the shifts and straits municipal councils were frequently put to. Applicants for licenses often without accommodation or personal fitness were thrust into the business, while those who acquiesced or connived at the wrong-doing were actuated by motives not always disinterested or honorable. To say, therefore, that to deprive the municipalities of this privilege was an encroachment upon them in any way whatever is to assert that no legislative remedy should ever be applied for the removal of abuses or the improvement of any system of working the municipal franchises entrusted to the people. We assert here without dread of contradiction that the municipal authorities did not always consult the true interests of the people but on the contrary frequently suffered themselves from outside influence and sometimes from want of judgment to be led astray and made to entertain applications for tavern licenses from parties who were neither fit nor proper persons to be entrusted with the sale of intoxicants and often with less than the limited accommodation required by law. Under such circumstances who will dare to say that the municipalities have been deprived of their rights and privileges? If to deprive them of the right to do wrong be an encroachment, Mowat is certainly guilty, if to raise and elevate the tavern keeper to a position of trust and responsibility whilst at the same time improving his condition and enhancing the value of his property and above all diminishing and restricting the whole traffic without in any sensible degree lessening the public convenience, if all this be a crime deserving public condemnation, Mr. Mowat is guilty.

Another charge equally futile is that relative to the appointment of Division Court officers. Who does not know that in former times great and serious abuses existed in connection with the working of the Division Courts. Many in your own town will recollect how difficult it was to get any money long after it was collected and paid into court, because the clerk or bailiff might not be prepared to meet the demand without some inconvenience to themselves, having perhaps used the money for their own purposes, and relying on the indulgence of the judge to whom alone they are responsible, did not trouble themselves very much about the complaints of justly dissatisfied litigants. To say that such a state of things did not require to be improved is to admit at once that abuses may exist of which the Government is cognizant but dare not set right.

As to the appointment of jail officials by Government, it is sufficient to say that the sheriff's themselves who have lost the useless patronage are quite thankful for being relieved of the responsibility which such appointments impose upon them without in any way enhancing their ordinary emoluments or detracting one iota from the dignity of their position.

Meredith Must not Come.

Humbugged Again.—I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters, my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press. 42-2t

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

"THAT BOY."

A Brilliant and Entertaining Lecture by Rev. Dr. Vincent, of New York —A Large and High Class Audience, both Intellectually and Socially— A Brief Sketch of the Lecture.

On Thursday evening last a very large number of people, embracing the best of the citizens of Peterborough, completely filled the immense auditorium of the George Street Methodist Church, to listen to a lecture on the subject of "That Boy," by Rev. Dr. Vincent, of New York. The church was decorated for the occasion, the platform, within the rails, with cut and living flowers, and banners, with scripture mottoes, were suspended at intervals from the gallery railings. The chair was occupied by D. W. Dumble, Esq., and Rev. Mr. Shaw, pastor of the church, occupied a seat on the platform, and pronoced the lecture with prayer.

The Chairman said the reverend gentleman who was about to address them had a name and reputation familiar throughout the land, and the splendid gathering to greet his first appearance in Peterborough, which was not noted as a lecture-attending town, was the most flattering compliment that could be paid to his reputation. He had long been teaching people what to do and how to do it. He had taken a special interest in Sunday School matters, and whatever success marked Sunday School work, was largely due to his study and efforts.

Dr. Vincent was received with hearty applause, and began by saying that was the melancholy subject of his lecture, and he proceeded to discuss the average boy—the boy of the period, who was altogether bad, for the idiosyncrasies of boys, as to their roystering habits, their pockets full of all sorts of rubbish, their unkempt condition, their noisy, rude, boorish and uncontrollable ways, made them the torment of the parlor, the nuisance of the kitchen and street. Yet such graceless specimens of the race were the prototype of the man, the material from which were made the future business man, statesman, orators, poets. He did not intend to consider the bad boy that was hanged at twenty, nor the good boy who died at ten, but the boy that eats, romps, sleeps and eats—principally eats. He would begin at the beginning, in his mother's arms. Never would the child be so good and sweet and pure again, and never did woman appear to such good advantage as at such a time. He said that there had been a good deal of prating about "women's rights," leading to their neglecting home duties to fill positions in the world, but he was glad women's rights could not change the old order. The lecturer then painted with elegant eloquence the grand responsibilities of motherhood—her duty to the child, and the influence of her early training on the future of the boy. The next stage was the full of roaring, rollicking fun, and—"nervousness." The "nervousness" of to-day was considered "naughtiness" forty years ago, and was dealt with according to the good old plan of those days. The change in the times was such that boys were to-day given chloral where they would have got a flogging two score years since. At this age boys were full of frankness, not only telling what they themselves think, but what their mothers and sisters think and say, and besides, everything that goes on in the house. Dr. Vincent illustrated his assertions by two or three piquant anecdotes told with excellent mimetic effect. The boy was frank, yet true to himself and acted out his nature.

"THAT BOY"

THE BABY BOY

BOY AT EIGHT YEARS OF AGE,

AT TWELVE YEARS OF AGE,

it would be found that the boy's energy and capacity for mischief, noise-making and making himself thoroughly disagreeable had increased with his years. He could eat more, romp more, sleep more and—have fewer friends. He was kept out of the way, spurned, reviled and declared contraband of domestic society. This is the very age when he needs chiefly two things—

AUTHORITY AND TENDERNESS.

Neither severity nor indulgence—but unbending authority begotten of love. The seeds of intemperance are sown when the child finds that he can make his mother give way in what is right; when she sacrifices the important lesson of self-control to temporary convenience. The root of intemperance is sown by want of example of self control by parents. Boys are quick to follow examples, and if they see want of self-control in their parents, they acquire that trick themselves, and they go forth in life, weakened at the point where they ought to be strong. The utmost endeavour should be used to exalt righteousness and truth above self-gratification, to inculcate a SPIRIT OF SELF-CONTROL.

by both precept and example. The importance of saying "No," at the right time was strongly dwelt upon, for until the children of the land were taught this, the repression of intemperance by prohibition and allied means, would be ineffectual. When a boy learned this lesson he was safe to go into the world, and his right future was assured. There was a law of momentum in human character, and the right impulse should be given in early life. If children were taught from the age of two years to govern themselves there would be fewer wrecks in the world.

AT SIXTEEN YEARS OF AGE

we saw the last of "that boy." A great change had come over him; he was particular in dress, he shaved and had "opinions." What a boy of sixteen did not know was not worth knowing. He called his father "the old man" or "governor" and sang bass—part of the time. The lecturer did not mean to depreciate these aspirations after manhood, but he was anxious the boy should recognize what manhood was. Allusion was made to the importance of inculcating a spirit of reverence. It was a grand sight to see a young man paying the most respectful deference to the whims and caprices of his aged father, or tenderly escorting his aged mother through the streets. The lecturer strongly emphasized the importance of

TAKING CHILDREN TO CHURCH,

early and regularly, to implant in them a spirit of reverence. He placed its importance in this respect before that of the Sunday School. The Church was the best school of reverence in the world. He wanted the boy to be reverent and real—something that was most lacking in the average boy. The services of the church were a magnificent object lesson. Children would not be prejudiced against religion by constant attendance at church, if that attendance was secured by the proper exertion of parental power. The boy respected power in his father, and he never learned a more baneful lesson than when he saw his father in his training. Boys of to-day were allowed too much liberty, but with proper home restraint and teaching they would go forth into the world safer and possessed of enjoyable liberty. The evil of following nature—giving a child what it wants—were cleverly illustrated. Mothers in the indulgence of their children's fancied wants sowed the seeds of their own despair. Rules should be made and stuck to; the observance of law resulted in the most enjoyable liberty. The same training should be applied to a boy's moral nature as to his physical. He wanted a boy to be reverent and genuine, he cared not for creed nor profession, but for being right from principle, honest in all the relations of life—reverent and genuine, a class of men greatly needed now-a-days in business and politics. He believed in common sense in religion; that religion that took the play out of a boy was spurious. The importance of right secular education was strongly dilated upon, and cheap schools were condemned. The

COMPROMISE PRINCIPLE FOR EXPEDIENCY,

MOST IMPORTANT INTERESTS

of the child, his chances in life, his future, depended largely on his secular education and false economy in schools was most pernicious. The past and present systems of education were cleverly contrasted and epitomized—the old, made a boy learn, the new to teaches him how to help himself to learn. The evil of a course of training that engendered repellant and uncongenial relations between father and son were pointed out. If the spirit of confidence in all things were cultivated from childhood, it would hold the boy, and he

WOULD BE FIRM TO RESIST TEMPTATION.

Home was to be made attractive enough to keep boys at home and off the streets—out of bar-rooms, billiard rooms and unmentionable places. The proper idea of a house was as a home, not show rooms for the delectation of strangers, but a place for the development of love, affection, reverence, honesty, truth, loveliness of character—important principles that would endure when houses and furniture were dust and ashes. Make home a delightful place for "that boy" and he would stay there. The importance of devoting more attention to boys at night was dwelt on. Street life at nights for boys in small towns and villages was the

and the way to cure it was to make home delightful and a school for mental, moral and religious training. The duty of looking after boys that had no home was eloquently touched upon. Love for children was an important duty. Homeless boys needed love as well as religion, and there was a vast field for usefulness in this respect. The speaker closed an eloquent lecture, frequently punctuated with applause, with a pathetic incident, illustrating the beneficial effect of kindness to homeless boys, and an application of the principles the lecturer had endeavoured to elucidate, and the glorious result at the last when the father should stand at the gates of the everlasting Home, with the boy of his love on one hand and the boy of his pity on the other, and receive the summons to enter and "be forever with the Lord."

The above is the barest synopsis of the lecture—nothing but hearing it could give one the least idea of its mingled eloquence, pathos, wit, humour and worth. The citizens of Peterborough owe a debt of gratitude to the Committee of George street Methodist Church, for the grand intellectual entertainment provided in securing Dr. Vincent to delight them with his splendid lecture on the subject of "That Boy."

SHOULD FARMERS HOLD OR SELL THEIR GRAIN?

Upon this question the Montreal Gazette expresses the following opinions which we commend to the attention of our readers:—The policy which the farmers of Canada have begun to adopt, of holding back the crop, of the year until higher prices can be obtained, is calculated to prove not only disappointing to them, but injurious to the trade of the country. This year Great Britain has reaped a larger harvest than in any season since 1876. The United States wheat crop is the greatest ever gathered, the European crop is at least an average one, and new competitors have arisen in India and Australia, which are yearly increasing their export of breadstuffs. It is therefore out of the question that prices of wheat can rule as high as in the last fiscal year, when not only was the British crop a deficient one, but the United States crop also fell considerably below the average. Then seeding operations in the United Kingdom and on this Continent are proceeding under the most favorable circumstances, giving an early assurance of a generous harvest next season; so that looking both at the present situation and into the future of markets, there is absolutely no substantial reason of anticipating an advance in the price of breadstuffs as the new fiscal year upon which we have entered rolls round to a close. The grain witheld from market at this time must sooner or later be parted with at the latest before another crop is reaped, and persistence in the policy now being pursued by farmers will simply result in heavy shipments of grain after the opening of navigation next spring, and a further declension of prices. But it is not alone the probable condition of prices at a later period in the season that the farmer should study; he requires to calculate the cost involved by storing his produce for six or eight months in order to ascertain the advantage or otherwise of such a course. He has to allow in his calculation a considerable margin for shrinkage of the grain; the cost of insurance, if he be a prudent man; and the loss of interest on the money he would be able to employ if his produce was at once marketed. Taking these items into consideration he will discover that an advance in the price of grain six or eight months hence will not more than compensate him for the risk and expense consequent on the storage, and if he carefully studies the present condition of the markets, the relation of supply to demand, the conclusion will be irresistible that not only is he not justified in expecting a sufficient advance in values to atone for the delay in marketing produce, but that he will do very well if six months hence he obtains as high a price as is offered to-day. The farmers of Canada have enjoyed such continuous prosperity the past four years that they are disposed to consider themselves in a position to hold their grain without inconvenience to themselves; but, if they will carry their memories back six or seven years, they will recall the fact that the policy of storing produce in expectation of better prices at a later period in the season, involved no inconsiderable loss.

At All Seasons of the Year

Corns are troublesome, let the weather be hot or cold. Rain relieves not the pain; the sun may shine and all else be fair and pleasant, but their tormenting presence follows the victim always. A certain, a prompt, a painless, a radical cure is always insured by the use of the great and only remedy—"PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR." We warn the public against dangerous substitutes and imitations. N.C. POLSON & CO., Proprietors, Kingston.

ONTARIO DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 11.—The annual show association opened here to-day. The greater part of the day was occupied in arranging the exhibits in their proper classes, and to-morrow the judges will begin their work. Prizes are offered amounting to $1000, and ranging from $75 to $10 each. But in spite of the liberal premiums the show can scarcely be called an imposing one. There are only forty-four competitors in the seven classes of cheese, the total number of cheeses being 354, while in the four classes of butter there are not as many entries as prizes. The cheese is classified according to variety, color and time of making, and the butter as creamery and dairy. There are only two entries of creamery, and less than a dozen of dairy. From these facts is appears to be evident that separate exhibitions of the Dairymen's association cannot be made successful; they should be held conjointly with one or more of the great central fairs, in which case there would be larger and keener competition and at the same time a better effect would be produced. It is worth something to give the people a proper notion of the extent and importance of the dairy interest, but it is a poor kind of speculation to spend $1000 for a light and then place it under a bushel. It is unnecessary to say a word about the quality of the dairy products on exhibition. So far as one can judge by appearance they are first-class.

The members of the association attended a banquet at the O'Neil house this evening, which was an agreeable variation of the programme. The first intention was to hold a meeting in the town hall, and several prominent dairymen were invited to deliver addresses, but the raw weather was sufficient excuse to make the banquet more acceptable to all. It was well attended, and a number of interesting and practical speeches were made.

ON THE DOWN GRADE.

During the campaign of 1878 it was said to the farmers of the country by the upholders of the N. P. that they were not getting enough for their wheat. It was said that the cause of this was that American wheat was allowed into Canada free of duty, and thus came into competition with Canadian grown wheat. The remedy for this, it was said, was to impose a duty on American wheat and so keep it out, retaining the home market for the farmers on this side of the line. "Canada for the Canadians" was the cry, and it carried the day. A duty was imposed upon wheat. All was supposed to be serene. It so happened that shortly after this time the price of wheat went up. Those who did not believe in the N. P. said this was because of the failure of the crops abroad, and that the N. P. had nothing to do with it. They were scorned in the house of the Tories, and reviled on every hustings. It was the N. P. that had done it, exclaimed the N. P. ites, and they waxed vainglorious and boastful.

Now wheat has taken a tumble. It is on the down grade. The price is low and will probably be lower. What is the cause of this? We have the N. P. as much as ever. Can it not prevent the prices going down? Cry aloud unto the N. P.; either it is talking, or it is pursuing or it is on a journey, or peradventure it sleepeth and must be awakened.—Advertiser.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

"Now, John," said a mother to a son, "listen to me, for I am older than you, or I would not have been your mother. Never marry a young woman, John, before you have contrived to peep in at the house where she lives, at least four or five times before breakfast. You should know how late she lies in bed in the morning. You should take notice whether her complexion is in the morning as it is in the evening, or whether the morning wash and the towel have rubbed off her evening bloom. You should take care to surprise her, so that you may see her in her morning dress and observe how she looks when she is not expecting you. If possible, you should be where you can hear the morning conversation between her and her mother. If she is ill-natured and snappish to her mother so she will be to you, depend on it. But if you find her up, and dressed neatly, in the morning, with the same countenance, the same smiles, the same neatly-combed hair, the same ready and pleasant answer to her mother, which characterize her appearance and deportment in the evening, and particularly if she is lending a hand to get the breakfast ready, she is a prize, John, and the sooner you secure her to yourself the better."

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.
Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,
GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.
Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,
GEO. W. STRATHY, Mus. Doc.,
Professor of the Chair of Music of the University of Trinity College, Toronto, &c.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 19, 1882.

Give Us the Truth.

The opponents of the Mowat Administration, in the energy of despair, failing to find a joint in the Premier's armor, not only seize on the faintest semblance of a defect, but also resort to the manufacture of fancy causes of complaint; which, to give credit where it belongs, do honour to the vividness of their imaginitive faculties, and do not shake one's belief in the doctrine of total depravity. Such is the "inquisitorial" discovery made by our esteemed down-street contemporary. Being challenged by the Belleville Ontario to find a victim of the "inquisitorial system" in the administration of the License Act, attributed to Mr. Mowat by his enemies, the Review, instead of honestly acknowledging its inability to do so, trumps up the silliest cock-and-bull complaint imaginable, and one is at a loss whether to ridicule its weakness or denounce its dishonesty. It is asserted that hotel keepers had at some misty and uncertain period during the past half dozen years, poured into the sympathetic and ample ear of the editor their complaints that they had been asked to vote for the Reform party. This, we are willing to admit is not only possible but highly probable; men are asked for their votes at every election contest, but we so gravely doubt that "any licensed dealer has ever complained" of anything more serious to the consulting surgeon of the Tory party, the Review man, that we challenge him to name a single man who has made a specific complaint of having been subjected to undue pressure by virtue of his relations as a licensee, towards the licensing powers. The assertion made, or rather hinted is absurd on the face of it. If there had been a desire to coerce and terrorize the liquor dealers, the Government party is shrewd enough to have made their receiving a license a condition of political support, but that has not been done, for it is well known that nine-tenths of the license holders in this county are Conservatives, as are the vast majority of hotel keepers in the province. It is no trouble for a Conservative, possessed of the necessary respectability and accommodations to secure a license; and no honest Conservative hotel keeper will say that he has the slightest fear that exercising his franchise, or opposing the Government in any legitimate manner, will in the slightest degree affect his chances of securing or retaining a license, the long drawn bow of our cotem. to the contrary notwithstanding.

Our esteemed contemporary felt that his asinine stupidity in making the childish assertion noted above, would be challenged, and to prevent his being compelled to acknowledge his statement an invention, he cunningly claims the immunity of the confessional and says the "complaints" were made to him in confidence, for his apocryphal "informants" said their licenses would not "be worth a month's purchase" if they were known to have complained against Mr. Mowat's officials. Bah! Out on such snivelling subterfuge! We have, perhaps, enough influence "at court" to guarantee "our informant" immunity from harm if he will unseal the lips of the Review man and allow him to tell us, if he can, the name of the man who had occasion to complain of political pressure being brought to bear on him. We do not believe that such a man exists, and the public will share our disbelief unless our contemporary can furnish more specific and convincing proof than its own distempered imaginings. Sheer nonsense is bad enough, but dishonest nonsense, such as the Review is guilty of in its treatment of the phase of the license question under consideration, is simply disgusting. The long and short of the matter is that the statement is untrue. Why, two of the license commissioners in this district are Conservatives—active members of their party who act with their party—in fact are what is known as "red hot" political workers. Dares the Review to say that these two gentlemen would act as Mr. Mowat's agents of terror towards Conservative hotel keepers? We also challenge it to substantiate one word of its scurrilous insinuations out of the mouths of the commissioners. They get no fee or reward from the Government, and are not afraid to tell the whole truth in the matter. They are too honest to sacrifice truth to screen the Government, or to confirm the base and baseless insinuations of the Review man, unless they are founded on facts. Come, now, let us have the truth!

The Homeless and Destitute.

At the recent Assizes the Grand Jury in their presentment, virtually set forth that the only use at that time made of the gaol, was for the confinement of vagrants—in a word infirm and destitute persons had asked for bread and been given a stone. Thus it seems that poverty is made a crime, and the charity of the public—or at least the authorities—consists in making the unfortunate the associates of felons and malefactors.

It is quite time that an organized system of municipal charity should be established. The present mode of dispensing relief is most unsatisfactory. Not only are the poor inefficiently looked after, but the system is expensive, and with this defect that an appreciable retrenchment is equivalent to an appreciable injustice and injury to objects of municipal relief.

The question of establishing a proper home of refuge for the poor, wherin those who were able could be placed in a position to contribute to a certain extent to their own support, has been brought into some prominence. The efforts of Mesdames Gilmour and Haultain and Miss Roger, active and earnest Christian ladies, have been directed to bringing the matter prominently before the County Council, and they have been rewarded with certain indications of success. At the last session of the County Council, a resolution, moved by Mr. Strickland and seconded by Mr. Lang, was adopted, authorizing the Warden to name a committee to consider the best course to be pursued in providing a home for the destitute of the different municipalities of the county of Peterborough, and the committee named was Messrs. Strickland, Burnham and Moloney. The Warden made a good selection and the committee will doubtless present at the next session of the council, a great deal of practical information on the subject intrusted to their investigation. But we wish to make suggestion in time, so that that the project may secure that attention and popularity its importance calls for. The suggestion is this, that the committee impress upon the reeves and deputy-reeves, the advisability of introducing the question at the municipal nominations in December, and thereby securing an expression of the views of the ratepayers, so that at the first session in January the matter will be in a shape admitting of definite and prompt action being taken, if, as we have no doubt, the report of the committee shall prove to be favorable to the further prosecution of the scheme.

The amounts now given by the different municipalities in charity from the nature of circumstances, do not secure that relief which for a like expenditure could be secured if the objects were all gathered under one roof and made the beneficiaries of a systematic and therefore economical system of providing for their comfort. There is much that can be said upon this subject, but we shall take occasion at a future time to deal with it and content ourselves for the present with having called the attention of the authorities to a phase of the matter which, if our suggestion is carried out, will materially contribute to bring the question more speedily to a satisfactory and practical issue.

Health of the Midland District

The weekly health bulletin issued by the Provincial (Ontario) board of health, for the week ending Oct. 7th, contains interesting tabulated information respecting the health of the district. The six diseases most prevalent in district No. 4, which embraces the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham, Ontario, York, Halton, Wentworth, Prince Edward and Lennox, are arranged in the following table in their order of prevalence, while at the same time the percentage which each disease is of the whole diseases reported for its district, is shown:

DISTRICT NO. 4.

Diseases.	Per Cent.
1 Bronchitis	11
2 Diarrhœa	10
3 Consumption	8
4 Influenza	8
5 Heart disease	7
6 Fever, Intermittent	6

That is, out of a hundred cases of illness that have proved fatal, bronchitis has carried off eleven, diarrhœa ten, etc. Speaking of diarrhœa reminds us of the temperature in No. 4 district. The highest temperature has been, for the week ending Oct. 7th, 78.25° and the lowest, 31°. Therefore the influence of the unusually warm weather accounts for the extreme prevalence of diarrhœa, which shows the highest percentage in most of the districts of the province. The general height of district No. 4, which extends from Kingston on the east, to Brantford on the west and as far North as the northern limit of Victoria county, is 300 feet above the level of the sea. The amount of rain fall for the week named is for this district only 1-10th of an inch.

Peterborough Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 17th, 1882.

Receipts of grain this week have fallen off very materially, owing to lower range of prices, which is most marked in Barley, which has declined. May be quoted from 50 to 60c, receipts ligh. Fall wheat is easier and selling from 90 to 95c. Spring about the same. Goose wheat brings 75 to 80c, not much offering. Rye lower, and selling now at 56c. Oats selling at 40 to 42c. light receipts.

ON THE MARKET,

Saturday there was a good attendance. Fresh butter sold from 20 to 24c. Keg butter sold from 16 to 18c, not much offering yet. Eggs in light supply, prices ruling from 10 to 11c. Chickens in fair supply brought from 40 to 50c. Geese from 40 to 50c, rather slow. Lamb unchanged, good supply. Apples not so plentiful, fair demand from 75c to $1.25 per bag. Potatoes, 75c to 80c per bag, fair demand. Sheep skins bring from 50 to 80c. Hides, $6.75.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers, and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE:—Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

APSLEY AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.

The Show a Decided Success.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The exhibition of Burleigh and United Townships, was held at Apsley on Wednesday last, and was a most gratifying success. The exhibit of cattle was good, and that of vegetables and roots excellent. The Apsley brass band was present to add interest to the occasion. Their playing was highly creditable, considering the short time they have had their instruments.

The Good Templars gave a public dinner in their hall which was well patronized and which resulted in netting a neat sum for the payment of their new organ.

It is a pleasure to note that this show is yearly growing in importance, a statement justified by the presence of so many visitors from Peterborough, Lakefield, and surrounding country. Below is

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE, are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY & DYSPEPTIC CURE, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and depurent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a facsimile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Destructive Tidal Waves.

It is reported from San Blas district, Panama, that on the day on which the earthquakes occurred four tidal waves overwhelmed and destroyed or badly damaged six or seven little villages on the island and mainland, and drowned seven persons.

Shooting at Sight.

At about 11 o'clock on Monday night, Mr. Mathews, lessee of the Monroe grist and saw mill near Windsor was startled by three or four young men knocking at the door and endeavoring to get in Mathews after warning off the men, who refused to go, fired and so seriously wounded Perry, a farmer, that he died shortly after.

Squirrel Slaughter.

H. Milkins, jr, of Wyandotte Michigan took his little gun the other day and went to the neighborhood of Leamington, Ont., for squirrels. Hezekiah was in luck, shooting 67 black squirrels in seven hours. Subsequently, on reaching home, for a wager he skinned 47 of the squirrels in just 38 minutes.

A Castigating Teacher Reproved.

The board of education met and considered a charge against Mr. J. W. Dafoe, teacher in the central-school, Belleville, of severely beating one of his pupils, a boy named Cuthbert. The conclusion arrived at was that the punishment was excessive and in direct violation of the rules of the board, and Mr. Dafoe was directed to adhere strictly in future to the rules of the board.

The Maiden Manslayer.

At the assizes on Monday Miss Hattie Wright was tried for the manslaughter of Ryan of the town of Brighton, who while intoxicated came to the prisoner's house on the evening of Aug. 27th about 11 p. m., and walking around the house tried to get into the kitchen. When he was heard by the prisoner and seen to be endeavoring to open the shutter she got a revolver and fired at him. The ball struck Ryan, who died twelve hours afterwards. The trial lasted nearly all day, and the jury after an absence of three hours brought in a verdict of manslaughter, and Judge Osler sentenced Miss Wright, who was greatly affected to six months in Cobourg jail.

KALAMAZOO, MICH., Feb. 2, 1880.

I know Hop Bitters will bear recommendation honestly. All who use them confer upon them the highest encomiums, and give them credit for making cures all the proprietors claim for them. I have kept them since they were first offered to the public. They took high rank from the first, and maintained it, and are more called for than all others combined. So long as they keep up their high reputation for purity and usefulness, I shall continue to recommend them—something I have never before done with any other patent medicine.

THE EAST RIDING SHOW.

(From Our Special Reporter.)

The annual exhibition of the East Riding Agricultural Society was held in the village of Norwood, on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, and was highly successful. At an early hour the people from the surrounding country began to arrive and arrange their exhibits. The ladies' work, dairy products, roots and vegetables, home manufactures and poultry were exhibited in the Drill Shed, and were highly creditable, the only falling off being in the ladies' class, which was thought to be from the new regulation enforced this year, whereby all exhibitors must become members of the society, thus causing the ladies to pay one dollar before making an entry. All the forenoon of the first day exhibits poured in and the directors were busily engaged arranging them. The display of roots was one of the finest ever seen in the riding, being of enormous size, of excellent quality, and showing an exceptionally good year and first-class cultivation In fruit the display was good in quality.

In domestic manufactures the competition was keen, and many first-class articles were shown. There was a large display of home-made bread, showing that East Peterborough is fully alive to the importance of this branch of domestic manufacture. The display of quilts, mottoes, crochet work, wreaths, etc., was bewildering and is beyond description in a brief notice.

The grain shown was of good quality and was well represented.

There was a large show of poultry, among which were some very fine birds.

In the evening of the first day, after the prizes had been awarded, the doors were opened and the attendance was large. The platform was occupied by the Norwood Brass Band, which performed several pleasing selections throughout the evening and the afternoon of the following day.

On Wednesday the weather in the morning opened threateningly, but about 10 o'clock the clouds disappeared and the sun shone out, and there was a large crowd of vititors—unusually so—and the entries in stock were up to previous years.

The officials of the fair never had things in so good shape. The village of Norwood has purchased about six acres of land west of the village, which has been enclosed with a high board fence and is being rapidly fitted up for exhibition grounds. It is the intention of the society to erect a fine building in the centre of the plot, and make a track for the driving horses, and fit up buildings for the stock. This is as it should be and the village and the society are to be congratulated on the enterprise exhibited, and the selection of the lot, which is very conveniently situated.

The show of cattle, sheep and horses was fully up to those usually made. The names of the principal exhibitors will be found below.

The trotting race was witnessed by a large number of people, and the best lady rider on horseback caused considerable amusement.

There was only one came forward when this class was called. She was 44 years of age, had no saddle on the horse; a rope, an old fashioned bridle and a quilt being the equipment. After riding around the track twice she came forward much to the enjoyment of all present and claimed the prize, which was awarded to her. The directors were energetically at work and the obliging secretary was most faithful and attentive. The receipts amounted to over $300. The following is the

SANDERSON'S

WHO KILLED MORGAN.

The recent move to raise a monument in memory of Free Mason Morgan has called up anew the question: "Who killed Morgan?" An old citizen of Detroit was on his way down town yesterday when he met an acquantance and seized the moment to inquire:

"I suppose you know they are going to erect a monument to Morgan?"

"Oh, yes."

"Very mysterious death!"

"So it was."

"Generally believed that the Free Masons killed him?"

"Yes, some folks believe it."

"Let's see—I think you are a Mason yourself?"

"Yes."

"Then you must know?"

"Well, I suppose I do."

"Then, sir, I demand to know who killed Morgan!"

"You don't want to know to-day do you?"

"Yes, sir—right off!"

The Mason beckoned the old man around the corner, looked all around to see that no one was near, and then whispered in his ear:

"You won't give it away?"

"No!"

"On your solemn word?"

"No!"

"Then I'll tell you—I killed him myself!"

"Sir! you are an infernal liar!" roared the old man. "Yes, sir, you lie, sir, and I won't have anything more to do with you!"

It may never be known who killed Morgan. If people won't believe the murderer how are the facts ever to come out?

WHY HE DIDN'T EXPLAIN.

Some eight or ten years ago a silvery-tongued chap who claimed to be a fruit-tree agent, swindled the farmers of this county in a shameful manner, and one resident of Nankin was so mad about it that he came to Detroit, searched the rascal out, and gave him a pounding on the street. After he got through his work he told the fellow that he would lick him twice as bad if he ever put eyes on him again, and it was a threat to be remembered and nursed. About three weeks ago the Nankin man was traveling in Washtenaw County, and as he journeyed along the highway he met a traveler who so closely resembled the fruit-tree swindler that he halted, and called out:

"Here you are again, you bold-faced rascal!"

"Yes, I'm here," was the calm reply.

"Well, so'm I, and I'm going to lick you until you can't holler! I said I'd do it, and I always keep my word. Climb down here."

The stranger "clumb" without a protest, shedding his coat as he struck the ground, and a fight began. In about two minutes he had used up the farmer and was coolly replacing his coat.

"See here," said the man from Nankin as he wiped his nose with a burdock, "you fight better than you did eight years ago."

"Well, I dunno. This is my first affair with you."

"Didn't I wollop you in front of the Detroit post office eight years ago!"

"No, sir! I was in Australia up to a year ago."

"And you never saw me before?"

"Never!"

"And was never in Nankin?"

"Never!"

"Well, I'll be hanged! Come to look at you, I can see that you are not the man! Why on earth didn't you explain, or ask me to? You must have thought me mistaken."

"Oh, yes, I knew you were mistaken, but I had just discovered that I had driven seven miles on the wrong road and was just wishing some one would come along and give me two words of sass. I didn't want any explanations about it. A rotten sweet apple will cure that black eye in three or four days, and salt and water will tighten your front teeth in a week or so. I feel fifty per cent. better, and I'm ever so much obliged. So long to you!"

SATISFIED THEIR CURIOSITY.

In one of the western towns a certain pastor of a Baptist church and his flock became much embittered towards each other. Every opportunity for resentment of real or fancied wrong was eagerly improved on either side. The position of chaplain of the state prison was offered to the minister, which he readily accepted. On the day announced for the preaching of his farewell sermon a large congregation assembled, out of revengeful curiosity, to hear his parting words. When he read his text their curiosity was fully satisfied, as they were astounded with the following scriptural sentence: "I go to prepare a place for you—that where I am there ye may be also."

IT HAS ENTERED THE CAPITOL BUILDINGS.

It has finally gained its point and no less a personage than the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons, Mr. D. W. McDonnell, Ottawa, thus indorses the Great German Remedy: "St. Jacobs Oil is a splendid remedy. I used it on my left hand and wrist for rheumatism, and found it all that it is claimed to be. Mrs. McDonnell used it for a most severely sprained ankle; by the steady use of the article for a few days a complete cure was effected. St. Jacobs Oil does its work very satisfactorily and also rapidly; such at least is my opinion.

CLEAR AS MUD.

A grave and dignified D. D., after listening to the recitation of the catechism by a class of children, was asked to make a few remarks to them, whereupon he arose and said: "I desire, my young friends, to express an unqualified approbation of this exercise. I regard the catechism as the most admirable epitome of religious belief extant." The superintendent pulled his sleeve and asked him to explain the word epitome which he elucidated as follows: "By epitome, children, I mean—that is—it is synonymous with synopsis!"

SYMPATHY.

Colonel Folsom was reading the morning paper yesterday at the breakfast table, when he exclaimed, in a horrified voice. "What a terrible misfortune!" "What is it—somebody got married?" "No; but a married woman in New York, in a fit of rage, threw a coffee cup at her husband. The cup was shivered into fragments, and one of them cutting his jugular vein he died on the spot. The reporter says the grief of the unfortunate woman was dreadful to witness. She was frantic with remorse, and made several attempts to put an end to her existence." "Poor creature," said Mrs. Folsom, with a sigh; "I reckon the broken cup must have belonged to her new china set."

ON PRACTISING MUSIC.

Beginners are not fond of practising; but to a musician it is an absolute delight. No one knows really what practising means until he has come to enjoy it; it is a pleasure far greater then playing over in society what has been already learnt; it is an occupation as exciting, though in a different way, as the excitement of reading new music. When we play we are liable to become depressed by the poverty of our own performance; when we practice hope spurs us on; it does not matter what faults we commit we are only practising, and it is encouraging to feel that, as time goes on, our difficulties are conquered and overcome. They meet us half way, and melt and vanish from us, even as, when we travel by rail, the landscapes through which we pass seem to advance toward us and recede behind us, and we are scarcely aware that it is we ourselves who press steadily forward, whilst they stand still.

THE PROPER WINTER COLORS.

The handsomest materials brought out this autumn in fine dress fabrics are the brocaded velvets and brocaded plushes. The latter are more effective and also more costly than the former, but both are destined for wide approbation. Brocaded satins and silks for evening wear, in floral or other detached patterns, are also favorite materials for combination with the Ottoman silks and velvets. Plain plushes and plain velvets are in great demand, as are the striped plushes. There has been an effort on the part of the manufacturers to push the several shades of green into the market, but thus far the hunter's green is the only shade that appears to be greatly sought after. The terra-cotta shades are popular, as are several shades of brown and wine colors. The same choice colors run through the fine French cloths and cashmeres as are seen in the velvets, plushes and silks, and there are brocaded cashmeres and cloths as well as embroidered ones for fall and winter suits. Dress bonnets illustrate the new combinations of terra-cotta and crushed strawberry and garnet, just now so fashionable.

A NOVEL IDEA.

What is certainly a new departure in social affairs is the advertising of the names of all the marriageable young ladies in the place, as is done by a Port Perry paper. The list includes not only the names of the unengaged damsels, but those of the engaged, so that an intending benedict can tell at a glance just in which direction to turn. The names of the eligible young men of the place are not given, but whether this is owing to the usual modesty of the sex or to a wish to ignore the local material and encourage suitors from other places, is not clear. Nor is it clear why the engaged young ladies should have their names set down in the list, unless it be that they only intend to keep their engagement if they cannot do better. Of course the idea is only in its infancy, and there is plenty of room for development. The next list should contain not only the names of the young ladies, but a description of each of them with marginal references to the financial position of the old gentleman, so that young men in search of helpmates would understand the exact position of affairs at a glance.

Hop Bitters are the Purest and Best Bitters Ever Made.

They are compounded from Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion—the oldest, best, and most valuable medicines in the world, and contain all the best and most curatave properties of all other remedies, being the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth. Orpha M. Hodge, Cattle Creek, Mich., writes: I upset a tea-kettle of boiling hot water on my hand. I at once applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and the effect was to immediately allay the pain. I was cured in three days.

Nursing mothers find Wheeler's Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya of great value in maintaining strength, preventing anæmia or poor blood, giddiness and prostration so common to delicate constitutions during the period of lactation. Being composed of food elements, it promotes the health of the mother, and the development of the child without the danger of depraved habits, which may result from the use of stimulants so often injudiciously prescribed.

A savage Illinois woman says that for every young wife that cannot cook there is a young husband who will not make fires, carry ashes, split kindling or shovel snow and cannot market because he does not know a hawk from a hen.

Snatched from the Grave.—Mrs. Helen Pharviz, No. 331 Dayton St., Chicago, Ill., is now in her sixty-eighth year, and states that she has suffered with Consumption for about ten years, was treated by nine phyticians, all of them pronouncing her case hopeless. She had given up all hopes of ever recovering. Seven bottles of Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and satisfy yourselves. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow: you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

"What sort of a servant have you?" inquired a lady of a friend she was visiting. "Oh, splendid!" she replied. "He's a Chinaman, and is so methodical in his habits that I know just what he is doing at any hour in the day. He is now probably putting away the dishes and tidying up the kitchen. Come and see if I'm right." She led the way to the kitchen, quietly opened the door, and there, in the middle of the floor, sat John Chinaman washing his feet in the dish-pan.

The most wonderful curative remedies of the present day, are those that come from Germany, or at least originate there. GEO. MITCHELL, Sr.

Peterborough Dec. 8th 1880 50-tf.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

FOR NICE, stylish millinery call on R. Graham & Son, Lakefield. 40-2ins

THE PULPIT.—Mr. Sail of Toronto will occupy the Pulpit of the Baptist Church on Sunday next, both morning and evening.

PUMPS.—In our report of the exhibition at Keene we omitted to mention that Messrs. Wright & Payton had on exhibition a number of superior pumps of their own manufacture. This firm is doing a good business since opening and their pumps are giving every satisfaction.

ABATING.—Private advices from Winnipeg mention that the typhoid fever there is rapidly abating and that it was confined almost exclusively to a particularly unclean part of the city, inhabited chiefly by a low grade of foreign immigrants. Many Peterborough people who have friends and relatives there will have their apprehensions relieved by this information.

A RIOTOUS BUMMER.—Last Wednesday night Henry Foster, an imported citizen from England strayed into Kennealy's hotel, George street, and his room being considered preferable to his company he was put out. Incensed at such an outrage on the rights of a Briton, he took revenge by riddling the windows with stones. A citizen, Mr. McConnell, constituted himself a special policeman and with some assistance lodged the ruffian in the lock-up. The cadi fined him $2.00 and $3.50 costs, and directed him to pay ten dollars and a half additional to compensate Mr. Kennealy. Verily the last glass of that man cost more than the first.

HYMENEAL.—One of those happy events which overtake us occasionally on the journey through life, took place on Wednesday evening, 11th inst., at "Balsam Valley," the residence of Mr. R. Davidson, Smith, being the marriage of his daughter Minnie J., to Mr. Jas. J. Brealy of North Monaghan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. F. Torrance. After they had been pronounced man and wife, the company adjourned to the dining-room where a sumptuous repast was provided at which cordial congratulations and warm wishes for the future happiness of the worthy pair found expression. The presents were many and beautiful. We wish them bon voyage through life, and may they safely anchor in the harbor where they shall go in and out no more for ever.

THE GRAIN BUSINESS.—The parties at present dealing in grain in Peterborough are Matthews & Co., Toronto, represented by Mr. A. McDonnell, Lindsay, at storehouse, Stevensons gas elevator. W. Cluxton, at Roger's Mills Ashburnham, and also at the brick storehouse, corner Charlotte and the Midland R. R., and Mr. W. H. Wrighton, at No. 8 storehouse, next to Dr. King's Charlotte street. Of course the mills buy what grain is required for local consumption, but the above dealers make a business of buying barley, wheat and all kinds of merchantable grain. Just now the market is flat, the figure of for wheat and 65 cents for barley, makes the farmers slow in coming forward but it is not probable that there will be any considerable advance in prices. We commend an article from the Montreal Gazette, published in another column.

THE PULP MILLS.—Work on the pulp mills premises is progressing as rapidly as the nature of the work will admit of. The building is completed, and all the machinery on hand and being placed in position, The details of the work require a good deal of time more, in fact, than was anticipated. It is now confidently expected that manufacturing operations will be begun in about two weeks, or three at the farthest. Messrs. Usborne & Co. are putting down a railway siding to their premises, and they have about two hundred and fifty cords of poplar "tracked" and ready for running by rail directly into their yards. The internal arrangements of the mills are evidently made to last, the care that is being bestowed on them being a good guarantee of their permanence. The water power is simply stupendous, as may be imagined from the force exerted by the pressure of a body of water filling a flume twelve feet deep, fourteen feet wide and seventy two feet in length.

AUCTION SALE OF LOTS.—The attention of those interested in securing elegible building lots at reasonable figures is called to the sale of lots in the south-western part of the town, advertised by Mr. D. W. Dumble. On Wednesday the 25th day of October there will be offered for sale by auction, on the ground, the Eastland property, composed of subdivisions of park lot A., divided into twenty-six town lots. The smallest of these lots is one third of an acre. The soil is high and well situated, and the location a desirable one for private residences and for homes. The sale will be an unreserved one, and the terms of payment are exceedingly easy, being one third down, and the balance in two years with interest. Anybody requiring a site for a home, and not having the means to purchase elsewhere, will find in the above property an opportunity that does not often present itself, and the chance will not likely offer again. The lots are all of full size, and lie on Romaine street, between Park and Lock streets.

LITTLE TOWN TOPICS.

Dickson's dam is undergoing thorough repairs.

The water in the river is uncommonly high.

Butter of even the very best quality is still "strong" on the market.

CARDIGAN JACKETS.—Large size, good quality and cheap, at I. Robinsons. 41tf

Bricklayers and builders bless this balmy, second-hand summer weather.

Work on Dunsford's block, Water street, is going on tellingly.

The bakers have dropped the price of bread to 12½ cents per loaf.

Trestles for the railway bridge across Hamilton's creek are in position.

The price of barley and other grains doesn't seem to sympathize with the rise of water in the river.

Messrs. Whyte & Co. had on exhibition at Norwood one of their celelebrated ploughs. It was much admired.

The internal construction in Matthews' pork-packing establishment is going forward briskly.

There was spent in Masonic benevolence last year in Peterborough, the sum of $374.55.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and aids digestion.

The Grand Junction freight trains, like the evenings, are lengthening appreciably.

Fitzgerald's carriage works building is roofed, and the brickwork of the blacksmith shop is rising rapidly.

Eight hundred persons witnessed Dr. Vincent dissect "That Boy" last Thursday night.

ROCK ISLAND BOOTS, hand made, just the thing for fall wear, to be had only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 40tf

The Fire Brigade Band was present at a hop given by a party of Rochester deer-slayers at Purser's hotel, Lakefield, on Wednesday night last week.

The light from the gas lamp in front of the Charlotte street Methodist Church is a compromise between Egyptian darkness and a total eclipse of the sun.

Work at the car-works on Aylmer street north of Brock is booming, and trucks for the missing link works are being turned out rapidly.

A SPLENDID STOCK of men and boys' hand-made boots, also women and childrens' in light and heavy goods. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

The members of the Young Men's Protestant Benevolent Association opened the festive season by a hop in their hall on George street, last Friday night.

The results of our second-growth summer are to "break up" Vennor completely, and to ripen a second crop of raspberries.

The mysterious smoke that was seen to be coming out of Mr. Pope's store, came from a fire kindled in an adjoining shop, and left with a closed draught.

Charlotte street Methodists will have to continue to worship at close quaters. Nobody has time to put in tenders for the work of enlarging the church.

The hand of nature has touched with its delicate tints the responsive maple and it glows in all the glory of crimson and gold.

Mr. Thos. Beavis is raising and otherwise improving a building on Bethune street, between Charlotte and Simcoe, to be used as a grain storehouse.

Mr. John Grimison shipped 524 boxes cheese, about 30,000 lbs., last Saturday. The first half of September and consigned to Liverpool.

EVERY BUYER of tweeds, flannels, fulled cloths, blankets, cottons, and general house-furnishing goods, will save money by purchasing from Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

The water works will be tested in about 15 days. Suggested, that the occasion be celebrated with a banquet—the toasts to be drunk in cold water from the works.

The Government Gas Inspector has been in town officially. There having been no meeting of the town Council during his visit, he will not be able to complete his gas inspection this trip.

Last Wednesday 41 navvies arrived in town by the noon train to work on the Missing Link, and sixty more came on Tuesday. Six hundred men searching for the missing link should soon make connections.

There are $612,700 worth of bank stock held by Peterborough citizens. This is the par value; reckoned at an average premium of 160, the value of the stock will be within a few thousands of a million.

IT WILL pay every man or boy, in want of a good tweed suit, Overcoat or rubber coat, to see the immense stock of new and fashionable goods offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 39-4ins

The price of seats in St. John's Church was fixed at a vestry meeting held on Tuesday night, at a rental of $3.20 per year—each seat. Applications for seats to be made to Mr. Poussette, Poussette & Roger.

The new instruments for the band are expected by every steamer that arrives at Montreal. A new trombone—a beauty—is already come, having, by virtue of its kind, managed to "slide" in two or three weeks ago.

On Monday his honor, Judge Dennistoun, sat to hear appeals against the Voter's List. There are about 200 appeals filed. After some unimportant business, the Court adjourned, till Tuesday the 24th of October.

Stevenson's elevator is now in full running order, the motive power being furnished by a gas engine. The labour of four men is saved, besides there is a less demand for St. Jacob's Oil for lame backs.

LADIES will find with W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, a nice stock of new dress goods, black cashmeres, winceys, ready-made mantles, ulsters, rubber circulars, trimmed hats, corsets, gloves, and fancy goods. 39-4ins

The Government rake at work in the harbour not only stirs up sawdust and slabs but most villainous smells. To the residents of the vicinity, "The melancholy days have come, the sawdust of the year."

The loose stones turned up by the Water Works operations, etc., should be removed from the streets before the frost fastens them. If left they will prove a serious obstruction to sleighing on a light body of snow.

The secretary of the Young Shamrocks of Montreal has written a letter of acknowledgement to the Lacrosse club, thanking them for the splendid reception given them on their late visit. They couldn't very well avoid doing so. There's one thing the Shamrocks or any other club can't do; though they may vanquish the home club on the field, they can't beat them in graceful and hearty hospitality to their guests.

This sloppy autumn weather warns us to consult our health by keeping the feet dry and warm, and Johnston Carey's is the best place in town to buy your boots, shoes and rubber goods. 42-1t.

Will the lamplighter who makes his rounds in a "jumper" please and not forget to light some of the lamps? Omission is not his mission, though the light given by some of the lamps might justify his thinking so.

The warm, alumbrous autumn weather doesn't give one a blue nose, but it makes dry goods merchants and stove dealers look blue—they don't work off their flannels and blankets and stoves rapidly enough to prevent them from thinking uneasily of that maturing note.

Charlotte street, in the vicinity of the grain warehouses, is often blocked and barricaded with the barley teams and bulging wagons, grain laden of the grateful granger, each waiting his turn to "scoop in" the N. P. price for his grain.

The market by-law is observed—to be broken about a dozen times every market day by forestallers. A man slipping into the back door of a shop on the market, at brief intervals, with baskets of eggs, like a squirrel storing nuts, explains why a dozen of the raw material are almost as costly as a full grown fowl.

The fall shows are over, and the 4-40 trotter, with his crimped bangs and wavy tail is neglected like a cross-eyed step-child, and wades into the fall ploughing; the blanketed bull browses unnoticed around a pea stubble, and sleeps on the warm side of a rail fence; the hypertrophied pumpkin and the dropsical squash are at rest, the everlasting log-cabin quilt is sprinkled with Scotch snuff, and put by in the safe, good for another 15 cent prize next year. Thank—goodness!

THOUGHTFUL CHARITY.—Through the kind offices of Rev. Father Lynch, three children, the eldest nine years of age, who had been heartlessly deserted by their mother, who lived in the western part of the town, were ou Tuesday sent to the House of Providence, Toronto.

GLOOMY WINTER.—The season for stoves has again arrived and every thrifty housekeeper is seriously considering the all-important question, how to keep her home comfortable during the rigors of winter. Mr. A. Hall, Giant T, claims to have the King of stoves to which he invites the attention of everybody.

BAND SAW ACCIDENT.—Last Tuesday an employee of Mr. Tobias Fitzgerald, Mr. Edward Hanihan was attending to some work at Baptie's Planing Mills, George street, when his arm came in contact with a band saw and the flesh of the arm was badly mangled. The wound will place the sufferer on the retired list for some time.

MYSTERIOUS MUTTON.—Last Sunday Mr. George Howden found on his farm about two miles down the river, in grain bags about a dozen quarters of mutton, well dressed and originally of good quality but at the time of finding a little too "high" for toothsome eating. How the meat came there is not known, but it is probable the mystery will be cleared up when some farmer takes the census of his flock and finds three or four absent.

MATRIMONIAL.—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat of Sunday Oct. 8th, contains the following in reference to the marriage of a young gentleman well known and highly thought of in town:—"A social event on Compton Hill was the marriage of Miss Mamie E. Thomas, daughter of David Thomas, to Harry Morris, of Peterboro', Canada. The bride, a handsome brunette, was attired in an elegant costume of cream nuns' veiling, made dancing length. The skirt was trimmed with a coquille of satin and Spanish lace, bordered by a satin-lined double box plait, the front drapery a mass of Spanish lace and satin, the back cut square, with trimming of lace. The corsage was pointed in front and slashed at the back, sleeves cut diamond shape; the neck was heart-shaped, filled in with Spanish lace and confined by a diamond lace bar, the gift of the bride's father."

SUGAR CANE.—At the East Riding show held at Norwood last week, Mr. W. Armstrong of Otonabee had on exhibition a number of stalks of sugar cane grown on his farm in Otonabee and a jar of the syrup. Mr. Armstrong informed us that the cane this season was a good crop and was likely to prove remunerative. He has purchased the necessary machinery and is now converting the cane into syrup. As far as we can learn the growing of the sugar cane is a very profitable industry, and we should not be surprised to find it rapidly extended in this neighborhood. We trust that Mr. Armstrong will next season be able to inform us that his experiment is proving profitable and that others have commenced to cultivate the cane. It is also good fodder for cattle and very fattening. Since writing the above we find the following in the Stratford Beacon:

AMBER SUGAR CANE. A practical test of this new sugar-producing plant has been made at Freeport, in the county of Waterloo, by an enterprising farmer, Mr. Geo. Trussler, having started a factory there for the grinding of the cane, and encouraged a number of farmers to go into it. The culture of the amber cane is no more difficult than corn, and one farmer, we see by the Berlin papers, obtained 224 gallons of syrup from the produce of an acre. At the price of ordinary molasses, this would be a pretty profitable crop.

MOWAT "SOLID."

Reform Triumph at the Interim Elections.

MOWAT SECURES 6 SUPPORTERS OUT OF 7 ELECTIONS.

The Grits Gain Glengarry and Secure South Essex.

MOWAT EXCUSED FROM GOING.

On Wednesday, October 18th, elections for the Ontario Legislature were held in seven constituencies to fill vacancies occasioned by members resigning last spring to run for the Commons. Of these seven seats four were formerly held by the Liberals and three by the Conservatives. The result of the elections is to return five straight Reformers, one member pledged to give the Mowat Government an independent support, and one Oppositionist. In detail the result is as follows:—

East Simcoe—Drury, Reformer, elected by about 221 majority. Last election, Cook, Reformer, had 318 majority, a falling off of 97.

West Hastings—Rose, Conservative, elected by 260 majority. Last election the Conservatives had a majority of 327. A loss of 67.

Glengarry—Rayside, Reform, elected by 64 majority. This is a Reform gain of a seat, last election the Conservatives carrying the constituency by 41 majority. A gain of 65.

South Essex. The Reformers have won a grand victory here. Balfour, who was defeated last election by 157 majority is now elected by 74 majority, a gain of 231.

The full returns of the election in South Bruce give Mr. O'Connor a majority of 503. In the gerrymandered constituency of East Bruce, which forms a portion of this riding, Mr. Shaw polled a majority of 500 votes over Hon. Mr. Blake, for the Commons in 1878. So great has been the revulsion of feeling among the electors since then that in this district Mr. O'Connor at this election polled a majority of 19 votes over his Tory opponent. Last election the Reform majority was only 60, showing a gain of 434.

In South Waterloo at the by election of 1877 Mr. Master was returned by five majority. At the general election in 1879 his majority was increased to 68, which at the election a few days ago was increased to the handsome figure of 381, an increase of 313.

In North Renfrew Mr. McAllister, a compromise candidate, hitherto acting with the Conservative Party, but who comes out now in support of the Mowat Government on the rivers and streams bill, and pledged himself to give the Government an independent support generally, was elected by acclamation.

On the whole the result, which may fairly be taken as an indication of public feeling throughout the Province, is highly gratifying, showing that the Mowat Government more than retains its large share of strength and popularity, and makes the question of its retention of power at the next election, as nearly as possible a moral certainty. The Mail and other Opposition sheets had built high hopes that these elections—following so closely on the Tory success last June, and the Chieftain himself having come to the rescue—would show decided Opposition gains, and their chagrin and consternation at the result is ludicrously evident.

An Unbiassed Opinion.

The Montreal Star is an independent newspaper, that generally looks fairly upon political matters. Being an N. P. organ, however, its sympathies would most naturally be with the Tory party. On this account, the following expression of opinion by the Star is entitled to the respect due to the opinion of a fair and disinterested umpire:

"In point of fact, Mr. Mowat has made an excellent Premier for the sister province. His administration has been honest and efficient, he and the members of his cabinet have laboured faithfully for the people and have never been convicted in any serious fault or error. Is it reasonable, then, or decent, that he should be sacrificed simply because Haman does not like to see him sitting at the gate? If the people of Ontario do not want to see their provincial politics completely swamped by the politics of the Dominion and a mere creature of the Government at Ottawa reigning at Toronto, they will, when the elections come round, insist upon judging Mr. Mowat exclusively by what he has done in the sphere of provincial affairs, and rule out as irrelevant all considerations as to whether his presence in the Government of the Province is or is not agreeable to Sir John and his Cabinet at Ottawa."

These are words that should be carefully pondered by the electors of Ontario and acted upon. The advice is sound and the consequences indicated are sure to result if the electors are so forgetful of their duty to themselves and the province as not to resent by their ballots the meddlesome interference of outsiders in our domestic political concerns.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, has decided, with the consent of the executive, to call the Supreme Court and the High Court of Ontario together in special session in London on Wednesday, the 8th day of November next. He has also about completed arrangements for the formation of a High Court in Illinois.

OTTAWA AND TORONTO.

Connecting the two Cities by Rail.

Progress of the Ontario & Quebec R. R.

The Capital is gradually becoming a great railway centre, and while the citizens just now cannot well perceive any unusual activity in their midst in the way of actual construction of lines being in progress, still railway magnates are concocting many schemes whereby an entrance may be had from different points into the Capital. In a very short time the much talked of Ontario and Quebec R. R. will be an accomplished fact, and a direct connection will thereby be had between

OTTAWA AND TORONTO.

The work of building the road is rapidly going on. The line will only require to be constructed as far east as Perth from Toronto. Connection will be made at the former place with the C. P. R. which runs into the city. Steps have been taken by the company to secure the RIGHT OF WAY.

through York County, and as work is being energetically pushed at that end, public interest on the project has been greatly aroused. At Agincourt, near Toronto, Mr. Cosgrove, of Messrs. Booth and Cosgrove, the contractors has about sixty men and forty teams engaged in one of the most difficult portions of the section. There are altogether about

75 MEN AND 60 TEAMS

at work on this section. Here the crossing of the old Nipissing or Midland Railway will be effected by means of an iron bridge with stone abutments. Work on this bridge was commenced a few days since. A new steam shovel has been set to work in a cut near Agincourt. This machine, which weighs thirty tons, and cost $10,000, will be set to work right in the face of the cut, and will shovel its way through in a very short time. It is the first of the kind used in this country. The line cuts through and crossing the farms of Mr. Walton and Mr. Whitesides, running westerly and slightly south towards Wexford, crosses the road dividing Scarboro' from York township. Here another gang of men, under the superintendence of Mr. Booth, an old and experienced railway contractor, are engaged on a cut probably the most difficult of the section. The Don River, near Toronto, is to be bridged by an iron structure 860 ft. long with stone abutments, which have been commenced. The total length of line to be built between Toronto and Perth is nearly 200 miles. The work on this is divided into eighteen sections, on which construction work is being pushed forward employing about 2,000 men. Laborers employed on the work receive at the rate of $1.50 per day, and men with teams $2.25, in addition to board and fodder for the horses. Mr. Booth estimates that he uses up about 1,000 bushels of oats per week. His contract stipulates for the completion of the work by September, 1883, and the new year is expected to be inaugurated by the running of trains between the capital of the Dominion and the capital of the chief province.

THE VILLAGE OF AGINCOURT

ACTIVELY AND SIMULTANEOUSLY,

The "Marmion" Matter.

A Scathing Rebuke to the Organs.

The following letter from Bishop Jamot to Archbishop Lynch, appears in Wednesday's Globe. It is a scathing rebuke to the Mail, as well as to the Review and other Opposition organs, who, for political purposes have not hesitated to not only attack Mr. Crooks for recognizing the rights of conscience of our Roman Catholic fellow citizens, but have derided the conscientious scruples of the latter, and apparently rejoiced in an opportunity of showing towards them the latent hostility of their hearts under the cloak of political zeal:—

To His Grace the Most Rev. J. J. Lynch, D. D., Archbishop of Toronto:

Your Grace,—Allow me to congratulate you on the well-merited castigation you have so successfully administered to the patrons of immoral literature, who in their blind zeal for party or political purposes are ready to sacrifice conscience, Christianity, and reason itself to uphold a doctrine which they know well is wrong. I am really surprised to notice that the Mail newspaper has become the champion of that sort of morality as is contained in "Marmion," a work brilliantly written, it is true, but all the more offensive to Christian morality, and principally so to Catholic feelings. And this is the work which, according to the Mail, should be imposed on the boys and girls and the young men and young women attending our schools; to be studied, analyzed, and admired by them, and to be proposed to them as a model in any sense of the word, not to speak of the teachers and of the members of our religious communities who would be expected to explain it. But every weapon is available at the time of an election contest, should it even raise religious prejudices.

The Mail and all those concerned should know that we have always considered, and consider now more than ever, that Your Grace is the sole defender and advocate of Catholic rights and of sound Christian morality, and that it until now very few have come forward to help you, it is not correct to say that nobody else has upheld you, for amongst others rather Stafford, of Lindsay, has written able articles in condemnation of the morality of Marmion) it is because we know well that Your Grace is quite competent for the task.

No; Your Grace is not alone. You have with you the Bishops, the clergy of the Catholic Church, you have the faithful laity, all those really worthy of the name of Catholic and who prefer conscience to party; you have with you all those outside of the Catholic Church, who want only books of sound morality to be placed in the hands of their sons and daughters, and also who object to religious prejudices being kept alive between the members of the community and imbuing these prejudices even in the school room.

As for some of the other effusions of that paper, so coarse and so offensive to Your Grace's dignity and personal worth, I believe that it means to be witty. Let some think so. A just and unprejudiced public is of a different opinion.

I have the honour to be,
My dear Lord Archbishop,
Very respectfully yours,
†JOHN FRANCIS JAMOT,
Bishop of Peterborough.

Peterborough, Oct. 19, 1882.

[Note.—We understand that the other Catholic Bishops of Ontario take the same ground as Mons. Jamot. Ed. Globe.

NORWOOD.

A Newsy Letter on Entirely New Topics.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NEW BUTCHERY.

The increased demand here for beef and mutton has induced a young man named Robert Kempt, formerly of Orillia, to open up a new butcher shop, and along with Mr. S. Adams, of Asphodel, as partner, he intends to conduct this branch of business upon as large a scale as possible.

NEW BAKERY.

The staff of life, has also called forth another aspirant for the profits of the bread business—Mr. W. Searight, formerly in the employ of Mr. Robert Foster of this place, having opened a bakery on Peterboro' street west. He has made a good beginning, having brought down bread from 13 to 11 cents, and may probably give it another fall soon. Bakers have a wonderful faculty for giving bread a jump upwards as soon as there is the least rise in flour, but always forget to act upon the same principle as soon as flour is reduced in price. A little opposition is a good thing to jog their memory.

NEW PREMISES.

Misses Williams and Knapp, milliners, of this village, have purchased a very desirable property on Peterborough street, well situated for business purposes, and formerly owned by Mr. P. W. Reynolds. They have workmen now busy fitting up the building for their particular line of trade, and expect soon to occupy it. Being ladies of excellent judgement and remarkably enterprising, we expect to see the Misses Williams and Knapp possess a shop, for taste and convenience, second to none in the county.

NEW MINISTER.

On Thursday last, 19th inst., the Rev. Mr. Carmichael, M. A., was inducted to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church of this village, with the usual religious ceremonies observed on these occasions. The Rev. E. Torrance, of Peterborough; Rev. J. S. Ross, of Harwood; Rev. F. Andrews, of Keen; and Rev. J. Cameron, of Millbrook, were present and took part in the induction services, which were of a highly interesting and impressive character. The Rev. Mr. Torrance preached an eloquent and very appropriate sermon, which was listened to with wrapt attention by the large congregation present; at the conclusion a dinner was partaken of in the basement of the church, to which a very large number sat down. The festivities were continued in the evening, when a goodly number sat down to another spread that did credit to the members of the congregation who so liberally contributed to this portion of the festival. After tea, addresses were delivered by the rev. gentlemen above named and others present. The solemnity befitting the occasion, and financially and otherwise the results were such as to be highly gratifying to both newly inducted pastor and to the congregation. The proceeds of the dinner and tea, as well as a social held on the Friday evening following, amounted to $110.

NEW LIVERY.

New livery stables, under the proprietorship of Messrs. John W. Millar and David Foster, are about to be opened here. The firm are erecting, on Peterborough street, large and commodious buildings, 26x45 feet, on an improved plan for stables and carriage department, and intend to add to their stables a number of very fine horses, as well as new and handsome vehicles of all kinds.

Mr. Hugh Beckett, a retired hotel keeper of this place, has purchased the fine farm belonging to Mr. John W. Fife, paying therefor the sum of $8,000 in cash.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Dominion Government have taken possession of the dam here and a survey is being now made by a government engineer. This will settle a matter which has given considerable annoyance.

We regret to learn that Mr. Harper of Port Perry and brother-in-law to the Rev. Mr. Allan, Bible Christian minister of this place, was recently killed by a fall while attempting to open a door in the loft of a barn.

CHEESE.

The Trewern cheese factory, Smith, we learn has just contracted their Sept. and Oct. cheese for 11½ cents per pound to Mr. Hudson of Belleville. The factory has been quite a success under the able management of Mr. Robinson. During the season they have manufactured something over 1300 cheese.

Startling Christening Ceremony.

A christening took place Monday, at the residence of Manuel Rosario, Mexico, at which a large number were present. The godfather, Pedro Morso, entered the room intoxicated, and began yelling and cursing and demolishing the furniture. A panic ensued, and the guests attempted to escape. Morso threatened to shoot the first person attempting to leave. Several ladies fainted, and the children set up a fearful cry. The priest rushed upon Morso, but was felled with the butt end of a revolver and rendered unconscious. The mother, holding the infant, shrieked and fell on the floor in a swoon. The child was injured, probably fatally. Morso then fired, killing one child and fatally wounding another. The murderer escaped.

Panic in a Church.

Thursday Evening a chandelier fell in the Baptist Church, Roxboro, N. C., during the service. The burning oil flamed in every direction and the building was filled with dense smoke. The congregation were panic stricken. The church officers, by direction of the preacher, broke open the doors and windows and the people soon got out. Several ladies and an old gentleman were badly injured by the falling chandelier, and a number of others were burned by the oil. It is feared that four young ladies will die.

A Cannibalistic Donkey.

A child named Birchall, England, is suffering severely from injuries received near Hickley in an extraordinary manner. The boy placed his head between the bars of a gate, and looked into the field. Whilst he was in this position a donkey grazing in the field came up, and the child's head getting fixed in the bars the animal gnawed away part of the cheek, laying the bones completely bare.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETEBBOROUGH, OCT. 26, 1882.

Farmer's Prices and the N. P.

During the election campaigns of 1878 and 1882, the orators and organs of the Tory party, used their utmost endeavours to secure the vote of the farmers by assuring them that a protective duty on grain would advance the price of farmers' produce, and that if they voted for the N. P. high prices would be secured to the farmers so long as it remained the fiscal policy of the Government, and that independent of the fluctuations of foreign markets. The trap was cunningly laid, and many of the farmers—in fact a considerable majority—fell into it. Many firmly believed what was told them, and, with others whose, intereats were more convinced than their understandings, voted for saddling the country with the ridiculous and useless impost, and swallowed the sins of the Government, on the assurance that high prices for grain would be forever assured.

It was useless for the opponents of the N. P. to say that the price of grain in foreign markets regulated the price of Canadian grain. The orators and organs of the Government said the contrary, and they were believed, for their arguments to the farmer's in favor of the N. P. were full of specious plausibility and flattering hopes. Farmers in this county must recollect how such eloquent stumpers as Mr. Carnegie told them that if they voted for the N. P. the prices of grain would be advanced and kept up, so long as the N. P. was maintained, and this was to be independent of changes in foreign markets. After the elections of 1878, thanks to a series of poor harvests abroad, the prices of grain did go up, and Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Hilliard and Mr. Burnham were quick to say: "Behold the fruits of the N. P.! See how our promises are verified and how you are reaping the reward of supporting the N. P.!" But the two or three preceeding years have been marked by good harvests abroad, and the price of grain, in sympathy with the foreign markets, has tumbled; and wheat now commands the big N. P. price of 90 cents, and barley is quoted at 65 cents for the best. What do the organs and the orators say now? Have they the fairness and honesty to say to the farmers: "We fooled you, we deceived you; and the Grits were right when they said that a protective duty could not affect the price of grain. We know the N. P. has largely increased the cost of everything you have to buy, and that you get a much less price for your produce. We are sorry we so grossly deceived you, but it was a political necessity that compelled us to use you as tools, to accomplish political ends."

We do not blame the N. P. for the present low price of grain. Results have shown that our contention and the contention of the opponents of the fiscal policy of the Government—has been justified, and that the price of Canadian grain is controlled by the foreign markets and demand. But we do denounce the blatant demagogues who have deceived the farmers by the lure of high prices into assisting to fix upon the country a grievous burden of taxation, without, as far as the farmers are concerned, one countervailing advantage. These parties knew that they were deceiving the agriculturists, and telling them plausible, but nevertheless actual lies—what they knew to be false, and what was only told for the sake of capturing the vote of the farming community under false pretences. Farmers have been tricked and trapped by lightning rod rascals, by sickle-grinding swindlers, and land roller reprobates, but the most heartless, fraudulent, and iniquitous confidence game of all has been played upon them by N. P. political "fakirs."

The World advocates the election of councillors by the general vote of the city and not by wards. It is argued that this would bring out a better class of men as aldermen and secure the abolition of the pestiferous ward politician. It would be a decided improvement.—Lindsay Post. So say we all.

Editorial Notes.

In a recent issue L'Electeur, a Quebec journal, charged Mr. Landry, M. ex-P., of Montmagny, in the plainest terms, with the most unblushing bribery—in the expenditure of $750 to purchase the votes of 700 electors. The Liberal candidate was elected after all. Though challenged by L'Electeur to prosecute for libel if the assertions were untrue, Mr. Landry does not think it advisable to do so, and thus tacitly testifies to the truth of the accusations. L'Electeur makes more general charges of bribery, which go to show that the present state of parties in Quebec, 14 Liberals to 51 Tories, is not the result of the triumph of principles, but of the successful disbursement of bribery funds.

In re Marmion thus the Mail positively speaks:—

"Not a bishop, nor priest, nor professor, nor teacher, nor educated layman of the Catholic Church, has offered a single word of protest against "Marmion" during the whole of this controversy."

This flippant ignoring of the highest dignitary of the Roman Catholic Church, seems to come with great ease from the Mail, who, "during the whole of this controversy," has not missed an opportunity of insulting the Catholics, and denying their right to their religious opinions and preferences. Archbishop Lynch has taken occasion on more than one occasion, to publicly and strongly "protest against Marmion," but in the face of all that the Mail has the irreverent insolence to pen and publish the above paragraph.

The Mail must show its hostility to the Irish. Speaking in reference to a proposal to relieve the overcrowding of population in the south of Ireland by the emigration of a thousand able-bodied men and women to Canada, the organ-in-chief says:—"The prospect of a large pauper "emigration from the South of Ireland is "not a pleasing one." It goes on to characterize them as a "parasitic class "who have learned to live upon others," and "who have lost all those qualities "which would make them anything but "an intoleraole burden and a source of "danger to us in this country," and concludes as follows:—

"We don't want them (the Irish.) We have evil elements enough in our population without having them augmented by the ignorance, idleness, and vice inseparable from the pauperism of the Old World."

Nothing can exceed the dishonest assurance with which Mr. Meredith's organs assert that the Reformers of Ontario cry out against the injustice done the province in the matter of the boundary award, simply to make political capital especially when we recollect that it is chiefly due to Mr. Meredith's action that the vexed question was not long ago settled and definitely disposed of. Had he stood firm and refused to yield to the dictation of his political proprietor, Sir John, the latter would have been forced to confirm the award of the arbitrators. At one time both political parties were a unit on the subject of the ratification, and had that attitude been maintained, Sir John would not have dared to take a course counter to the sentiments of both political parties in Ontario. But at this critical time Mr. Meredith weakly yielded and betrayed his province. Acting the part of a faithful political benchman, he obeyed Sir John and opposed the ratification as earnestly as he had formerly supported it, and forgetting his province, sacrificed its interests at the nod of his political chief. And the chief was acting under orders from Quebec. The latter province objected to the ratification and retained a bold front, and to please his Quebec supporters Sir John did not hesitate to refuse justice to Ontario, especially when he knew that Mr. Meredith would do what he, and through him, Quebec dictated, recede from the high position, he had taken, and sacrifice the interests of Ontario to the exigencies of party requirements. Thus it is seen who is making political capital out of the boundary matter.

Notes of the Day.

The progress of Toronto is shown by the fact that the assessor's returns this year show in the value of real property an increase of nearly two million seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The increase in personal property swells the total to three million one hundred and eighty five thousand dollars of an increase of the wealth of the city in one year.

The largest empire in the world is of course that of Great Britain, which comprises 8,557,658 square miles more than a sixth part of the globe—and embraces under its rule nearly a sixth part of the population of the world. Russia ranks second with 8,232,940 square miles, and a population of about eighty millions. The United States comes third with a territory of 3,500,242 square miles and a population of fifty millions.

Romanists and Dissenters insist that the age of the Church of England dates only from the quarrel of Henry VIII with the Pope. But it is shown by a legal decision that its age reaches back, at least, to the time of Alfred the Great, in whose reign a piece of property was leased for 999 years. Recently the Church claimed the property by right of reversion, and the courts sustained the claim. The lease was made in A. D., 883.

The ladies of Brockville, with a due regard for the laws of health, have formed a Walking Club. Weekly meetings are held, when the programme of a good long tramp into the country is carried out. There is no exercise more easily taken or of greater benefit when properly indulged in, than walking, which in the effective building up of the system, and strengthening of the muscles surpasses many a gymnasium course.

The facility with which the not always rosy bonds of the matrimonial partnership may be sundered in Indiana was, the other day, well illustrated. The wealthy Mrs. Mather, sued for a divorce from her husband, a most successful medical practitioner, on the ground that his rising at night to visit patients had become an insufferable disturbance. The presiding judge, while eulogizing the beneficence of the laws of that State, that allowed people to become unmarried with such facility, granted the divorce. Thank heaven we don't live in that happy land, where one on going home from business doesn't know whether he will be a married man or a divorced husband when he gets there.

Lord Young, the most eminent judge and lawyer of the century, has rendered judgment, that present a new phase to criminal responsibility, contrary to general practice and belief. His Lordship was holding circuit court at Glasgow last month, and when a murder case, in which it was shown that the accused committed the crime when drunk, was brought before him, he reduced the charge to one of culpable homicide or manslaughter, on the grounds that "it was not in accordance with common sense to presume that a man intended to commit murder when he was so drunk that he hardly knew what he was doing." A few days later he gave a similar decision in a brutal murder case in Argyleshire. Not the least astonishing is the inference to be drawn from his Lordship's remark, that he introduced a new practice in admitting "common sense" to the position of a factor in arriving at a legal decision.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Winnipeg Free Press says—"Manitoba is a country blessed with a soil and climate especially fitted for the raising of wheat and many other food products, but cursed with the most incompetent Government, both Federal and Provincial, under the sun."

Quebec can hardly be considered hopelessly Tory. At the last local election there were 45,000 votes polled for the Liberal candidates, against 51,000 for Conservative candidates. It is but a difference of 6,000 votes to overcome, which a change of 3,000 from the Conservative side would effect.

Mr. Pardee is the Crown Lands Commissioner and is one of the ablest members of the Ministry. In matters requiring the exercise of good judgment and what the Scotch call long-headedness, Mr. Pardee may be said to take the lead. He is a capital man at the head of the department.—Telegram (N. P. organ.)

A queer muddle Mr. Meredith makes of the liquor license question. He says the Crooks Act has good features, but he believes "the improvement in the liquor traffic is due to the increasing temperance sentiment of the country." Here is an admission that the country is growing more temperate, in the face of the allegations of the Mail that more liquor is consumed now than formerly.—London Advertiser.

When Sir John was perambulating the country, boasting that he had usurped the functions of Providence, and had given the farmers good crops and good prices, wheat was quoted at about $1.32. He got their votes by making them believe that he and his N. P. had fixed that price; he virtually entered into a compact to keep the price at that figure. Wheat is now down to a dollar, and the Tory organ asks the farmers to be grateful. Sir John struck it right in bringing on his elections a year before the proper time, for he couldn't have stuffed the farmer's successfully with wheat at $1 a bushel.

The Tory politicans seem to be the only opponents of the Crooks Act. The churches say it is the best License Act the Province ever had—the temperance people say so too, and even licensed victuallers endorse it, as will be seen by the following which we extract from a memorial presented by them to the Ontario Government in 1876:—"We are agreed in this, that the Act of the Ontario Legislature known as the "Crooks Act" is, on the whole, a fair and just enactment, and if its provisions were strictly carried out and enforced (with some slight alterations, to which we shall hereatter refer,) we think that intemperance would greatly decrease, and the public on the one hand and the tavern keepers on the other would be generally satisfied."

PROFESSOR SUMNER AND TARIFF REFORM.

There was a slight digression from the stereotyped programme of the United States Tariff Commission at its sitting last Saturday in Philadelphia, when Professor Sumner, of Yale College, appeared as a political economist (probably the leading political economist on this Continent) to enter his protest against the continued enforcement of the present iniquitous customs tariff. He read a valuable paper on the relation of protective taxes to wages, which, while it may not have contained any material new thought, yet presented sound political doctrines in a forcible and attractive manner, and will probably bear much good fruit. He boldly attacked the favourite assertion that labor is better paid under a protective tariff than under a low revenue tariff or free trade; and maintained that the remuneration of labour would be higher than it is on this continent if the labourers were let alone to use the advantages of the country and his position without any restraint or interference. Professor Sumner's replies to the questioning by the Commission was at all times caustic and sometimes very sarcastic.

Snatched from the Grave.—Mrs. Helen Pharviz, No. 331 Dayton Street, Chicago, Ill., is now in her sixty-eighth year, and states that she has suffered with Consumption for about ten years, was treated by nine physicians, all of them pronouncing her case hopeless. She had given up all hopes of ever recovering. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and satisfy yourselves. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

NEWCOMBE PIANOS

Boston, 14th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. Octavius Newcombe & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

Toronto, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. Octavius Newcombe & Co.,

Gentlemen—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,

Professor of the Chair of Music of the University of Trinity College, Toronto, &c.

FENELON FALLS.

After from ten days to a fortnight of delightful weather, a change took place on Tuesday last. A fall in the temperature was followed by a little rain, and during the night there was not only a good deal more rain and a sharp frost, but at Kinmount and north of it about two inches of snow fell, and in this village and its vicinity the ground was white with it next morning.

MILLBROOK.

Mr. Wm. Steele, of Millbrook, has returned from the North West for the winter.

The Methodists of Millbrook have done themselves honor by presenting Rev. J. B. Howard with a purse of $100. The reverend gentleman intends visiting Southern California with the expectation of recuperating his health.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Grand Junction trains are now lengthening out. There is a greater quantity of traffic just as the fall trade is beginning.

Last week the loud-toned whistle was hurried on twenty minutes earlier than the time adopted by the mills during the summer months. It now blows twenty minutes to six, and ten and twenty minutes after six—three times in the morning, and as many minutes earlier for noon and the cessation of labour at night.

Several gangs of shantymen have passed here, recently, on their way to their winter quarters in the timber limits of the northern country. A company of about fifteen young men, all lower Canadian Frenchmen, arrived here on Saturday night, each of them, with one or two exceptions, carrying his sole earthly possessions,—the clothes upon his back, and a new trunk in which he will stow away the little extra clothing which comprises his winter's wardrobe.

At a meeting of the Football Association of Victoria University, held recently, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Honorary President, Prof. A. J. Bell; President, W. S. Herrington; Vice-President, R. M. West; Sec.-Treas, L. E. Horning; Field Capt., J. L. Stobbs. The "Vics" expect to put a strong team in the field, and are open to challenges from all interested clubs.

A man named Henderson, of Oshawa, in jumping off the express while in motion at the G. T. station here, on Tuesday evening, missed his hold and falling beneath the train had his right leg crushed below the knee, rendering amputation necessary. He was conveyed to the St. James Hotel, where the operation was successfully performed by Drs. Waters and Craig, and at last accounts he was doing well, although much prostrated by the shock.

Mrs. McCullagh, wife of Mr. Andrew McCullagh, died very suddenly at her husband's residence in this town, on Saturday last, about noon. She had just seated herself at the table with a portion of the family, and was beginning to partake of dinner, when her daughter observed her gasping for breath, and before anything could be done to relieve her, she was dead.

At a largely attended Convention of Reformers of East Northumberland held at Warkworth, on Friday week, Mr. Jas. M. Ferris, M. P. P., was unanimously nominated as their candidate in the approaching election for the Ontario Legislature.

OMEMEE.

The Hamilton property on King street was sold on Tuesday last to Mr. F. Adams for $830.

Very successful services have been held in the Methodist church in this village during the past week.

The pile-driver employed driving piles for the east end of the bridge on the missing link which crosses Pigeon river below Kincaid's mill, fell or was blown down by the wind on Monday night.

For the past two weeks our buyers have been kept very busy handling grain. Great quantities are still coming in for which a good price is being paid.

The annual Fall Show of the Emily Branch Agricultural Society was held in this village Thursday and was very well attended although in the forenoon the sky was very cloudy and a sprinkling of rain fell. The display in the indoor department was fair, the greatest attraction being the Fruit Evaporator in operation. The show of horses, cattle, sheep and pigs was really good, there being some excellent stock in the field. We are informed by the secretary that about 400 entries were made.

LINDSAY.

On Monday evening a sad death occurred in the township of Ops. Mr. Edward Shea was at work in a field on lot 8, in the 5th concession, when one of the horses, from some cause, kicked him on the right side of the face, killing him instantly. Not returning home at the usual hour his uncle went to the field to look for him when he was found lying dead. He was well and favourably known and was a hard working and industrious young man.

Saturday night a complimentary reception was tendered Mr. Henry Morris of Peterboro, and bride, on their way east on a honeymoon trip. The reception took place at the residence of the groom's parents, Whitby. Henry, says "Saturday Night," is one of Whitby's successful boys who now holds a prominent position in the head office of the Midland railway at Peterboro. He joined the benedicts on Tuesday last, when he was united in marriage to Miss M. Thomas of St. Louis. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's mother, St. Louis.

A subscriber stopped at the Post office for his paper on Saturday. Pointing to the load of wheat piled on his wagon outside he said: "This day last year I sold a similar load. There is just $31 difference between the money I now get and what I took last year." Wheat, at this date twelve months, was selling at $1.38.

The Rev. W. K. Anderson of Lindsay has received this week an anonymous letter containing $25 to aid in finishing the Reaboro Baptist chapel, which is to be opened for public worship next Sabbath. He wishes to thank the kind donor through the press, and trusts that his friend may be abundantly rewarded on that day.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 26, 1882.

The Issue of the Interim Elections.

Last Wednesday, October 18th, was a Tel-el-Kebir to the Tories. As was to be expected, the elections in the six vacant constituencies, resulted in a decided Reform victory. The snarling, captious, carping organs of the Opposition, headed by the coarse and vulgar Mail, have been declaring for months that "Mowat must go," and on Wednesday they were so practically and effectively rebuked that the Mail and many of its satellites had not life enough left to issue even one line of editorial comment on the disaster, portending a still greater disaster at the coming election. And it is not surprising that they should feel deadened by the blow, for it has fallen heavily. Not only did the Reformers elect their candidates in the ridings held by them since the elections of 1879, but they succeeded in wresting from the Tories two of the seats, held by members of their party, thus thinning Mr. Meredith's already lean ranks by two. That is, out of the six ridings, Glengarry, which the Tories held by a majority of twenty-one, returned a supporter of Mr. Mowat and honest government by a majority of 64, and South Essex "went back" on its record of a Tory majority of one hundred and fifty-seven in 1879 and rolled up a majority of seventy-four for the Liberal candidate. North Renfrew may be fairly counted another gain, for the compromise candidate, Mr. W. B. McAllister, who was elected by acclamation, on the understanding that he would give the government an independent support replaces a Meredith man.

Thus the gratifying result of the by-elections last Wednesday was not only to maintain Mr. Mowat's strength, but to give him a gain of six in a division of the house. Of course Muskoka is yet to hear from but the election that was held this week will doubtless result in the return of the Reform nominee Mr. Bettes. The result shows that the electors of both political parties still cherish good government and are bound to sustain it; that they resent all interference of outside parties with peculiarly provincial matters; that the territorial rights of the province must be maintained; that there can be no tolerance of those who at no matter whose dictation, can consent, to assist in the spoliation of Ontario, and above all that the people endorse the wise, prudent and capable rule of the Mowat administration, and have no desire to see it supplanted by a set of suckling statesmen, who, puppet like, respond to the leading strings pulled from Ottawa; that the Tory Convention at Toronto called by outside politicians was a gigantic mistake; that the people of Ontario are reading, thinking and intelligent men who do their own reading and thinking, and can and will do political duties, without dictation or assistance from any quarter; that traitors to Ontario who truckle to, and acknowledge allegiance, when our rights are imperilled, to those outside the province shall be punished; that Mr. Meredith, lost two and perhaps three votes by his double dealing on the Boundary award matter and his unpatriotic opposition to Mr. Mowat in reference to its ratification.

The result of the by-elections show also that the government has developed strength where it was not expected. The attempt to mix up Dominion politics with local issues has signally failed, two reform candidates securing handsome majorities in constituencies that returned Tory representatives to the house of Commons. Ontario is destined to remain solid as to her own peculiar rights and interests. The Tory journals said that the Dominion elections, endorsed the Government's action in refusing to ratify the boundary award, but two ridings that went with Sir John on Dominion issues would have none of Mr Meredith on local issues. Ontario electors know their own business, and are determined to manage their own affairs, and one of the chief reasons why they support Mr. Mowat so handsomely is because he is thoroughly loyal to the province, stands up for its rights and yields not an inch to any usurpation, and if Mr. Meredith and his supporters were ten times as capable as Mr. Mowat and his, the people would reject them so long as they played fast and loose with the interests of Ontario, and submits where their rights are concerned to the dictation of Sir John, who in turn is ruled by Quebec politicians. Meredith must stay.

Editorial Notes.

Ontario is solid—so Mowat it be.

Won't "die in the House"—Ratz, the the late Tory candidate in South Waterloo.

Mr. Mowat is becoming Toryized. The way he has "gone," as shown by the result of the by-elections, is after the real old retrograde style, peculiar to the Tory political aspirations.

The Tory organs sing small over the results of the interim elections. The Mail suddenly dammed up the washings of its Augean stables of mental filth, and the other organs follow suit. "Let's talk of graves and worms and epitaphs."

There's never a rose without its thorn, and the Rose of West Hastings has several thorns—a diminished Tory majority in West Hastings and an increased Reform majority, in the other victorious ridings.

The Review says, "We are gravely told that the Administration of Ontario has no business with the National Policy." Yes, indeed, "we are very gravely told" by the Tory electors of South Essex and Glengarry, represented by N. P. Tories, that the N. P. "has no business" in Ontario local politics, as shown by their returning supporters of the Mowat Administration.

The Review statistician has been lately dipping deeply into figures in a culinary way, ostensibly making facts for the people. Since his calculating machine must be in pretty smooth running order, he might "tackle" and give the solution of the following simple sum in the rule of three:—If Mr. Meredith lost two seats out of six last Wednesday in the by-elections, what majority will he have at the end of the general elections next year?

In the elections of last Wednesday the Reform gains, as compared with the majorities of 1879, amounted to 1,065 in four constituencies. In one riding, East Simcoe, there was a falling off in the Reform majority, but taking from this, the reduction of 67, in the Tory majority in the only riding they carried, leaves the loss just 30. Thus we have a net Reform gain of 1,035 votes, or an average for each of the six constituencies of 173. This doesn't sound like a very hearty amen to the Mail's "Mowat must go!"

At the Tory convention in Toronto, "The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold" but they rather caught a Tartar. Sir John and Sir Tupper met in conspiracy with Mr. Meredith and his minions, and there was a wolf-like acquiescence in the mandate, "Mowat must go." It was resolved to put eight strong men in the field to win the eight vacant seats. Well, the seven strong men were trotted out, and on Wednesday night five of them trotted back of themselves, one trotted back yesterday, (in Muskoka) and one was not trotted out at all (in North Renfrew.)

The journal of the "gentleman's party," the Mail, originated the refined and gentlemanly title of "donkey" for Mr. Crooks, and "donkey driver" for his grace, Archbishop Lynch. Now, seeing that the Mail told Mr. Mowat he must go, and Mr. Mowat don't go, and won't go, and, in fact, shows a mulish determination to stay, that sheet might soothe its wounded sensibilities by calling Mr. Mowat a mule, and in respect of staying, there could not much fault be found with him for including the Premier in the brotherhood of which the Mail editor is the right bower—the jack-(ass-in-chief)—as it were.

Our beloved brother chip down street is, in politics, whatever answers the purpose. A few weeks ago he was howling like an insane hyena over Mowat's monstrous iniquity in not issuing the writs for the interim elections. He painted in words of glowing "gammon" the injustice under which the unrepresented constituencies were groaning. But now that the writs have been issued, the elections held and the Tory party knocked out of time, the Review remarks that the elections were a trifling affair anyway, "where only one session was in question. If a gold medal were offered for a first class political hypocrite, the Review man's chance wouldn't be a bad one.

Bishop Jamot in Ennismore.

His Lordship's First Episcopal Visit—His Reception—An Address and Reply Confirmation Immoral Literature—Address on Temperance—The Temperance Township.

On Friday last, His Lordship Bishop Jamot, paid the first episcopal visit in his new Diocese, to the Parish of Ennismore. His Lordship, accompanied by the pastor of the parish, Rev. Father Keilty, Rev. Father Casey, of Campbellford, and Rev. Father Connolly, of Downeyville, was met at Mud Lake bridge by a great number of the parishioners in carriages, and escorted to the church. The interior of the church was tastefully decorated with evergreens. Upon his Lordship's arrival in the sanctuary, he was waited upon by some of the senior members of the congregation, who presented him with the following which was read by Mr. John Collins:—

ADDRESS

To the Right Rev. John Francis Jamot, Bishop of Peterborough.

May it please your Lordship:—

We, the undersigned, on behalf of this congregation, most respectfully offer your Lordship a cordial welcome to this little Irish parish of Ennismore. Although not your first visit, we hail this one with delight because of your pastoral jurisdiction over us, and our personal acquaintance with your affable manner, your mild and gentle sway, and the humane manner in which you appeared amongst us on former occasions. We are thoroughly conversant with your abilities as administrator while in the Archdiocese of this Province, and aware of the zeal displayed by you in your former Bishopric, and we are fully confident it will be no less active in this, your new Diocese of Peterborough.

Your proximity to this parish gives us a new hope that our temporalities shall be directed by you in the future, and our spiritual wants carefully attended to, that virtue shall be encouraged, strengthened and developed in our hearts, and the seeds of faith planted in the minds of our children, and we are further confident that your Lordship's spiritual jurisdiction will be most agreeable to your priests and people.

It is the pride and boast of our nationality to have been faithful to virtue, religion and God's Holy Church the world over, and true to the instincts of our race, we now promise fidelity, and implicit obedience to your ecclesastical authority.

It is our highest gratification that one should be placed as our chief spiritual guide with the well known zeal, learning and piety of your Lordship, and more, especially of your nationality—that nation, fair France, which through weal and woe extended the hand of friendship and provided a refuge for Ireland in her tribulation.

We tender your Lordship that dutiful homage which your sacred dignity demands, and gladly assure you of our warmest sympathy and cordial co-operation in your designs, and with heartfelt earnestness we pray the Giver of all good gifts, that you may enjoy a long and prosperous career, that wisdom, righteousness and fortitude may abound in you, and that all your works may be so ordered as to redound to the great glory, honor and benefit of God's Holy Church.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

His Lordship replied in suitable terms, referring to his former visits to the parish with pleasure. He praised the people for the generous manner in which they responded to all charitable requests, and for the zeal they exhibited for religion, which was attested by the beautiful Presbytery they had erected. On Sunday his lordship administered the

SACRAMENT OF CONFIRMATION

to 117 children and lectured them on their duties in life, warning them to shun immoral books. He cautioned parents to keep a strict watch over the books read by their children, and characterized immoral literature as one of the chief causes of the destruction of the pliant minds of youth. In the evening his lordship lectured again, chiefly

AN "EVICTION" IN ENNISMORE.

Patrick Collins perpetuates his Possession with a Pitchfork—Sheriff Hall Assaulted and Slightly Battered—The Compromise—The Recapture—Collins Still Holding the Fort.

Last Friday Ennismore was the scene of a lively little escapade, reminding one of some parts of Ireland in these lively days, and showing that an Irishman's instinctive determination to cling to his home is not weakened by removal across 3,000 miles of salt sea. On Friday Sheriff Hall went out to Ennismore to execute a writ of possession issued in the case of Smith vs. Patrick and Bridget Collins. (H. H. Smith for a Toronto Loan Co'y.) Patrick was found in possession, and not trusting implicitly to the nine points of the law given by possession, supplemented them with the four points of a pitchfork. Sheriff Hall was confronted by a closed door, which was forcibly broken open. The house was filled with Collin's friends, but they were persuaded to go out quietly, but Mr. Collins had retreated to his citadel—upstairs, where he had provided himself with weapons such as clubs, pitchforks, sleigh-runners, etc. The top of the stairs was boarded over, except a narrow space, through which Mr. Hall was warned he could not pass alive. He boldly made the attempt however, but while attempting to seize the tines of the fork, Collins struck him a blow on the head, whose force was broken by a stiff hat. In the meantime Mr. Stapleton arrived with Constables Pigeon an Adams. The latter put a Windsor chair on his head as a helmet, and thus armed made a gallant rush on the enemy's position. But as he reached the top of the stairs, Collins assaulted the chair with a sleigh runner, mashed the legs and split the seat, and forced the assailant to retire. Close siege was kept up, but at about 10:30 on Friday night a compromise was effected. Collins capitulated, and in the morning Sheriff Hall placed the enemy in legal possession and with his posse returned to town. But on Saturday evening Collins' friends gathered in force, and in turn "evicted" the enemy. Things are therefore in statu quo. Without another writ the Sheriff will not again interfere in the matter, and Mr. H. H. Smith is in correspondence with the Loan Company, in reference to future proceedings. In the meantime, however, Patrick Collins "holds the fort."

BISHOP JAMOT AT BRACEBRIDGE

A HANDSOME GIFT AND FILIAL ADDRESS.

A short time since a large number of the friends and parishioners of Rt. Rev. Bishop Jamot assembled at Bracebridge for the purpose of signifying their regret for his departure from their midst, which was done by the presentation of the following address:—

To the Right Rev. John F. Jamot D. D., Bishop of Peterborough.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP.—We, the people of this portion of your diocese, having already come before you to offer you our warm and most cordial congratulations on your newly acquired charge in the sacred fold of God's church, and to express to you our sorrow at the removal of your laboured for so many years with such presence from our midst, whereinyou have deep humility and burning zeal, with so much profit, too, for the spiritual and even the temporal welfare of this poor scattered flock, confided to your care in these northern regions. God, the rewarder of every good, alone knows to the full extent of the privations and sufferings you have undergone for us and for our children during these long weary years of labor and trial in His service, but as for us, being human and seeing only with the human eye, we can know of these your sufferings only in part. However, from what we have seen and heard, we can well imagine all that is left for the omnipresent eye of the Great Creator to behold and crown with eternal glory. Let it suffice for us to say, then, dear lordship, that your life amongst us has been a continual sermon and exhortation to good, so the remembrance of your holy example and your many virtues will serve as a light to guide us in our heaven when you are gone. And now as you are on the eve of your departure from us, and whilst we say farewell, right rev. father in God, deign to accept with our best wishes for your every happiness, this little gift, which from our poverty as well as from our grateful hearts we presume to offer you, begging that you will hold it as a sweet memento of that filial love and respectful reverence we shall ever entertain toward you, whom we shall have the joy and consolation of calling our father, our guardian and bishop, and let it also be a mark of the great esteem in which you are held by those of our fellow-citizens who are not of your flock but who so generously contributed to this presentation, thereby showing the great respect and friendly feeling which they bear toward your lordship. Asking once more, dear lord bishop, the blessing and the aid of your prayers, think of us as we shall think of thee—Farewell.

YOUR CHILDREN AND FRIENDS.

The address was accompanied by the gift of a magnificent gold watch and chain and on the watch was the following inscription:—"Presented to the Rt. Rev. J. F. Jamot, D. D., by the members of St. Joseph's Church, and the residents of Bracebridge." His Lordship delivered a brief address, reviewing the more important acts in connection with the church in Bracebridge, and eulogizing the liberal christian spirit which on all occasions prompted the people of Bracebridge to make voluntary sacrifices when required with cheerfulness. His departure from Bracebridge gave him both pleasure and pain—pleasure to give a ready and cheerful obedience to the mandates of his spiritual superiors—pain in breaking the ties that bound him to the many warm friends he was leaving behind him. He returned most cordial thanks for the beautiful gift bestowed on him. His lordship invited the party to partake of a rich collation prepared for his friends by his friends. After luncheon the party departed with uniform and hearty expressions of good will.

A Bridegroom's Suicide.

A story comes from Boucherville, P. Q., which shows how quickly the grave succeeded the marriage bonds of a young pair. A young farmer named Deragon, on the 3rd of October, married the daughter of a well-to-do farmer of that place. Eight days afterwards he rose early in the morning. He was watched by his bride to wade out into the river, then stoop down, and hold his head under water until he fell and sank from her sight. She screamed, and assistance having arrived Deragon was carried quickly ashore. He never spoke afterwards. The parties being well connected the matter has been hushed up until the news reached Montreal to-day. No cause is assigned for the suicide. The young wife, it is needless to say, is almost wild with grief.

By the death of Sir George Grey, Mr. Gladstone now sits at the Privy Council as the senior commoner, having "kissed hands" on his appointment forty-one years ago last September, when the Queen had been only four years on the throne.

"Ladies of all ages who suffer from loss of appetite; from imperfect digestion, low spirits and nervous debility may have life and health renewed and indefinitely extended by the use of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies for all complaints incident to the female constitution. We have not only a living faith in Mrs. Pinkham, but we are assured that her medicines are at once most agreeable and efficacious.

The count, upon returning from the sea-side, finds his previously trusted valet in a state of intoxication that defied concealment or apology. "Confound you," says the count; after a severe lecture, "have you no sense of shame—no self-respect? Suppose now that you were to be picked up in the street in that condition"—— "O, thash all ri' 'f I am," replied the servant; "don't you fresh yourself 'bout me. I always carry your card-case in my pocket."

Rheumatism. This painful disease that so often cripples for life, arises from poison circulating in the blood, and often from an excess of acid. Inflammation is developed in the muscles, ligaments and joints, by colds, damp clothing, &c. Liniments are serviceable to relieve, among many, Hagyard's Yellow Oil is preferable. To eradicate the rheumatic poison from the system, nothing can surpass Burdock Blood Bitters. 43-2t

MY AUTUMN.

My autumn is a time of peace;
My sun far to the southward sets;
But brings at eve no vain regrets,
For with the day the toil shall cease.

Some hopes fall with the falling leaf.
But o'er my sombre autumn sky
No cruel bolts of lightning fly,
And peace is better far than grief.

Man sleeps in autumn if his spring
Brought hope and hope brought earnest toil.
Then he may rest, when rests the soil,
And sit amid the sheaves and sing.

What though no flowers at early morn
With gold or crimson bless his sight.
Their hues in other forms delight,
In crimson fruit and golden corn.

And soon in mercy snows shall fall
On bowing head and silent field,
And hope for coming springs shall yield
Fruition vast through drift and pall.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Grazing Land.

The grazing of land by a mixed stock of cattle, sheep and horses, results in the land being more evenly grazed than where one kind only is kept. Where, however, many sheep are grazed with cattle, as they pick out all the finest of the grasses and clovers with their narrow noses, the cattle will not thrive so will. But sheep, on the other hand, eat with avidity and impunity much which cattle dislike and avoid. Many pastures grazed only with cattle are in springtime quite yellow with buttercups, which a few sheep mixed in with the cattle would keep down. Horses, when kept in a pasture by themselves, are very uneven grazers. A few, kept in a large cattle pasture, will graze the rank places where cattle have previously left their manure, and also about gate places where the land has been trampled. Both horses and sheep will thrive much better when they are able to select their own food.

Farm Notes.

Farmers who have not a large pasture for their hogs, should build a few rods of portable fence, and make a small enclosure for them, and move it around as circumstances require. It will make pork-raising more profitable than to keep hogs confined in pens all the time and keep hogs more healthy.

Long grass is distasteful to sheep; they never feed it down evenly, but will trample down half of what thay do not eat. They seem to do better on the aftermath of grass, but they should not be allowed to feed it too close, or it will be long recovering. A frequent change from field to field is better than giving them a long range; the latter often encourages them to rove and makes them discontented.

Mr. Boyd Bobcaygeon, has at his stock farm, says the Lindsay Post, a small but fine flock of Oxford Down sheep. They are thoroughbred, and with their fine shape, and black heads and legs, at once command the attention and admiration of the farmer. It is the beginning of what will ultimately become a large flock. The Oxford Down is admitted to be one of the most valuable breeds for mutton and wool, and it is also specially adapted to this part of Canada.

Farmers' Homes.

"There's no place like home." Much has been said written upon what should be done to make a model home for the farmer. Made up as this great country is largely of farmers and farms, its pride should be in the attractiveness of farmers' homes. We do not speak now of the interior, but of the exterior, of the home. The results which may be attained if a united effort should be made by the farmers of the country to improve their homes by cultivation of trees, shrubs, and flowers, would be marvellous, indeed. Often, very often, a farm house is remembered by the passerby, chiefly for its unattractiveness, owing to an entire absence of all ornamentation—not a flower, shrub, or tree, to be seen, and, perhaps, not even a fence enclosing the rusty grass plot. No place is so retired that the ornamental and the beautiful can be dispensed with. The surroundings of home have much to do with the respect which the children have for it; and long years after, its appearance will go toward making up the pleasant or unpleasant memories connecting themselves with it. The farmer cannot afford to neglect beautifying his home. It will add greatly to the contentment of the children, and awaken a just pride in the hearts of the wife and of the farmer himself, to surround his home with those attractions which nature is ready to contribute. Let every farmer whose home may as yet be wanting in this respect, give the matter his careful thought.

The Care of Cows.

The dairy requires, in fact, scrupulous care in every department. It is a delicate industry. And the care must begin with the cow. It is not enough to have a good cow and feed and water her properly. She must in fact be made a pet of. That description of her treatment is the best that can be made. In handling her it should be done as if she were a frail, delicate thing, liable to injury from the slightest rough touch or unkind word. Remembering her excessive nervousness, she ought never to be frightened, indeed not any more than a considerate person would frighten a child, which a considerate person would never do. Nothing is capable of vexing us more than to see a dog playfully tormenting a cow. The reader has often seen it. The dog enjoys the sport but the cow does not and if it were our dog and there was no other way to stop the annoyance, we would make a target of him. The manner in which cows are treated in going to and from pasture, and often in milking, is nothing short of brutality. They are hurried, screamed at, sworn at and sometimes clubbed, while the officious dog is on hand to add his voice to the distracting medley. The system of the animal is all shaken up., the nerves all unstrung, and reason must dictate that the milk must suffer. The cow that is treated as if she were a valuable friend that has nothing to fear, and that knows she has a friend in one who has the care of her, will do the very best she can, and actually appear to try to do it Animals may not know as much as we sometimes give them the credit of knowing, and their apparent extra effort to repay kindness may be in no way the part of intelligence, but they do appear sometimes to exert themselves as a special recognition of kindness. Perhaps this may be more often true of the horse, but the cow appreciates kindness as much as any other animal, and in the midst of the quiet that results from kind treatment she does much beter than she otherwise would, whether she tries or not.

USEFUL RECEIPTS.

BAKED QUINCES.—Wash and core ripe quinces, fill with sugar and bake in a baking dish with a little water. May be eaten hot or cold with cream and sugar.

SAUCE FOR GINGER PUDDING.—One cup sugar, half a cup of butter (less will do), two tablespoons of flour, made smooth with cold water, then stir in enough boiling water to make a quart of sauce. Let boil two or three minutes, and flavour with vanilla.

FROZEN PEACHES.—Pare and divide large, fresh, ripe and juicy peaches, sprinkle over them granulated sugar, freeze them like ice cream for an hour; remove them just before serving, and sprinkle with a little more sugar. Canned peaches and all kinds of berries may be prepared in the same way.

CHOICE FIG CAKE.—Take a large cup of butter and two and a half cups of sugar, and beat well together, one cup of sweet milk, three pints of flour with three teaspoonsful baking powder, the whites of sixteen eggs, a pound and a quarter of figs well flavoured, and cut in strips like citron; no extra flavouring.

HAMBURG CREAM.—Stir together the rind and juice of two large lemons and one cup of sugar; add the well-beaten yolks of eight eggs; put all in a tin pail and set in a pot of boiling water (if you have no double boiler); stir for three minutes, take from the fire, add the well-beaten whites of the eggs, and serve when cold in custard glasses.

TOMATO CATSUP.—A lady of taste and experience sends the following receipt: Take four gallons of ripe tomatoes and stew until perfectly soft, then strain through a sieve, and put it on to boil again with three tablespoonsful of black pepper, three of cloves, three of ginger, three of horse-radish scraped up, four onions chopped fine, three spoonsful of salt, two quarts of strong vinegar, one pound of sugar—all to be boiled to the consistency of batter and bottled.

GINGER PUDDING.—Two eggs, half a cup of sugar, one cup New Orleans molasses, one tablespoonful butter, one cup warm milk, one teaspoon soda (if sour milk is used, use two large teaspoons of soda), one tablespoon of ginger. Eat with warm sauce. If it is not convenient to bake this at meal time, it may be baked in the morning and heated at noon, or even the next day, by setting it in the oven when dinner is ready. Have the sauce made fresh.

A NICE DISH-CLOTH.—Have about half a yard square, when you have folded it four times, or any other dimensions that may suit you, of musquito netting, baste it together strongly, and you have a perfect dish-cloth. This is porous and light as a sponge, and can be cleaned with the least labour, and rendered so perfectly sweet that no typhoid shall linger in it. This, with an iron dish-cloth for pots, pans, kettles, etc., will be all that any one will need to have perfectly clean and shining silver, glass or dishes, as far as the cloth goes.

FOOD.—A good complexion never goes with a bad diet. Strong coffee, hot bread and butter, heated grease, highly spiced soups, meats or game, hot drinks, alcoholic liquors, fat meats, are all damaging to its beauty. Strong tea used daily will after a time give the skin the colour and appearance of leather. Coffee affects the skin less, but the nerves more, and a healthy nervous system is necessary to beauty. Late suppers, over-eating at meals, eating between meals, candies, sweetmeats, pastry, preserves, etc., produce pimples and blotches.

SKIN-GRAFTING.

(From Chambers' Journal.)

The patient, a prettily little girl of eight, was admitted into the Wellington ward, St. George's Hospital, with the history that two years previously her dress had caught fire, burning both legs from the hips to the knees severely. After a year's treatment the left thigh had healed up; but the right had never got better, and presented a terrible ulcer, extending all down the outer side. She was a bright, intelligent little thing, and her sad condition excited much sympathetic interest. For four months she lay there without any signs of improvement. Though nourishing food, with wine and strengthening medicine, was freely anministered, and all manner of local remedies applied, particularly that most excellent dressing, carded oakum, all was in vain; and when, on the 5th of May, the child was brought into the operating theatre, and brought under the influence of chloroform, it certainly appeared to to be as unlikely a case to afford a fair criterion of a new treatment as could well be imagined. Two small pieces of skin were then snipped from the back with a pair of sharp-pointed scissors, and imbedded—planted, in fact—in the granulations or "proud flesh" of the wound—two tiny atoms, scarcely bigger than a pin's head, and consisting of little more than the cuticle or outer skin which we raise in blisters by rowing or exposure to a hot sun. Five days later no change was visible; and by-and-by the operation was considered to have failed since the pieces of skin had disappeared, instead of growing, as had been expected. But twelve days after the operation two little white cicatrices appeared where the seeds had been sown; and in my notes I find that a week later these were big enough to be dignified as "islands of new tissue." The most wonderful part of it is that, not only did these islands grow and increase rapidly in circumference, but the fact of their presence seemed to stimulate the ulcer itself, which forthwith took on a healing action around its margin. Several more grafts were implanted subsequently, including morsels from Mr. Pollock's arm, from my own, and from the shoulder of a negro; the last producing a white scar-tissue like the rest. In two months the wound was healed, and the little patient was discharged cured.

YELLOW AS A GUINEA.—The complexion, in a case of unchecked liver complaint, culminating in jaundice, is literally "as yellow as a guinea." It has this appearance because the bile, which enable the bowels to act, is directed from its proper course into the blood. In connection with this symptom there is nausea, coating of the tongue, sick headache, impurity of the breath, pains through the right side and shoulder blade, dyspepsia and constipation. These and other concomitants of liver complaint are completely removed by the use of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which is also an eradicant of scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, ulcers, cancers, humours, female weakness, jaundice and lumbago. It tones the stomach, rouses the liver and after relieving them, causes the bowels thereafter to become regular. High professional sanction has been accorded to it; and its claims to public confidence are justified by ample evidence. Price $1.00. Sample bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The most wonderful curative remedies of the present day, are those that come from Germany, or at least originate there. The most recent preparation placed upon the market in this country, is the GREAT GERMAN INVIGORATOR, which has never been known to fail in curing a single case of impotency, spermatorrhœa, weakness and all diseases resulting from self-abuse, as nervous debility, inability, mental anxiety, languor, lassitude, depression of spirits and functional derangements of the nervous system. For sale by druggists, or sent free by mail on receipt of the price, $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Address F. J. CHENEY, Toledo, O., sold agent for the United States. THE GIRLS.

Hear the laughter of the girls—
Pretty girls.
What a fund of merriment each ruby lip unfurls
How they chatter, chatter chatter.
In the balmy air of night!
While the stars that over-spatter
All the heavens hear their clatter,
In a soft and mild delight;
To the tintinnabulative that unceasing ever purls
From the girls, girls, girls, girls,
Girls, girls, girls,
From the wild, capricious, saucy, jaunty girls
See the flirting of the girls,
Radiant girls!
How the lover's softened brain wildly whirls
Through the mazes of the ball,
Up and down the stately hall!
How he skips to and fro
And perspires!
Would that we could tell the idiot all we know
Of the fires
Into which the false ones hurl
Each new whim—see the flames as it swirls!
How it curls!
How it curls!
Better far that they were churls,
Than fall victims to the girls;
To the prattle and the rattle
Of the girls, girls, girls
Of the girls, girls, girls, girls,
Glibs, girls, girls—
To the racking and heart racking of the girls!

CANADIAN CHRISTMAS CARDS.

We are progressing; we are making our own christmas cards. Canadian designs, Canadian artists. Not long ago and all these articles were from London and New York; this year Canadians will be able to send their friends cards with views of Canadian scenery which are more appropriate than the imported ones. The Canada Publishing Co. are sending out samples of their collection and they are really creditable. Many of the designs are by F. M. Bell Smith and cover every phase of Canadian scenery—picnicing, fishing, portaging, running rapids, curling, hunting, camping and the like. The printing is creditable to the lithographers, and by encouraging our own artists this year they will give us still better ones hereafter.

TEMPERANCE ON THE G. T. R.

Mr. Spicer, Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, has addressed a circular to the employees, in which he draws their attention to the number of men who have been discharged for drunkenness, and then continues: "This kind of work won't do: the habit of drinking had better be given up at once and altogether or it will inevitably result in dismissal and trouble for all concerned. Your only safety lies in total abstinence. I strongly advise you to practice and adhere to it, and to use all your influence with others in the same safe direction. Save your money, benefit your families, ensure safe working, do not risk your own lives nor the public safety by tolerating as fellow employees men who occasionally get into a muddled or worse condition by indulgence in drinking habits which lead to carelessness, recklessness, accidents and a sad list of troubles which we must all desire to prevent."

A DEACON DISCOMFITED.

"I hate to see a woman with rings in her ears," exclaimed the good deacon, "they ain't natural. If it was intended for women to wear them she would have been born with holes in her ears. The first woman didn't wear ear-rings, I'll be bound."

"No," remarked the quiet little man in the corner, 'nor nothing else."

The discussion was brought to an abrupt close, and the house adjourned without delay.

THE JOKES OF THE CLERICS.

"I hope we shall exchange duties occasionally," said the rector of A. to a clerical neighbor recently arrived, "my people like a little variety."

"Oh, no," said the other, "I protest against exchanges; for if you preach better than myself, my people won't like me after you; and if you preach worse you never ought to preach again."

The remarkable efficacy of Wheeler's Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya in nervous debility and all used up conditions of the system whether from work, worry, or dissipation and depraved habits, is owing to its restoring the balance of supply and waste of nervous energy by the direct nutrition of the nervous system. No matter what may be the cause of exhaustion of the vital forces, there is no specific medication for it, nutrition of the wasted tissues by food elements being the only royal road to recovery.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally. It acts directly upon the blood and the mucous surface of the system. Price 75c. For sale by John McKee, druggist, Peterborough. 42-2t

PROFITS FROM MANITOBA FARMING.

Messrs. Matheson & Whitehead, of Brandon, Man., have a fine farm not far from that town. After threshing 70 acres of wheat and oats, they find they have cleared $20 an acre over expenses. Mr. Whitehead has already threshed 18,000 bushels of grain, and expects his farm to yield about $12,000 this season, which will pay for his four hundred acres of breaking, for his six hundred and forty acres of land, for his fine residence and all improvements, and leave a good $2,000 in pocket.

A LONG STRUGGLE.

Over seventeen years ago two farmers in Bayham Township had a dispute over over the location of a certain line fence, and the dispute ended in a fight, in which one party had his jaw-bone broken. During the long years that fence has occasioned a dozen encounters, has been several times moved and removed at night, provoked three lawsuits and almost provoked assassination. One day last week both farmers got tight enough to feel good-natured, and while in this condition a third party brought about a reconciliation. A surveyor from the city was engaged to locate the line and he discovered that one man had an inch of the other man's ground, and that the said inch had never yet produced anything better than thistles and brambles. The fence has been moved over, and the seventeen years' strife was brought to a peaceful end.

THE PRINCE OF WALE'S DAUGHTERS.

Alexandria's daughters, the three young Princesses, Louise, Victoria, and Maud, differ as greatly in character as in physiognomy. The eldest, Louise, has the fine features and grace of her mother; she is gentle, gay and affable, in short the Parisienne of the three. Victoria, the second daughter, is the image of her father; she is proud, rather reserved, and attaches herself little to people; she unites a thorough consciousness of her own dignity to a generous heart, easily moved: her intellect, which is greatly developed, only renders her the more engaging. The youngest sister Princess Maud, can still be called a baby; she is about ten years of age, and in appearance bears a great resemblance to her grandmother the Queen; she is good-hearted, and at times even a little serious.

THE HOME OF EVANGELINE.

(P. E. I. Examiner.)

Moving westward the country improves rapidly from an agricultural point of view, and the traveller soon finds himself in the district of Horton, the home of Evangeline, and one of the richest and loveliest spots which it has ever been our fortune to visit. It is said that Longfellow never visited the place which he selected for the opening scene of his great poem. If this be so his description of Grand Pre, striking under any circumstances, becomes simply wonderful. The "vast meadows stretched to the eastward," affording "pasture to flocks without number," "dykes that the hands of farmers had raised with labor incessant," the "orchards and cornfields" lying to the "south and west," with "Blomidon on the north" and the "mist from the mighty Atlantic looking on the happy valley," all are still characteristic of thrice beautiful Grand Pre. A different race has long inhabited the place: the snorting steam engine bounds over the meadows where once "in ponderous wains the Acadian women drove their household goods to the seashore;" but still the place is the same. Ever blooming ever fair, time has written no wrinkle on the brow of the banks of the Gasperaux.

KEEPING EGGS.

There are several ways in which they may be kept for months with more or less loss of freshness and flavour. But whatever preserving medium is used, the sooner the eggs are placed in it after being taken from the nest the better. If they are allowed to lie around exposed to the air even for a day, of if they are handled and shaken in the least, their keeping qualities will be greatly impaired. The old-fashioned method is to stand them on end in dry salt, in a keg or box, being careful that they do not touch each other and that the salt fills all the interstices; when the keg is full head it up, and turn it over once a week. Or coat the eggs thickly with sweet lard, and pack in the same way in bran. Or pack in powdered, unslacked lime. Or dissolve quicklime in water, making the solution as strong as possible, add as much cream of tartar as the solution will take up, and put in the eggs, taking care to keep them covered all the time. A French process, much recommended, is to make a varnish by melting together beeswax and linseed oil, and thoroughly coating the eggs with it, packing them in boxes with paper pasted over the cracks to exclude the air. The object of all these processes is to exclude the air, which would otherwise find its way through the pores of the shell. It should be added that the eggs should be stored in the coolest and dryest place possible.—N. E. Farmer.

OUR FLEET GONE.

Let Canadians weep and wail; yea, let them refuse to be comforted. All that we ever had of a navy is gone from our gaze, and we shall see it and the $20,000 of the surplus sunk in it no more. In other words, the Dominion Government has resolved to throw up the old hulk Charybdis, which they were stupid enough to take the loan of from the British authorities, and the tub will be sent back to the Admiralty—unless it is swamped en route—to be broken up for firewood. What could have possessed the Government take control of the old hulk? From the first there was not a Canadian with his senses about him who believed that the vessel was needed. It was stated that the object was to qualify young Canadians to enter the British navy, as if the Dominion had not more need to receive than to give away bone and sinew! Such an unpatritic scheme—from a Canadian point of view—deserved to fail, and we are glad it has failed. We can only hope that no Canadians will risk their lives in endeavouring to float the Charybdis across the Atlantic. It is enough that many thousands of Sir Leonard Tilley's surplus have been sunk in the impracticable scheme. Better far would it have been had the Charybdis been sent to the bottom of the ocean the day she started to cross. But then, according to the Tories, Canadians have plenty of money to spend and to spare. As well sink it in the Charybdis as give it to Redpaths to buy English palaces with.

Mr. F. H. Cooper, a Toronto merchant, who left home on the 6th inst., and who it was feared had met his death by violence, returned on the 18th. He states that he was abducted, slugged, drugged and robbed and kept unconscious in a strange house for eleven days.

Of all the ills that flesh is heir to kidney disease is the most distressing. To sufferers, we can only say, take Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure at once, and thus obtain a relief you cannot find elsewhere. All Druggists have it. Sold by John McKee Peterborough. 41-8t

At the Norfolk Assizes a tavern-keeper at Port Dover was placed on trial upon four charges of personal bribery at the late general election. The jury found him guilty in two cases. The action was taken to recover the penalty of $200 in each case.

Never Neglect It.—If you suffer from a cough, never neglect it, it is no trifling matter, and might lead to a speedily fatal disease of the lungs. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will allay all irritation of the mucous membrane by its soothing healing power; it cures Bronchitis, Asthma and all throat and Lung complaints. 43-2t

During a storm at Fairfield, Iowa, on the 16th, wild ducks gathered about the electric lights in great numbers, and put out all but one, and demolished several globes. Nearly 200 ducks were picked up within three hours.

If you are desirous to obtain immediate relief from any kidney trouble, and thus prevent the fatal results that always attend the neglect of these distressing complaints (and who does not?) why take Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure at once. It is safe, simple and effectual. Sold by John McKee Peterborough 41-8t

Best of All.—Our rigorous and changeable climate, and our mode of life induces frequent colds, and often lead to severe Coughs, Bronchitis and other lung troubles that are liable to end in Consumption. The best and most pleasant remedy known for these difficulties is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, to be obtained of any druggist. 43-2t

At the Northumberland Assizes on Wednesday a novel action for damages for assault and trespass on plaintiff was brought by a young married woman against a wealthy farmer 63 years of age, married and the father of a family. The usual way of bringing similar cases before the court is by a criminal charge. The jury returned a verdict for $100.

We Mean Business.—Let any responsible dairyman collect 25 cts. from each of 12 butter makers and keep the cash himself. Send us their names and address, and we will deliver to him, express paid, one dozen 25 cent bottles of our Butter Color, one bottle for each man. When half consumed, if any one is not perfectly satisfied, let them return the bottle to him and get their full money. When all have reported, send us the cash from those only who prefer to keep the goods. We are ready to send out one million bottles on these terms. If any consumer can find fault with Thatcher's Orange Butter Color we desire to hear from him. Manufactured by H. D. Thatcher & Co., Potsdam, N.Y.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that those diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

"MARMION" AT HOME.—Last Sunday Bishop Jamot condemned "Marmion" from the altar as unfit reading for young persons. He forbade the reading of it in his diocese. He said all of the Bishops were in accord with Archbishop Lynch, of Toronto, who spoke in behalf of all the Bishops when he declared the book immoral and insulting to Catholics.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway, of Canada, for the week ending Oct. 14th, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $6,544.72; freight, $19,983.20; total, $26,528.02, as compared with $26,207.34 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $320.68; and the aggregate traffic to date is $832,104.82, being an increase of $168,394.54 over 1881.

ONTARIO BANK STOCK.—By a clerical error the names of the following were omitted from our list of local holders of bank stock, published last week: Ontario Bank, Miss Ann Nicholls (estate) 125 shares, value $5000; Robert Nicholls, 1301 shares, value $52,040; William C. Nicholls, 15 shares, value $600. Total, $57,640. This will make the grand total of bank stock held in Peterboro', $670,300—nominal value.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN DOURO.—On Tuesday of last week, about noon, Mr. John Nolan, of the 8th Concession of Douro, brother of Mrs. Wm. Kenneally, Peterborough, met with an accident that resulted fatally. He was using a team for farm work, and while driving from the farm yard the horses ran away, and he received so severe injuries that he was picked up unconscious, and remained so till his death, which took place 36 hours after—Wednesday midnight. He was a steady industrious young man, much respected, and 22 years of age.

RIGHT OF WAY.—According to the provisions of the Railway Act, the Ontario and Quebec R. R. Co., have secured warrants from the County Judge, to take immediate possession the following parcels of land for railway purposes, and have deposited the annexed sums: Mr. Dobbin, park lot, deposit $500; Mr. Dobbin, fifty acres in Monaghan, deposit $408. Burnham's Point, Ashburnham, deposit $14,000. Mr. Leonard, residence and vacant lot, deposit $3,500. The law requires that the deposit shall be twice the amount of the sum offered owners of property, in compensation by the railway company.

CANADIAN FORESTERS.—At the regular meeting of Court Peterborough No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, held on Friday evening, October 20th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:—

THOROUGHBRED STOCK SALE.—We call the attention of our readers to the posters announcing the first sale of thoroughbred stock, to be held on the farm of Mr. Jos. Redmond, Otonabee about three miles from Peterborough, on the Keene road, on Wednesday Nov. 1st. There will be offered for sale about a dozen thoroughbred heifers, with pedigrees registered in the short-horn herd book, thoroughbred Cotswold sheep, bred from imported stock, and a fine lot of pure Berkshire pigs. Sale at 11 o'clock, lunch at noon. A splendid opportunity for farmers to improve their stock and assist Mr. Redmond in his laudable enterprise.

THE DEERSLAYERS.—The season has come when the keen sportsman seeks the bounding deer in the back country, and Peterborough parties have been so successful, that the volunteers will think twice before they challenge a team of civilians to a trial of skill at the target. The first party to go out was composed of Messrs. C. Boyce, Geo. Johnston, James Davis, C. Quinn, A. Simpson, of Smith township, Lawrence Steele, Lakefield, and John Sawers, Peterborough. They were out nine days and returned a day or two ago with 16 deer as the spoil of their triggers. This may be pronounced the biggest hunting ever done in the vicinity of Gull Lake. We have to thank Mr. Boyce for a splendid saddle of venison left "on our table." Another party consisting of Messrs. Geo. Fitzgerald, Wm. Kenneally, Arthur Blade, John Sherlock and John Montgomery have also returned from an expedition, flushed with triumph and laden with venison. They struck out on the 12th and returned on Monday but were actually hunting only six days, and in that time they secured six deer, three of which were shot on one day. Of the six four were bucks, two being magnificent animals, ten and eight tined stags respectively. The two together weighed 450 lbs, the larger tipping the scales 225½ lbs., the largest buck ever brought to town. The hunting was done in the neighbourhood of Sucker, Beaver and Bottle lakes, Burleigh.

For the year ended Oct. 1st there were 121 prisoners confined in Peterborough jail—109 males and 12 females. Of these 45 were Canadians, 14 English, 44 Irish, 4 Scotch and two Yankees. The highest number in jail at one time was 11 and the lowest 3. There were on September 30th five male and one female confined in the jail.

The Rifle Association has been greatly annoyed and inconvenienced by malicious injury to the butts on their ranges for the past two years, and the mischief being recently repeated, they have offered a reward for the perpetrators. They have paid out large sums for the repairs of malicious damages and it is to be hoped the perpatrators will be caught and punished.

Our town was left destitute of police protection while our force went out to Enpismore to assist Sheriff Hall to execute a writ of possession. P. C. Adams was overcome by a Collins, not a John Collins, but a Patrick, who with a sleigh runner, mashed into splinters a chair which the officer had placed on his head as a helmet, for protection, while he scaled the staircase.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.—I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters, my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging. H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press. 42-2t

The blushing honors and more substantial scholarships are falling thick upon Peterborough students this year.

The Years Roll On.

Months, days and moments slowly but surely sink into the abyss of eternity. 'Tis only human misery that notes the slow decay of time. Anything that positively relieves human suffering is worthy of attention. PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR does this. SUDDEN DEATH.—On Tuesday about 10 o'clock, a.m., Mrs. James Armstrong, of Simcoe street, mother-in-law of Mr. John Lacheur, of the Chicago laundry, fell dead at her residence. When her daughter, Mrs. Lacheur, who ran to her assistance, reached her, life was almost extinct and her mother died in her arms. Heart disease is supposed to be the cause of the death of Mrs. A., who was about 53 years of age.

OUR ENLARGEMENT.—Owing to the high appreciation by business men of the value of THE EXAMINER as an advertising medium, our space is so greatly encroached on by advertisements that we are compelled to leave over a large amount of local matter and interesting correspondence. However, next week we shall appear in an enlarged form. The delay in changing our premises, in placing our new machinery and making the improvements necessary to make THE EXAMINER establishment the most complete in its line in the Midland district, has been beyond our power to prevent.

AN EYE PLUCKED OUT.—During the progress of the Association Rifle Matches on the 10th of October, Joseph Whiteman, a middle aged man living on Antrim street, while marking at the butts, met with an accident, which, though apparently slight at the time, has since resulted in the complete loss of his left eye. Mr. Whiteman was marking for one target and Charles Shambo or Shambault for the other, and the latter left the heavy plank door (that, when shut, protects the markers,) open, against the expressed wishes of Whiteman, and two pieces of a bullet, which splinters into a thousand pellets when it strikes the iron target, struck them; one in the lower lip of Shambo, passing entirely through, and another in Whiteman's left eye. Major (Dr.) Bell at once attended the hurts and could at the time only perceive an abrasion on the pupil of the injured eye, and having no means of making a thorough examination could not tell the extent of the injury at the time, and Whiteman, taking his turn at shooting an hour afterwards, the accident was thought to be a comparatively trifling one. But since that time the eye has proved troublesome and Dr. Bell watched the case closely; later developments of symptoms showing that there was a pellet of lead in the centre of the eyeball, he decided on calling Dr. G. S. Ryerson, the celebrated specialist on diseases and injuries of the eye, and Dr. Bell's theory was endorsed and excision of the eye-ball, which Dr. Bell had, several days before, concluded as inevitable, was decided on. The eye was, therefore, removed, and the patient is now able to walk about and will in a day or two more be able to go to work. An examination of the eviscerated eye, disclosed in the centre of the eye-ball a tiny fragment of lead about the size of a pin's head, that had set up a severe inflammation, which had begun to affect to a dangerous degree, the sound eye through sympathetic action, and it is probable that unless the wounded organ had been removed, the loss of both eyes, as has happened in other similar cases, would have resulted. It is only fair to state that W. attaches no blame whatever to the association; in fact he is under a debt of gratitude to them, for Dr. Bell has attended him gratis, and the fee of Dr. Ryerson for the operation was paid from the funds of the Association.

PERSONAL.

Mr. T. B. Tait, formerly of Peterborough, and now station agent at Midland and manager of the elevator at that place, was in town a day or two last week.

Mr. R. D. Ewing, a former resident of Peterborough, was in town on Wednesday and Thursday last.

Merit has been rewarded. Mr. Joseph L. Lewis, late city editor of the Belleville Intelligencer, has secured a position in a similar capacity on the Hamilton Times. Joe. is a clever young man, wields a facile and ready quill and besides is a real good fellow and is bound to make his mark in the profession. He was dined, wined, presented and addressed before leaving Belleville, which may well be sorry to part with him. He is succeeded by Mr. J. L. Mills, an old and experienced Bohemian.

Miss Emma Aldridge has been presented with the Marquis of Lornes bronze medal, having secured the highest number of marks at the intermediate examinations. Mr. Wm. Parkenham won the scholarship of $25, presented by Mr. A. L. Davis, whose liberality might well find desirable imitators.

MILLBROOK.

THE NEW METHODIST CHURCH.—Last Wednesday the new Methodist Church in this village was dedicated. Rev. John Shaw, of Peterborough, ex-President of the Toronto Conference, preached an impressive sermon, after which the edifice was dedicated with the appropriate services of the connection. Rev. Mr. Maxwell, of Brantford, preached to a crowded congregation in the evening. Last Sunday, Rev. Dr. Sutherland, President of the Toronto Conference, occupied the pulpit in the morning, Rev. W. Mitchell in the afternoon, and Rev. J. B. Howard in the evening. On Monday evening there was a grand tea meeting.

The plans were drawn by Mr. J. E Belcher, of Peterborough. The size of the church is 50x90. The building is constructed of white brick, is furnished with stained glass windows, and presents a striking appearance. It has seating capacity for 800. Galleries extend all around the building. The seats have cast iron ends, the woodwork being oiled and varnished, in the true modern style. The old-fashioned box pulpit gives place to a handsome platform. All the aisles are nicely matted. The whole building is lighted at night with the new Canadian gas machine, some eighty-four burners being placed in different parts of the edifice. The cost of the gas apparatus was $650. Down stairs is a large airy lecture room with several class rooms on the east side. A couple of pleasant vestry rooms are situated under the choir gallery upstairs, immediately in rear of the pulpit. A new organ at a cost of $800 occupies the gallery in the rear of the pulpit. Those who have seen the edifice pronounce it the most handsome and commodious village church of the connection in the Province.

PLEASING TESTIMONY!

No greater or more convincing proof of his customers' approval, is required by any business man, than the following facts:—

1st.—That those who did business with me ten years ago, do business with me still.
2nd.—That in ten years business experience no serious complaint has ever been heard from a customer.
3rd.—That my customers have no hesitation in recommending their friends.
4th.—That every year my business showed steady increase.
5th.—That at the present moment I employ more hands, carry a larger stock, and sell more goods than at any former period in my experience.

WHY?

1st. Because I have ALWAYS kept reliable goods.
2nd.—Because I have ALWAYS sold at a small margin of profit.
3rd.—Because I have ALWAYS kept faith with my customers.
4th.—Because I have ALWAYS turned out all work with promptitude and despatch.
5th.—Because I have ALWAYS kept none but SKILLED WORKMEN.
As it has been in the PAST, so shall it be in the FUTURE.

AT PRESENT MY STOCK EMBRACES

Harness of every description, Horse Blankets (500 to select from), Buggy Rugs, Whips, Combs, Brushes, Harness Oil and Varnish.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. He shuns preying upon the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to realize short profits by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall sheds, orders from a mill guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE:—Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

The Restored Church of St. John.

The Opening Services—Sermon by the Bishop—Description of the Church

All Saints' Day, November 1st, the time appointed for holding the opening services of the restored church of St. John, the Evangelist, broke beautifully bright and clear. The sky was without a cloud, and the sun shone in his strength, chastened only by the soft autumnal haze that wrapped the earth. All nature was bright, and to those most deeply interested in the occasion, all nature seemed to smile in benediction on the solemn occasion.

The restored church, as we have before remarked in these columns, presents such a marked metamorphosis that a citizen, whose eye had been accustomed to the original rather dingy edifice with its ivy-clasped tower and air of venerable decrepitude, would not, after an absence of a year or so, recognize the really splendid news tructure, as the old church built seventy years ago. The stone-work of the wall has been repaired and pointed. The chancel is an the buttresses are built de novo, and in the river aspect of the tower a magnificent new cut stone doorway has been placed that adds greatly to the beauty of the exterior of the building.

Within, the change has been equally marked. The galleries have been removed and almost every feature has been replaced. The style of the architecture is the later period of the Gothic.

THE ARCHED ROOF

is entirely new, and consists of panels of oiled pine, divided by moulded ribbings. The roofs, both of the nave and side aisles are of the like material similarly treated. The side walls are finished in pointed stone work finished below with a maroon dado surrounding the church.

The seats are of oiled pine with elaborately carved and ornamented oak ends finished with columns of turned oak; they are low, broad, well apart and very comfortable to sit in. They are divided by partitions down the middle between the centre and side aisles. From the capitals of the pillars that separate the nave from the side aisles, spring gothic arches finished in imitation stone work.

THE CHANCEL

is finished as to the roof in the same style as that of the body of the church. The walls are finished in stone work and a skirting of wainscot of oiled ash, surrounds the base. Over the wainscoting of the altar wall, is a back ground of ultramarine blue, divided into square tiling, by bands of dead black overlaid by broad lines of gold. The centres of the tiles are finished with ecclesiastical ornaments in gold. The chancel contains an elegant and elaborately carved gothic rail to the altar; the altar cloth is a magnificent piece of furniture the gift of the ladies of St. John's Guild, Toronto. The chancel is divided from the church proper by a low cut stone balustrade, that is to be surmounted with a magnificent rood screen in bronze.

THE NEW STAINED GLASS WINDOWS, are a magnificent improvement; the light filtering through the many colored panes, touches the interior with gorgeous, kaleidoscopic effects, and yet, subdued by the medium through which it passes, fills the sacred edifice with the dim religious light, befitting the hallowed surroundings.

The chancel windows are in triplicate, the central bearing a figure of St. John the Evangelist, with his emblem, the eagle at his feet. The window to the right of this displays the words "The Lord shall be thine everlasting light" and its opposite fellow, the text "The Lord is King forever and ever." The two side windows of the chancel show rich representations of the communion chalice and the baptismal font.

The walls of the eastern side of the church contain three of exquisite beauty of design and execution, erected in the order following:

By Catharine Beck to the memory of her father and mother.

By his widow and children to the memory of George Edward Shaw.

By Charlotte Pelham Roche to the memory of her parents.

Over the porch entrance to the church is placed the fourth memorial window—"Erected by the ladies of the congregation to the memory of Arthur Romeyn Beck, lieutenant in the Royal Navy, lost with the crew of H.M.S., Atalanta in February 1880."

THE NEW ORGAN

which arrived about a month ago, has been placed in position. It is a superb piece of musical mechanism and occupies a space, to the left of the chancel, fourteen by fifteen feet in area and twenty feet in height. The front fills the large gothic arch opening on the space within the altar rails. Its material is white oak of a style to correspond with the architecture of the church richly carved; the exposed pipes are finished in blue flock with ornaments in gold. The weight of of the organ is five tons and its cost was $2,750. It is of grand tone and capacity. There are twenty-one stops and 1,004 pipes. It was manufactured by Messrs. S. R. Warren & Son, Toronto.

The furnishings of the church are all in keeping. The aisles are laid with bordered matting, and the chancel and altar steps with rich, sober figured maroon brussels carpet. The inner doors of the porch and of the chancel entrance are covered with maroon baize, and hung on double acting hinges. To Mr.

J. B. BELCHER, THE ARCHITECT, belongs the credit of having brought such beautiful order out of chaos, and to the completeness of his plans and the care and fidelity with which he has superintended their execution, are chiefly due the magnificent church, which for the first time on Wednesday last was opened for the services of the Church.

In the morning at eight o'clock there was an early celebration of the Holy Communion, Rev. Mr. Beck, Rector, celebrant, at which there was a very large number of communicants.

Then followed matins at eleven o'clock and celebration of the holy communion at which the Bishop of the diocese was preacher and celebrant. The church was CROWDED TO THE VERY DOORS.

The only attempts at decorstion were the disposition of flowers, and very effective and beautiful they were. The baptismal font to the left of the door was filled with a mass of flowers and wreathed with evergreens, relieved with clusters of rowan berries. The rood screen balustrade supported pots of magnificent blooming chrysanthemums; the organ arch was filled with a mass of tastefully disposed bloom. Vases filled with bouquets of chrysanthemums adorned the altar which was also flanked with blooming masses of the same. Those who admired the beauty of the floral decorations—and that includes all who saw them—will be interested in knowing that they owe the pleasure derived from them to the taste and personal liberality of Messrs. Harry Long and A. P. Poussette.

As the bell ceased ringing, the organ pealed forth the measured and majestic tones of the Austrian national air, to which was sung the grand

PROCESSIONAL HYMN,

beginning—

Lift the strain of high thanksgiving,
Tread with songs the hallowed way.

Singing this, the procession, which consisted of the surpliced members of the choir, and the following clergymen entered the church and passing up the central aisle, took their places within the chancel:—

Rev. Mr. Vint, Bobcaygeon: Rev. Mr. Burke, Belleville; Rev. Mr. Farncomb, Lakefield; Archdeacon Wilson, Rev. Mr. Greenwood, England, Rev. Mr. Carey, Rev. Mr. Middleton, Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, St. Luke's; Rev. Mr. Harding, Apsley; Rev. Mr. Marsh, Keene, Rev. Dr. Smithett, Omemee; Rev. Mr. Cooper, Cambray; Rev. Mr. Ford, Woodbridge; Rev. Mr. McCleary, Rev. Mr. Squire, Gore's Landing; Rev. Mr. Soward, Kinmount; Rev. Dr. McNab, Bowmanville; Rev. Messrs. Allen and Foster, Millbrook; Rev. Mr. Clementi and Rev. Mr. Beck, Rector of the Parish, and the Bishop.

After the usual matin services, in which the visiting clergymen assisted, His Lordship announced as the text of the tenth verse of the first chapter of Haggai—"The glory of this latter house shall be grater than of the former, saith the Lord, my God."

THE SERMON,

A brief and graphic sketch of the labors of the prophet to awaken the people from their apathy in regard to the building of the temple was given and his zeal applauded in persisting in the face of repeated relapses and failures.

It was pointed out that though the outward and visible magnificence of the restored temple bore no comparison to that of Solomon, yet the latter possessed more fully in fact what the other enjoyed only symbolically, the invisible indwelling of God's spirit. The Shekinah, the shadow, gave way to the substance, the actual presence of the Most High.

This implied increase of spiritual knowledge, had a more extended application to later times. The house in which they were worshipping was a literal fulfillment of the text and the day should be one of rejoicing to the congregation. The transformation is wonderful, and a matter of great congratulation. The church was fit and seemly for the worship of God. The preacher wished that it would lead to a higher life, in the discovery of fresh experiences of the presence of Christ, and that the congregation would truly have cause to appropriate the words of the text. He was glad to know that there was no burden of debt of any moment on church. What was done had been done by the congregation.

After eloquently referring to the grandeur of English Church architecture, which was worthily imitated in Canada, the learned Bishop went on to show that grander than all was the greater glory of the presence of God in the services of the Church and the hearts of the people. Every church would be cold and barren without the presence of Christ. His lordship concluded an eloquence, timely and fitting discourse, by graphically painting the time when the glory of the church on earth should be merged in the eternal glory of the church triumphant.

THE MUSIC.

It would be unfair not to speak in terms of the warmest commendation of the excellence of the musical portion of the services. The choir have only been together a short time, yet Mr. Ewing deserves the greatest credit for the gratifying success that has followed his training. Particularly worthy of mention are the Te Deum, composed in the Gregorian style, expressly for this occasion, by Mr. Ewing, which was grandly beautiful and rendered with good judgment and effect, and the grand and stirring hymn, 317, sung after the Nicene creed.

EVENSONG.

In the evening, the church was again crowded. After the evening services were concluded, during which the choir rendered in beautiful style Dr. Bunnet's Magnificat, Rev. J. W. Burke, of Belleville, preached the sermon in his usual, eloquent manner.

Altogether, the Rector, congregation and all concerned have reason to be deeply gratified with the services of the day and to be proud of possessing one of the finest rural churches in the Dominion.

The County Ploughing Match.

The Ploughmen "Herald" the Judges' Opinions and "Handle" their "share" of the Prizes—The Face of Mother Earth "Furrowed" with Care—The Prize List—The Judges—A Husbandman's Handsome Hospitality.

The county ploughing match took place on Wednesday last, on the farm of Mr. John Breakenridge, of Westwood. The competition took place under the auspices of the East and West Riding Agricultural Associations. The liberal subsidy granted by the County Council, and the open-handed generosity of several gentlemen interested in agriculture, made the prizes worth striving for and the competition was accordingly keen. The weather was beautiful, but the soil being dry, prevented the furrows turned from presenting as fine an appearance as if the ground had been in more plastic condition. As it was, the work done was excellent. Appended is

3rd, Andrew Brown, Cash	5 00

The judges recommended that the unawarded prize in class II. be awarded to the fourth in class III.

There were eleven entries in class I., five entries in class II., four in class III. and four in class IV.

Messrs. Stapleton, Benson, William Rutherford and Joshua Smithson filled skilfully and satisfactorily the difficult position of judges.

The judges, committee and competitors were gracefully made indebted to Mr. Breakenridge as recipients for the open-handed hospitality, for which he is so well known everywhere.

IS A FROGGY A FISH?

Here is Sir Tilley's chance—his "missing link."—He has taxed everything that he can think of except the toothsome batrachian. Of coarse it would make no difference to the frog or to the industry, seeing that frogs are not imported from the United States, but bless you that makes no difference to Sir Leonard. Besides that monument of fiscal idiocy, the duty on course wool is lonesome, and a duty on frogs would be a suitable companion "fraud." And it would benefit the farmers equally with the duty on grain, and would earn their eternal gratitude. A Washington lettter says:

"An important omission has been discovered in the famous treaty of Washington which threatens to effect seriously an important American industry by leaving it unprotected, and may cause our Government to loose thousands of dollars on duties which would otherwise have been collected. The demand for frogs as an article of food in cities has increased so largely of late that the domestic supply has been found insufficient. A brisk trade in these amphibious animals has sprung up with Canada, and large numbers are being shipped across the border to American dealers. The action of certain Customs collecters, however, threatens to put an end to this traffic if their rulings are sustained by the Treasury Department. Under the provisions of the treaty of Washington fish caught in Canadian waters have been admitted to the United states free of Duty. The Canadian dealers insist that frogs are fish, and therefore exempt; the American Customs officers object to this classification, and hold that fish were never known to have feet, while the subject of dispute has four. To this the Canadians reply, that if frogs are not fish they are certainly not animals nor birds, and cannot be subjected to classification for duty. The matter has been referred to the Treasury Department for a decision, but it is not expected that Secretary Folger will attempt to give an opinion until after the election—probably not then, for fear of foreign complications—and the matter will probably be referred to the State Department."

One resolution adopted by the Presbyterian Synod, at Utica, N. Y., is worthy of adoption by other denominations than the Presbyterian, and its suggestions may be followed with profit by men of all creeds. The Synod advises all members of the Presbyterian Church to avoid all those financial and social entanglements which endanger their good name and may bring the profession of religion into suspicion and disrepute, "that it may be known unto all men that the Church regards the virtue s of honesty between man and man, and personal integrity and purity, as the necessary accompaniments and fruits of the life of good in the human soul;" and it exhorts its ministers and people to be faithful and vigilant in making their influence felt for the elevation and purification of the morals of the whole community. This is good advice for any one.

Even the chief Tory organ puts its foot in it sometimes. A few days ago it referred to the Minister of Education as the "unsanctified ass of the Education Department." Now it pleasantly refers to him as "Brother Crooks." Is it because the Tory organist really believes the Minister to be an unsanctified ass that he feelingly refers to him as a brother.—Toronto Telegram.

PETEBBOROUGH, NOV. 2, 1882.

"Small Fry" Journals.

Provincial journalism, in contradistinction to city or metropolitan journalism, is making rapid strides and is forcing its importance to the front by dint of increased enterprise, founded on an increased recognition by the country of the important part played by country newspapers. City newspapers are all very well in their way, but they fall far short of meeting the demands of the country in the same way that their rural contemporaries do. The city paper comes amongst the people but it is not of them; bat their country confreres are looked upon by their readers in a sort of friendly proprietary light. They speak of the country paper as "our" paper, and from having come to recognize its importance they extend it a more liberal patronage, thus indirecty extending its sphere of influence and usefulness. They look upon the city paper as a luxury, and on the country paper as a necessity. It is no wonder, therefore, that the forward strides made by the country press has awakened, to a certain extent the jealousy of the metropolitan press, and it is no wonder either to hear the Mail, which seems to have lost its head and to be running amuck of everything and everybody, relieving its spleen by disparaging remarks on the "small fry journals" and the Hamilton Times takes it to task in this lively style, and though championing papers of its own class, it indirectly champions the cause of the country papers:—

"As the tool of a corrupt and ambitious political trickster, the editor of the Mail may be all that his owner can desire. as a journalist he is a dead failure, for the reason that he is too fond of writing about himself; his articles are not intended to convince the people but to let them see how much the author knows. Such a "hand" couldn't get a position on a "small fry journal," like the Hamilton Spectator or Times, the London Free Press or Advertiser, the Ottawa Citizen or Free Press, unless he would begin at washing rollers and work up, gathering sense by the way. Like all readymade editors he overestimates his own powers; he mistakes sound for argument; he is ready at ten minutes' notice to boss a convention, blackguard a Cabinet Minister, criticise a College President's English, or fight an Archbishop. His motives are "pure," his aims "lofty"—but what does the public know or care about him or his aims or motives?—his egotism is intense, his cheek unbounded, his impudence insufferable. The Mail might be a great party organ; now it is a weak personal organ, but if the Conservative party can stand it the "small fry journals" have no reason to complain."

Don't Want a Change.

The London Advertiser, in a search after truth, directed circulars to many prominent clergymen concerning the operation of the Crooks Act, and amongst others received the subjoined replies to the following question:—

"Do you desire to see the issuing of liquor licenses placed again in the hands of the Municipal Councils?"

Rev. Principal Caven, Toronto:—

"No. Neither on general grounds, nor in view of results, would I desire this to be done."

Rev. H. D. Hunter:—

"No, never, but License Commissioners should be selected, as nearly as may be, from both political parties."

Rev. R. N. Grant:

"I believe the Crooks Act a most beneficial law, and would regard its repeal as a disaster."

Rev. E. Rainsford, Toronto:—

"Heaven forbid! The result would be a nation of drunkards, and the creation of a saloon keeper's municipal and political ring, and the appointment of the most worthless characters in the community as (1) saloon keepers, (2) aldermen and mayors, (3) M. P. P.'s and (4) M. P.'s.

Rev. W. Williams:—

"No; nor in any other hands."

These replies furnish a significant answer to the argument originated by Sir John and Hon. Mr. Carling that the Crooks act should, in the interest of temperance, be modified so as to take the licensing power from the hands of the Government, and restore it to the municipalities.

Notes of the Day.

The Reformers of North Perth have formed a Liberal club.

Hon. Mr. Gladstone has introduced into the Imperial Parliament a bill to amend the law in relation to contempt of Court, and it is considered a severe reproof to Judge Lawson for his high-handed and excessive action in the Dwyer Gray case.

It appears that the papers in the protest against the return of Sir John A. Macdonald for Lennox have been properly filed in the proper court. Mr. Deroche, M. P. P., stated that there was strong reason tob elieve that the charges of corrupt practices made in the petitions would be brought home to Sir John.

There is no doubt that the Canada Pacific Syndicate, will build four new steamers to be placed on the Lake Superior route, to run between Algoma mills and Prince Arthur's Landing, and the vessels will be of the ocean type, of steel, swift, and powerful enough to resist the strongest gale of the lakes, thus "steering clear" of the many lamentable disasters that have made our upper lakes notorious for the past few years. The bulwarks of the vessels will form the railings of the cabin deck, sitting low in the water, with two or perhaps three masts, and without the high toppling pilot house of the usual lake pattern. These vessels will be built on the Clyde, Scotland, subsequently transported in sections, and if the Yankee moiety of the Syndicate will consent, be put together in Canada.

The Battle of Tel-el-Kebir did not settle the inquietude of Egypt. The turbulent and half-civilized tribes of Upper Egypt taking advantage of the perturbed and distracted state of the country have gotten up a little revolt of their own. Slave dealing is a thriving and profitable industry amongst these tribes and hearing that, the English whose hostility to the inhuman traffic is known the world over, had secured the ascendency in the councils of the Khedive, they have seized on the present opportunity to assert their independence, not only of the authority of the Khedive, but of the ordinary restraints of civilization. It will therefore be seen that the British have, besides hanging Arabi Pasha,—considerable to do before the pacification of Egypt can be said to be accomplished.

Pennsylvania Quakers are preparing for something like an apotheosis of William Penn, and the Toronto World denies that the great Quaker was the friend of mankind, but rather the friend of William Penn. It says: "By hanging for "years about one of the most profligate "courts in the world, by judicious flatter-"ry to royal concubines, by fawning on a "dissolute king, Penn obtained what that "king had no right whatever to grant, a "vast tract of country in America. As "to Penn's purchase of the land from its "Indian proprietors, that this is mere "pretence and fraud, is shown by the fact "that the Penn family ou the authority "not of the Indian purchase, but of the "grant from Charles II, exercised a little "less than royal authority over Pennsyl-"vania till the time of the revolution. "Penn was a good administrator and a "wise pioneer of settlement. We do not "wish to hurt the feelings of those who "regard him as a saint, but we cannot "forget the facts of history."

The Mormons of course, and others in the United States, where a lax moral tone too much pervades society, deny the religious sanctity of the marriage ceremony and give out the opinion that it is merely and purely a civil question, like any business contract. This is going a little too far. This granted the voiding of the marriage tie on the ground of breach of contract as in other contracts follows, and the evils of wholesale and indiscriminate divorce ensue. Every act that goes to weaken the connubial bond, promotes a state, which if it become general would sap the moral sub-structure of society. While the Bible is believed in, the marriage relation will consist of those "whom God has joined together," an act which the civil authorities do not pretend to be entitled to perform. To remove the religious element from the marriage relation is to bring about a most mischievous innovation. It is to be expected that the lecherous Mormon would be in favor of it, but that civilized Christians should be is indeed a surprise.

The Syndicate organs may deny the extortionate freight charges of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and, as did our local contemporary, publish meek looking schedules of freight charges, yet the disgusting and shameful fact remains that grinding overcharges are made. For example, according to facts furnished by one of the leading shippers and receivers St. Thomas, Ont., and a prominent Conservative, the freight rates from St. Thomas to Chicago during the season were 30 cents per hundred pounds; from Chicago to St. Paul 23 cents, and from St. Paul to Winnipeg $1.23 (!) per hundred. The extortionate nature of the latter charge is disgracefully apparent, for the distance from St. Paul to Winnipeg is less than half the whole distance from St. Thomas to Winnipeg, while the charges are over two thirds of the whole rates from St. Thomas to Winnipeg. Commenting on these figures the St. Thomas Journal says:—"The extortion is practised by the Syndicate road, which is by the enactment of the Dominion Government, the only line allowed to enter Manitoba. They are "hogging" their privileges with a vengeance and the public are made to suffer So much for monopoly in the North-West."

TESTIMONIAL TO HON. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.

HANDSOME TRIBUTE BY HIS OLD CONSTITUENTS.

It is rare indeed, says the Globe, that any statesman, however eminent his rank or distinguished his career, received such a signal mark of esteem and friendship as was presented to the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, M.P., at his residence by a deputation from his former constituency of Lambton. The presentation consisted of a highly complimentary address and a cheque for $5,500, which was presented by the following deputation:—Mr. Fairbanks, M. P. for East Lambton; Mr. Leys, Sarnia; Mr. Hugh Mackenzie, President of East Lambton Reform Association, Warwick; and Mr. Albin Rawlings, Forest. A number of ladies and gentlemen were also present upon the occasion to welcome the visitors, and also to evince their esteem for the distinguished recipient of such a signal and unexampled mark of respect and friendship.

Hon. Mr. Mowat took the chair, and the following presentation address was then read by Mr. Fairbanks:

To the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie:

Dear Sir,—It is not only the pleasure of the members of this deputation, but by the order of your old constituents of Lambton that we are their messengers to you to-day. The causes leading to their present action have run through many years.

You, sir, the grandson of that accomplished Gaelic scholar and pronounced Liberal in politics, Malcolm Mackenzie, and the son of Alexander and Mary Mackenzie, could hardly have been other than a Liberal in Scotland and a Reformer in Canada. You imbibed these principles with your earliest food, you inhaled them with your first breath; your matured judgment confirmed and intensified the lessons of your youth and you became a life-long opponent to class legislation. The pure air of the Highlands—natural beauty of your native Perthshire could not retain you; there was work—hard work—for you, and it was to be performed in Canada. Thirty years have passed since you became one of our early settlers in what is now the county of Lambton. Here you were brought in close contract with those whose part is to convert the dense forest in to the fruitful field. Here you became familiar with the habit of thought in a new country, and have ever remained in sympathy with its self-reliance, its love of liberty and equal rights. The spirit of pure patriotism and true manhood which you have practised and taught—which has made noble your career—has entered into the character of our people, is recorded of you in the journals of Parliament, and stamped by you upon the statutes of Canada. Political opponents cannot erase, and dare not repeal it.

While you have been limited in your undertakings to the use of such means only as were sanctioned by your acute sense of right, you have accomplished an amount of work which should satisfy even you, and has assured to you the lasting gratitude of your adopted country. From the position of a private in the political ranks to that of commander-in-chief you have served her faithfully and well.

After having represented Lambton in Parliament for nearly a quarter of a century and made her proud of you, that unseen finger which traces in the sands of time the line which is to be worn into the channel of our life indicted that you were to remain exclusively hers no longer. We deeply regretted this, but rejoiced that the relation had existed so long and so intimately that the name of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie and his Lambton constituency must go down in history together.

It was the wish of your constituents that this partial separation should not take place in silence, and they now beg you to accept this purse as a slight testimonial of the esteem in which they hold you as a statesman and the love they bear you as a man. It is their earnest hope that you, in speedily restored health, and Mrs. Mackenzie, who has so gracefully and so well performed the duties devolving upon the wife of a public man, may be long preserved to continue the lessons you so well have taught, and enjoy the affections of your many very warm friends.

J. H. Fairbanks,
Hugh McKenzie,
Albin Rawlings,
George Leys,
} Deputation.

Oct. 9th, 1882.

Following the reading of the address, Mr. Leys, Mr. Rawlings, and Mr. Mackenzie, of the deputation, spoke in terms of the highest praise and commendation of the distinguished gentleman, who had represented their interests with such credit to himself and honor to his constituents.

MR. MACKENZIE'S ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Mr. Chairman and Gentleman of the Deputation,—I need hardly say how deeply I appreciate the kindness which has been manifested by my old constituents in sending by your hands such an address, and such a parting recognition of our long connection as constituents and representative as your testimonial, unprecedented in character and value. It was not without pain and regret that I concluded to sever a connection which had existed for over twenty-one years, during which time I had the pleasure of the friendship of thousands of the people of Lambton. Thirty-five years have passed since I first removed to the county of Lambton. There some of the most important events of my life occurred, and there I sought to influence public opinion in favor of the political views I held, with more or less success. I had the pleasure there of taking a very humble share in the electoral struggle of 1847; the first election held after Lord Metcalfe's attempt to fasten a reactionary policy upon the country. Four years afterwards I had the enhanced pleasure of taking a more active part in the first election of our late lamented friend, the Hon. George Brown, then in opposition to a nominally Reform Administration. Since that time vast changes have taken place in the constitutional history of the country, and equally great changes have been seen in the positions and character of many Canadian public men. The people of this generation have little conception of the toil and wear involved in the then agitation for the acquisition of public rights by the public men who sought to direct public opinion into the right channel. Comparatively few remember the desperate attempts to fasten upon the country the encumbrance of a State Church, though all now rejoice to know that we escaped that clog to our prosperity and the heart-buruings which inevitably accompany any attempt at class legislation, especially that of giving any demonination an advantage over others. We are now enabled to rejoice that such attempts have ceased, and ceased for ever, and that as a consequence all Christian denominations in Canada are enjoying peace and prosperity. Lambton through all these struggles maintained a firm attitude on the popular side, and by an almost uninterrupted course of opposition by her representative to the Government of the day showed that the constituency would be found on the right side while a wrong remained unredressed. It is undoubtedly a trying position for a county to remain so long in active hostility to the Government, and I always felt grateful for the firm and generous support I received at a time when I might have been in the Government, and when the representative of a miserable minority dispensed the Government patronage. So far as the comfort of a member of Parliament is conerned, it is better to be in opposition; but it is the duty of every man to seek to control the legislation of the day, even if he should sacrifice himself, to give effect to the principles he professes; and that can only be done by securing the administration of affairs. The untiring efforts of Lambton and other no less noble constituencies won for Canada her present system and principles of government, but I regret to have to add that work yet remains to be done to retain intact what the Liberal party struggled so long to conquer. The dominant power in the country, the Dominion Government, has deliberately engaged in a desparate effort to ruin our Federal system by unprincipled attacks on the autonomy of the Provinces. Ontario is selected as the principal battlefield. Our undoubted right to legislate is practically denied by abuse of the veto power. Attempts are made to narrow our boundaries, and a settlement of our territorial limits, reached after a laborious investigation by eminent public men, is ruthlessly interfered with at the bidding of the dominant party in Quebec. Lambton and sister constituencies will soon be called upon to say whether this unjust, I might say infamous, policy of Sir John Macdonald will be successful. The success of Confederation depends on our defeating him and sustaining the Government of Mr. Mowat, a Government which has not only sustained in a dignified manner the rights of the province and the just settlement of the Boundary question, but has wisely conducted the administration of affairs generally. Hard words and offensive epithets, though found in the utterances of a Dominion Premier towards the Premier of Ontario, will not avail against a roused public feeling, and I feel glad to say I shall be delighted to again take up the gage of battle for Provincial rights. I thank you for so kindly associating my name with the county of Lambton as you do. I rejoiced to know that my judgment was right when I expressed the opinion that Lambton would return true Reformers, though I should accept a nomination elsewhere. In Messrs Fairbanks and Lister the county is nobly represented. I shall ever cherish the warmest feelings towards my old county, while serving East York to the extent of my ability. The member of East York in the Local House is present with us to-night, and I gladly mention his successful efforts at the late election on my behalf. We have also present with us several gentlemen who were not so successful, but who equally deserved success, because of their constant labors for the Reform cause. I accept the testimonial you have been so kind as to bring from my late constituents, as the crowning act of their regard for what little political labour I have been able to achieve. I shall never forget the pleasant intercourse, social and political, which for the third part of a century I have been privileged to hold with the people of Lambton. Many, very many, of those who were for years associated with me have passed away, but their mantles have fallen on other shoulders, and the county more than holds its old place among the Reform constituencies of Ontario, and in the matter of material improvement, and prosperity. I am greatly obliged to the ladies and gentlemen who have met us to-night to receive you in Toronto, and thus aided us in spending a pleasant evening, whil recalling some past events. On Mrs. Mackenzie's behalf I thank you most warmly for your kindly references to her, and your acknowledgement of the manner in which she discharged the duties for some years devolving upon her.

THE BIBLE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A deputation representing the Church of England, the Presbyterian Church, and the Methodist Church of Canada, waited upon the Hon. Mr. Mowat at the Parliament Buildings on Tuesday afternoon, and urged the making of the Bible a text-book in the Public Schools. The deputation comprised:—Anglican Church — Bishop Hellmuth, Rev. G. B. Kirkpatrick, Rev. J. Middleton, Rev. J. P. Lewis, Rev. W. S. Rainsford, Rev Canon Belt, Mr. W. Pettit (Niagara), Rev. John Langtry Rev. Canon Dixon, and Hon. G. W. Allan. Methodist Church of Canada—Rev. Dr. Nelles, Rev. Dr. Sanderson, Rev. W. Williams (President of the London Conference), and Dr. Withrow (in place of Rev. Dr. Sutherland, President of Toronto Conference, who was unavoidably absent). Presbyterian Church—Rev Dr. Cochrane (Moderator of the General Assembly), Rev. Walter Inglis, Ayr (Moderator Synod of Hamilton and London), Rev. John Laing (Dundas), Dr Macdonald (Hamilton), Rev. Messrs J. Smith, J. M. Cameron, W. T. McMullen, John Thompson, P. McF, McLeod, G. M. Milligan, Robt. Wallace, and Mr. James Brown.

The resolution agreed upon by the deputation was read as follows:—

"That this Conference pledges itself to press upon the Attorney-General the making of the reading of Holy Scripture by the children and teachers, together with the prescribed prayers issued by the Department, an obligatory exercise at the opening of the Public Schools of Ontario, the passages of Holy Scripture to be read each day being prescribed by the Department in conformity with the recommendation of the Committee of this Conference, or some other representatives of the various Churches of Ontario, regard being had in all cases to the provisions of the Consolidated Public Schools Act Vic 37 Cap. 28, sec. 142, providing that any parent who has conscientious objection shall be entitled to withdraw the child from such instruction; and that this Conference press upon the Government the necessity for a return to the Scriptural and moral instruction contained in the first series of national readers issued by the Education Department for use in the Public Schools of Ontario, or of some similar Scriptural instruction."

The Bishop of Huron, Rev. Messrs. McMullen, Smith, Cochrane, Nelles, Belt, Laing, and others spoke in support of the resolution.

The premier spoke at some length, and said the resolution passed by the deputation should receive the earnest consideration of the Government. The resolution asking for the reading of the Holy Scriptures, together with the prayers authorized by the Department, was a reasonable request. He also pointed out that under the present regulations religious instruction could be given by the ministers of the various denominations to the children in the schools after schools hours.

One Experience from Many.—I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother. 44-2t

PLEASING TESTIMONY!

No greater or more convincing proof of his customers' approval, is required by any business man, than the following facts:—

1st.—That those who did business with me ten years ago, do business with me still.
2nd.—That in ten years business experience no serious complaint has ever been heard from a customer.
3rd.—That my customers have no hesitation in recommending their friends.
4th. That every year my business showed steady increase.
5th.—That at the present moment I employ more hands, carry a larger stock, and sell more goods than at any former period in my experience.

WHY?

1st.—Because I have ALWAYS kept reliable goods.
2nd.—Because I have ALWAYS sold at a small margin of profit.
3rd.—Because I have ALWAYS kept faith with my customers.
4th.—Because I have ALWAYS turned out all work with promptitude and despatch.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

DARLINGFORD Man., Oct. 16.

I left off my last communication somewhat suddenly; but I will now resume and give a brief account of south-western Manitoba, west of here. Leaving Darlingford the next stopping place is Pembina Crossing, situate on the Big Pembina river, a very pretty stream, flowing through the beautiful, rich and fertile valley bearing its name. This place, like all other flavlets in the North West, is surveyed as a town; and, to quote the words of parties interested,

"IT BOUND TO BE A PLACE."

Be that as it may, it is most beautifully situated and bears a very picturesque appearance and is decidedly a handsome place—its beauty pleading hard for its future progressiveness. The mountains, which rise on either side of the valley to a great height, are at this season of the year covered with varying shades of foliage, and as your correspondent stood surveying nature's beauties, he could not help exclaiming, with much enthusiasm, that it was indeed an artist's paradise. The valley extends from the Souris to Red River, and it is the opinion of all who have travelled through it that it was at one time the bed of a mighty stream. Some persons who have explored it are emphatic in the statement that it was years ago the course of the Souris river, which by an overflow found its present runway. At the crossing we had the pleasure of a visit to the splendid flour mills, owned and operated by a

MR. WATSON.

This gentleman, who has been very successful as a building contractor in Winnipeg, has lately moved with his family to the Crossing, where, he informed me, he intended to remain, having become tired of city life, and being anxious to push forward the future of the valley town. To the north and north-east of the Crossing lie Archibald, St. Leon, Norquay and Beaconsfield. Archibald lots have been on on the market and I have a dim recollection of their selling well. In a conversation with the proprietor of the town (?), whose store, post-office and residence are all combined in a rather meagre log building, and which is the only building to be seen on the town site—he informed me that he made quite a large pile by selling town lots, but as the place was never going to amount to anything, he intended removing to Manitoba City, the terminus for the present of the C. P. R. south-western branch. Said city has not as yet one single building on its site. Archibald is a single instance of the many bogus towns brought upon the market during the great land boom, and its many victims may make up their minds to the fact of having been badly taken in. St. Leon is, as its name implies, a French settlement, and is a

VERY SUBSTANTIAL CONTRADICTION

to the general theory that the French-Canadians are a slow, plodding race. Although its railway prospects are none of the best, yet the founder of the place, M. Mesmer, has by his great business enterprise, made it one of the most progressive places in south-western Manitoba. This gentleman some years ago pushed his way into this section and opened a store in a little log building on the present site of St. Leon. Last summer there were only about a dozen buildings in the place. Now, however, it is quite town-like, there being between 80 and 90 buildings, including a large and well equipped saw and grist mill, owned and operated by M. Mesmer, who very obligingly showed your correspondent all over the premises, which contained every modern appliance for turning out work. This gentleman has also in construction what will prove to be the largest store west of Emerson, which along with other buildings in course of construction gave me a very favourable impression of this French settlement. To the north of St. Leon are Norquay and Beaconsfield, places which will never increase to a much greater size than they are at present. At the first named place your correspondent had the pleasure of meeting for may years residents of the township of Douro, and well known in Peterborough. These gentlemen are engaged in tilling the soil, and are loud in their praise of the productiveness of Manitoba mud. Returning again to the Crossing, business made me verge off the Commission Trail and after a delightful drive south to the International Boundary along a trail overlooking the valley. I passed west through 1-8 and 1-9, and very fine townships they are. The settlers seem prosperous, and when they get these fine farms under cultivation riches cannot help but follow. I could not help comparing a squatter here and these, with the fairly well settled townships on the Canadian side, and in a very favourable light indeed did the comparison show the progress of Canada. Regaining the main trail near Star Mound, I very soon branch off again for Pilot Mound, passing through on the way. As a great many readers of THE EXAMINER are interested in the last named place, I may state for their information, and I do so in the words of one of the original proprietors, "It ain't worth a cent—in fact N. G." Pilot Mound, so called from the very pretty mound which rises from the almost level prairie, and which, when the land was in the full possession of the noble red man (if poets and story writers had but seen the greasy and thievish heroes (?) as they really are, I do not think we would hear so much about their nobleness) was a recognized rendezvous for holding council meetings and exhibiting their adroitness in performing the war dance of their tribe to the soul-inspiring music of a species of tambourine medley, made from the hide of a buffalo. But alas for the poor Injun when the place was opened up for settlement. Mr. James Frazer, better known as came into possession of the place and the red men had to "git." And now on the spot where once was smoked the pipe at the council fire and where the savage orators aired themselves after the fashion of the ward politicians of Peterborough, now stands the flourishing village of Pilot Mound, and which is acknowledged by all who have seen it to be the prettiest town site in the province. Although Pilot Mound is a grand town site as far as nature is concerned, I believe its greatness will cease here. Its future hopes are based on a survey made through that place by the C. P. R. South Western branch, but I was the other day informed by a leading official of that road that he was certain there was not the ghost of a chance for Pilot Mound getting the road, as they would have to go a considerable distance out of their way to run in there. When I inquired why the survey had been made he and informed me that surveys were often made for mere speculative purposes, and at the expense of town site proprietors. Of course he did not say that the survey was in this case made at the expense of Mr. Frazer, but your readers can draw their own conclusions. My reason for giving this state- ment publicity is not to injure Pilot Mound in the eyes of the world, but that those in Peterborough who intend investing their surplus capital in Manitoba town lots may know how it comes about that every town has a line of railway surveyed through it. Passing back once more to the Commission Trail, the next town I come to is owned by Mr. Thos. Greenway M. P. P., who is showing commendable enterprise in pushing forward the interests of the place. As this town was on the market in Peterborough, and many of your citizens having invested in lots, I may state for their knowledge, that although Crystal City was at that time considerably cried down, their investment may yet turn out (if their lots are not three or four miles from the centre of the town) to have been well made. The Syndicate's south western branch is certain to pass through here, although perhaps not for a year or two. The before mentioned official informed me that although the road would ultimately run through Crystal City, yet he did not believe it would be operated any further than Manitoba City for some time to come, as the company had all they could do to procure iron for the main line at the rapid rate they were now building, and that they would not have pushed forward the branch this season had it not been that the bonus they were getting for its completion to Manitoba City expired on the 1st of November, and that they could not obtain an extension of time. It will thus be seen that investors in Crystal City will not lose much if they gain nothing.

MESSRS. JOHN AND CHARLES ROBERTS,

UNSURVEYED DAKOTA,

SILVER SPRINGS

PILOT MOUND FRAZER,

WUNK A WINK AND SMOLED A SMILE

I will for the present draw to a close so far as my trip west goes, and let you know how this section of the country is for farming purposes, and the method in which it is cultivated. The land all through this portion of Manitoba is and roots, and it would gladden the eyes of any agriculturist to have had a view of the waving fields of yellow grain, as it stood ready for the reaper. Oats have been the chief crop this year, as the past experience of settlers has demonstrated the fact that the cost of getting wheat to Emerson, the market, eats up far more than the profits, while they have a good home market for oats—in some cases as much as $2.00 per bushel have been paid. I cannot say as much for the farmers as I can for the land, and I speak of the large majority when I say that they are a very lazy and thriftless class. A great many of them are the no'er-do-weel class who have lost their farms in Ontario through mortgage sales and who have come here to better their fortunes—there are very few people residing here for the good of their health. Others are brainless sons of wealthy Ontario farmers, who after being sent to the High Schools for years with the intention of becoming lawyers, doctors and clergymen, their parents having concluded that it was a costly piece of foolishness to send them longer, and the life they led while attending school having made them either too "tony" or lazy to work at home on the farm or become mechanics in the towns or cities, have come out here with the intention of acquiring wealth without any labor. Another specimen is the quite too, too English "blood" who after having taken up land goes about with his gun and dog—instead of manfully grasping the handles of the plow—until he awakes some day from his dream to find that he "haws'nt got a blawsted red." Then he has either to go as a navvy on the railway, or procure enough of the filthy lucre from his friends to take 'im back 'ome. Some are those who being engaged in other pursuits are just making enough improvements to procure the patent of their land at the end of three years, when they can sell out at at a nice figure and leave the country. While the real, genuine farmers are sadly in the minority, yet any person well acquainted with the country cannot but arrive at the conclusion that riches "galore" are in store for the hardworking and honest tillers of the soil when they get a good system of railway through the country. To give your readers an idea of harvesting as carried on here, I may state that farmers have had six weeks of good, dry weather to get their grain stacked, yet notwithstanding this there are at present enormous quantities of grain lying unbound in the fields, which was yesterday covered with a snowfall of about 4 or 5 inches. The only cause which can be assigned for this state of affairs is that the owners, instead of getting their grain stacked, have been engaged in shooting ducks and prairie chickens or "snifting" Manitoba tangle-leg. Enough at present from

MIDLAND DISTRICT DASHES.

The Cream of Occurrences Skimmed from Contemporary Columns.

NORWOOD.

A FAMILY, some of the members of which had the diphtheria, resolved to "move" into a house on a certain street some time ago. The "natives" in the vicinity of that particular house, however, objected and called on "Capt. Moonlight's gang" for assistance, the result of which, was that the owner was surprised, one morning, to find the dwelling minus windows and doors. The "diphtheria party" remained where they were.

COBOURG.

The schooner Mary brought in a load of oak timber for Crossen's car works last week.

Cobourg now has a Government life boat, and a paid crew. Happy Cobourg!

It is said that there will be a deficit of about $500 from the Cobourg central exhibition, which will have to be saddled on the several associations in the district.

The foot ball match on the Agricultural Grounds last Saturday, between the "Vics" and the Collegiate Institute team resulted in favour of the former by seven goals to none. The match was the first of the series for the championship of the Central Association.

On Wednesday of last week, Gustavus A. Kobold, of Rat Portage, Man., son of our respected townsman, Mr. L. Kobold, was united in marriage to one of Cobourg's fair daughters, Miss Helene Appleby, daughter of Mr. A. Appleby.

BELLEVILLE.

Mr. L. H. Henderson, of Belleville city, solicitor, enjoys the honor of having received the Masonic decoration of Knight Commander of the Temple, an order instituted by the Prince of Wales, and only conferred on those who have become distinguished by long and faithful services in the order.

A child named Wall, whilst playing near its parent's residence, Dundas street, last Thursday, was seized by an eagle which swooped down upon and seized the little one with its talons. The bird was unable to rise with its burden, and the child, making a loud outcry, made its way towards home, the eagle keeping its hold and beating the little one with its wings. An elder sister of the victim heard its cries and went to its assistance, and on her approach the bird took to flight. The child's injuries were not serious.

LINDSAY.

Messrs. Needler & Sadler's mill is temporarily shut down to allow of another set of new process rollers being placed.

The much talked of canoe race between James Adams, of Fenelon, and Wm. Walters, of this town, has been postponed by mutual consent until spring, it being impossible for these men to meet before the cold weather sets in

A large number of shanty hands passed through town on Wednesday bound to the lumbering districts to the north. They were under orders of "Ted" Cavanagh, of Peterborough. Many of them were engaged to work for the Messrs. Strickland in the limits, and the others to go into shanties north of Gravenhurst.

The Midland Railway will shortly issue a winter time-table and schedule of train arrangements. It is expected the link of roadway between Manilla and Wick will be in running order in about three weeks, and that the new arrangements will include the running of the Toronto trains over that route.

Mr. T. Bradburn, who has undertaken to enlarge the town hall, was in town this week, having just returned from Winnipeg, conferring with the members of the council's committee about going on with the work. He will return next week bringing his man with him, when the work will be commenced.

A large quantity of stone is being carried out to the front over the line of the Midland. A train of eighteen cars went south on Saturday. The material is to be used in building the abutments of bridges along portions of the line of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. The stone is taken from the quarries near Bobcaygeon, and brought on scows to Lindsay. A derrick or crane has been built at the wharf to facilitate handling the stone. Many of the slabs are large and of immense weight. As a large quantity is to be delivered the boats and scows will be kept busy until the river freezes up.

OMEMEE

The first bent of the new bridge on the missing link was raised on Saturday last.

Water is becoming very scarce in the wells both in village and township. A number of wells in the village have become dry.

Mr. Charles Shaw living one mile west of here threshed his fall wheat; it yielded on an average 45 bushels per acre. Mr. Shaw is one of our practical farmers and knows how to till his ground properly.

Mr. Thos. Kerr, one of the foremen of the missing link has his hands full this week. A gang of eight Frenchmen were put to work under his directions, but as they are all left handed Tom, has great difficulty in placing them so they can work around the waggon filling. Six of them do not understand a word of English.

Work on this end of the missing link is going on steadily and by the 15th of November it is expected that the ties and rails will be laid as far as the big cut, so as to enable the contractor to take the timber by train to Doube's bridge instead of hauling it by teams. Work on the bridge in this village is being pushed through quite rapidly.

PORT HOPE

Ex-Coun. Deering is sending eight hundred cases of boots and shoes to Winnipeg. That looks like business.

Matters are very dull at the harbour, and have been so all year. It is said that the most of the fleet will come out behind-hand this year. That is a subject for much regret.

Miss Perrin, of Bailieboro' has been united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Robt. Lang, of South Monaghan. A large circle joined in wishing them much joy in life's pathway.

A fire about two o'clock last Sunday morning destroyed the stables in the rear of Mrs. Martin's and Dr. Ceasar's residence, Mill street. There were two horses burnt to death in the latter's stable, one, a three year old, the property of Mr. Thos. Donaldson, South Monaghan. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary.

The Toronto World is now the authority for the statement that Rev. A. P. McDiarmid, of Port Hope, has received a call from the Baptist congregation at Ottawa. The reverend gentleman's removal from here says the News, would be a sad loss, not only to his congregation, but the entire church going community. That he would not be second to any minister of the Gospel at the capital there cannot be any question.

BOBCAYGEON.

A shooting gallery is furnishing amusement for a number of townsfolk.

Mr. Wm. Kennedy is busily engaged in constructing derricks for the quarries.

Quite a number of sportsmen are camped on the shores of Pigeon Lake, and are spending an immensely jolly time.

The duck shooting is reported to be good. Our Indian brothers are bringing considerable numbers into the village to exchange for goods at the stores.

Large quantities of grain are being shipped on the steamer Eva. It appears to be the general impression that it is best to sell it at once, and have the use of the money. The shrinkage in weight and loss by vermin, in holding over, more than counterbalance the chance of a rise in price.

Building stone is one of our big resources, and just at present we are having quite a boom in the development of this resource. The quarries will probably employ a hundred hands through the winter, cutting stone for the Ontario and Quebec Railway, and the locks at Fenelon. Messrs. McDonald & Son, the contractors for the latter works, commenced operations in Fenelon on Monday. It is understood that the Fenelon Council propose having a banquet shortly, to celebrate the commencement of the work.

LARDINE MACHINE OIL.

Farmers, Threshers and Mill Men generally, should try the Celebrated Lardine Machine Oil, it does not Gum or Clog Machinery, and wears equal to Castor Oil.

In fact it will prolong the life of a machine if used exclusively, as it contains no Grit or other injurious substance which is found in the majority of oils made now-a-days.

It is made solely by McCOLL BROS. & Co., of Toronto. No one else wholesales it.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 2, 1882.

Appreciated.

We are not given to self-commendation, nor are we desirous of landing ourselves constantly in our own newspaper. But honest approbation in others is always justifiable, and it is a healthy stimulant to well-doing. There are some beings so constituted that they open out under true praise as flowers beneath the sun. We suppose newspaper editors like the expression of approval sometimes, as do most other persons. We are glad to say THE EXAMINER is receiving at present, just such pleasant notices from the public generally. We are endeavoring to make our paper a live one, full of information and instruction and we have the best proofs that our efforts are appreciated. When a subscriber informs us that we are making "steady progress," or another says that "an old friend, THE EXAMINER has failed him and he cannot get along without it," or still another writes that our "journal is a credit to us and to Peterborough," we are encouraged to enter more heartily into work. It does any living being good to know that he is giving something like satisfaction, even if it is not the ideal he has set up before himself. We are, all of us, too chary in expressions of praise and too ready with words of blame, or disapproval. Of course, every person knows just how to edit a paper and can instruct the experienced hand in printing and give him, as he imagines, some excellent ideas. This is a profession where we might use the old proverb appropriately, Poeta nascitur non fit, or as it might be freely translated "editors are born, not made." It is by no means an easy task to run a paper, so as to keep it fresh and suggestive. For some years past we have been "slinging ink," endeavoring to give information on important subjects and to keep abreast of the day, and we do not consider ourselves perfect yet, by any means. We have not ignored politics, nor have we made them the all-in-all of our existence. We aspire to be a family newspaper and many of our editorials are penned with the attainment of that end in view. THE EXAMINER has endeavored to steer a straight course, to show patience and industry, through good report and evil, and to do something for the advancement of what is noble and right and good in all things. We are glad to know that we are making our mark and perhaps building ourselves into the memory of the good. With this object in view, we intend to struggle on and do our utmost to provide, sound, useful and entertaining information for our readers, and to make THE EXAMINER a pattern of a newsy, well-conducted, periodical. We will try to steer our bark so as not to be in the way of others, to keep clear of giving unprovoked offence, and to be judicious, impartial, thorough, truthful and earnest. We are thankful for the hearty appreciation we have already received and we hope to earn it more and more.

To show that we are in earnest in our efforts to prove more worthy of approbation, we might call attention to the changes in and the additions to our facilities we have recently made. The improvements made in our establishment consist in an almost entire reconstruction of our premises, internally, and in the almost complete renewal of our machinery plant. As to the former, we have added a rear wing to the building we occupy, to be used as a press-room. This is 23x23 feet in area, ceiled and wainscoted throughout in wood, and admirably adapted to its intended use. Additions have been made to the size of our composing room, which is now 40x40 feet in size, lighted by nine large windows. On this floor are situated our large and airy editorial rooms, and offices for the job and news foremen. The space on the first floor, formerly used as a press room has been converted into a stationery department, an addition to our business that has almost been forced on us by the public demand. Part of this floor will be used as a business office and counting room, and like the stationary store, is fitted up in a most superior manner which reflects great credit on Mr. D. Belleghem, who had the contract for this part of the work.

In the matter of machinery, we have added two new Improved Wharfdale presses, imported direct to our order from the manufacturers, the celebrated firm of Miller & Richard, Edinburgh. These machines are not only the perfection of mechanical skill, but are unsurpassed anywhere in the excellence of their work. The news press is capable of printing fifteen hundred impressions per hour, and its capacity as to size of sheet may be inferred from the fact that it is capable of printing even an enlargement of the immense size of the sheet now in the reader's hands. The smaller Wharfdale is a "royal" jobber, and performs its work in a most rapid and unexceptionable manner. In addition our press room contains two Gordon job presses, No. 2 and No. 3. Minor additions comprise a power paper-cutter, (thus making two excellent machines for this purpose), paging and numbering and perforating machines, all assisting in making our mechanical outfit uncommonly complete, and on a par, with the requirements of a first-class job printing establishment. The motive power is steam, furnished by a nine horse power vertical engine, supplied with steam by a fifteen horse power boiler, the latter also being used to heat the entire building with steam. These were furnished by the well-known establishment of Mr. William Hamilton, and this fact alone precludes the necessity of our adding anything in praise of the excellence of their construction.

We also have put in large quantities of the latest and most stylish faces of English and American plain and fancy job type. With the above-noted facilities we are in a position to receive and execute in the highest style of the "art preservative" orders for any style, quality and quantity of job printing. With the best of presses, the most skilful workmen, with the newest and most extensive selection of type; with the most recent labor saving appliances, and a splendid stock of stationery, we are prepared to pay particular attention to all kinds of job printing, including our specialty, fine fancy printing. There are other improvements which will shortly engage our attention, but our business is so exigeant in its demands that further interruption by further changes are not now practicable. The third story of our premises are at present unoccupied, but we propose, as soon as other business engagements will admit of it, to establish therein a bindery. At present our establishment is complete with all the modern conveniencies of a printing office. We have telephonic communication with the whole town, and a review of our facilities presents no omission to detract from making the EXAMINER printing establishment one of the completest in the Province. The entire cost of the improvements enumerated, is over $5,000.

To-day we present our readers with a greatly enlarged sheet—another token of progression and advancement, which we hope will meet with approval from the large and, we are grateful in saying, ever-increasing circle of our friends. THE EXAMINER is now a 56-column newspaper, one of the largest weekly journals in Ontario, and this issue, which is a fair sample of future issues, contains about thirty columns of reading matter, original and selected. We are now in a position to give our readers more reading matter, and our advertisers to whom we owe more than we can express the benefits of additional space and extended circulation. We earnestly solicit brief, crisp and comprehensive correspondence from every part of the county and ask our subscribers and the readers of THE EXAMINER to aid us in securing news from every village and school-section in Peterborough. And now in our new and enlarged and, we venture to say improved form and appearance, we make our bow and only ask a "fair field and no favour." For the many past tokens of kindness and liberality, we can only express our gratitude and our will to supply our readers with a live, interesting and readable, weekly newspaper, whose motto is still ONWARD AND UPWARD.

The West Riding Nomination.

The Conservatives of the west riding held a convention yesterday, at which, we suppose, a candidate for the local legislature was nominated, for that was the only business advertised to engage the attention of the gathering. Of course, if nominated, he is the candidate in the Conservative interest, and the Conservative interest now-a-days, means really more than the words themselves imply. It is so intimately bound up, through political collusion, with the interests of Quebec, which are avowedly hostile to those of Ontario, that the Conservative party in Ontario, as the ally of Quebec politicians, cannot dispassionately, impartially, and with a single eye to the benefits of Ontario, attempt to deal with her interest. Therefore we would ask the electors to make no pledges to the candidate, whoever he may be, till another candidate is in the field, as he is sure to be. The representation of the west riding is not to be decided without a fight, and a pretty severe and close one at that. The policy of the Opposition, as promulgated by the notorious Dominion-Quebec-Ontario-Federal Local convention in Toronto, at which two Federal Ministers, who have not the slightest right to interfere in our local matters, were prominent directors, and as elaborated by the Opposition organs, is one of retrogression and hostility to the chartered rights of Ontario. One of the main features of that policy is that, because Quebec has said it, Ontario must be juggled out of her territorial rights; another, that the legislature of the Local House, though clearly within its rights to perform, and as clearly in the public interest, is to be disallowed and nullified, because it suits the political purposes and plans of Federal Ministers. The electors must, therefore, see that it behooves them to be cautious in endorsing by pledging themselves to a candidate, to a policy that mature reflection will show them, is inimical to their interests as citizens of Ontario. In due time a creditable and worthy candidate will be put in the field when there will be a fair opportunity of contrasting the personal claims and political platform of the two candidates, and then it will be possible to make an honest, unprejudiced and intelligible choice.

Since writing the above, we learn that Mr. John Carnegie has received and accepted the nomination.

Another Endorsation.

On Monday last the elections gave in turn their emphatic endorsation of the acts and policy of the Mowat administration, a fact that is a source of gratification to every Reformer or Conservative, for that matter who has the interest of the province at heart. The returns so far as received give Mr. Bettes (Reform) in Muskoka, the majority. The result is no surprise to us; we predicted, without claiming exceptional foresight, a similar result. The result shows that the sturdy settlers of the district keep themselves well informed on the political topics of the day and are not to be bamboozled into yielding to the claptrap cry of "Mowat must go," stolen by the Mail from the fervid eloquence of Dennis Kearney. It cannot be claimed in this case that the Conservatives made no efforts to "redeem" this riding. It was stumped most industriously by a no less illustrious gentleman than Mr. Meredith the leader of the Opposition. The result, considering that every effort was made by the Tories to carry the election, that no stone was left unturned, that no resource was left unemployed to influence the issue, is an ample vindication of the administration of the Mowat Government. The organs were wont to say that Mr. Mowat's reasons for delaying the issue of the writs for the vacant seats, was the fear of an adverse verdict. The fact that he has won seven out of the eight elections, the result in every riding showing an increase of strength, go to show that if Mr. Mowat was afraid of the result, his usual good judgment and foresight were greatly at fault.

A glimmer of common sense occasionally lights up the columns of the Tory press. Thus the Guelph Herald rises candidly to remark:—"In a school where both Catholics and Protestants are alike instructed, it is neither pleasant nor advisable that a child should be called upon to parse such a phrase as 'vassal slaves to bloody Rome,' or read with too close attention the amour of Marmion and Constance, or take as history the fancy picture of the immurement of the unchaste nun. We think Mr. Crooks has some reason on his side for rejecting 'Marmion,' no matter how high its literary standard as a text book."

Editorial Notes.

THE return of Hon. Mr. Mousseau, Premier of Quebec, for Jacques Cartier, has been protested against, on the grounds of personal bribery and bribery by agents.

ONE thing to admire about the Review is the supreme conceit with which it pats itself on the back for its own editorial efforts. The Review never lacks in deep appreciation of the Review. For cool and self contained egotism its recent editorials on the Mowat Government cap the climax.

THE Kingston Whig now occupies its commodious and handsome new quarters. The Whig is one of the livest, newsiest, most enterprising and readable newspapers of its class. It has always been true to the principle of Reform, and hit hard and happily in the interest of the cause. We congratulate our cotem. On further evidences of progression and prosperity, and wish it another half century, at least, of prosperous usefulness.

Mr. G. D. Hawley, M. P. P. has received the unanimous nomination of the Reform Association of Lennox as their candidate in the approaching general local elections. He accepted the nomination and there is every chance for his re-election. Apart from the absolute strength of the cause he champions, the Conservative party locally, being torn with dissensions and personal differences, will be to him a very considerable source of strength. That he would win without these, there is little doubt, but these added to other considerations, make his election more assured.

IF the farmers do not already realize they soon will become aware that the price of salt has risen very largely. It is not long since it could be bought for ninety cents, but at the last session, (to foster the farming industry, perhaps) an increase of the duty was made. This enabled the manufacturers to form a ring, and of course the price of salt has gone up over fifty per cent. Time was, and not long since, when a bushel of wheat would buy a barrel of salt, with nearly 40 cents to spare, but now wheat is 90 cents and salt $1.40, and the extra fifty cents is what the honest farmer pays for the blessed privilege of having voted for the N. P. And yet the blessed Review denies that the N. P. has raised the price of one article the farmer has to buy. It will take more than N. P. salt to save the Government of bogus pretences from the just retribution of the agriculturists.

MUTUAL AID LIFE ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly inform me in your next issue how the Mutual Aid Life Association is progressing and if you think it would be advisable to continue paying death calls as they become due. I read with interest, the correspondence respecting the Grange Mutual Aid Association in THE EXAMINER some time since and as I am a member of the Mutual Aid I should be glad to have your opinion, before I pay the calls now due. Yours, etc.,

A. MEMBER.

NOTICE.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN!

While recognising fully, with thanks, the favors as shown by the public in patronising my endeavors in manufacturing Furs, trying to the utmost to give a good article for the lowest possible price, I have always been seriously hemmed in by a portion of the public who make it exclusively a point to always buy wholesale made up goods of dealers in Furs, and as I have been for the last 21 years, and am yet the ONLY Fur Manufacturer in Peterborough, such furs are brought, as a rule, to me for repairs. This has seriously interfered with and injured the business in executing orders for New Goods, and, therefore, I have to DISCONTINUE SUCH CUSTOM for the future, exempting only such parties who have of late taken up their residence in Peterborough.

His first Episcopal Visit—An Address and Reply—His Ministrations—Father Connolly Commended.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

At an early hour on Friday last the majority of the Roman Catholic Parish of Douro poured into Peterborough, to escort their good, pious, popular, and beloved and holy bishop to their parish to confer confirmation on the children of that parish as well as to make his first Episcopal visitation. It was a pleasing satisfaction for his Lordship to behold his newly acquired subjects all eager to manifest their pure sense of love, affection and loyalty to come and accompany their bishop and give him a practical proof of that unadulterated pure and holy faith which has ever characterized the children of the Irish race.

At three o'clock, his Lordship, accompanied by the estimable pastors of Hastings and Ennismore, together with Rev. Mr. Brearton and the parish priest of Douro, Rev. Father O'Connell, arrived at the Presbytery and robed themselves for the procession to the church which was beautifully decorated with evergreens and appropriate mottoes, and crowded to suffocation. On the procession entering the church the accommodating and talented choir of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro', who had kindly volunteered their services, intoned with beautiful effect the Te Deum, and other appropriate hymns. His Lordship then read the prayer of the patron saint and blessed the people. Mr. Maloney, the reeve of Douro, with several other gentlemen then approached and read to his lordship the following:—

ADDRESS.

To the Right Reverend J. F. Jamot. D. D., Bishop of Peterborough:—

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP—

We the congregation of the parish of Douro, and now your Lordship's spiritual children, hail with especial delight, this your first visit amongst us. As children of the true faith we have ever been taught to cherish the most filial love, reverence and respect for our chief pastor. It is then with no small degree of pride that we gather round you to-day, to offer your Lordship our most profound respect, and bid you a thousand welcomes to this adjacent portion of your new Diocese. Your Lordship's inauguration into the new created See of Peterborough on the 22nd of September last amidst such favourable auspices will be long and joyfully remembered by many of us who had the pleasure of witnessing that grand reception accorded to your Lordship, on that memorable day, not only by your own faithful flock, but also by the distinguished members of the different Protestant communities of your new See.

Since it is the good will of heaven and the pleasure of our holy father, to be dismembered from our old, respected and venerable Diocese of Kingston, whose good, holy, pious and venerable Bishops brought to us comfort, consolation and benedictions, we rejoice at the good fortune of being consigned to, and blessed by the appointment of your Lordship so remarkable for deep erudition, solid piety, indefatigable zeal, the most refined manners and dignified modesty. Your Lordship's most useful, trying and laborious career so well known throughout Western Canada, is not unknown to us, and could not fail to procure for you the high distinction of the Apostolic dignity which now enobles your distinguished person.

We have many reasons my Lord for congratulating ourselves on your elevation to the See of Peterborough. And not the least are the multiplied ties of race, affection and sympathy that bind all Irishmen to the illustrious land that gave you birth. We rejoice in her glory and brilliant achievments, we venerate her for her antiquity, the splendor of her martyrs and confessors, the piety and learning of her divines and the sublime and touching eloquence of her matchless pulpit orators.

For these and many other reasons we most joyfully and gratefully, greet your Lordship to-day as one of her most gifted sons, who, like thousands of your countrymen, has voluntarily exiled yourself from your most attached and lovely home, relations, friends and associations, to carry the inestimable comforts and blessings of our Divine Religion to the scattered members of your brethren in the faith. It is then our loving duty to-day to receive your Lordship, with favor and affection, to offer you our most humble submission to your high ecclesiastical authority and a hearty co-operation in all your undertakings to the best of our ability, for the advancement of our holy religion, and for the glory of God in this your new home.

Again assuring your Lordship of our most profound respect, devotion, and attachm at; we pray our Divine Lord through his ever immaculate and blessed mother, to grant you a long, happy, and prosperous life in your new See, in this free land of our adoption; where oppression never dominneers, hunger is never felt, and where all are happy because all are free.

May it now Please your Lordship to bestow on us your Episcopal Benediction.

Signed, on behalf of the congregation,

JOHN MALONEY, Reeve,	WILLIAM MOHER,
EDMUND O'DONNELL,	PATRICK MOHER,
MICHAEL O'BRIEN,	JAS. MCCLEGGOT,
JOHN O'BRIEN,	EDWARD FOLEY.
JOHN CROWLEY,	WILFRED MCCUE.

His Lordship's reply was most affectionate, touching and eloquent. He heartily thanked the people for the cordial welcome accorded to him, for the pleasing reference to his own beloved country, la belle France. He deplored the merciless persecutions inflicted on the Irish nation for centuries. He traced the history of her misfortunes and proved conclusively from historical analogy, that Ireland whose loyalty to the mother church had always been one of her most glorious characteristics—unshaken by persecution and undismed by want and misery—was the chosen of nations to shine like a star of the first magnitude in the triple tiara of the church.

THE BURYING GROUND.

He afterwards visited the burying ground and complimented the congregation on the appropriateness of the selection of a site and the pious taste of all the arrangements connected with that sacred resting place of the faithful dead.

On Saturday His Lordship administered the rite of confirmation to one hundred and fifty candidates, and the Holy Sacrament to five hundred Communicants, heard confessions, and gave absolution. On Sunday he conducted the services both at early mass and vespers. At the former service he delivered an eloquent, practical address, replete with with holy wicdom to the people, and at the latter a most appropriate and paternal address to the children of the congregation and, thus ended the official acts growing from the first episcopal visit of His Lordship, the Bishop of Peterboro'. He was deeply impressed with the pious zeal of the congregation as shown in their enthusiastic reception of their bishop, and in their desire to avail themselves of the spiritual blessings he had the high honor to be the bearer of, and which was largely due under the blessing of Heaven to the faithful labors, pious example and holy zeal of their worthy pastor, Rev. Father O'Connell.

OTONABEE.

AN INCENDIARY FIRE—AN INQUEST—THE ARREST OF ROBERT A. WOOD.

On Saturday night, the 7th of October, the barns, stables and other outbuildings of Robert Robinson, on lot 12, in the 13th concession of Otonabee, were burnt. In the barns and stables were a large quantity of hay, grain etc., the year's harvest, implements, machinery, etc., which were totally consumed. The loss is heavy. The circumstances of the fire were so suspicious that an inquest was held on the 24th of October, by Dr. Fife of Peterborough, with a jury of thirteen. A large number of witnesses were examined, and the jury brought in the following VERDICT.

We, the jurors empannelled to inquire into the cause of the burning of the barns, stables and their contents, of Robert Robinson, on lot 12, 13th concession of Otonabee, after duly considering the evidence, have agreed upon the following verdict:—

1. That the burning of said buildings was unmistakably the act of an incendiary.

2. That the weight of the evidence unmistakably rests upon a suspicious, and it is to be feared, dangerous character, who is known to be in the habit of prowling about at unseasonable hours.

3. That the person referred to is Robert Anson Wood, of this neighbourhood.

4. We also find, according to the evidence, that the aforesaid individual has made threats against different persons, and is a consequence fear and insecurity do prevail.

5. And that immediate steps be taken to bind the said Robert A. Wood to keep the peace.

The coroner seeing that no legal authority was given him to carry out the closing recommendation of the jury laid the matter before the authorities, and a warrant was issued and Robert Anson, is now "bound over to keep the peace" at least till the next court of competent jurisdiction, as fast as four stone walls can bind him, for he lies in Peterborough jail, where he was placed on Saturday last by Police Constable Adams, who executed the warrant for his arrest.

On Monday morning, Wood had a hearing before a Magistrates Court, Messrs. Menzies and Rutherford, Justices of the Peace, occupying the bench. The prisoner being arraigned, pleaded "not guilty" and the following witnesses were called. Messrs. Timothy Collins, Robert Hull, Thomas Weaver, Robert Orde, Robert English and Robert Robinson, the complainan . The testimony principally consisted of threats against Mr. Robinson made by Wood, between whom there was a dispute respecting the tenancy of a house that the latter refused to leave. The prisoner conducted his own case, in fact there was no lawyer on either side and the points of law raised were few. In the face of the evidence and proof of specific threats made to "burn out" Mr. Robinson, the prisoner was committed for trial.

For kindling take a quart of tar and three pounds of resin melt them and bring to a cooling temperature, mix with as much coarse saw-dust, with a little charcoal added, as can be worked in; spread out while hot upon a board. When cold, break up into lumps the size of a walnut and you have, at small expense kindling enough for a household to easily ignite from a match and burn with a strong blaze long enough to start any wood that is fit to burn.

OPPRESSED HOTEL KEEPERS.

HOW THE MOWAT GOVERNMENT OPPRESSES TORY WHISKEY SELLERS.

A Cobourg correspondent of the Globe writes:—There are in the West Northumberland division this year 29 licensed tavern-keepers, of whom 25 are downtrodden Tories, and four favoured Grits; in the town of Cobourg alone, fourteen licensed taverns, twelve of which are in the hands of the oppressed Tories, and the remaining two are Reformers. Last year there was one more, and this year his application was rejected and his business was afterwards stopped by the imposition of two heavy fines. We need hardly add that the persecuted man was a Grit. * * * It has come to our knowledge that the Chairman of the Grit Board of Tory License Commissioners in North Lanark is Mr. Jamieson, the Tory candidate for the county in the last election and the Tory M. P. for the county now, a very earnest temperance man by the way. In South Lanark, the Chairman of the Board is also one of the best known and best respected Tories in the district, the Postmaster of Perth. Surethe last drop has been added to the full cup of iniquity of Grit intolerance! Other facts have come to our knowledge vindicating the usual veracity of the Mail in giving figures regarding the license law business. It was stated in its editorial columns one day last week that last year the amount of fines imposed in Cobourg was $40. We are informed by the Inspector that the actual amount was just $290. As a further evidence of the large increase of licensed taverns and drinking under the Crooks Act, it may be stated that in 1876, the year previous to the Crooks Act going in force, there were 21 licensed taverns in the town of Cobourg, and now, with a considerably increased population, there are 14! Let all temperance men join, then, in the cry that "Crooks must go."

RAILROAD RUMORS.

The Detroit Free Press of Saturday said: "Yesterday there was a report circulated that the Credit Valley road was to extend its track from Ingersoll to Detroit, and thereby form a competing line with the Grand Trunk for the Toronto and Detroit business. This report, however, was proven false, for a despatch to George Laidlaw, president of the Credit Valley, brought from him the response:—'The rumour is without foundation.' The matter was not here dropped, but enquiry was instituted to find out what it was that had given rise to the rumor. The result was this: The Credit Valley railroad is controlled by the Canada Pacific syndicate, which syndicate is far more powerful than the Grand Trunk or any other organization in the Dominion. This syndicate are gradually extending their power over the country and one of their late ventures is the construction of an air line from Toronto through Peterborough, Perth and Carleton Place to Ottawa. The distance from Toronto to Ottawa by this road, which is to be completed within eighteen months, is to be 100 miles shorter than by the Grand Trunk, which follows the tortuous shores of the lake and river. At Ottawa this line is to connect with the Canada Pacific and communication opened with Montreal and Quebec. From Quebec the Intercolonial railway will furnish an outlet to Halifax, while Portland and Boston will be touched by connections at Montreal. When this line is completed the Canada Pacific syndicate and the Vanderbilt interests, which work in perfect harmony, will have a through line from Chicago to Halifax, using the Michigan Central, the Canada Southern, the Credit Valley and the roads above named. The Pacific syndicate, it is thought, will have no trouble in securing favorable terms with the Intercolonial which is a government line. This chain of roads will be used largely for the westbound freight, for as long as the Vanderbilt party have interests in the New York Central they will influence as much as possible of the export freight to go by that road to the seaboard. The work that is being done, however, will be far from beneficial to the Grand Trunk system.

A $50.00 Biblical Reward.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for November, among which is the following:

We will give $20.00 in gold to the person telling us which verse in the New Testament Scriptures (not the New Revision) contains the greatest number of words by November 10th, 1882. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner November 15th, 1882. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer, for which they will receive the December Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20.00 to you; cut it out. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY Easton, Penna.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Early Marketing of Grain.

Those who are experienced in commercial matters, who make a special study of market reports, and understand pretty well the fluctuations of trade, tell us that the farmers are pursuing a mistaken policy when they refuse to sell as soon as harvest is over and they find leisure to market their grain. As a rule, delay is not fruitful of good; it has not unfrequently happened that prices have tended downward instead of upward, that the producer has failed to read the signs of the times aright, and suffers a great deal, financially, in consequence. It has been pointed out by a contemporary, whose comments indicate a thorough acquaintance with its subject, that "by selling immediately the farmer avoids loss by shrinkage which is great. Grain dealers only, who weigh in and weigh out, know how great it is. Farmers who pursue the holding policy should weigh their grain into the granaries and charge themselves with the quantity at the ruling price of the time, and then when they come to sell weigh it out again. They would find themselves almost invariably out of pocket even when they do, which is not often, get a few cents more per bushel." At this moment the bulk of the grain raised in this district, the best for several seasons, is awating an improvement in the rates. Will such be realized? We can only be governed by the opinions and quotations of those whose success in engagements induces them to ferret out the most reliable information. We have it from others than grain buyers that the future is not hopeful, that there is not a prospect of the advance anticipated by many. If this be so, and there is a loss incurred by shrinkage (an undoubted fact) the question arises, "It is wise to hold the barley longer?"—Whig.

Corn Fodder.

The opinion we have often expressed and we desire to repeat it, that there was not that attention paid to the curing and saving of the corn fodder that its value demanded. Every good farmer must know that cattle eat it greedily through the winter, and if cut and steamed it is as good for them as the best hay, and really more milk-producing. Where then is the necessity of allowing it to remain in shocks untill the middle or end of November, and even sometimes running into December? Corn should not be cut down until the stalks are dying and the grain is pretty hardy, and then it should remain no longer in the field than is absolutely necessary for the drying of the grain. It should be husked as early as possible, and the fodder tied up in bundles and either carefully stacked near the cattle-stables or put under shelter in sheds.

It is well-known, too, that horses prefer it to the best hay; also, that the blades are especially sought for to feed racing animals, strengthening their wind and bottom beyond any other food. It is besides wholesome provender and helps most beneficially in making the winter supply of hay hold out till late in the spring, with the addition of roots, which every farmer, who shrewdly looks to the main chance, ought to cultivate for feeding in the early part.

Culture of the Black Walnut.

W. H. Ragan, Secretary of the Indiana Horticultural Society, gives the following directions for cultivating the black walnut:—

"The ground should be prepared in the best manner in the autumn. Furrow the ground off each way as for corn, except that the rows should be seven feet apart. Take the nuts, fresh from the tree, and plant two at each crossing. They are to be covered shallow, just enough to hide them. So much for planting. The next spring furrow the seven-feet space intermediate between the rows, and plant with corn or potatoes. The corn and young trees will be cultivated alike, and the young trees must be kept clean. The thinning will fill any vacant spaces where needed. Corn or potatoes may be planted the second, or even the third year, and after that the trees must be cultivated and kept clean until they occupy the whole ground so fully as to keep down by their shade all weeds and grass. Standing as near as seven feet, the trees will not require trimming, but will thus trim themselves. But when they begin to suffer from crowding, take out every alternate tree in each row, and in a few years another thinning may be made by taking out alternate trees in the rows at right angles to the first, leaving fourteen feet each way. If the trees are to stand until they become quite large, additional thinning may be necessary. But they should always be thick enough to obviate the side trimming of branches. The thinnings will always possess considerable value."

Burying Cabbage.

As the season is arriving for the gathering of cabbage, a few hints on the method of burying them whole may be of benefit to our readers. Cabbage should be gathered in November. They are not injured by being frozen a number of times; on the contrary their flavor seems to be much improved thereby. Select a dry spot of ground (if it is underdrained so much the better) on which water will not stand during winter. This selected, dig a trench two feet wide and six inches in depth, in which scatter straw (rye or wheat is best) three inches in depth, on which stand the cabbage, top downward, 2 or 3 inches apart, until the trench is full, when straw is scattered around the head and part of the stem. This done, cover with earth from 4 to 8 inches in depth, according to the exposure. By placing boards at the side, rain will be prevented from washing away the dirt; or by packing the dirt by striking upon it with the shovel blade the same point will be gained. Break off a number of the outside leaves and free the roots from dirt before burying.

By the Way.

Teach your horses to walk fast.

The best advice we can give in fitting fields for wheat is to prepare the land thoroughly, and after it has been harrowed for the last time harrow it again.

It is a commonplace but important truth to which city and country alike gives expression when it is said that larger profits must come from more painstaking tillage of less land.

Don't forget this fall to plant in the "fence corners" pits of cherries and plums. You will be rewarded in a few years with plenty of fruit in these neglected places.

To have hyacinths, &c., bloom at Christmas, plant now in rich, light soil, and place in a dark, cool cellar until the pots are well filled with them, then bring to a cool, light room and give plenty of water.

We find that perfectly smooth tomatoes were sold to New York dealers last week for $1.20 and $1.50 per bushel, while the old lobed tomatoes were sold for $1.00. Market gardeners must cultivate the smooth kinds.

An example of the pleasing and profitable effect of "fixing up," consequent upon a good wife's persuasions and the growth of thrift and taste by feeding it, is cited by Food and Health:

"'The old woman pestered me to death about the garden, and so I slicked up a little, and fixed up about the house, and it looked so nice I went at the farm fences and the brush, and saved more manure, and kept killing the weeds, and the crops got better, and so I kept going on, and things do look pretty good now. Wife takes a paper and I take one, and I get time to read it, too, and I used to think I hadn't time for anything.' And so he ran on, seeming much pleased with what he had done, and his life and his home, without doubt, the happier for it."

The Household.

COCOANUT DROPS.—Grate a cocoanut; add half its weight of fine sugar, mix well together with the white of one egg, and drop on white paper. Bake in a slow oven.

ANNA'S CUP CAKE.—One-half cup of butter; one-half a cup of sweet milk; two eggs; one cup of sugar; two teaspoons of baking powder; two cups of flour. This is always a success and is equally good whether baked as a layer cake or in small fancy tins.

PRINCE ALBERT'S PUDDING.—Beat to a cream one-half pound fresh butter and mix with an equal weight of fine white sugar. Add to these first the yolks and then the whites of five eggs, which have been thoroughly beaten apart; throw in lightly one-half pound fine flour, and one-half pound stoned raisins. Put these ingredients, well mixed, into a buttered mould, or floured cloth, and boil for three hours. Serve with sweet sauce.

FRENCH PUDDING.—Slice small pieces, very thin, from your bread, enough to fill a quart dish half full, buttering each piece lightly before cutting. Lay them loosely in the dish; sprinkle on one-half cup of sugar and a little grated nutmeg; then heat one quart milk; beat the yolks of four eggs, add them just before boiling, and immediately pour over the bread. Beat the whites, add a little sugar and spread them over the pudding; set in the oven five minutes to brown lightly, and it is ready for the table. This dessert can be made in twenty minutes ready for use.

PANCAKES.—Beat up three eggs and a quart of milk; make it up into a batter with flour, a little salt, a spoonful of ground ginger, and a little grated lemon-peel; let it be of a fine thickness and perfectly smooth. Clean your frying pan thoroughly, and put into it a good lump of dripping or butter; when it is hot pour in a cupful of batter and let it run all over of an equal thickness; shake the pan frequently that the batter may not stick, and when you think it is done on one side, toss it over: if you cannot, turn it with a slice, and when both are of a nice light brown, lay it on a dish before the fire; strew sugar over it, and so do the rest. They should be eaten directly, or they will become heavy.

Do You Know?

That a little water in butter will prevent it from burning when used for frying?

That a little saltpetre worked into butter that has become sour or rancid will render it sweet and palatable?

That pennyroyal distributed in places frequented by roaches will drive them away?

That wild mint will keep rats and mice out of your house?

That lime, sprinkled in fire-places during summer months, is healthful?

That leaves of parsley, eaten with a little vinegar, will prevent the disagreeable consequences of tainted breath by onions?

That flowers and shrubs should be excluded from a bed chamber?

That oil paintings, hung over the mantelpiece, are liable to wrinkle with the heat?

LADY BEAUTIFIERS.—Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks, and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health and nothing will give you such rich blood, good health, strength and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof. 44-2t

IN MEMORIAM.

Of Mrs. Edward Renwick, Montreal.

BY REV. WM. DOBSON.

(Published by Request)

Though hid from your eyes in her dear familiar face,
And laid aside in mother's tender loving cares
She's only gone before to that bright, glorious place,
Where there's no sad bereavement and no vacant chairs.

Mother's love will ever in sweet fragrance bloom,
Mother who unravelled your tangled threads of care
You will miss her sweet voice in the soft twilight's gloom,
And miss her more as you kneel at evening prayer.

Sisters, too, will miss the sunlight of her presence,
Miss the bright, warm glow of her cheery Christian life
Her attractions, very rare, gave her influence
As a faithful mother, an affectionate wife.

To her husband's deep grief we know not what to say
When those he holds so dear, to him and so precious,
Like the sweet summer flowers are passing away;
Only hold fast your firm, strong grasp on Jesus.

He knows how hard it is, how very sore the strain,
Yet this one sweet thought will o'er our senses steal:—
Whom God loves he chastens, yet will ever sustain,
He wounds in his wisdom and in love he will heal.

Her only hope and trust were founded on Jesus
When crossing the Jordan's deep swollen tide,
Going home to that land of perfect love and peace
With Jesus her Saviour, her brother and guide.

Consumption, fell disease, marked her for his own,
Its consuming hectic brightened eye and cheek,
Thrice that king terror has entered that fair home
And mocked at the skill their aching hearts would seek.

But she had girded well her cherished armor on
Her shield of faith was Christ's own righteousness,
She had fought the good fight and the victory won
And to her day sufficient found His grace.

Her evidence was clear her face with lustre shone
In faith she left with Christ her earthly care,
That he would lead and guide her dear one's every one
Was the burden of her loving dying prayer.

Then closing her eyes to all earthly things,
Lay waiting the summons she knew so well,
Was speedily coming on angel wings,
To her sorrowing friends she bid farewell.

And Jesus led her home in his own tender care
Her lamp was ready, trimmed and lighted,
She served God while here, she will now praise Him there
With her children once more reunited.

And there you will meet them, on that happy shore,
Where God says He'll wipe all tears from our eyes,
Dear friends one by one are going on before
They'll shout to us a welcome resounding through the skies.

THE JERSEY LILY.

MRS. LANGTRY'S WONDERFUL BEAUTY AND WONDERFUL WARDROBE.

Mrs. Langtry has arrived in New York for her American stage engagement and she has set the New York reporters wild with her surprising beauty. One of them writes: Her movements were extremely graceful and dignified, as she stood, with her hands clasped and her head slightly bent, among the crowd of strangers, the picture of repose. Her hair is brown, with a tinge of rich auburn that looks like gold. Mrs. Langtry is unquestionably a very beautiful woman. Her beauty is of the kind that baffles photography, and those who have seen her pictures only, have no conception of the charm of her face. Her complexion is pure white and almost transparent. There is on either cheek a dull, rich and scarcely distinguishable color that softens the contour of the face, but otherwise her skin is as white as snow. The ears are as purely white as the forehead, and the eyebrows are beautifully outlined. The mouth in repose has a pathetic or serious expression, and the lips are as clearly cut as a statue's. When she smiles perfect teeth are revealed, and the cheeks wrinkle up into two deep little dimples. The eyes, however, are the most winning feature of all. They are gray, with little jet black pupils, and are shaded by long dark lashes. They are wonderfully expressive, and certainly very effective, for they did remarkable work yesterday. Mrs. Langtry raised them slowly and glanced around into the faces of the men about her, looking at each one fully. The faces had been sleepy perhaps, but they woke up.

HER WONDERFUL WARDROBE.

To gratify feminine curiosity a newspaper reporter has secured the entree to Mrs. Langtry's unprofessional wardrobe for a critical inspection of its contents, the result of which is appended. The collection of garments indicates the fair wearer's individuality thoroughly in the matter of taste, as the description of her personal charms furnished above demonstrated the unique character of her beauty. It will be interesting to observe the influence these garments will exercise upon the prevailing modes of the ensuing winter, for it is scarcely possible that they will shape the fashions of our impressionable countrywomen less than the gentle teachings of the æsthetic Oscar. The most magnificent thing about the toilets of the distinguished lady is their simplicity. They come from three or four different hands, but they all bear the same sign-manual.

A carriage-dress by Worth has a petticoat of grey satin merveilleux, with a panel directly in front of grey marabout feathers. Over this is worn a long, tight-fitting coat of grey satin, brocaded in black velvet, and bordered with a wide band of grey marabout feathers. Above this is worn a large cape of the same brocade, bordered, as is the coat, with a feather band. The cape is lined with salmon silk striped with delicate pink and green, and is caught in at the waist in the back. With this costume is worn a hat of the grey brocade—for Mrs. Langtry's toilets are

ALL EN SUITE.

A black velvet carriage-dress from Kate Riley, a London garment, has a plain petticoat bordered at the hem with narrow knife-plaitings of satin, over which falls chenille fringe. The coat is a long black velvet coat, lined with grey silk, falling to the hem of the dress, and only short enough to display the switchy little frills beneath, whose existence seems intended to soften the severity of the plain, tight-fitting coat.

A carriage wrap, also by Kate Riley, is a long brown velvet circle, with heavy trimmings of brown passementerie about the shoulders and beneath the luxurious sable collar—for with this fur the wrap is lined. Mrs. Langtry may wear nothing more beautiful than this symphony in brown, although many will admire a greater novelty. This is a black velvet wrap of the same shape, trimmed with jet passementerie, V-shaped to the waist in the back. This lined throughout with the long, white, curled hair of many departed poodles, which makes also a deep collar outside. Mrs. Langtry has evidently heard tales of our American winters, and if these two garments do not keep her warm she will at least look warm, which is more than half the battle.

A walking-dress by Mme. Dubois is of peacock-blue satin as a piece de resistance. The petticoat has narrow knife-plaitings of blue satin. The front above these is of striped orange plush and blue satin, forming a deep pouf, with same material mingled with the trimming. The drapery of the back is of the plain blue satin and very simply disposed.

A reception-dress, by Boderick, is an exquisite shade of deep olive-green velvet with yellow in the lights. The tablier is of brocaded velvet of the same tint, the brocades being large curved lines, and not set figures. At the bottom of this tablier are narrow frills, over which fall chenille fringe tipped with iridescent drops. From each side of this tablier fall the long, sweeping folds of the train, with no decoration to break its stately sweep. The waist of this, as of the dresses, is plain and presumably a perfect fit, as is required of every fashionable corsage. "Make your dress of a horse blanket if you will," said the astute Lady Dolly, "but make it to fit."

SIMPLE YET SUPERB.

A dinner-dress by Worth has the waist so perfectly simple that evidently he risked nothing that might detract from its shapely lines. It is of rich, warm-toned yellow satin. The waist is heart-shaped, coming low down on the shoulders, and beneath the narrow frill of point lace which edges the neck is only a piece of lightly twisted satin following its outlines. The corsage simply carries the lines below the waist and ends in small points. The sleeves are to the elbow, with a piece of the satin carried about the edge and a little puff of white silk edged with lace in each which ties it to the arm. The front of the skirt is laid in large plaits that gives a fullness that is lightly caught here and there, making a careless drapery. The train, as that of the reception-dress, is long, and its beauty left to depend on its on colour and folds.

Economical women, with a turn for doing over their dresses, will observe how finely Mrs. Langtry's clothes will make over, since she has not snipped and cut and spoiled good stuff with shirrs and puffs and bias bands, as is the fashion of American dressmakers. Since Mrs. Langtry is destined to set us some fashions, among these may prove to be simplicity and economy.

FASHION FANCIES.

Turkey-red is the fashionable color for velvet dress bonnets.

Stripes are very little used and plaids are only in favor for skirts of wool dresses.

Bridesmaids are to wear colored gowns hereafter, instead of the spotless white. That is a sensible fashion.

Thick repped silk or ribbed velvet is used for the wide collars of chemisettes and fichus of tulle, silk, mull, and Aurillac lace.

Rococo jewelry is the French fancy. It has garnets and turquoises, with beads of Limoge enamel mounted in antique silver setting.

Black mull dotted and scalloped with red embroidery is a stylish novelty for gipsy kerchiefs that are worn pointed in front and back on the shoulders.

Brocades are by no means abandoned for dinner dresses, but they now form the draperies and sleeves with plain satin for the basque and train.

Ivory or cream white lace of large figures, plaited against crimped organdie muslin in two full ruffles, is a new frilling for the neck and sleeves of dresses.

Brick-red and Russia-leather shades are in favor for the loose-wristed Sara Bernhardt gloves that are worn with black dresses. Almond tints are new for dress occasions.

Pockets of lace and escalier plush are made in triangular form and suspended from the waist by ribbon loops; they are worn with evening dresses, and the plush matches the colour of the dress.

The National Dress Society of Great Britain offers a price of £30 for "the best design of a female garment combining ease, elegance, comfort and health." "The "divided skirt" has been condemned.

Frank James' Boldest Act.

The bold outrages and dashing adventures of the western bandits led by Frank and Jesse James, have furnished many sensational incidents, but none equalled in startling audacity the surrender of Frank James to the Governor of Missouri. Charged with a hundred crimes, and with indictments against him in a dozen States, he must have indeed grown weary of the life of an outlaw before deliberately walking into the presence of the Governor and principal State Officers, including a Judge of the Supreme Court, and laying down the trusty revolver which had for more than twenty years been his best friend. The act was, however, in keeping with the nerve and audacity which have made the names of Frank and Jesse James world-famous. Trained from boyhood in the vengeful feuds and fierce guerrilla warfare of the Kansas-Missouri border, their subsequent course of defiance to law in half of the States of the Union, was brilliant and successful beyond anything that history records. The story of Rob Roy and Robin Hood becomes dull and prosy by comparison with the record of their dashing raids and marvellous escapes. The announcement of a timely, complete and authentic history of these extraordinary men, by Hon. J. A. Dacus, Ph. D., the well know St. Louis journalist and member of the Missouri Legislature, will be received with eager curiosity. Dr. Dacus spent two years in collecting and verifying the facts, and passed many weeks at the home of the James Boys in in Western Missouri, where he obtained the confidence of their family and friends, and thus got many facts inaccessible to others. The history is brought down to date, including the death of Jesse and the surrender of Frank James. It is written in dignified yet graphic style, and is richly embellished with 70 engravings, giving accurate portraits of the outlaws, their comrades, their children, born in outlawry, and other members of the families, the Ford Boys, etc. The book is sold by subscription, and is said to be a genuine bonanza to agents. It is published by N. D. Thompson & Co., of New York and St. Louis. Their announcement will be found in another column.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffalers, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

A COLLECTION OF SOLECISMS.

The lively and facetious fancy of our American cousins finds a sphere for its exercise in the manufacture of graphic metaphorical phrases, and these with common American vulgarisms find so easy an acceptance among our people that we have collected a few specimens for curiosity, with their English equivalents:

To fix, fix up—To arrange, settle or repair.

Hurry, hurry up—Make haste (the word "hurry" only being used in substitution in England.)

On time—In time, punctual.

He lives on George street—He lives in George Street.

All the time—Always, continually, a great deal.

Half the time—As often as not.

For sure—For certain, without fail.

Inside of a week—Within a week.

To guess—to think.

It is mean—It is a pity. The word "mean" is used in England, only in the sense of "contemptible."

It is the meanest day you could have chosen—it is the worst or most unfavourable day you could have chosen.

I will call Monday—I will call on Monday.

To visit with so and so—To visit so and so.

Right away—At once; immediately.

Are you through?—Have you finished?

To call round—To call.

To be round—To be present.

To come along—To come; arrive.

How?—What do you mean?

That's too thin—That won't take me in.

He wilted—He gave in.

Take up a collection—To make a collection.

A soft thing—An easy appointment.

It's got to be done—It has to be done.

To feel like doing a thing—To feel inclined, etc.

Like I do—As I do.

That's too bad—That's a pity.

Likely—Probably.

What the trouble with—What's the matter.

To come near doing a thing—To nearly do, etc.

To go for—To attack.

SEALING THE VOW.

A correspondent writing from a Jersey camp-meeting, tells the following story:

"Many people sleep in the same tent here, separated by partitions. As young Methodist fellows are thrown with pretty young ladies a great deal, it is nothing against them that they sometimes fall in love.

Last night, they say, this happened. A young Methodist fellow from Camden had become quite interested in a pretty daughter of a farmer, and while a dozen cold hearted fellows were trying to sleep, they were continually disturbed by love's spoony talk, which they distinctly heard through the cotton cloth partitions.

They heard him say in a low, sweet, clarendon voice, "now Caroline, dear, do let us seal the vow,—do!"

"No, James, I cannot. What would my father and mother say?" replied the sweet, girlish voice.

"But, Caroline, you have promised to be mine—now—let us—won't you? Do let us!"

"No, James, I cannot. Oh! I can—"

In a moment the tent partition parted, and a big whiskered bachelor who wanted to go to sleep, shouted:

"For God's sake, Carrie, let Jim seal the vow. He'll keep us awake all night if you don't."

The vow was sealed.

PUT THIS IN YOUR PIPE.

"Frank P. Warner came into our store to purchase a sample bottle of Zopessa for a friend, and stated that he (Mr. Warner) was afflicted with kidney and liver troubles for five years, and had paid $200 or $300 doctor's bills, and has now been completely cured by the use of two large bottles and one sample bottle of Zopessa. He was so bad at one time that he lost 57 pounds of flesh, but after using Zopessa, claims that he is a sound man, and now weighs 185 pounds. He was loud in its praise, and readily consented to allow us to use his name for reference."

Again, Mrs. Forbes, wife of Mr. R. C. Forbes, Thistleburg, Ont., through Mr. C. Thomson, Druggist, says: "She was ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and was reduced to a mere skeleton, but through the use of Zopessa entirely recovered and has gained 38 pounds."

We could present very many such, but have not the time nor space. Zopessa is not a cure-all, but acts directly upon the liver, stomach, and kidneys, correcting the digestion, giving activity to the liver and health to the urine. This corrects the whole system and the blood becomes pure. 44-4t

BRIDGET'S WIT.

A lady had in her employ an excellent girl who had one fault. Her face was always in a smudge. Mrs. —— tried to tell her to wash her face without offending her, and at last she resorted to strategy.

"Do you know, Bridget," she remarked in a confidential manner, "it is said that if you wash your face every day in hot soapy water it will make you beautiful!"

"Will it?" answered the wily Bridget, "Sure it's a wonder ye never tried it, ma'am."

Another mistress who had just hired a new cook, made a tour of inspection after she had kept her for a week, and found a policeman locked in the pantry.

"How did this man get here?" asked the lady, severely.

"I'm sure I don't know," answered the girl; he must have been left over by the last cook."

NOT LARGE ENOUGH.

In response to an enquiry for court-plaster the other day a Lindsay druggist handed out a piece about six inches square and asked the boy if he thought that would do.

'I dunno,' was the doubtful reply.

'Who is it for?'

'For father.'

'Didn't he say how large a piece?'

'No; but I know that isn't half large enough. Ma hit him with the whole side of the wash board at once, and that won't begin to cover the clip!'

 Men are but sorry witnesses in their own cause." The praise of Kidney-Wort comes from the mouths of those who have been made strong and healthy by it. Listen: "It is curing everybody," writes a druggist. "Kidney-Wort is the most popular medicine we sell." It should be by right, for no other medicine has such specific action on the liver, bowels and kidneys.

NOCTURNAL DYSPEPSIA, mild in its character, and producing no actual suffering, often occasions persistent restlessness and want of sleep. The symptoms are mostly dryness of the mouth, occasional burning of the soles of the feet, heat and throbbing in the head, feverishness, resulting commonly from a too acid condition of the stomach from eating fatty, highly seasoned food, and, in some cases, taking too much wine. By securing complete digestion and assimilation, WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA has proved the most reliable means of curing this form of irritability.

The most wonderful curative remedies of the present day, are those that come from Germany, or at least originate there. The most recent preparation, placed upon the market in this country, is the GREAT GERMAN INVIGORATOR, which has never been known to fail in curing a single case of impotency, spermatorrhœa, weakness and all diseases resulting from self-abuse, as nervous debility, inability, mental anxiety, languor, lassitude, depression of spirits and functional derangements of the nervous system. Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

IT Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

IT This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Visiting Cards.—All the latest styles of visiting cards at the Examiner office.

Rifle Match.—Recently five civilian members of the Rifle Association issued a challenge for a friendly match with any five members of the cavalry troop. The challenge was accepted and the match was to be shot to day at the ranges, the weather permitting, otherwise the match will be postponed to a time to be agreed upon.

Traffic Returns.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada, for the week ending Oct., 21, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $6,666.15; freight, $21,613.86; total, $28,280.01, as compared with $25,355.47 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $1,924.14; and the aggregate traffic to date is $960,384.83, being an increase of $171,319.06 over 1881.

Accident.—On Friday, Mr. Thomas Bridgewater, foreman in McKee Bros. factory, met with an accident that will give him a pretty long holiday as far as his work is concerned. He was working in the factory at some ornaments for the St. John's Church when his hand came in contact with a circular saw and the fore finger of his left hand was split from the tip to nearly the last joint.

Thoroughbred Stock Sale.—The sale of thoroughbred stock that took place on the farm of Joseph Redmond on Wednesday was a successful one. The weather was good, the attendance was large, Mr. Charles Stapleton's management as usual judicious, and the hospitality shown by Mr. Redmond, all contributed to make the sale a success. Good prices were realised.

Harvesting Laborers.—This summer Mr. T. Cavanagh has been the instrument of increasing the population of this county by about 500 persons. Mr. Ted has a peculiarly winning way with him and his success in hiring navvies and other laborers shows that there is a slick side to his tongue. He has secured about 50 men for Mr. Hazlitt, 120 for the Ontario & Quebec, 200 for the Midland and about 70 for Mr. Strickland's shanties.

Accident at Auburn Mills.—On Saturday last Mrs. Robert Tulley was severely injured by a singular accident. She was assisting her husband who is a farmer, to put a young calf in the barn. The barn doors are some height from the ground and a wagon had been run against them. Mrs. Tully "tolled" the calf with a pail of milk into the wagon and while engaged in forcing the calf into the barn the animal "cut some caper" that threw the whole three to the ground. The calf falling on Mrs. Tully three of her ribs were broken at the point of their junction with the breast bone. "Dangers stand thick through all the ground."

Explanatory.—In crediting, in our last issue, the Orangemen, with their liberality in procuring an artificial leg for Mr. Park, the whole of the truth was not told. To Mr. J. M. Quinn, a pupil of the Collegiate Institute, belongs the credit of starting the work. By charitable persistence he collected from among the teachers and pupils of the institute $48. He then presented the claims of the young man to his Orange Brethren and they supplied the $52 necessary to make the required sum. The fact of Mr. Quinn being a Roman Catholic, shows that he was actuated by a spirit of pure benevolence, prompted not by any suggestions of party fellowship or social ties, but by that charity that "never faileth."

Painfully Sudden Death.—We record with deep regret the demise of Miss Caroline Harvey, second daughter of Dr. Harvey, of George street, which took place under circumstances that sadly emphasized the wonted painfulness of death. She had gone to Toronto on a visit and while there she was attacked with hemorrhage from the lungs and after a weeks' illness died on the 26th ult., far from home. The sudden taking off of this young lady, whose amiable and respect-compelling qualities made her beloved of her relatives and friends, and admired of her acquaintances, is a heavy affliction, in which the bereaved have the earnest sympathy of all who have lost loved ones, or have loved ones to lose.

The Missing Link.—Grading on the Missing Link is going on briskly in town. This week, workmen have been busy grading west of the bridge across Hamilton's creek. From the west the line runs just north of Hamilton's foundry, skirting the edge of the creek and passes close to Whyte & Co's foundry. In fact in the rear of the foundry there is an engine on the track already—that is to say, the centre of the track passes through Whyte & Co's engine and boiler rooms, over the spot where the engine now stands. A 200 feet wooden abutment is to be built along the stream at this point, and for this purpose the water was let out of the dam for a few days. This week the cutting through Morrow's hill off McDonell street, has been going on, the surplus dirt being carted down into fillings east of Reid street. It will not be long before the grading inside the town as far as the main track will be finished. Whyte & Co are kept busy repairing the tracks for the steam shovel—re-wheeling about twenty per week.

Barley weighing 52 pounds to the bushel has been bought on the market.

Regular meeting of the Town Council on Monday evening next.

The date for the regular meeting of the School Board is next Tuesday night.

The house-cleaning brigade hangs out its banner—curtainless windows,—in every hand.

Memorial Cards.—All the latest styles of memorial cards at the Examiner office.

Half a dozen stock cars have been added to the rolling stock of the Midland R. R.

The second ward of Peterborough contributes nearly half of the taxes paid by the whole town.

Twenty navvies from quaint Quebec arrived in town on Tuesday, to work on the Missing Link.

His Lordship Bishop Jamot, accompanied by Rev. Father Lynch, have been making domiciliary pastoral visits in the town.

Rink street is being extended across Spaulding's Bay, a bold beginning of the work of filling in this manufactory of miasma.

Almost everybody is taking advantage of the fine weather to snug up their premises in readiness for the approaching ingress of winter.

The Government drag has done its work as far as the harbour is concerned, and is now operating at Ashburnham wharf and Cemetery Point.

The machinery at the pump house of the water works is about ready for work, and the test of the works will, if nothing prevents, take place in a few days.

Mr. D. Sullivan is enlarging his grocery premises on Rubidge street, between Charlotte and King street, preparatory to enlarging his business.

The present favourable weather is being taken advantage of by contractors, and work is being pushed energetically in all parts of the town,

Summer is lingering in the lap of winter in a most flirtatious manner, and nobody except the man who has coal and cordwood to sell objects to the situation.

"The golden hours, on angel wings,
Flew o'er me and my dearie;"
For the boots we wore so easy and neat,
Were bought from Johnson Carey.—
George Street, Peterborough. 44-tf

A tramp shed his old clothes at a boat house at the foot of Wolfe street, last Friday, and the inhabitants of the vicinity worked up a theory of suicide. Chief Johnson secured the outfit.

The weather clerk gave us a slice of April last Tuesday—sunshine and showers—and an aspiring thermometer. The slumbrous autumnal air was soft and balmy enough to have breathed of opening roses.

The other morning a young gentleman had a narrow escape from having his eye put out by running against the brim of the hat of a young lady on the opposite side of the street. She wore one of those wonderful head-gears that look like an upholstered bicycle wheel.

On Friday night the Fire Brigade band entertained Messrs. Joseph Hill, the snare drummer of the band, and Mr. W. J. Devlin with a honey-moonlight serenade, in honor of their recent assumption of benedictine bonds, and met with substantial recognitions.

A mischievous youngster kindled a bonfire on the bridge on Hunter street on Tuesday. Of course there was no danger at the hour of mid-day, but if he had operated in a more retired spot, there might have been a serious fire. Matches should be kept out of children's reach.

Wedding Stationery.—The finest stock of wedding stationery in town can be found at the Examiner office,

The Fisk Jubilee Singers.—This celebrated musical company, the Fisk University Jubilee Singers, have, we are pleased to announce, made an engagement to appear in Bradburn's Opera House on November 14th, in one of their delightful musical entertainments. They always perform to delighted audiences.

Mason's Greenhouses.—Mr. Frank Mason has been making some important additions to his green houses situated on Antrim street off Water. He is erecting a new green house, 25x50 feet, covering an area 1,250 feet, which with the houses before erected, will give him a total area of over five thousand square feet under glass. His business, is principally the propagation of bedding and house plants, and he generally has early on the market a fine stock of cabbage, tomato and other kinds of plants. At the time of our reporter's visit Mr. M. was busy potting bulbs, of which he has a splendid stock, including a large stock of hyacinth and tulip bulbs imported direct from Holland. Before long Mr. Mason will occupy the new building in the post office block, George street, which he is fitting up as a seed store and plant house, where he will keep in stock all kinds of garden and flower seeds, and house and bedding plants. He intends erecting at his store a new green house 36x12 feet for a conservatory and show room. For the convenience of his customers his shop will be connected by telephone with his gardens and orders can therefore be promptly filled. He will open out his new store in a few days. Mr. Mason has been ten years at the business and is at home in his calling and reliable in his transactions.

A Splendid Record.—Under the crucial test of actual experiment, the Peterborough Collegiate Institute has vindicated the claim of possessing an organization and staff that for facilities and faculties of imparting instruction has few equals in the province, everything considered. Look at the grand record of achievements done the past year. Of pupils trained at the institute, five secured 2nd A certificates; thirteen 2nd B certificates; two 1st C certificates, and eight passed the Intermediate examinations. Nineteen honors were taken at University Examinations, Toronto; one passed the primary examinations in law at Osgoode Hall; three secured scholarships at Queen's and one matriculated at Victoria University, Cobourg. To show that the laurles do not all belong to the Institute it may be mentioned that the public schools of Peterborough the past educational year, prepared the exceedingly large number of twenty-nine who passed the entrance examinations. The achievements of both are highly gratifying, and we are not indisposed to attach a paramount importance to the excellence of the preliminary training imparted by the public schools. If the foundation of a building is substantial and solid, the skilled and careful artizan has a lighter task in completing what has been well began and raising a substantial and creditable superstructure. Taken together the two schools are a good team.

The Health of the District.—The Health Bulletin, issued weekly by the Provincial Board of Health of Ontario is to hand. Its returns show how sensitively the public health responds to changes in the weather. In the reports issued during the recently prevalent warm weather, it was seen that diarrhœa, a disease peculiarly incident to periods of high temperature, assumed a leading place in the table of degree of prevalence. The temperature has lately fallen considerably, and diseases of the throat and respiratory organs come to the front. Throughout the province, for the week ended October 21st, Bronchitis, Quinsy, Scarlatina and Whooping Cough show the highest percentage and area of prevalence. In district number four, including the Midland District, to bronchitis, influenza, and consumption are attributable twenty-six per cent. of the total deaths, while for the preceding week they were credited with only twenty-one per cent. In detail the percentage of diseases in this district for the week in question, is as follows:—Brochitis, 11; Influenza, 8; Consumption, 7; Anæmia, 7; Neuralgia, 6; Heart Disease, 5. During the week the highest temperature was 70.50° and the lowest was 28°.

Resolution of Condolence.—The following resolution of condolence was unanimously adopted at the late regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, I. O. O. F.

Moved by Bro. D. H. Moore, seconded by Bro. R. Nimmo, that whereas it has pleased the Almighty in the exercise of His unerring wisdom to remove from amongst us by the hand of death our late Brother Samuel White, we the brethren of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, desire to place on record our feelings of regret at the demise of a brother who has been so long one of our number. How greatly we shall miss him in the councils of our gatherings, words are weak to express. He was always an earnest co-worker with his fellow members in all that pertained to the promotion of the prosperity of our lodge and order; and that we most respectfully desire to extend to his bereaved widow and family our condolence in the loss of a faithful and affectionate husband and a fond father, coupled with the hope that the Great Comforter will bestow the only consolation possible under so irreparable a loss; and that the secretary be instructed to forward a copy of the above resolution to his widow and family.

Signed, J. R. SMITH, Rec. Sec.,
Peterborough Lodge, No. 111 I.O.O.F.

Incendiarism.—This summer Peterborough has been visited with several fires that plainly seem to have been incendiary, and on Saturday night there was a fresh outbreak of the epidemic. About twelve o'clock a blaze was seen at Mr. Adam Hall's store-house at the railroad track in time to be easily put out, and cotton waste, which had been thrown, saturated with oil, from the boxes of car wheels, was piled against the side of the storehouse in which there were about a hundred barrels of coal oil. The fire was put out without trouble. On Sunday night, Messrs. Hall, Innis & Co. received warm attentions from the fire fiend. About one o'clock Mr. Noble, of Water street, discovered a fire in the yard in rear of their shop. The alarm was at once given and the fire, which had not made very great progress, was extinguished. Over the wooden gratings of one of the cellar windows a large heap of straw, sticks, rubbish, old boxes, a coal oil barrel, etc., had been piled and set on fire. The fire had got nicely started and had just began to lay hold of the inner frame of the cellar windows when discovered. The escape from a big blaze was providential. If Mr. Noble's sick child had not aroused him, it is hard to tell how far the ruin might have spread. The probable ruffian who set the fire was seen in the yard in the afternoon, apparently reconnoitring, by Mr. Conolly of the Ontario bank. When the villain saw that he was observed he skulked behind some packing cases and no more attention was paid to him. It would not be a bad idea to put on a special watchman, seeing that miserable miscreants, for plunder or other motives, seem bound to burn down the town.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Thomas Donnelly, of Belleville, formerly of Peterborough, made us a friendly call on Friday last.

Mr. McMaster, of this town, is superintending the extensions being made to the Lindsay Town Hall by Mr. T. Bradburn.

We greatly regret to learn that the health of D. G. Hatton, Esq., Police Magistrate, is still in a precarious condition. He is confined to his bed and is indeed ill.

By a clerical error the name of Mr. A. Sawers was omitted from those that composed the "big sixteen," Gull Lake hunting party whose remarkable success was chronicled in our last issue.

We observe from the Winnipeg Free Press, that Mr. W. J. Larmour, a former resident of Peterborough, has been elected treasurer of the new Court of Canadian Foresters recently organized in Winnipeg.

We are pleased to notice that two more Peterborough pupils have converted themselves into new leaves for the laural crown of the Collegiate Institute, by passing the Freshman examinations at Victoria University. They are Miss Willoughby, daughter of R. N. Willoughby, a former pupil of the Collegiate Institute and Mr. J. H. Burrows. At the rate of supply this year the Collegiate Institute could keep an ordinary college "going."

At one time it was thought the town was to lose Rev. Father Lynch as a citizen. We believe arrangements had been made to go to Moriaburgh. But the parish could never do without him, so the Bishop brought him to reconsider his decision. After years of toil, Rev. Father Lynch had got the affairs of the parish running so smoothly that he was not required to put forth very great exertions, but the recent changes in the parish, throw any amount of work on him taht deprived him of the comparative ease, his active life has earned for his maturer years, and he had decided to remove, but everybody will be glad to hear that he has reconsidered his decision and intends remaining amongst us.

Speaking in reference to the compliment conferred on Mr. T. D. Belcher, in connection with Trent Valley Canal surveys, the Bobcaygeon Independent says: "This is a well deserved acknowledgment. For some years Mr. Belcher has given untiring attention to this scheme, attention that has been given entirely con amore without expectation of reward either directly or indirectly. It has been to the efforts of this gentleman that the pot has been kept boiling, so to speak, and the successful issue to the present, is due in a great measure to his unceasing exertions. So far, so good. Let the Government spend all it will on works for the improvement of this district. It is argued that the Government will spend so much in a year, and a portion of that money may as well be spent amongst us as in any other part of the Dominion. The argument is not a good one, but it has a certain amount of virtue. It cannot be expected that a dollar a year journal can be angelically virtuous. An occasional slide from the strict line of virtue must be overlooked."

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The times are dull in and around this vicinity.

On account of the water being so low in the river this season, we fail to hear the sound of the steam whistle.

Keene station is now occupied, and the efficient agent seems to give entire satisfaction.

Fall wheat is looking well in spite of the dry weather.

We believe that the services of Mr. W. J. Campbell, as teacher for the senior department of Keene Public School, have been secured for the year 1883.

A happy affair took place at the residence of Henry Kirby, Esq., being the marriage of his eldest daughter, Sarah, to Francis Dunnigan, Esq., of Beaverton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Toxeland. After they had been pronounced man and wife, the company adjourned to the dining room where a sumptuous repast was provided at which cordial congratulations and warm wishes for the future happiness of the worthy pair found expression. The presents were gorgeous and many. We wish them bon voyage through life, and may they safely anchor in the harbor where they shall go in and out no more forever. The happy pair left Keene on Friday morning last for their home in Beaverton.

Cupid has apparently shot a few more darts and we believe the would-be benedicts, will, before long, be laid on the altar of hymn to be operated on to produce a radical cure.

The Galt Reporter—staunch Tory that it is—referring to the contest in South Waterloo, "acknowledges that South Waterloo has on this occasion given no uncertain sound, but has declared its satisfaction with the manner in which the Province has been ruled by Mr. Mowat and his Cabinet."

In Montreal.

Since the removal of Dr. M. Souveille's Throat and Lung institute to his new quarters, 173 Church street, hundreds suffering from catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and many diseases of the throat and lungs have received treatment by his new and wonderful instrument, the spirometer, which conveys medicines in the form of cold inhalations to the parts diseased. Physicians and sufferers can try it free. Poor people bearing certificates will be furnished with spirometer free. Write enclosing stamp for pamphlet giving full particulars, to Dr. M. Souveille, ex-aide surgeon of the French army, 173 Church street Toronto, or 13 Phillips' Square, Montreal. 44-tf

Peterborough Water Works Completed.

Full and Accurate Description of the Plant and Machinery—Everything Substantial and Solid—First Class Water Wheels and Pumps—The Filtering Apparatus—The Mains—Honor to whom Honor—A Public Test.

On Tuesday night last the connections between the filtering basin, the pumps and the mains of the works of the Peterborough water company were completed.

The Peterborough Water Works Company was organized about a year since. Mr. James Gamble, a New York Stock Broker, was anxious to build water works, and and agreed so to do, in spite of the stringent stipulations involved in permission that might be granted by the Town Council, but when the by-law was passed by the Council the stringency of its stipulations damped even the sanguine ardor of Mr. Gamble, and he would have none of the water works. The project was likely to lapse into oblivion but Mr. D. G. Hatton took [illegible] in hand and worked it up with such success that the result was the formation of a strong and energetic company. Mr. Hatton's efforts did not stop at this, but they have been untiring, and it is to his push and ceaseless energy, his disregard of the many obstacles that fell in his way, that the present successful accomplishment of the objects of the company is largely due, and it is a matter of regret that the moving spirit of the enterprise, when the "end crowns the work" is laid prostrate on a bed of disease. The

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

at present are:—
WM. CLUXTON, President.
G. W. HATTON, Secretary-Treasurer.
J. H. WEBBER, Mechanical Superintendent.
The Directors are:—
J. BURNHAM, M. P.,
WM. CLUXTON,
R. P. BOUCHER, M. D.,
D. G. HATTON,
G. W. HATTON.

Mr. Hatton, however, has had almost sole control of the management of operations during the past summer, and done most of the business.

GROUND WAS BROKEN,

for the actual beginning of operations on the first of May, and from that time the work has progressed as fast as was consistent with the substantial nature of the work accomplished.

The construction of the foundations of the pump room was a most arduous and difficult undertaking. In blasting for the foundations for the walls and water-wheels it was found almost impossible to build a coffer-dam that would exclude the water, for if the dam was made tight the water would ooze through the crevices of the rock, and interfere with the operations of the workmen. The greater part of the rock excavations had to be done under water, but the perseverance and intelligent adaptation of means to ends by the efficient superintendent, Mr. J. H. Webber, never flagged. The work was pushed on, and every obstacle overcome.

THE PUMP HOUSE

is 33 feet square, and situated about a hundred feet south of Hilliard's dam, directly on the river bank on its western side. The foundation walls are 2½ feet in thickness, laid in Portland cement above the water line. The walls are hollow, and consequently frost-proof, and the work is done in the most thorough manner. The building is only one storey, well lighted and neatly finished throughout. In the lower face of the foundation walls that runs parallel to the river, are arches to admit the escape of the spent water from the wheels. Water for the supply of the water power is furnished by which is most substantially built of heavy planking, and is twelve feet in height by eight feet in width, tied together by heavy iron tie rods, at each bent—about ten feet apart. The flume begins at the crest of Hilliard's dam, and extends southward about 150 feet, the latter 33 feet being built adjoining the foundation walls of the pump-house. At the lower limit of the flume, on a line with the southern wall of the pump house, is a gate for flushing and cleaning the flume when required. At the upper end of the flume are stoplogs, and then a wooden screen overlaid with coarse wire screens, which exclude foreign floating matter, so that the water for the wheels is free from foreign matter that might hinder their action, and the water for fire purposes, which, as as will be shown below, is drawn from the flume, will contain nothing to clog the hose or their nozzles.

THE FLUME

THE PURE WATER SUPPLY,

that is, water for domestic and drinking purposes, is drawn from a crib with filter screens, which is situate in mid stream of the river, about 100 yards above the dam. It is conveyed thence by a supply pipe, which runs along the bottom of the flume, to the filter flume attached to the pump house, by a pipe eighteen inches in diameter, the water from which is discharged into a basin filled with finer wire screens than those in the outer or river crib. These screens are so adjusted as to be movable, and they exclude all fine sawdust and vegetable matter that may be held in suspension in the water. After this is accomplished, the water flows into screen boxes, six in number, filled with charcoal, through which it percolates into and through a bed of fine gravel into the

PURE WATER TANK.

From this it is pumped to the town. A fifteen inch pipe connects the pure water tank to the pumps, through which it is forced into the mains. In case of a great demand in case of fire this supply is cut off by a valve, and a pipe that leads directly into the flume, admits to the pumps the flume water, which, as shown above, is pure enough for fire purposes. The filtering apparatus is contained in the lower section of a wing advanced from the north side of the main building, about 13 feet square, and the utmost care has been taken in the construction of the apparatus in order to secure perfect purity, chemical as well as physical. The passage through the screens removes the vegetable; charcoal neutralizes possible organic animal matter and the passage through the fine sand completes the purification. A gentleman who has had extensive means of observation, asserts with positiveness that the water that will be supplied to the town will be as pure as any in the Dominion of Canada.

Absolutely pure water having been, by the apparatus described, secured, attention is next naturally directed to the means of distributing it through the mains to the town, and this suggests

THE WATERWHEELS AND MACHINERY.

To begin at the beginning, in considering the motive mechanism the water-wheels and machinery, connecting them with the pumps, are to be noted.

The waterwheels are the 33-inch Little Giant turbine, manufactured by the celebrated firm J. C. Wilson & Co., Picton, whose works are situated at "Stone Mills" on the Lake on the Mountain, where a waterhead of 175 feet is available for [illegible] purposes. The capacity of the wheels at the waterworks is 64 horsepower to each with a twelve feet head. As before noted, the flume runs along the east side of the wheel house. Into openings in the bottom of the flume opposite the wheels are fitted two immense tubes of boiler plate three and a half feet in diameter. These descend about two and a half feet and then forming an elbow extend inward beneath arches of the foundation wheels about six feet connecting with the case of the water-wheels, from which they are, however, separated by a gate operated by gearing from within the pump room above. At the end of the pen-stock, just beneath the under surface of the floor, is a horizontal bevel pinion, about two feet in diameter, which is geared into a vertical bevel wheel. This wheel is feathered on its horizontal shaft, (which, like all the shafts, is five inches in diameter) so that by a lever it can be thrown out of gear with the pen-stock pinion,—in case of accident to the wheel or pumps and the other wheel is sufficiently powerful to run one or both pumps. At the opposite end of this shaft is an iron mitre wheel 4 feet and a half in diameter, geared into another mitre wheel with wooden cogs, on the line shaft running, of course, at right angles to the previously mentioned shaft. A spur pinion three feet in diameter—one for each gang communicates the motion to a five feet spur mitre wheel on the pump shaft. The machinery thus far described, is duplicated, there being one gang for each of the two pumps. These gangs can either be run separately or conjointly. For these purposes the line shaft is in two sections, connected by a slip coupling which can be detached when required, and each pump worked separately by its own wheel. When the shaft is connected either wheel can drive both pumps or both wheels operate on the two pumps together. At the ends of the pump shaft connected as before described, with the line shaft, are cranks attached to the connection rods that drive

THE PUMPS.

These are made by the Knowles Manufacturing Company, Boston, and are put in by Messrs. Buchanan & Co., Montreal. Each pump is double acting, one chamber filling while the other is discharging. Each stroke draws the water from the supply pipe, and passes it through the pump and then with the back stroke, it goes into the mains. The cranks of the two pumps are set on the pump shaft, "at quarters," as it is technically called, that is, while the closed aspect of one crank is up the other is down, and vice versa, so that both pumps may not be on a "dead centre" at once and when extra force may be required as in case of fire, the strokes given alternately produce a continuous and steady flow of water.

The turbines exercise their immense power without "fuss," and the discharge of the used water is so quiet that the surplus water that flows beneath the flume to join the river shows little or no sign of the tremendous force it has just exerted.

When in motion the wheels and the attached machinery run with extreme smoothness and without a perceptible jar and with little noise beyond a subdued roar. These facts are a proof of the excellent manner in which the machinery is made and the exactness with which the parts are fitted together. The cogs of the gearing are of wood and iron alternately the iron cogs, after being cast (as well as the wooden ones) are placed on a gear cutter and made as true and exactly one like the other as machinery can make them. When in bearing each cog presses over its whole length evenly, squarely and uniformly against the entire face of the opposite one. This accounts for the absence of jar and the wood and iron coming together, for the absence of noise. The bearings for the shafts are all made of bronze planed to fit exactly and highly polished where exposed to view. The pedestals on which the shaft bearings rest are made with the greatest care and exactitude and nothing is left undone to make the machinery run with the nearest possible approach to the pefection of smoothness. All the shafts are brightly polished as well as the bolt heads and nuts and all parts of the machinery not usually painted. In fact the entire machinery presents as highly finished an appearance as the best of engine work. It weighs about twelve tons, and rests on heavy beams fifteen inches square placed closely together, and the solidity of the timbers make them a fit resting place for their ponderous burden and will tend to reduce its "wear and tear" to a minimum. The water works company are fortunate in securing the services of Messrs, J. C. Wilson & Co., for they now have a set of machinery that cannot be surpassed either for substantial solidity, exactness of construction and fit, or for beauty and tastefulness of appearance. It was put in under the superintendence of Mr. V. Merrill, a member of the firm and the care and skill exercised in the work have won for him the gratitude of the directors of the company. He completed his work on Friday last.

We have attached considerable importance to the motive machinery for on its permanence and stability depend the continuity of supply of water and the general reliability of the works.

The water has, in this sketch, been brought to

THE MAINS.

These have the substantial and solid impress of that care and solicitude that suggest the desire of the company to have everything throughout as first class, as skill, labor and money can make them, for none of these has been spared. In the first place the pipes, which were made by the great firm of Laidlaw & Son, Glasgow, Scotland, are "as good as they make them." Every section of pipe was tested by an engineer, employed in Scotland by the waterworks company, and not one foot of pipe was paid for till the certificate of the engineer as to its absolute soundness, was in the hands of the company. To make assurance sure the pipes were tested as to soundness as they came off the cars, and if a pipe, in the least unsound, was laid, its imperfection, was beyond the reach of human scrutiny.

Mr. John Kinsella of Ottawa, had the contract for excavating and filling the trenches, and his contract has given the company every satisfaction.

Mr. Walter Drury of Birmingham, England, the contractor for the laying of the pipes, is an expert at the business, and it is claimed that a better laid system of water mains in every respect does not exist in America. Last Monday night Mr. D. was working all night to complete the connections between the pumps and the mains.

The total length of pipe laid is between three and four miles. The system extends from the Water Works down George street to about a hundred feet below Sherbrook street.

On Hunter, from George to Rubidge street.

On Water, from Smith to Brock street.

On Aylmer, from Hunter to Charlotte street.

On Dublin, from George to Water street.

On Simcoe, from Aylmer to Water street.

On London, from George to Water street.

These comprise the mains as at present laid down, but the length will be increased as the demand requires. On Monday the secretary ordered a hundred lengths of 3 inch pipe for the extension of Water street.

Twenty-five hydrants, costing $40 each have been ordered and six have already been put in position, for the purpose of showing what the works are capable of. The cost of putting down a hydrant exclusive of its first cost of $40, is about $75, so it will be seen that the company are anxious that the permanent location of hydrants should be decided on, before they are put in.

The names of the officials of the company have already been given. The consulting engineer of the works is Mr. R. Surtees, of Ottawa, with a wide and favorable reputation for skill in this, his specialty.

Mr. J. E. Belcher is the resident engineer and to his intelligent watchfulness and quick insight, the company is deeply indebted for the smoothness with which his part of the work has run. Mr. Belcher is so well known, that any further praise would be to ——paint the lily,

And throw a perfume on the violet.

In collecting the information for this sketch, our reporter has heard from all parties concerned nothing but words of praise and hearty commendation for the excellent manner in which Mr. John H. Webber, the mechanical superintendent, has acquitted himself of the difficult and responsible trust reposed in him by the company. He has had great difficulties to encounter, but he has overcome them all, and all the work done under his supervision is an abiding example of the truth of the proverb, that what is worth doing is worth doing well.

A PUBLIC TEST.

It is expected, will take place some day this week, but owing to the absence of the consulting engineer, the day cannot be fixed.

BELLEVILLE.

On Tuesday evening a number of boys went to the residence of a coloured man in Cranetham, named Henry Wilson, alias Ardell, and, as they say, asked him to play the fiddle for them. Wilson's reply to their request was to reach for his gun, which appears to have been loaded with duckshot, and fired it amongst them as they stood in the road-way. Most of them were wounded, one near the eye, another in the lower part, of the face, and another about the breast. Fortunately none of the wounds are of a dangerous character.

A boy named Edward Pringle, call boy at the Grand Trunk, in attempting to jump on a running engine, Wednesday morning, fell underneath the wheels and his right leg was smashed and had to be amputated.

COBOURG.

A large quantity of grain came in by the Cobourg and Peterboro railway on Saturday for our buyers here. It was purchased on the shores of Rice Lake.

The Woolen Mills have shut down for two weeks repairs. Two new boilers are being placed in position, and we believe another card room is about to be fitted up with new machinery.

The work at the Arlington is progressing rapidly, and if fine weather continues, a very short time will see the brickwork completed. The extension will be quite large, and will make a great improvement in the House.

We understand, says the Sentinel Star His Lordship Bishop Jamot, of this, the new diocese of Peterborough, is expected here next week for this first episcopal visit to Cobourg, and that he will administer the sacrament of Confirmation in St. Michael's Church, on Sunday, the 12th inst, and that preparations are being made accordingly.

Mr. John Purser, the great cider man, has received an order for 2000 gallons, imperial measure from a firm in Montreal.

LINDSAY.

Mr. W. Jack is buying hogs largely just now. He requires a couple of thousands for a venture he has gone into in Montreal. He is picking up a great many in this section.

Mr. P. McDonald has at his store a 10 ounce apple of the beauty of Kent variety. It is a fine sample of this fruit, and was grown by a farmer, whose name we did not learn, near Bethany.

The Orangemen of the district intend celebrating the 5th of November by a dinner at Mr. Bannan's on Monday evening the 6th, as the anniversary falls on Sunday this year. An excellent spread may be expected at Mr. Bannan's.

The adjourned meeting of the Lindsay curling club was held at the rink on Wednesday evening week. Thirteen new members were proposed and elected by ballot. The following skips were elected for 1882-83:—Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, S. A. McMurtry, Jas. Keith, Jno. [illegible]lan, Wm. McBurney, Wm. Needler, T. E. Bradburn, John McLennan. Messrs. J. D. and S. A. McMurtry were elected club skips to play at foreign matches. A committee composed of Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, John Matthie, J. Keith was appointed to report on all medals won since the formation of the club, including honors of the same. The club is in a highly satisfactory condition and anticipate an excellent season's play if the ice is anything near as keen as the spirit and zeal of the members.

PORT HOPE.

Mr. Bird succeeds Mr. Copeland as accountant of the Toronto Bank.

A team from Victoria College, Cobourg, cleaned out the local High School Foot Ball Club on Tuesday. There was not as large an attendance at the grounds as the good play on each side warranted.

The wedding referred to recently between a wealthy Toronto brewer and one of Port Hope's fair ones is set down for the 22nd instant.

Mr. Wm. Russell, son of Mr. D. Russell, heard away off in Pennsylvania that a project was on foot to erect a monument to the memory of the late Lewis Rose, and sent his subscription to the undertaking without being asked. Such a tribute is worth receiving.

Mr. Geo. Robinson, lot 32, con. 5, Hamilton township, has left a turnip at the News office, grown on his farm, which cannot be said to be of small proportions. It measures two feet ten inches in circumference, and weighs sixteen and a half pounds. Manitoba cannot beat that.

Henay Gohen, a farmer, who lives about six miles north-east of Port Hope, on lot No. 35, 5th concession of Hamilton, was robbed Thursday of $1,000 in cash. He was in town with a load of grain, and, as is his custom, took the money home with him, and deposited it in a trunk in his bedroom, where he had considerably more money. He then went into the dining-room and remained there until nine o'clock. When he retired he found the trunk in which the cash was stored gone. The bedroom window had been raised, and the trunk taken out. It was found next morning in the adjoining woods. It was evidently some person well acquainted with the premises and with the business of the farmer who committed the robbery.

An Irish Heiress Marries a Constable.

Two years ago Miss Ellard, the owner of a fine estate at Newtonellard, Ireland, was fired at, but both she and her coachman fortunately escaped the bullet of the assassin. Shortly afterward police protection was afforded Miss Ellard, two sub-constables being drawn from the New Pallas station and appointed to that duty. The guards appear to have acquitted themselves to her entire satisfaction, and one of them, Sub-Constable Sheehy, a brave, dashing young fellow, proved himself so highly agreeable that she resolved to render his protection a permanent duty. The young, wealthy and accomplished lady has, in plainer words, given her hand and heart to Sub-Constable Sheehy, who is now the husband of a beautiful [illegible] and a landed proprietor, with an income it is stated, of £10,000 a year.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 9, 1882.

The Bible in Public Schools.

The attempt, made, no doubt, with he best intentions, to introduce the compulsory reading of the Bible in public schools, has not met with general public favor, by any means. The Bible has for centuries withstood the vigorous attacks of legislative and even fiercer persecution, yet in spite of these onslaughts to restrict its spread and lessen its influence, its power is daily growing greater, and it needs not the slight assistance implied in the proposed introduction of it into our public schools. Our public school curriculum is such a formidable matter now, that on this score the introduction of an additional number of subjects into the programme is to be deprecated. Besides, owing to the religiously conflicting elements that compose our public school population, the compulsory introduction of the Bible in them will, in sections where there is not strength enough to render separate schools advisable or practicable, give the weaker party an excuse to complain of an injustice being forced upon them, and in a mixed population like ours the very appearance of evil is to be avoided. If the proposal to make "Marmion" a text book raised so great a storm, what will not the introduction of the Bible do? Even if the proposal includes means of providing for saving the consciences of Roman Catholic school children, the details of the scheme would be so complicated and unwieldy that the result would not repay the labour expended. The functions of the church, with its clergymen, its ministers, and its Sunday Schools, certainly include, if they include anything, the care of the religious training of the children of the people, and there are already found those who say that the endeavour on the part of ministers to introduce the Bible into our schools is but a device, under cover of laudable reasons to relieve themselves of a share of their responsibility. And others assert that the Bible, as a compulsory book in our schools, means only the thin end of the wedge to open a way for the practical union of church and state. Without canvassing the weight of these suggestions, there is enough in them to show that public opinion is hostile to the proposition under consideration. We do not, for a moment, underrate the importance of an intimate popular acquaintance with the truths of the Bible, but the broad field of home instruction, the efforts of the church and its clergy are doubtless amply sufficient to this end, and certain to be more satisfactory. Parents, primarily, and ministers or clergymen after their choice, are responsible for the moral and religious training of their children, and no parent with proper sense of such responsibility, would be willing to delegate it to a teacher, whose qualifications do not necessarily include the requisite knowledge of the Bible, and ability for its proper explanation, or the practical piety or practical morality that would make him or her a safe guide on such an all-important matter as the religious training of the young.

The Egyptian Muddle.

The trouble in Egypt is not yet over. The "False Prophet" has at last turned up in a tangible form, and is no longer a myth, but a very troublesome reality. The enrolment of troops to crush him is going forward briskly under the supervision of Baker Pasha, of railway carriage love-making notoriety. Arabi Bey has, of course, excited a great deal of uneasiness, and the means of disposing of him are difficult to decide on. As his trial progresses, it becomes apparent more and more that the Sultan of Turkey will be the next to be dealt with in some manner. It appears that he has overtly aided and abetted Arabi in his insurrection, and the upshot is likely to be that the wily and deceitful Turk will no longer be trusted with the suzerainty of Egypt. This will add an additional complication to the settlement of the Egyptian question. If Turkey is not allowed to retain the protectorate of Egypt, the burning question arises, who will be intrusted with it? Egypt does not seem to be competent just at present to walk alone, and it will not do to allow the Porte to misguide her affairs without interference.

Notes of the Day.

THE reduction of the debt of the United States last month amounted to fifteen million and a half dollars.

IT has been decided by the Longfellow memorial committee that a bust of the deceased poet shall be placed in the poet's corner, Westminster Abbey.

THE Minister of Education has extended the time for the payment of grants to Mechanics' Institutes' throughout the Province, which expired on Wednesday last, to December 1st. About $20,000 has been paid out since the first of May.

JUDGE BOSWELL, of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, will immediately retire on a pension. He will be succeeded by Judge Clark, Junior judge of the same counties. Mr. Thomas Benson Q. C., of Port Hope, will succeed Judge Clark.

THE POPE has intrusted to Errington, the British Agent at Rome, an autograph letter to Queen Victoria, cordially thanking her for the interest shown in the welfare of Catholics throughout her vast dominions, and for the religious freedom enjoyed under the British Government. The Pope has also forwarded presents to the Queen through Errington.

A CHANGE in the uniform of the officers of the Canadian militia has taken place. The new style of gold lace will have on it a maple leaf, emblematical of the Canadian coat of arms. The lace will be of special make, and of the best quality. The sashes of crimson heretofore used will be abolished, and in their place will be substituted a white belt crossed in front of the body, while at balls and parties a gold crossbelt will be used.

THE purity of American office-holders has just received another powerful vindication. An alleged scandal has been brought to light, affecting the Supreme Court of the United States, at Washington, through the resignation of George R. Simmons, an assistant clerk. The Clerk of the Court is accused of fraudulently pocketing many thousands of dollars from litigants and the United States Government, through pretending to copy original documents when such was not the case. An official enquiry will probably be made into the charges, and if the accused have plenty of money, he will, no doubt, like the Star Route swindlers, be acquitted.

MR. MOUSSEAU, in leaving the Dominion Cabinet to become Premier of Quebec, has apparently jumped from the frying pan into the fire. A caucus of the bleus held the other day at Quebec resulted in disclosing the fact that out of a House of 65, there are 34 votes sure to go against Mr. Mousseau, so that, with a petition against his recent return, including charges of personal bribery that may disqualify him, his position is not an enviable one. The Bleu party is thoroughly disorganized, and after almost financially ruining the province, they are to be turned out of power by their own friends. And yet it is sought to displace a Reform administration with a Tory one in Ontario.

THE CAPITAL of the new northwest province, Assineboia, Regina, is being settled rapidly. Half the lots in the heart of the city have been sold at $250 per lot. Last summer there were on its site only a few tents dotting the prairie, now there are eight hotels, eighteen stores, two blacksmith shops, a saddler's shop, two tin shops, two livery stables, three billiard halls, two bakeries, two drug stores, one jeweller's shop, three doctors, six lawyers and six lumber yards. The population is between eight and nine hundred. Six church sites have been chosen, and there are two bank sites selected for building, and to close the catalogue, Richard Flood Davin is to start a religious newspaper there.

WITH the Tory party in Quebec tumbling into chaos, and the Reform party advancing in Ontario like a giant refreshed with new wine, the Tory sheets have the assurance to twaddle about the decline of the Liberal party, and the probability of its falling to pieces at no distant day. The Reform party decreased Sir John Macdonald's majority at the June elections; and the victorious result of the recent elections which, as Mr. Meredith declared, are an indication of a greater triumph next June, go to show, one would think, an increase of strength. Go, Tory scribes, and seek some other source of consolation than the prospect of the Reform party going to pieces.

THE Canada First party has again risen like phœnix, etc., under a new name in Toronto. The name of the new organization is "The National Liberal Union," and as it seems, the object is to foster and develop a national spirit in Canada. As far as that goes we can sympathize with their aims and wish them success. Canadians, as Canadians, lack patriotic cohesion, and nationally are in a chaotic state. What we would like to see is a deeper spirit of love for Canada as their birth-place, their present and future home—their country, developed. Loyalty and obedience to the mother country are not to be disparaged; they are inseparably connected with the allegiance we owe her through our political connection, which it would at present be premature to sunder, both for sentimental and substantial reasons, but that need not prevent us from preferring ourselves, and thinking our national position, so to speak, humble though it be, as good as any in the world, because it is our own. As a country we need to have more self-respect, and until the mass of people themselves learn the lesson of love of country and teach it to their children, the incentive to action will be wanting, and achievements in science, art, literature, etc., that depend on a hearty and healthy appreciation and support, will be impossible. We have the corporeal essentials of a nation, but not until the spirit of a national life is breathed into them can we be a living nation, and without it we shall always remain an unambitious dependency, with the half-hearted and purposeless aims and aspirations that attend a dependent condition. And until this spirit is more fully developed—till country comes to be preferred to party—we are not ripe for what is pointed out as our ultimate destiny—independence.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Of course the "perspicacity" of our Friday Tory contemporary is beyond compare. His sensitive soul could be guilty of nothing pointless, vague, stupid, incomprehensible, or destitute of logic or thought, still, we might ask him a question, just one. If its theory of putting the whole control of the liquor question into the hands of municipal authorities is correct, even from a finance view, how does he explain that with double the number of licenses before the Crooks Act, the municipalities did not receive as much revenue from licenses as they do now? For instance, last year the amount which would have been paid to municipalities under the former Act would have been $100,550, while the amount actually paid them was $273,467.

When citizens of Ontario advised to entrust the government of the Province to Conservatives they should look at Quebec and see what Conservative rule has done there. The following summary is eloquent:

We owe a debt of thirty million dollars with nothing to show for it.

Our principal source of revenue, public lands, has been seriously impaired by immense grants to fictitious railway companies.

The rights of our lumbermen and miners have been despoiled.

Banks, insurance and manufacturing companies are mulcted to maintain the extravagance of Chapleau, Seneca & Co.

The expenditure in every branch of the public service has been augmented.

Our political rulers revel in the most gross political corruption, and openly defy public opinion.

London Advertiser: In regard to the Crooks Act, it is noticeable that the most stringent amendment suggested in the letters recently published by the Advertiser, came from a hotel-man, Mr. Mark H. Irish the well-known proprietor of the Rossin House, Toronto. Not only does he declare himself in favor of the Act generally, but he would favour the extension of its provisions to clubs and similar places. He further favors placing billiard tables under Government supervision. This is certainly the most radical recommendation made, if we except those who are content with nothing short of prohibition. Reputable hotelkeepers generally will concide with Mr. Irish in his commendation of the Crooks Act, while temperance people who do not see their way clear to obtaining prohibition are well content with the measure in the meantime.

MINERAL DEPOSITS OF THE DOMINION.

According to Professor Dawson, there is scarcely a stream in British Columbia in which the colour of gold is not found. In the last twenty years the Pacific Province has dug $40,000,000 worth of gold, and it is estimated that $10,000,000 worth a year could be obtained by means of increased working capital. British Columbia exported 500,000 tons of coal last year. Nova Scotia contains inexhaustible coal beds and valuable coal deposits. On the Cape Breton coast there are submarine coal beds of incalculable wealth. The Lake Superior region is rich in silver, copper and iron but the most valuable deposits can only be reached by the expenditure of a large amount of capital. In the country drained by the Lievres, north of Ottawa, Vennor has discovered and developed great beds of phosphate, and the same article is found in considerable quantities in Frontenac. Thousands of tons are annually exported to Liverpool from this region, the price sometimes reaching $25 per ton, and the mines of Kingston and Ottawa districts are said to be rich enough to supply the world for an indefinite period. As for coal, the valuable formations of Nova Scotia and British Columbia are supplemented by beds in the Northwest of surpassing extent and importance. West of Edmonton there is a coal field 25,000 square miles in extent. At a moderate calculation this will yield 360,000,000 tons. North of it lies another coal field of incalculable wealth, and further north still the croppings prove the existence of endless seams of coal. Petroleum is found floating on the surface of the streams and is gathered by the Indians. In the extreme north, away towards the watershed of the Mackenzie river, gold has been found, but no attempt has been made to test its abundance. There are also indications of silver and copper, and the iron deposits are rich and well defined.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

We call the special attention of postmasters and subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:—

A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning a paper does not answer the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publishers for payment.

If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment has been made.

THE WEATHER.

THE ENDINGS OF THE YEARS FROM 1875 TO 1881.

Vennor gives the following statements of the end of the years from 1875 to 1882, and it is to be hoped they are more correct than his forecast for the past few months:

1875—Balmy, with warm showers, wonderful weather; harps and violins playing in streets; no snow, ice and mud: no frost in ground; a great deal of grain.

1876—The year goes out with more than the average amount of snow and inclined to be blustery; drift in country roads; more than the usual number of snow storms for month December.

1877—No snow, and river comparatively free from ice; a "green" Christmas and cold, "dusty" New Year's day; sharp snap at entry of New Year, and boats went into winter quarters.

1878—The month of December, 1878, was one of storms, cold, meteors and snowfalls—more particularly in the west. At Montreal there was abundance of snow. The New Year entered mild, but with splendid sleighing.

1879—The year 1879 entered with a "cold wave," a gale of wind and snow storm. The river opposite Montreal was frozen over by Christmas. Sleighing was good; thaw set in second day of New Year and the streets of the city were flooded with slush and water. Very stormy weather on Atlantic.

1880—The year ended with intensely cold weather over the whole continent. Intense cold at New York and Washington. Great snow storm throughout the United States. At Montreal, though sleighing had been fair all through December, the year closed with a moderate amount of snow. The river ice was firm by the 28th of December.

1881—"Weather of the most extraordinary kind, for the season, continues prevalent over a large tract of country in this region. There is no snow on the ground, and the river St. Lawrence opposite the city is as free from ice as if it were midsummer. The ferry steamers are plying (29th Dec.), and but for the fact that buoys have all been taken up, the passenger steamer service between Montreal and Quebec could be prosecuted without interruption."—Gazette. It was the warmest December in a period of 17 years at Washington. The last day of the year was cold, with but little snow anywhere, and generally open weather. A light fall of snow just gave the ground on New Year's Day a white appearance.

1882—The question now is: How is 1882 to go out? My own impression is, with abundance of snow, but I may be mistaken. The foregoing accurate records, however, may enable each individual to form an opinion for himself.

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE, are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily functions flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and depurent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain. Price, $1.00. Sample bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

A DISAGREEABLE and unsightly result of poverty of the blood is seen in the various diseases of the skin that disfigure the surface of the body. In this class of cases there is a defect in the digestive process, and the tissue elements do not reach the circulation in a state fit for the work of repair. Here Wheeler's Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya, composed of agents that invigorate the stomach and secure healthy blood, has cured many obstinate cases.

DEAFNESS that is caused by colds, inflammation of the membrane of the ear, and Earache, is often cured by Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great external and internal remedy for all Pain, Soreness, and Inflammation, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Sore Throat, Croup, Contracted Muscles, etc. Never be without it. 45-2t

VANITY FAIR.

All the world's a wardrobe,
And all the girls and women merely wearers.
They have their fashions and their fantasies
One woman in her time wears many garments
Throughout her seven stages. First the baby,
Befrilled and bruddered in her nurse's arms.
And then the trim-booed school girl, with her fleeces
And a small boy scowling face, tripping, skirt-wrangling,
Conscientiously to school. And then the flirt
Opening like Circe, with a budding rose
Kept on her low-cut carriage. Then a bride
Full of strange finery, ventured like an angel,
Veiled vaporously, yet vigilant of glances,
Seeking the woman's heaven—admiration
Even at the altar's steps. And then the matron
In fair rich velvet, with suave satin lined,
With eyes severe, and skirts of youthful cut
Full of drum saws and modish instances,
To teach her girls their part. The sixth age shifts
Into the gray yet gorgeous grandmama,
With gold pince-nez on nose, and fan at side
Her youthful taste still strong and worldly wise
In sumptuary law, her quivering voice,
Prosing of fashion and La Ballet, pipes
Of robes and bargains rare. Last scene of all,
That ends the sex's Mode-swayed history,
In second childishness and sheer oblivion
Of youth, taste, passion, all—save love of dress.

Bishop Cleary and Marmion.

The Mutinous Manifesto of Smith and O'Donohoe.

Insult and Ribaldry Denounced—The Archbishop Defended from the Scurrility of the "Mail" and the Impertinence of the "New Reasoners"—Immoral Tendency of Marmion as a Text Book.

In connection with the devotion of All Saints' festival last Friday evening in Kingston, Bishop Cleary lectured on "Anti-educational penal legislation against Catholic Ireland." On Wednesday evening he spoke in reference to Public Schools, and last Friday night in reference to higher education. After calling attention to the points of distinction between the primary system of High Schools and Queen's University, condemned by the Church in Ireland, the Bishop applied them to the controversy recently raised in this Province concerning the rights of a bishop to censure bad books in schools frequented by Catholic boys and girls and supported by Catholic and Protestant taxes. He had been for two weeks travelling in the United States without a knowledge of the course the controversy was taking. On his return last Friday he read on the cars a copy of a Toronto journal which is supposed to reflect the sentiments of the great Conservative party in the Dominion. Now he had since his arrival in Canada abstained from interference with political affairs. He knew no party but his own people and their spiritual interests. He confessed, however, that he entertained the highest respect for the Conservative party, and from individual members had received courtesy and kindness, impressing him with the conviction that their principles and social character guaranteed that they would not trespass upon the religious rights of the Catholic people, or offend their feelings by words of insult.

INSULT AND RIBALDRY.

What, then, was his surprise upon reading in a paper supposed to be their organ, an editorial article abounding with insult and the vilest ribaldry against the highest ecclesiastic dignitary in the Province. What for? Because, forsooth, he dared to exercise the first and most important duty of his office—expostulating with the Minister of Education against the introduction into Schools frequented by Catholic children of a book offensive to their religion, its discipline, and conventual institutions. On this ground His Grace had been attacked as an intermeddler and dictator, and vituperation in all its forms had been heaped upon him. Here is war proclaimed against a first principle of the Catholic religion, a paramount right of the Episcopate, a right which no bishop can renounce under any threat or penalty. His lordship came to the consideration of the book and at the outset stated that he did not regard Sir Walter Scott as an enemy to Catholicity. Scott did not profess religious zeal in any form. His religion was a political religion. He followed the views of his party, his writings were directed chiefly to an illustration of the manners of society, and had regard generally to the middle ages, the times of feudalism and chivalry. If "Marmion" offends Catholic feelings, we readily condone the offence because of the many beautiful pictures of Catholic life animated by lofty Catholic inspiration, and developing in the formation of noble characters, with which the author's elegant writings abound. "Marmion" was not composed by him with a special spite against us. The traditional prejudices of English society, fostered by holders of the Abbey lands, which Henry VIII. confiscated on pretence of immoral practices among the holy inmates, had thoroughly imbued the mind of the poet, and the wonder is that Scott, living in the midst of the English prejudice, straightened financially, did not indulge more frequently in a species of writing calculated to gratify the morbid taste of anti-Catholic society in England in the last century.

THE PLOT OF MARMION

Is "Marmion" offensive to Catholics? Is it immoral? Is it irreligious? Is it historically unjust? Is it not exceedingly offensive to represent to the youth of the Province the Catholic institutions of superior sanctity as dens of abominable vice? Is not voluntary poverty, chastity and obedience represented as fallen and dishonoured women who had fled the world to hide their shame, the priests and friars represented as men addicted to swearing, stabbing, brawling, going about towns and castles wherever the wine and ale flowed freely, and violating the rights of hospitality by the most atrocious of all crimes, the foul dishonouring of their host's wife? Is it not an offensive picture of Catholic life that has been set before the mind of pure boys and girls in Canada, when the whole plot of the poem is an impure and sacrilegious intrigue between a voluptuous young chieftain and a consecrated nun, resulting in this weak creature's abandonment of herself to his lust, her flight from the convent, her companionship with him, and for three years in loathsome turpitude of life, her sex all the while disguised by her dressing in male attire? Is it not offensive to our dearest religious feelings to have convent homes of holiness represented as places where murder was practised in dungeons one hundred feet below the surface of the ground, where neither light nor air could enter? Are we to take no offence for the abbots of the great Benedictine monasteries that have done such wonderful things for civilization, for the conversion of the pagan and sanctification of Christian society, whose life-long labours in intervals of prayer devoted to transcription and the preservation of the glorious classic writings of ancient Greece and Rome? That these self-sacrificing men are represented as foes of mankind, fired with spite and driven by despair into the cloister, or again as men whose early life is marked by foul crime and driven by remorse of conscience to the convent.

AN ANALOGOUS CASE.

Again, what would such a man think of the guardian, of education in the Province of Quebec appointing as a text book for high schools and university Dryden's poem of "The Hind and the Panther," or Collet's "History of the Reformation"; or to make the case more parallel, suppose that instead of the scene of the plot being laid in the middle ages it were laid in the sixteenth century, and for precision's sake in 1525, that it was not in Northern England but in Germany; not a fiction of the poet's brain, but an incontrovertible historical fact; and that the two principal characters portrayed were not Marmion and Constance, but Martin, and Catharine. Would any Protestant gentleman patiently listen to a Catholic clergymen solemnly assuring his congregation that it was wholly inoffensive, and exactly the book to be placed in the hands of the male and female children of Canada?

THE IMMORAL TENDENCY.

Is "Marmion" immoral? No; not in intent. Is it likely to awaken impure emotions in readers' minds? No; if the reader be a man of educated feeling, well balanced judgment, steady, virtuous disposition. But for boys and girls arrived at a period of life when nature is awakened to a new sense, and they have begun to recognize an order in society and the relation between the two great classes in human life, hitherto concealed by a wise Providence, and as yet their feelings and ideas have not been definitely brought under the control of self-denial and the chastening of the imagination, will any parent say that picture of the turpitude of life represented in Marmion Constance proper to be set before them for close study and the analysis of every sentence, line, and word? The speaker declared that the immoral tendency of the poem, placed in the hands of boys and girls, arises not so much from the sensuous coloring of the poet's pen as from the attractive dress in which vice is disguised, the glamour of romance and chivalry surrounding the infamous pair, the picture of beauty, elegance and form, and elevation of spirit with which the fallen female, the dishonor of her sex, is presented to the fascinated, youthful mind. As to the irreligion and historically unjust character of the poem His Lordship declared the foregoing remarks enabled every one to form judgment.

A FOUL HISTORICAL INJUSTICE.

To offer to the public of Canada the poem of "Marmion" as a faithful history of Catholic life in the convents and institutions of piety is one of the foulest historical injustices done to a religious body. That human nature may have throughout 1,800 years of the Church's history yielded to impulse or passion in one or more of the elect children from amongst the millions of holy men and women she has consecrated to God is quite possible and not improbable. But that it has never been in any age of general or frequent occurrence is equally certain. In conclusion, the Bishop said that many persons believe that a political motive underlies the scurrilous attacks upon the Metropolitan of Ontario for his interference on behalf of the morality of our schools, as well as the audacious declaration of war against the inalienable rights of the episcopate in matters of religious and moral education of the youth entrusted to them by God. All he would say was this (pointing to the tabernacle and lifting his right hand to heaven)—if there be such a motive that seeks to gain its ends by such an unworthy means, may the Heavenly Father, by the merits of His Eternal Son, and the grace of His Holy Spirit, send forth wisdom and power to frustrate it.

MARMION.

Now, what are the facts of the case? Roman Catholics and Protestants have united to give unity and completeness to our system of higher education. Our High Schools and national University belong equally to Catholics and Protestants. All religious denominations can lay equal claim to whatever privileges and blessings these institutions yield, and they are respectively entitled to wield an influence proportionate to their numbers in the management of these institutions, including the appointment of teachers and the selection of text-books. If this is denied, then the idea of a national system of education must be abandoned. But it is not denied; it has been accepted and acted on. Then what can be more absurd than to say that Catholics must have no voice in the selection of text-books, and no right to protest against a choice which they deem offensive and unjust? Suppose that certain other works of Sir Walter Scott had been prescribed for matriculation examination—writings in which the Presbyterians of Scotland are held up to ridicule, their religion caricatured, their evangelical principles derided, and their persecutor and their murderers transfigured and glorified—would there not have been many a manly protest from every quarter of the land? Suppose any of the caricatures of early English Methodism had found expression through the pen of genius, in a form classically pure, and on the sole ground of literary excellence was now thrust into the hands of our High School boys and girls, there to be burned into their hearts by the keenest analysis of its every thought, word, and allusion, could we wonder if the Principal of Victoria College, backed by every intelligent Methodist in the Province, lay and clerical, should denounce the proceeding as a grievous wrong? And if in either case supposed, it could be shown that anyone of a dozen other books would serve equally well every purpose for which the offensive volume had been chosen, surely the demand for a change would be so obviously righteous as to be irresistable. How then can the request of the Catholics, expressed through their acknowledged head, be ignored? We do not wait to enquire whether their reasons for rejecting "Marmion" be such as to compel the assent of the Protestant judgment, or enlist the sympathies of the Protestant ear. Very likely they are not. But it would be manifestly unfair to decide that question from a merely Protestant standpoint. Suffice that our Catholic fellow citizens have at least a prima facie case. For besides the silken thread of seduction that runs through the poem, and sundry passages where illicit love is made so fascinating as to unconsciously allure the reader's sympathies to the side of guilt—features which parents of all denominations might equally object to, there can be no doubt but in the second canto the Church of Rome is presented in a light not only unlovely, but hateful and hideous. I have no concern with the historical fidelity of this representation. I may personally have the strongest conviction that the Inquisitorial dungeons of mediæval times would furnish the student of history with multitudinous cases each rivalling in turpitude and cruelty the single example adduced in "Marmion." None the less would my entire sympathies be found with those Catholics who say that they cannot allow their children to study a book that presents their religion in an aspect not only deeply offensive, but as they allege, utterly false. This is precisely the mental attitude of Catholics to this question. They have protested against the use of "Marmion" for the reasons indicated. The Minister of Education has instructed High School masters not to use the book until the alleged grievance can be investigated. I have the strongest conviction that the Minister was right. Had he done less than this his conduct would have been open to grave censure. And had any Protestant denomination been ignored or snubbed in preferring a similar request, that censure would have been very promptly and vigorously administered. — Rev. P. Wright, in Stratford Beacon.

DUMMER AND DOURO PLOUGHMEN.

A KEEN CONTEST—DUMMER WINS—THE PRIZE LIST.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The ploughing match under the auspices of the Dummer and Douro Agricultural Society came off on Wednesday, Oct. 18th, on the farm of Walter Kidd, Esq., near Warsaw. The weather was all that could be desired, a beautiful autumn day, but the ground was so dry as to make it hard work both for men and horses, yet the work performed was excellent. The directors congratulate the Dummer boys, who with energy and pluck took the lead both here and at the county ploughing match. The Douro boys are to be congratulated on their excellent ploughing, and for making their competitors work so hard for the prizes. The judges, Robert Tully and Wilfred McCue, gave general satisfaction, not forgetting the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Kidd, who kindly provided all that could be desired for the wants of man. The following are the successful competitors, with prizes:—

2nd, John Lumsden	5 00
3rd, Ottis Kidd	4 00
4th, John John Davis	3 00
5th, Jas. Greystock	2 00

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.—I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother. 44-2t

LADY BEAUTIFIERS.—Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks, and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health and nothing will give you such rich blood, good health, strength and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof. 44-2t

The Ting Yuenq, the formidable ironclad that has just been built in Germany for the Chinese government, is to be lighted by 240 Edison electric lamps. It is doubtless a great satisfaction to King George of Greece, when he lies awake at night, to reflect that if he be ousted like his predecessor from his kingdom, he has $120,000 a year guaranteed by England, France and Russia to fall back upon. That would go a long way in Denmark, and perhaps be a better thing than a little more with a throne at Athens.

A year ago Mike Welch had $500,000 but to-day he finds himself a beggar and in jail in Denver. He lost the greater part of his money in speculation, and finally started two restaurants. Business fell away, and about a year ago he found himself ruined. Then he went to Denver and has since fallen lower and lower, until he is now a drunkard and a tramp.

HOW IT WORKS.—Malarial Diseases, so prevalent in the Spring and Fall, such as Ague, Chill Fever, Billious Fever, &c., depend upon an inactive state of the liver, bowels, skin, kidneys, etc., for did these outlets of morbid poisonous matter free the system properly, no sickness would result. Burdock Blood Bitters effectually regulates these organs and corrects the absorbent and secretory system as well. 45-2t

Drunkards are suffering in the rural counties of Wisconsin, where the local option law of the state enables the total abstinence people to vote down the public sale of intoxicants. Heretofore the traffic has been continued out of sight, but now the railroad companies have prohibited their employees from taking liquor as freight, and the dealers can therefore obtain only very limited supplies.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 9, 1882

To Subscribers.

We have mailed to all those who are in arrears for subscriptions to THE EXAMINER a statement of their indebtedness. We request those who receive such accounts to remit as early as possible. The amounts in most instances are small, but in the aggregate to us they amount to a very large sum. Some have promptly responded, for which we sincerely thank them; those who are yet in arrears, we as sincerely desire to hear from. We have been at a very large expense lately, and we must collect all sums due us with as little delay as is possible. Monies can be safely forwarded to this office by post office order, or registered letter.

Fabricating Facts.

Our down-street contemporary is terrible on facts and the peculiar processes by which it arrives at the most wonderful results must be on a plan copyrighted by the establishment. It accuses us of uttering untruths in respect to the higher prices paid by farmers for what they have to buy. We are quite satisfied that the farmers are feelingly convinced of the truth of our statements, but the Review must have a bill of particulars. Last summer when the matter was first brought up the Review challenged our statement and published a fancy list of prices of dry goods and groceries compiled by that most reliable and unquestionable authority, the Toronto Mail. Without particularising, it is safe to doubt the correctness of the Mail's figures and it is not likely that farmers will have much faith in them. The Mail, the Review and other Tory organs have—well "not to put too fine a point upon it"—lied to the farmers respecting the miraculous power of the National Policy to raise the price of grain. These journals knew at the time that they were deceiving the farmers and trying to force on their belief, the wretched rubbish that they did not believe themselves—specious falsehoods invented for purposes of fraud to conduce to the success of political ends. The farmer who has been so grossly deceived on this point can easily believe that such journals would not be above concocting an exhibit of figures to prove the falsity of increased prices which the farmer can feel in every corner of his pocket. Last week we quoted the article of salt, which is at least fifty per cent. dearer than formerly—and directly owing to the duty which enables salt men to form a ring. This may seem a small thing to the Review who can view the robbery of the farmers with the utmost complacency, but at this season of the year the farmer when purchasing salt to cure his pork, will feel the increase of price. And thanks to the N. P. he will have to raise more pork than usual. The N. P. has brought down the price of grain so that it pays better to feed it to pigs than to sell it. (If the Review says the N. P. affects the price of grain, and that it raised it last year, it can't deny that it also lowers the price of grain, without confessing the fraudulent nature of its claim.) The N. P. forces the farmer to buy more salt at a greatly advanced price and the result will be that the pork market will be so glutted that the farmer won't get a decent price for it, and thus he will be robbed all round and that without redress. The Review, of course, will demand other articles. All in good time; we don't propose to put ourselves about to interview grocers to please the Review or to collect prices from them to refute a batch of the Mail's presumably cooked quotations. We shall take our time to answer the challenge of the Review, seeing that it has taken its leisure in responding to our challenge to name a liquor dealer who has been subjected (as it has asserted) to persecution by the Mowat Government. To quote and retort the words of the Review "once more we challenge our contemporary to give us" the names of the down-trodden liquor dealers, or to admit, as it will do by its failure to do so, that it has made an untruthful statement in the hope of injuring its political opponents." We won't forget your challenge Mr. Review, nor allow you to forget ours.

JUDGE CLARKE, at present junior judge of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, has been appointed county judge in the stead of Judge G. M. Boswell, who retires on a pension. Mr. Thomas Benson, Q. C., of Port Hope, has been appointed junior judge vice Judge Clarke. According to the reasoning of our Tory contemporaries, these appointments should like those of pathmasters and pound keepers be made by the municipalities. Giving the government power to make such appointments is altogether too much centralization. But the Tories never object to centralization if one of their party is made to occupy the focus.

The Dominion Churchman asserts that every day brings evidences of the utter failure of the schools in Ontario to elevate the morals of the people. Without disputing or admitting the truthfulness of this rather broad statement, it may be remarked that the primary object of our school system is not to teach morals, and it might be asserted, with all due reverence, that on a superficial view, the churches utterly fail to elevate the morals of the people. The world seems to be growing worse, but that is not the fault, as far as effort goes, of the church, and the failure of the school system to make people better should not bring broad and general blame on a general system, because it does not answer an end altogether beyond its scope.

INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATIONS.

Questions on Burke's Reflections—An Important Aid to Candidates.

Mr. Earl, teacher in English in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, has prepared the following questions on "Burke's Reflections on the French Revolution," a work prescribed in part for the First Class and Intermediate Examinations. The questions cover the ground completely, and any candidate thoroughly mastering them will surely be able to answer any question on the subject that may be submitted to him or her at the examinations.

1. Sketch briefly the life of Burke.
2. Describe particularly his political career.
3. Tell what you know of his literary productions. Describe briefly his literary style.
4. Estimate his influence on later times.
5. Name his chief literary contemporaries, and give a brief account of each.
6 State the principal causes of the first French revolution.
7. Describe its course, and give a short account of the wars growing out of it.
8. Mention some of its effects on England.
9, Contrast the French Revolution with the Revolution of 1688. Account for the differences.
10. Can you justify the French Revolution?
11. Why was Burke not in a position to form a correct estimate of it?
12. How did the leading English statesmen and writers of the day regard the revolution? Give names.
13. Tell what you know of subsequent revolutions in France.
14. Describe, after Burke, the condition of the French National Assembly.
15. Give in your own language an account of the treatment received by the King and Queen,
16. "Criminal means once tolerated are soon preferred." Discuss this statement.
17. Compare European and Asiatic civilization. To what does Burke attribute the difference? Explain fully.
18. "In the groves of their academy, at the end of every vista, you see nothing but the gallows." Annotate.
19. What does Burke mean by embodying our institutions in persons? Explain fully.
20. "Our manners, our civilization, and all the good things which are connected with manners and with civilization, have, in this European world of ours, depended for ages upon two principles." What, according to Burke, are these principles? Discuss fully.
21. How does Burke justify his interference in the internal affairs of France?
22. How does he show the inconsistency of the French in their treatment of the king?
23. Account for the fact that the French National Assembly regarded the Revolution Society as representing public opinion in England.
24. Give the substance of Burke's arguments in favor of retaining old prejudices?
25. State his arguments in favor of an established church.
26. Why does Burke think a religious establishment more necessary in a free state than in a despotism?
27. Burke thinks that in free states the "idea that they act in trust" ought to be more strongly impressed upon the people than upon single princes. Discuss this.
28. Give Burke's arguments against frequent and radical changes in the State.
29. What are his reasons for desiring a permanent provision for the clergy?
30. Why does he think it desirable that the clergy should be financially independent?
31. Burke says of the revolution of 1688 that it "was a revolution not made, but prevented." Discuss this.
32. State clearly Burke's object in writing the "Reflections," and show how far he was successful.
33. "Properly to understand Burke's book we must look on him not as a critic, but as an advocate." Explain.
34. "Composed in a literary age, it (the 'Reflections') scarcely belongs to literature; yet it is one of the greatest of literary masterpieces." Explain fully.
35. What were really Burke's religious views.
36 "Too much and too little are treason against property." Explain.
37. "Whose constitution," &c. Describe the constitution of Paris at this time.
38 "Embracing in their arms the carcases of base criminals," &c. To what does Burke refer in these lines?
39. Write notes on Catiline, Cethegus, Garrick, Siddons, Machiavelli, Nero, Agrippina, Louis XI., Charles IX., Charles XII of Sweden, Lord George Gordon, Bolingbroke.
40. Write brief notes on the following:—"Nunc dimittis;" "Revolution Society;" "Ordinary of Newgate;" "Leze Nation;" "Theban and Thracian orgies;" "Io Pæan;" "I saw her just above the horizon;" "All the Capulets;" "Alembic," "Euripus."
41. Derive the following:—Pomp, charter, bayonet, torch, scrupulous, sobriety, assassins, comedian, anodyne, amnesty, polluted, carcases, palace, church, bishop, millennium, chivalry, academy proselyte, archetype.

NEWS VARIETIES.

A Young Woman Devoured by Bears.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Nov. 4.—A young woman named Marienette, on Saturday went into the woods, near Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin, to gather tamarac gum, and not returning, a hundred people went in search of her. They found only portions of her body, she having been devoured by bears after a terrible struggle.

War to the Death.

PARIS, Nov 3.—The revolutionary manifestoes posted in Paris and Marseilles last Friday night were printed on red paper, and two hundred were posted near the Louvre Palace of Luxembourg, and Jardin Des Plantes. They express the deepest hate for the Bourgeoise, (the middle class), and declare war to the death against them. Explosive materials have been discovered in the coal department and telegraph office at St. Pourcain.

A Cripple Murdered.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—A cripple named Robertson, son of a merchant at Van Kleek hill, near Ottawa, was found dead in his room on Saturday, with his skull terribly fractured. He had left last Thursday on a hunting expedition, and not returning a search was made. He had evidently been attacked in the woods, and after being pounded, managed to crawl home and go to his room without alarming his family. No arrests.

More Thoroughbred Stock.

Hon. J. H. Pope has received another consignment of thoroughbred stock from Scotland for his Cookshire farm. It comprises fifteen polled Angus and seven Herfords. In the former herd is a four-year-old cow, Waterside Queen, the third, which cost $1,200, and in the latter, Stanley, the seventh, and Landscape, the fifth, beautiful heifers bred by E. Grasset, of Wetmore, which took first prizes at leading English exhibitions. Eight Cheviot and Shropshire sheep were also imported.

An Eccentric's Will.

KEOKUK, Nov. 4.—An eccentric Spaniard, who lived at Keokuk, Illinois, six years ago, died last August in Spain, leaving a twelve-year-old daughter whom he wanted to be reared as a protestant. In his eccentricity he named George Bland, a coloured blacksmith, of this city, as the guardian. He also made a contract with a priest in Spain to carry out the conditions of his will, for which the priest was to receive $68,000, but in case of failure he receives nothing. Bland, the colored guardian, to have the same amount and the custody of the child, who gets $160,000 and a large amount of jewelry and diamonds.

Mrs. Langtry's Debut.

On Monday night, last Mrs. Langtry made her debut as Hester Grazebrook, in "An Unequal Match," at Wallack's Theatre. The audience was one of the largest and most fashionable ever assembled in New York, and the large theatre was crowded in every part. Mrs. Langtry made a very favourable impression in the impersonation of Hester Grazebrook, and was warmly applauded. At the close of each act she was called before the curtain, and received many floral tributes, besides an ovation of applause. The critics generally concede her impersonation to be a remarkably fine performance, and that far from only being recommended by her beauty, she possesses histrionic powers of a very high order.

Shot by a Woman.

Last Saturday evening a shooting affray took place at Jerseyville, county of Wentworth. Unpleasant relations have existed for some time past between Wentworth Day, of Jerseyville, and Eva Wood, of Langford, and yesterday afternoon the latter procured a revolver and presented herself to Day where he was at work in his barnyard. The girl, who is 28 years of age, asked him to give her money and upon his refusing to do so she fired twice at him, the first shot taking effect in the abdomen just below the stomach. The girl, upon being questioned as to why she had shot Day, replied that she intended to kill him and was not sorry for what she had done. She gave the revolver up to one of the neighbours, and up till this writing she was at large. She and her parents live at Langford, a village on the Brantford and Hamilton road.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 45

Farmers and Mechanics.

Provide yourselves with a bottle of PAIN-KILLER at this season of the year, when summer complaints are so prevalent; it is a prompt, safe, and sure cure. It may save you days of sickness, and you will find it is more valuable than gold. Be sure you buy the genuine PERRY DAVIS PAIN-KILLER, and take no other mixture.

COBOURG, Ont., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first-class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Town Fathers Eat their Words—Re the G. & G. R.R. Bridge—Offering a Reward—Rink St. Extension—Minor Matters.

Council met on Monday night in regular session. Present, Messrs. Cahill, (occupying the chair in absence of the Mayor) McNaughton, Alford, Patterson, Wilson, Douglass, Rutherford Menzies, Denne, Richardson and Poussette.

After routine,

COMMUNICATIONS.

were received

From E. Pearce, Esq., County Clerk, asking if the Council had accepted the offer of the County Council to continue the terms of the late award, respecting the amounts to be paid by the county and town respectively, towards the administration of criminal justice.

The clerk was authorized to inform him that the offer was accepted.

From Edg. Pearce, Esq., enclosing a copy of a resolution of the County Council, asking that a committee be appointed to confer with a committee of the County Council, in regard to arrangements for a home for the destitute.—Received.

From D. A. McDonald and others, asking that Rink street be continued east of George street to Water street,—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From F. McCullough stating that he had met with an accident while in the employ of the corporation, that had incapacitated him from work and asking that a grant be made in compensation. Referred to Finance Committee to report on.

From W. H. Moore with reference to a case wherein a complainant had entered a case of assault in the police court and had made a deposit. Defendant was convicted and fined without costs, and the deposit was held for the costs, and he asked that the amount of deposit should be refunded.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

From J. Z. Rogers, stating that he had paid, under protest, $13.50 in taxes on property he did not own. He had written to the Court of Revision in reference to the matter, but they had misunderstood his letter, and took no action. He asked that the amount be refunded. Referred to Court of Revision.

From Wm. Hamilton, stating that a set of new tubes had been ordered for the fire engine, that a portion of them had been put in. He recommended that the remainder be kept in reserve. They were purchased cheaper than they could be got from the Silsby Company.—Filed.

From William Court, asking for remission of taxes,—Referred to the Court of Revision.

From R. Brodie and others asking that a walk be laid and platforms constructed at the new factories built on Dickson's Race.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From J. L. Brown, stating that he had a liquor license; that his premises were burned on September 16th, and he asked that a pro rata proportion of the license fee be refunded.—Referred to the License Committee.

From Anson Sperry and others in reference to the sidewalk leading to the locks. A grant of $10 was made on condition that Monaghan give a like sum.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were referred to the Finance Committee:—

THE RAILWAY BRIDGE.

From Wm. Cluxton and others, asking the council to reconsider the resolution permitting the Ontario & Quebec R. R. to build a permanent bridge over the Otonabee River.—Received.

Moved by Mr. Denne, seconded by Mr. Menzies,—That the petition of William Cluxton and others be received, and that the resolution passed at the meeting of this Council on the 2nd of Oct., 1882, to permit the erection of a bridge by the Ontario and Quebec Railway, without a swing, be rescinded for the following reasons; that the erection of a bridge without a swing would prevent vessels from ascending to the centre of the town as at present; that a swing will be required as soon as the bridge is constructed, for the vessels at present navigating the river; that the dredging done by the Government in the harbour and channel will be rendered useless; that it would depreciate the value of property along the river front; that this Council therefore protests against the erection of a bridge by the said railway company without a swing and this Council also protests against the said railway company constructing any part of their bridge by means of an embankment in the river as proposed, thereby narrowing the channel to one-half of its present width and preventing the free escape of water in the spring; that the only bridge this Council can give its sanction to is one built throughout its entire length on piers so that the water may be backed up as little as possible. That the clerk affix the corporate seal to a copy of this resolution and transmit it to the Minister of Railways and a copy to Geo. Hilliard, Esq., M. P., member for the riding.

Mr. Denne, in moving the resolution, thought, the resolution granting leave to the Ontario and Quebec Railway an overnight. The Government were spending thousands in opening the navigation of the river. By giving this permission the Council ignored the claims of the town to future navigation of the river above the proposed bridge.

Mr. Patterson thought the resolutions were couched in too strong language, or he would be inclined to support them.

Mr. Menzies thought the swing should be built now; after the railroad had begun to build the bridge, they wouldn't stop to build a swing.

Mr. Richardson said the company would build the swing as required at two months notice, and if they gave a guarantee to that effect it would be valid and faithfully carried out.

Mr. McNaughton considered railway competition would be beneficial to the town and the town should not go back on its permission given to the railroad company.

Mr. Poussette said that when the first motion was passed there was a small meeting. He was not present and he thought the Street Committe in presenting their report did not consider vested rights. He spoke of the impediments to navigation which the bridge would present. The resolution would have no effect with the Government, but it might influence the Minister and the Council had better as they had too often done before and rescind the resolution. The Government did not intend to make improvements in navigation and then have them neutralised by building a permanent bridge. The Council should not help the railway to do an injury to the town or to Ashburnham. The river should not be obstructed.

EAT THEIR WORDS

Mr. Cahill said the resolution was adopted unanimously and the permission was only conditionally granted.

Mr. Patterson said the Council was not eating its own words; only deferring to the wishes of the ratepayers to have a swing bridge put up now.

Mr. Denne said that the petition was largely signed, and only two parties refused to sign it.

At this point Mr. Cahill left the chair, and Mr. Menzies took his place.

Mr. Cahill said the reason he asked Mr. Menzies to take the chair was to explain——

Several voices—Order! order! order! and the result was great confusion for a few minutes.

Mr. Cahill,—I have an amendment——

Mr. Poussette—Order!

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the motion be not adopted, because it sets forth matters not in accordance with the facts.

Mr. Cahill continued in defence of his position, when he was called to order by Mr. Poussette, who said Mr. Cahill was out of order, for his amendment was merely a negation of the original motion.

The Chairman, Mr. Menzies, ruled the amendment in order, and Mr. Cahill continued speaking on the general features of the question, showing that the bridge would not be a detriment to the town, and that swings were dangerous to life.

Mr. Rutherford thought it would be better for the company to build the swing now than later. The Council in passing the resolution were not eating their words but only yielding to the wishes of the ratepayers.

Mr. Patterson here stated that he had an amendment that should take precedence of Mr. Cahill's amendment.

A lively passage ensued between certain members at this point, and after the storm had subsided there was

AN AMICABLE AGREEMENT,

Mr. Denne and Mr. Paterson agreeing on certain verbal amdnements.

Mr. Menzies was about to put the amended resolution when Mr. Poussette raised a point of order—Mr. Cahill must again take the chair.

Mr. Cahill,—Can I put my own motion?

Several members—Oh, yes.

Mr. Denne's motion was then put, and received a majority of the votes.

Mr. Cahill said the motion to pass required a majority of the whole Council—it was rescinding a resolution or passing a memorial.

Mr. Poussette said the resolution was properly passed and it was not a memorial, and deprecated the raising of frivolous points of order.

Mr. Cahill retorted that he had been put in the chair to close his mouth. He was in the minority, and he would take advantage of everything the rules allowed.

Mr. Rutherford moved a vote of want of confidence in the Chairman.

Mr. Poussette moved that that the motion was in order.

This motion was put and received a majority of votes.

During this muddle the yeas and nays had been called for and taken in some manner, and after considerable confusion and talk, the Council settled down to the conviction that Mr. Denne's resolution was carried.

POLICE PROTECTION.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Douglass,—That the Chief Constable take measures to have one of the constables on duty all night. He said the presence of "firebugs" in town, and their incendiary attempts rendered some such precautions necessary.

Chief Johnston said that was the case now, and the motion was agreed to.

Mr. Patterson said that putting one constable on was nonsense. Put on six or eight men to act as private detectives.

$1,000 REWARD.

On motion of Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Denne,—The Council decided to offer a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the parties that attempted to set fire to the store of Hall, Inder & Co., and to Mr. Adam Hall's warehouse.

On motion of Mr. Richardson, seconded by Mr. Denne, steps were resolved upon to have the trees in the Court House Park improved by having earth raised around them.

Mr. Richardson said the jail birds might find employment in doing the work.

Motion agreed to.

SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

The matter of the account of Thomas Crowley for repairs to the Smith Street Bridge, was referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

An account of the Gas Company for new street lamps and repairs, $115.50, was ordered to be paid.

PARK STREET CROSSING.

Mr. Wilson called attention to the dangerous nature of the crossing of the missing link embankment at the junction of Park and McDonnell streets.

Mr. Cahill said the engineer had agreed to have the approaches constructed.

SPAULDING'S BAY.

Mr. Menzies called attention to the state of lower George street where gravel had been removed for the extension of Rink street across the bay.

Mr. Rutherford said it was a rascally piece of business.

Mr. McNaughton referred to Mr. Rutherford's canal and Mr. Denne's share of benefit to his private property from the public funds.

Mr. Denne warmly denied the assertion and Street Inspector Johnston confirmed his denial.

The Council broke up in disorder and then got together again and adjourned for two weeks.

A BED QUILT.

THE EXCITEMENT IT CAUSED IN A CHURCH —TWO CHURCHWARDENS EXCITED.

The Ladies' Aid Society in connection with the Lucan Episcopal Church, having made an autograph quilt, a meeting was recently held in the town hall to dispose of it. Two of the churchwardens, Mr. John Fox and Mr. Wm. Stanley, proposed that two young ladies be nominated as candidates for the quilt. Accordingly Miss Alice Porte and Miss Louise Goodacre were the nominees respectively of Mr. W. E. Stanley and John Fox. The voting went out at a lively rate until when some $40 or $50 had been collected, when the poll was declared closed, and Miss Goodacre declared queen of the quilt. But just as the declaration was made some one picked up a $5 bill from the floor and stoutly maintained he had put it in for Miss Porte. The polls were therefore opened again, and in a few minutes a tidle of $80 was collected, and amid deafening cheers Miss Porte was declared elected. But here another hitch occurred, the uproar become deafening, and Mr. Fox demanded the poll to be opened again, laying down his $100 gold watch and chain in favour of Miss Goodacre. Mr. Stanley, not to be outdone, shouted "I'll give my $1,000 house and lot in support of my girl, Fox." Whereupon Mr. Fox pulled out a $200 roll of bills which he laid down in front of the poll clerk. "There," he said, "is $200, and I have a thousand more at the back of it. Come on now." The meeting now became a scene of confusion, some claiming the quilt for Miss Goodacre, and others demanding it for Miss Porte. Thus the matter stands. In the meantime Rev. Mr. Magaghy has returned the watch and chain, house and lot, and the roll of bills to their respective owners, and says the church will be well satisfied with the $90, which, when added to the receipts of the evening and the proceeds of the quilt in the item of names, will make something like $300. It is understood that Messrs. Fox and Stanley have resigned their positions as churchwardens.

FIGHT WITH A BEAR.

A New Brunswick paper tells the following barely possible bear story. On Tuesday evening last when Mr. Geo. Trevors, who had been working in the steam ship Cuban, then lying at Mr. Sargeant's mill wharf, Nelson, was done his day work, he had occasion to go up to the store of Mr. Daniel Baldwin, to purchase a few articles. It was then dark, and when he started for his home in the Douglasfield he took the short cut across the woods. He had gone about a mile and a half when he was attacked by a very large bear. Being unarmed, and having no other weapon than a bottle of paraffin oil, he struck the bear and broke the bottle of oil over him. The bear then sprang on him and commenced hugging him, when George had the presence of mind to light a match and set fire to him. In an instant old brain was all in a blaze and let go of him, and in less than five minutes he was all consumed but the head and shoulders. George then commenced to carry water in his hat to quench the fire to save the snout, so as to get the bounty.

A PRACTICAL LESSON.

The following story is told of a distinguished Edinburgh professor: Desiring to go to church one wet Sunday, he hired a cab. On reaching the church door he tendered a shilling—the legal fare—to cabby, and was somewhat surprised to hear the cabman say, "Twa shillin', sir." The professor fixing his eye upon the extortioner, demanded why he charged two shillings? upon which the cabman dryly answered: "We wish to discourage travelling on the Sawbath as much as possible, sir."

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.—A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly by those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald.

A VEXED CLERGYMAN.—Even the patience of Job would become exhausted were he a preacher and endeavoring to interest his audience while they were keeping up an incessant coughing, making it impossible for him to be heard. Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Trial bottles given away at Taylor & Macdonald's drug store.

The cheapest medicine in use is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, because a very little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the chest or throat, for taking internally or inhaling, it is a matchless compound.

THE CARE OF CANARIES.

A pair of canaries I give to care—
Don't blind them with sunshine, or starve them with air,
Or leave them out late in the cold or the damp,
And then be surprised if they suffer from cramp;
Or open the window in all kinds of weathers
Quite near to their cage till they puff out their feathers.
The birds that are free fly to bush and to grot
If the wind be too cold, or the sun is too hot;
But these pretty captives depend on your aid,
In winter for warmth, and in summer for shade.
When they chirrup, and ceaselessly hop to and fro,
Some want or discomfort they're trying to show;
When they scrape their bills sharply on perch or at wire,
They're asking for something they greatly desire;
When they set every feather on end in a twinkling,
With musical rustle like water a-sprinkling,
In rain or in sunshine, with sharp call-like notes,
They're begging for water to freshen their coats.
Cage, perches and vessels, keep all very clean,
For fear of small insects—you know what I mean!—
They breed in their feathers, and leave them no rest,
In buying them seed, choose the cleanest and best.
I feed my canaries (excuse me the hint)
On hemp and canary, rape, millet and lint.
I try them with all, till I find out their taste—
The food they don't care for they scatter and waste.
About their bright cages I hang a gay flower,
Of shepherd's-purse, chick weed and groundsel in flower,
At a root of ripe grass they will pick with much zest,
For seeds and small pebbles their food to digest,
But all should be ripe, and well seeded, and brown,
Few leaves on the groundsel, but plenty of down,
In summer I hang them out in the shade,
About our hall door by a portico made;
In spring, autumn, winter, a window they share,
Where the blind is drawn down to the afternoon glare.
This window, if open, beneath them we close,
Lest the cramp should seize hold of their poor little toes.
A bath about noontide on every warm day
Will keep your small favorites healthy and gay.
In hot summer sunshine some calico green,
As a roof to their cage, makes a very good screen,
On winter nights cover from lamplight and cold,
And they'll sing in all weathers, and live to be old.

Farm, Garden and Household.

About Butter Making.

Mr. W. H. Lynch, of Danville, P. Q., has been telling a Globe reporter something of what he knows about butter-making. Recently Mr. L. has devoted his whole time to the subject, and is an authority. He says:—

"One of the most noticeable defects is the lack of a keeping quality. There is some butter which is pronounced very good on the table, because it has been sold in the town immediately after making which would rapidly deteriorate if kept for some time exposed to a high temperature. We must do something," Mr. Lynch continued, "to bring about a closer connection between producer and consumer. I was talking to a butter maker when he said to me, 'I have no incentive to make good butter. If I do, an agent will give me no better price for it than my neighbors, who make a very indifferent article.' I told him that it was the keeping quality which gave the butter the greatest value, but the butter agent could not of course, then judge of that, and consequently treated all butter pretty much the same. My advice to him was to make good butter, put his brand upon it, and say to the commission merchant, 'I will stand behind this butter, and guarantee its good quality, and you can repeat the order.' If that butter is good, a demand for it is created, and by the repetition of the order the maker reaps a direct benefit from his enterprise and skill. On the other hand, if in one hundred tubs there are, say ten good ones, these will be lost in the poor quality of the consignment as a whole."

AN UNBROKEN GRAIN.

"There are two essentials in regard to butter-making, the churning part, viz., that the grain be preserved unbroken and the butter properly freed from the buttermilk. The cream in milk consists of small globules, which are little pieces of fat enclosed in a membraneous covering. These coverings or shells, after being broken up, must be carried away from the butter. In the old process of churning, the butter is gathered together by means of a good deal of churning, and is then supposed to be worked out. With a proper churn, the way to do is to stop working when the butter is in a granulated state, and inserting a strainer, draw off the buttermilk, leaving the butter in the churn. Cold water is then put in and the butter washed. The water is then drawn off, this process being repeated till the water comes away clear, which it usually does after the third washing. For the second or third washing brine would be better than water. Washing butter before it has gathered into a lump, when it is in fine grains, is one of the main characteristics of scientific butter making. I mean by scientific butter making that system pursued by those who have succeeded in reducing the making of the article to definite rules, producing uniform results. This is the process adopted by the best butter makers of both Europe and America. Butter makers should also be possessed of a knowledge of the proper temperature of milk and cream when about to manipulate them, and should keep a thermometer. Butter thus made will have the grain preserved."

"What is this grain in butter, Mr. Lynch?"

"Well, it is difficult to describe it. one test is to notice the edge when a piece of butter is broken in two. If the grain has been preserved in the working the edges will be like a piece of broken cast iron, if not they will be of a greasy nature. The grain is broken by churning with dashers, or by churning at too high a temperature or by over-working it. Every unnecessary stroke in working hurts the grain."

Winter Care of Fowls.

In building a hen-house, the requirements of the fowls are always to be considered; these are warmth, light, fresh air, an earth floor and sufficient space to avoid crowding, and allow of freedom, as a hen will not do well at laying unless she is contented. Hence, there must be space, not only in ground surface for freedom, but height for ventilation as well, the windows so arranged and of number and size, as to admit copious air in summer. There are needed in winter a row of low windows on the south side for light, doubling the sash in winter; this is necessary for warmth, and does it effectually, as it forms a dead air chamber, single glass admitting cold without any benefit from the air. If the building otherwise is well fortified against the cold, and double sash well fitted is used with dry earth floor, fowls will do well if a good breed for winter laying, like the Asiatics, and well taken care of, the care to be constant, and required more in winter than in summer. Fresh water must be supplied with a variety of food, including occasional feeds of vegetables and meat of some kind, corn being the principal grain, affording heat as well as substance for eggs.

Fattening Sheep in Winter.

1. A good way is to begin early in December by giving in addition to straw, to each sheep each day for a couple of months, a pound of meal, grain, or oil cake.

2. When good hay is fed, the other food may perhaps be a little reduced.

3. Feed regularly. Sheep will do better on inferior food if feed regularly, than on good food if fed irregularly. Attested experience is in favor of feeding three times a day, morning, noon and night. In this many of the best breeders agree. Some, however, feed but once a day, and think it best. When this is done, the last feeding should be a considerable time before dark, for sheep do not feed well after dark.

4. Salt must not be neglected. As is well known, salt is not so necessary in the winter as in the summer; still, it is necessary, and should be fed at least once a week. Some breeders keep it before the sheep all the time, and this is the better way. Randall mentions the practice of Gen. Marshall, of New York, State which is to take the oats from the hay racks and place them in a box rack under cover. Then they are sprinkled with brine, and the sheep when hungry for salt are not only supplied with it, but, by salting the oats, consume all the straw.

The Best Cows to Raise.

The best breed of cows under all conditions has no existence, as so much depends upon the adaptation of the peculiar qualities of each breed to surrounding circumstances. The National Live Stock Journal says, however, that, if the production of milk for towns is the leading object, then selected Ayrshires, Holsteins, or Shorthorns will give satisfaction. If they are intended for butter-making, then the Jersey, Shorthorn and Ayrshire would be the best, taken in this order. If for cheese-making, then the Holstein, Ayrshire and Shorthorn. It does not, however, approve of pure breeds for dairy purposes; but advises a cross of a Jersey bull on a deep-milking Ayrshire cow, as the delicate Jersey will be much improved by crossing on the hardy Ayrshire, while the grade will yield more milk than the former, and of a richer quality than that of the latter. A square cross of a Jersey bull upon selected common cows also generally produces an excellent dairy grade.

The Chances of Grain Prices.

There is a great slackness in the movement of wheat. Prices are so low that few farmers sell, saving those who are compelled to do so by circumstances. Nor is there any probability of the market improving for some time, for, what very rarely happens, good harvests have been reaped this year the world over. If farmers can manage to hold on until the supplies on hand run low, there is a chance for a rise; or they may hold on in anticipation of a poor crop next year. It is quite likely, indeed, that half the surplus product of wheat in Ontario will be found in farmers' hands next spring. Although a large breadth has been sown this fall, the crop is far from being a promising one.

Watering Horses.

There is a certain want of common sense and humanity in the habit many persons have of watering horses three times daily. The only reasonable or sensible or prudent plan to pursue is to give the animals water according to their real wants. This is a different matter from giving it to them capriciously, or according to their fancy. If we give way to the latter, we will find the animal becomes as cunning as a fox, and will play the old soldier at every opportunity, pretending to drink and make believe, so as to gain time and shirk work. But it is cruel to compel a team to plough or work from morning until noon, or from noon until night, without allowing it the privilege of a refreshing draught.

Nearly all the farmers of Iowa who have been troubled by the cyclones of the past season have provided against future loss of life by digging outside cellars, into which they and their families may retire in future possible similar emergencies.

Kitchen Knowledge.

APPLE JELLY.—Boil till it becomes a perfect jelly one pound of moist sugar, one pound of apples, the juice of one lemon. Let it stand in a mould till quite firm and cold.

SEA FOAM.—Whites of ten eggs beaten to a stiff froth, one-and-one-half cups of sifted sugar, one cup sifted flour, one teaspoonful cream tartar; put into rings and bake quick.

SPICE CAKE.—One-and-one-half cups butter, three cups sugar, one cup sour milk, five cups flour, five eggs, one teaspoon soda; cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, allspice, each one teaspoon; one pound raisins.

APPLE TOAST.—Pare and core tart apples without breaking them, put them on slices of stale bread, fill them with sugar, put a little butter and spice on each one, and bake them tender in a moderate oven.

LEMON PUDDING.—One pint of sweet cream; six eggs, beaten very light. Mix with the cream one large cup of sugar, grated rind of two large lemons; juice of one lemon. Line the dish with paste; pour the mixture in and bake.

FRUIT PIE.—One cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, two eggs, one-half cup of sweet milk, two cups of flour, two teaspoonsful of baking powder. Bake in layers and spread thick with any kind of jam. Frost the sides and top.

CRAB APPLE JELLY.—Put the apples in a pan and mash well; then let them simmer in a preserving kettle twenty minutes; strain through a jelly bag, and to a pint of juice allow a pound of sugar; let it boil ten minutes and then pour into jars and place in a dark, dry place.

APPLE MARMALADE.—Pare, core and cut in small pieces any kind of sour apples, and to every pound put three-quarters of a pound of sugar; put them in a preserving pan and boil over a slow fire until they are reduced to a pulp; then put them in jelly jars, and keep in a cool place.

APPLE AND BREAD PUDDING.—Soak a quart of stale bread in cold water five minutes; pour off as much water as will escape without squeezing, and put the bread in a buttered baking-dish; pare and slice a quart of apples, lay them on the bread, add sugar and spice to taste, and bake the pudding in a moderate oven.

CANNING CORN.—The corn is first cooked for five minutes; it is then cut from the cob and put into the cans, and the covers are soldered down. A small pinhole is made in the cover, and the cans are put in the boiler and boiled steadily for an hour and a half. The cans are then taken out and wiped dry, and a drop of solder is put on the air-hole. In this way there is no trouble about putting up sweet-corn so that it will keep.

GERMAN CRISPS.—Two cups sugar, one cup butter, the rind and juice of one lemon; mix thoroughly, either with a spoon or with the hand, adding sufficient flour to make them thick enough to roll out; roll very thin and cut in small cakes with a cutter; after placing in a pan rub the tops with eggs and sprinkle with white sugar; two eggs are enough for the tops of the cakes; they only require a few minutes to bake.

GREEN TOMATO CATSUP.—One peck tomatoes, six pods red peppers, or one teaspoonful pulverized, four tablespoonsful salt, four tablespoonsful black pepper, one tablespoonful of mustard, one tablespoonful ground cloves, one tablespoonful allspice, two quarts white wine vinegar; cook tomatoes and peppers in vinegar until soft; then strain, adding all the spices, and boil slowly five hours; when cold, put in bottles and seal.

Potatoes.

Some farmers, remarks the Hamilton Times, are keeping back their potatoes, expecting better prices. They were never further mistaken. The New York and Boston markets are glutted, the crops throughout the country are enormous, and there will be no demand in the States this year for Canadian potatoes. When contractors undertake to supply the esculents for the requirements of the London Fire Brigade at 48 cents a bushel, high prices in this locality, at all events, cannot be expected.

Fall Seeding.

In some sections of Ontario, farmers only finished the seeding of fall wheat last week. The late harvest delayed a commencement by fully two weeks, and owing to the absence of rain, the ground was hard to work. Stubble and pea-ground could scarcely be ploughed at all, and unfortunately a very large proportion of this kind of tillage prevails in the country. We want more summer-fallowing, cultivating, and underdraining to make the growing of fall wheat profitable.

Hop Bitters are the Purest and Best Bitters Ever Made.

They are compounded from Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion—the oldest, best, and most valuable medicines in the world, and contain all the best and most curative properties of all other remedies, being the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth. No disease or ill health can possibly long exist where these Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm. To all whose employment cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, being highly curative, tonic and stimulating, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is, use Hop Bitters at once. It may save your life. Hundreds have been saved by so doing. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop Bitters.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged, drunken nostrum, but the purest and best medicine ever made; the "Invalid's Friend and Hope," and no person or family should be without them. Try the Bitters to-day. 42-4t

HAIRY SHEEP.

It is stated as a positive fact, and we don't doubt it, that sheep will loose their wool in the second year that they are on the Island of Key West, with its tropical climate. No matter where they are brought from, they will become as woolless as goats. Lambs dropped here will retain wool just about the same length of time, when their woolly coats become nothing else but a soft, short hair, like in every respect to a goat. We knew before that there were woolless sheep, but did not think that an importation of any kind to a strictly tropical climate would result as above.

SHAN'T WE?

He struggled to kiss her—she struggled the same
To prevent him, so bold and undaunted,
As if smitten by lightning he heard her exclaim—
"Avaunt, sir!" and off he avaunted.

But when he returned with the fiendishest laugh,
Showing clearly that he was affronted,
And threatened by main force to carry her off,
She cried "Don't" and the poor fellow don'ted.

Then he meekly approached and got down at her feet,
Praying loud as before he had ranted,
That she would forgive him, and tried to be sweet,
And said "Can't you?"—the dear girl recanted.

Then gently he whispered, "How could you do so?
I certainly thought I was jilted;
Say, come thou with me, to the parson we'll go—
Say, wilt thou, my dear?" and she wilted.

Then gaily he took her to see her new home,
A shanty by no means enchanted,
Saying "Here we shall live no longer to roam,
Say, shan't we my dear?"—so they shanted.

FRESH FASHIONS FOR THE FAIR.

It is no longer good style to wear jewellry on the street.

The fashionable dress bonnet is of Turkey-red, long-nap plush.

Imported blue cashmere dresses are trimmed with poppy-red velvet.

Almond tints in the long-wristed gloves are new for dress occasions.

Corded shirrings both in single rows and clusters are very popular.

Black mull gypsy kerchiefs are dotted and scalloped with red embroidery.

Stripes are very little used, and plaids are only in favour for skirts of wool dresses.

Corsage bouquets are replaced with knots of ribbons in hues contrasting with that of the dress.

Dark cashmere dresses are trimmed with India camel's hair borders, like those used on India shawls.

Pockets of lace and escalier plush are suspended from the waist of evening dresses by ribbon loops.

Slippers for morning wear are of alligator skins of the shade of the trimming on the Watteau dress.

The shoulders of new dresses are high and square, but the bodice may be round or pointed, as preferred.

Mother Hubbard wrappers of double-faced Canton flannel are extremely stylish for breakfast wear for young ladies.

Thick repped silk or ribbed velvet is used for the wide collars of chemisettes and fichus of tulle, silk, mull and Auriliac lace.

Red hair is now very fashionable and is arranged in severe simplicity. Switches are discarded unless the natural hair is exceedingly scant.

New dresses are less clinging to the figure than they have been for years. Skirts are cut very wide and the puffed drapery is very large.

Brocades are by no means abandoned for dinner dresses, but they now form the draperies and sleeves with plain satin for the basque and train.

Tweed costumes are bordered and trimmed with rich-looking Roman scarfs made of soft, twilled silk, or of Algerian stripe, a fabric of silk and wool.

Three colors and three different materials are found in elaborate evening dresses from Paris; one of unique coloring has salmon satin for the front of the skirt, sky-blue brocaded for the sides, and light water green corded velvet for the basque and train; another has dark green velvet for the princesse back, with terra cotta satin on the sides, and shrimp pink brocatelle velvet in front.

Artistic and costly buttons are a great feature of walking-dresses and jackets, and, as they can be transferred from one dress to another, they are really not extravagant purchases in the end. Tortoise-shell buttons, with crests or monograms in gold, enameled buttons in Mauresque or Florentine styles, are effective and look well on bottle green, Havane, or prune-colored dresses. Wooden and horn buttons are also worn, and small round French gold buttons—"grelots"—with rough surfaces, are plentifully used on bodices, cuffs and pockets.

FEMININE PECULIARITIES.

There are little peculiarities individual to the fair sex which are both curious and amusing. Why does a woman so often drop her fan or her handkerchief? That has puzzled many a masculine brain. There are two reasons for the accident, if it be so called, for want of a better word. First, the fair creature's tongue runs so fast that the wagging of the organ loosens the tension of the muscles of the hand; second, the fan or handkerchief is purposely dropped that a "horrid man" may show his gallantry in picking it up, and ten chances to one the lady purposely beats him in that operation after he has bent his rheumatic limbs in an effort to be gallant. She is satisfied with the display of servility. Why do women, if looked at by a man, proceed at once to chew their lips or convulsively press them together in the intervals of chewing? That proceeds sometimes from modesty which urges them to do something to divert their minds from the masculine imprudence or admiration, or it may suggest that the owner has a very kissable mouth, the lips of which, bitten, will become beautifully red, or it may be the result of the unpleasant feeling of a new set, or the oscillatory movement of an old set, of false teeth. You need not pay any money for the show, and yet you take your choice of reasons. Why is it that women with fine eyes roll them toward the ceilings or the sky? That is easily answered. They wish to look angelic, and they usually do.

WOMEN AND POCKETS.

Nature never intended woman to be a creature with pockets. That woman was not meant for pockets is sufficiently evidenced by one fact alone. When she is on the street, though her outer cloak may have several pockets and her dress at least one, she invariably carries her purse in her hand. It would not be safe to intrust woman with any more pockets than she now possesses. If she had more she might be tempted into bad habits, such as carrying about with her to places of amusement, etc., a number of articles in addition to those with which she now burdens herself and her escort. If she had a multitude of pockets she would be a perambulating fancy store. As it is she cannot even manage the pockets now allowed her. It is her habit to hang up her dress without emptying its one pocket, and to mourn until that special dress is again worn the loss of the contents of that pocket.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, so gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1, per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS,—I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Bentley, of this place, and have received received great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremour which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

OVER THE WIRES.

I hear a faint, low singing,
Like the wind of distant chords;
'Tis a message gleefully winging
Over the telegraph wires.
And what are the glad wires humming,
As they stretch in the sunlight away?
"I am coming, coming, coming—
I am coming home to-day!"

And now I hear a sobbing,
Like some soul sitting alone,
With a heart that is wearily throbbing,
And lips that can only moan.
Oh! what are the sad wires sighing,
As they reach through the darkness of night?
"He is dying, dying, dying—
Come on the wings of light!"

The titillation of laughter
Next falls upon my ear,
And a burst of mad mirth after,
Like a sound of a distant cheer.
And what is the gleeful story
That the round firs spreads afar?
"Our club is crowned with glory—
Hip, hip, hip, hip, hurrah!"

Oh! what are the wires relating,
Morning, and noon, and night?
"The market is fluctuating!"
"Report of the Senate fight!"
"Cæsar S——e defaulter!"
"Arrest a man named Brown!"
"Jones died to-day by the halter!"
"Wheat went suddenly down!"
"Dead!" "Born!" "Going!" "Coming!"
"Deluge!" and "Drought!" and "Fire!"
Singing, and sobbing, and humming,
Over the telegraph wires.

A DAUGHTER WORTH HAVING.

"Harvey Mills has failed! said Mrs. Smithson one chilly spring evening, as she ran in to see her next door neighbor and intimate friend, Mrs. James. "My husband just came home, and he says that what we supposed to be a rumor only, is a sad fact; the assignment was made yesterday. I threw on a shawl and ran right over to tell you. They are to keep the house under some sort of an arrangement, but they have discharged all their servants, and what in the world the Mills' will do, Mrs. James, with Mrs. Mills' invalid habits, and Miss Helena with her dainty ways and refined bringing up, is more than I know;" and pretty, shallow Mrs. Smithson looked at her nerve-loving friend and neighbor with an air of an epicure regarding some favorite dish.

"I heard all about it late last evening," said Mrs. James, adjusting the pink ribbon at the throat of her black silk dinner-dress, "and this morning I presumed upon our cousinship so far as to drive over and see how they were getting along. And really, Mrs. Smithson, you will be surprised when I tell you that, although I expected to find the family in great confusion and distress, I never saw them in such a comfortable way, and in such good spirits. The worst was over, of course, and they had all settled into the new order of things as naturally as could be. My cousin, Mrs. Mills, was sitting, as calm as you please, up there in her sunny morning-room, looking so fresh and dainty as she ate her crisp toast and sipped her coffee.

"Our comfortable and cozy appearance is all due to Helena,' said she. 'That dear child has taken the helm. I never dreamed she had so much executive ability. We were quite broken down at first, but she made her father go over all the details of business with her, and they found that by disposing of Helena's grand piano, the paintings and slabs, and costly bric-a-brac her father had always indulged her in buying, we could pay dollar for dollar, and so keep the house. My husband's old friend, Mr. Bartlett, who keeps the art store, you know, and who has always taken a great interest in Helena, bought back the paintings, statuary, vases, etc., at a small discount, and Baker, who sold us the piano a year ago or so, and who is another old friend, and knew, of course, just how we were situated, took it back, deducting only twenty-five dollars.

"Helena has just gone into the kitchen. What she will do there I don't know, but she says she needs the exercise, that she has not attended the cooking-school here in the city for nothing, and that, so long as the meals are served regularly and properly, and the house is kept in good order, her father and I are not to worry.' After she told me that, I drew my call to a close, and ran down into my cousin's kitchen to see her dainty daughter there. And what do you think? I found the girl at the sink, with her sleeves rolled up, an immense waterproof apron on, washing a kettle!"

"Washing a kettle?" repeated Mrs. Smithson, holding up both her soft, white hands in unmeasured astonishment.

"Yes, Mrs. Smithson, washing a great, black, greasy iron kettle that meat had been boiled in, and that had been left unwashed and gummy when the cook left. And, do you know, she was laughing over it all, and saying to her youngest brother, who stood near by, that she really liked it, for she now felt she was making herself useful."

"The idea! liking to wash kettles!" and the two fine ladies looked at each other in open-eyed wonder.

"It seems to me as if Helena Mills was trying to make the best of her father's altered fortunes, and was simply doing her duty in the premises," spoke Miss Carlton, Ida James's new drawing-teacher, who was that evening engaged in giving her pupil a lesson on the opposite side of the centre-table. She spoke earnestly and yet in a modest way, and it being the vogue in New City just then to patronize Miss Carlton, the pretty, accomplished "girl graduate" the two ladies looked at her amiably, and she went on:

"Somebody must wash the kettles, and it is always best, when one has a disagreeable duty to perform, to do it not only at once, but cheerfully."

"Yes, perhaps," replied Mrs. Smithson, "but how could a young girl of real native refinement" (both sides of the Smithson family were of the "old stock") "take so kindly to washing pots and kettles? The fact of it is, people have been mistaken in Helena Mills. She never possessed that innate gentility she has credit for. But every one finds their own level sooner or later."

These two women having thus summarily disposed of Helena Mills socially, they repeated their belief that the lovely and dutiful young girl had now found her proper level, over and over in their set, until it was the common talk in New City.

Miss Carlton, in her round of professional calls among the so-called elite, was entertained in nearly every household with the information that Helena Mills had given up her studies even, and gone into the kitchen to work—"and, if you'll believe it, she likes it!" Then would follow reflections upon the natural ability and bias of mind of a young woman who was "fond of washing dishes."

This sensible, accomplished little drawing teacher was the only one to be found, who mingled in the "upper circles" of New City, who said a word either in praise or defence of Helena Mill's new vocation.

Miss Carlton always and everywhere protested that the young girl's course was not only praiseworthy, but beautiful. She maintained that every woman, old or young, high or low, who took upon herself the labor of elevating the much-abused as well as despised vocation of housework—upon which the comfort of every home depends—to a fine art was a public benefactor.

Miss Carlton's friends all listened and laughed, and then went on with their senseless and malicious tirade. She was heartily glad when her engagements in New City were ended, and she was no longer obliged to move in such "select" society, whose ideas were always a mere echo of opinions—no matter how trivial and foolish—which had been expressed by a few of its more wealthy members.

* * * * * * *

Mrs. Dr. Forbes, nee Miss Carlton, had heard very little about New City society for five years. But having occasion to pass through the place on the cars lately, she treated herself to a little gossipy chat with the conductor, whom she had known as a New City gallant.

"There is no particular news, Mrs. Forbes," said he, "unless it is the engagement of Helena Mills to young Lawyer Bartlett, son of Col. James Bartlett, you remember, owner of the big corner art store. A capital choice the young squire has made, too. She's as good as gold, and everybody says she's the best girl in the city. She's a perfect lady, withal, and treats everybody well. Why, bless you, Mrs. Forbes, when her father failed in '75, she took entire charge of the family, and she has managed the house ever since.

"Her father is now in business again for himself, and employs more men than ever. Her mother, who had been an invalid for years, was forced by Helena's example to try and exert herself so as to share her daughter's burden to some extent. As a result of the new, active life she has followed, she lost all ailments, and is now a happy, hearty, healthy woman. Helena's brothers have grown up to be fine, manly, helpful fellows, and the whole family are better off every way than ever before. As things were going on before Mr. Mill's failure, the whole family were in danger of being spoiled by too much luxury.

"There was a great deal of talk at first among the big-bugs about Helena's 'pots and kettles,' and they used to say she had found her true 'level.' I always thought there was a spice of malice in their talk, for the girls envied her beauty and accomplishments. I am rather fond of telling them now that Helena Mills has found her 'level' in the richest, most influential, and just the best family in New City."

THE NEW FOUR DOLLAR BILLS.

The new issue of four-dollar Dominion bills were put upon the market on Wednesday, November 1st. The only bills of a smaller denomination than $5 hitherto issued by the Government have been $1 and $2, but the recent Act deprives the banks of the privilege of issuing $4 bills and transferred it to the Government. The peculiarities of the new bill are a water-mark in the paper, "Dominion of Canada," in two large characters, being plainly discernible diagonally across its face. In the right hand corner is a large red stamp, the seal of the Dominion of Canada, which will render counterfeiting almost impossible, as the usual process of photography will not enable them to copy the design. Under the border and in each corner are the figures 4 within a circle, that on the right being nearly double the size of the other. A capitally executed portrait of the Governor-General ornaments the centre, and the distinctive number of the bill in blue appears to the right and left of it, the latter being higher and nearer to the border than the other. From the top centre to the lower left hand corner and between the portrait and the smaller of the figures 4 is engraved, "the Dominion of Canada will pay to bearer four dollars," the green background of the last two words embracing a couple of figures over and a picture of the St. Lawrence, with the Victoria Bridge and a raft in the foreground. Beneath all this is the word "countersigned," and the signature W. L. Blair. The back of the bill is green, a large 4 being crossed by the words "Dominion of Canada," in shaded letters, and on either side circles with the words "four dollars" on the rim, and the numeral in the centre.

IN SOLID GOLD.

William H. Vanderbilt's wealth measured in solid gold, would, it is said weigh ninety-three tons. His income, according to the same estimate, is two dollars per second, or $84,400 per day. Jay Gould's wealth must be quite as much, and there are perhaps, fifty persons in the country whose possessions would amount to $10,000,000 each. In France there is a great deal of wealth, but it is better distributed than in the United States; for, outside of the Rothschild family, there are no such fortunes in France as in this country. Our forefathers thought they had provided against large accumulations when they decreed that landed property should be divided equally between the children of the original owners; but the vast increase of personal property through the operations of modern commerce has concentrated capital in very few hands. This will be a cause of trouble some time, as our population grows larger, and jealousy is created on account of the disproportion between the poverty of the many and the vast fortunes of the few. The only way to prevent a collision is for the rich to recognize the fact that they must make a good use of their wealth, regarding it as a trust for the benefit of their fellow men.

PUT THIS IN YOUR PIPE.

"Frank P. Warner came into our store to purchase a sample bottle of Zopesa for a friend, and stated that he (Mr. Warner) was afflicted with kidney and liver troubles for five years, and had paid $200 or $300 doctor's bills, and has now been completely cured by the use of two large bottles and one sample bottle of Zopesa. He was so bad at one time that he lost 37 pounds of flesh, but after using Zopesa, claims that he is a sound man, and now weighs 145 pounds. He was loud in its praise, and readily consented to allow us to use his name for reference."

Again, Mrs. Forbes, wife of Mr. R. C. Forbes, Tilsonburg, Ont., through Mr. C. Thomson, Druggist, says: "She was ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and was reduced to a mere skeleton, but through the use of Zopesa entirely recovered and has gained 38 pounds."

We could present very many such, but have not the time nor space. Zopesa is not a cure-all, but acts directly upon the liver, stomach, and kidneys, correcting the digestion, giving activity to the liver and health to the urine. This corrects the whole system and the blood becomes pure. 44-4t

Orin Catlin, 49 Pearl Street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: I have tried various remedies for the piles, but found no relief until I used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which entirely cured me after a few applications.

Chicago must choose between Mr. Gray and Mr. Booth, as it cannot have both. Gray is the man who fired at the actor in a theatre, and he has since been confined in a lunatic asylum, from which he now seeks to be released. Booth declares that he will not play in that city if his assassin is set at large.

MR. J. R. SEYMOUR, Druggist, St. Catherines, writes that he finds an ever-increasing sale for Burdock Blood Bitters and adds that he can, without hesitancy, reccommend it. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand specific for all diseases of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. 45-2t

Green pippins and golden grow on the same bough of an apple tree in the garden of Huston Millar, Hardinsburg, Ky. Some of the apples are one-half pippin and the other half russett. The pippins, being the largest, cup over the russets, giving the fruit the appearance of great acorns.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.—Twenty-five cents expended to your druggist for a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil will allay more pain and cure more diseases than many dollars spent for ordinary medicines would do. Yellow Oil cures Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Sore Throat, Croup, Stiff Joints, Contracted Cords, and all Lameness and Inflammation. 45-2t

A CURE FOR HEADACHE.—Thousands are suffering martyrs of this distressing trouble. If you have pure and properly vitalized blood coursing freely through your veins; if the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels act rightly, you will never experience headache. Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

THE POULTRY ASSOCIATION.—The date of the annual meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association, has been postponed from Tuesday evening, Nov. 14th, to Tuesday evening, Nov. 21st. Please refer to advertisement in another column.

ACCIDENT.—During the progress of the fire at Whyte's Foundry, two firemen Messrs. Joseph Pentland and John Craig, fell through the platform over the dam and were hurt. The latter was injured in the side and the former had a severe cut on the face, but it is thought that neither has received serious or lasting injuries.

BISHOP JAMOT.—This venerable prelate cannot forget his old constituency in the northern wilds no. relax his efforts, which have almost become second nature, for their welfare. Last Saturday he arrived in Ottawa with a deputation of Indians from the north shore of Lake Superior. He had an interview with the premier in their interests and he was well pleased with his success.

REMOVED FROM TOWN.—Mrs McEachern, who has been long and well known in business in Peterborough, removed on Thursday last to Barrie where she continues the fancy store business. There is no doubt of her success if she conducts her business there with the same care, attention and obliging disposition that made her establishment a popular resort in Peterborough. She has our best wishes for a successful career in Barrie.

THE REDMOND STOCK SALE.—The following particulars of Mr. Joseph Redmond's Thoroughbred Stock Sale will be of interest. The total amount received for the sales was $995.25. In the first class advertised, four yearlings and two year old heifers were sold for $383.00, one of which was purchased by Mr. John Garbutt for $107. Six thoroughbred calves were sold lor $316, and three grade calves, at from $24 to $11. Berkshire pigs brought an average of $15. The sheep sold moderately well. It is Mr. Redmond's intention to go into the business of importing stock, and he hopes before long to have a sale of stock imported by himself. Mr. Redmond's efforts to improve the stock should be warmly seconded by the farmers, for the probability is that they will derive as great or perhaps greater benefit from his exertions than he himself.

CHALLENGE PLOUGHING MATCH.—At the county ploughing match which took place recently, in the all comers' comers competition Mr. T. S. Breakenridge was awarded first place and Mr. Daniel Hennesy third. The latter did not agree with the award, and issued a challenge to the former to plough a match for a purse of $40—each competitor to deposit $20—the purse to be paid over after the result of the matches is declared, on the order of the judges who are Messrs. John Harrison and Joshua Smithson. The challenge has been accepted, the cash deposited and the match will take place on Wednesday, Nov. 15th, in the field east of the one in which the county match was ploughed. The same kind of plough is to be used as at the first match and all other points to be settled by the judges The struggle under the circumstances, will secure a large attendance of spectators.

FIRE SYSTEM REFORM.—The firemen complain that they are seriously handicapped in their endeavors to be useful at fires by the lack of proper apparatus. There is no way to get the hose carts to the scene of the fire, except dragging them by hand, and by the time a fireman runs, say a mile to the hose tower and drags a hose cart with 1000 feet of hose, say, another mile, he is so thoroughly exhausted as to be of little use in putting out a fire. If a team were at the service of the brigade and a man to attend to them, the firemen would have nothing to do but hasten to the fire and be ready to cooperate with the hose reels when they arrived at a gallop. In other places—Belleville, we are informed—horses are kept for this purpose and when not required for fire service are employed on corporation work. So that on the score of expense there is no sufficient excuse for making beasts of burden of the firemen. A fireman remarked to our reporter that there was no reason except the deficient apparatus and appliances, why the buildings totally destroyed on Tuesday morning should not have been saved with but a very partial injury by fire. Firemen as a class are brave self-sacrificing men, and they should not be called on to expose limb and life without being provided with the best of known appliances and placed in the best position to make their exertions effective. Owing to defective fire extinguishing apparatus the fire fiend has had his own way and our wonderful town fathers sit like patience on a monument, and regard the destruction as philosophically as Nero looked and fiddled at burning Rome. Perhaps appointing them for life instead of electing them annually might make them less timorous in taking a course that might not meet the approval of all electors.

CONDOLENCE. — The Peterborough Lodge of A. O. U. W., of which the late Samuel White was a member, have transmitted to Mrs. White the following letter of condolence, which explains itself:

To Mrs. White:

We, the members of Peterborough Lodge, No. 135, A. O. U. W., desire to express our sympathy in your severe affliction. The Great Master Workman in His all-wise Providence has seen fit to remove your partner in life from the cares, toils, and sufferings experienced by workmen in this Terrestrial Lodge below, to enjoy, we trust, the pleasures and unalloyed happiness ever found in the Grand Celestial Lodge above. We hope that the enclosed cheque for $2,000, bequeathed to you by your late husband, from the Beneficiary Insurance Fund of the A.O.U.W., will materially assist you and help to oil life's chariot wheels, as you journey through life alone, is the earnest wish of the members of our lodge.

Signed on behalf of the Peterborough Lodge,

JOSEPH MCCLELLAND, M.W.
D. D. GALLETLY, Rec.
RICHARD KING, M.D., Medical Ex.

Peterborough, November, 1882.

Mrs. White replied as follows:

To the Officers and Members of Peterboro' Lodge, No. 135, of U. W.:

GENTLEMEN,—I received your kind, sympathetic letter and liberal enclosure, and I sincerely thank you for your words of condolence and good wishes.

In this great affliction I must bow to the Almighty, and believe that although He has buried the workman He still continues the work, and that I will be enabled to do His will in all things. The two thousand dollars will materially help to assist myself and family to all our earthly wants. Remaining yours very truly.

H. C. WHITE.

THE BISHOP AND THE SENATORS.

(London Advertiser.)

In the course of a sermon on the Marmion question, preached a few weeks ago, Archbishop Lynch is reported to have said that "there are two kinds of Irish—the noble Irish, who might be in rags, but have a true nobility of spirit, and the bastard Irish who would sell themselves for a situation." Senators Smith and O'Donohoe appropriated the latter portion of the Archbishop's remarks to themselves, and have issued a "manifesto" denouncing that dignitary for interfering in politics. They also call upon the Bishops of the Province to relieve them from "the unjust and offensive odium cast upon them." The "manifesto" is a silly affair from beginning to end; stupid in its inception and absurd in its pretensions. The only effect of it will be to give wide publicity to the fact that in the opinion of the highest ecclesiastical authority in the province they have "sold themselves for a situation." The sting of the remark lies in the fact that the record of the two Senators bears out the assumption that they are of those at whom Archbishop Lynch was aiming. Both are renegades in politics, whose conversion was co-incident with their acceptance of "situations." We wish them much joy out of the dispute they have provoked with the Archbishop.

SCHOOL BOARD.

A Brief Business Meeting—A Grade A Record for the Institute.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough School Board, was held on Tuesday night, in the basement of the High School building.

Present:—Mr. Stevenson, Chairman, Mr. Morrow, Secretary, and Messrs. Stratton, Dr. Burnham, Wrighton, Weir, Sproule, Robinson and Cox.

The Inspector and Principals of the High and Public Schools were also present.

After routine,

COMMUNICATIONS

were read from Miss Brodie, holding a Grade B. certificate, asking asking an appointment as teacher in case of a vacancy.

From George Tighe, asking an increase of salary.

Both referred to the Committee on Appointments.

WEST WARD SCHOOL.

The Chairman said that he had heard serious complaints respecting a disagreement between the principal and a teacher in the West Ward school.

The Inspector being called on stated that he had visited the school and found one of the classes of a teacher not what it ought to be, and the fault was not the teacher's nor the principal's, but some of the pupils were not so bright as they might be. He had found the teacher's senior class excellent in its studies. He had heard one side of the controversy, and had intended to-morrow to bring the two together, to hear both sides, and try to effect an amicable adjustment of the difficulty.

Mr. Smith, principal of the west ward school, explained the cause of the trouble, He had spoken to Mr. Stratton and Mr. Braden. His suggestions in reference to the management of the room in question had not been attended to, and he was not enlightened properly as to the results of the teaching in that division.

On motion of Mr. Stratton seconded by Dr. Burnham, the trouble existing in the west ward school was referred to the Committee on Appointments, together with the Inspector and Principal of the Public Schools, with power to act.

In course of the conversation the matter elicited, it was proposed to change the teacher with one in the South Ward school, and Miss Fair's name being mentioned, Mr. Sproule said that neither pupils nor parents would willingly consent to have Miss Fair transferred from the South Ward School.

DEFINING DUTIES.

Mr. Braden asked to have his duties defined, and the Secretary read a former resolution, defining his duties as they related to the oversight of the other schools.

PUBLIC SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Secretary read the following report of attendance at the several public schools for October:—

Mr. Braden explained respecting the apparently large attendance in Miss Graham's room.

On motion of Mr. Stratton the report was received.

HIGH SCHOOL RECORD.

The following communication was read from Mr. Dixon, head master of the Collegiate Institute:—

To the Chairman of the School Board:

I beg leave to submit for your consideration the following particulars respecting your Institute:

(1.) It would be now convenient to have fees collected only twice a year; besides it would affect the attendance and discipline beneficially. The highest fee paid in Ontario, according to this plan is $6 for the first term and $8 for the second term for non-residents, and $2 and $3 respectively for residents.

(2.) Two causes now tend powerfully to decrease the attendance, viz.,—The extrordinary good times, and consequent demand for labour has tended to decrease the male attendance, All the schools in our immediate vicinity are free, whereas our pupils pay the highest fee in the province. These circumstances, no doubt, affected the non-resident attendance.

(3.) The school year just closed has been a very successful one for your Institute. At the beginning of the year three matriculated at Queen's University, carrying off three of the most important scholarships; two have taken first-class provincial certificates; six have matriculated in Toronto University, winning nineteen honors, nine first-class and ten second-class; twenty-six have passed the intermediate examinations; one matriculated in law and one matriculated at Victoria University; and at the end of the year four matriculated at Queen's again winning three scholarships. It is noticeable that these honors have been fairly divided among the several departments of the institute.

We have opened with an attendance about the same as last year, and with very encouraging prospects.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
JOHN DIXON.

On motion the matter of fees was referred to the Committee on School Supervision, to report at the next meeting of the Board.

The Board then adjourned.

TRAFFIC RETURNS. The traffic of the Midland Railway, of Canada, for the week ending Nov. 4th, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $5,691.71; freight, $20,213.66; total, $25,905.37, as compared with $21,681.78 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $4,223.59; and the aggregate traffic to date is $913,205.86, being an increase of $180,462.58 over 1881.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

PROBABLY DROWNED.

On Monday, 30th Oct., Robert Young, of Young's Point, went up the lake for a hunt and fish, and got off the steamer Fairy at Boshink Narrows. On the next day Mr. Brady found his canoe, paddles, and coat. The canoe was half full of water but his gun and part of his provisions were still in it. His traps and hat are missing. His dog was got on a rock near an island. Every effort has been and is still being made to recover the body, but without success so far. He was a capital hand in a canoe as well as an excellent swimmer, therefore some suppose he may be lost in the woods; this, however, is highly improbable. The unfortunate man is altogether likely drowned; but the great depth of water in places and cold weather setting in will render the recovery of his body very unlikely this season. Great sympathy is manifested for his friends.

HALLOWE'EN.

Some of the results of this auspicious occasion are still to be seen on our main street; it would be well for our city fathers to remember that they would be held responsible for any accident that might occur from any negligence on their part in having obstacles removed. The youths of our village should also receive a hint that in the future they will be expected to respect the rights of property, even on Hallowe'en, and not to allow their jokes to assume too practical a form.

RUNAWAY.

Last Friday night while Geo. Warsley was driving Mr. Robert Northey's team in North Smith, they took fright, broke away from the carriage and ran home, a distance of two miles, no one injured—but unexpectedly "left behind."

Lakefield cheese factory has closed for the season, after a very satisfactory summer's business.

The regular meeting of the P. S. Board takes place in the Council chamber on Tuesday, 14th inst.

A WONDERFUL YOUNG WOMAN.

Winnie Tracy's Mysterious "gifts."

A Sick Girl Sees Visions and Performs Wonders by the help of Angelic Assistance—She is Suddenly Healed and loses her Supernatural powers.

Miss Winnie Tracy, who has been a dining-room girl at the Oriental, has been the subject of most wonderful exhibitions of psychological, pathological or physiological phenomena. On Saturday Oct., 18th, she became ill, and just a week afterwards, she was seized with lockjaw and tetanic spasms. Accompanying these was a loss of hearing, loss of speech and complete loss of sight. The tetanus yielded to the medical treatment of Dr. O'Shea, on Tuesday night, but her faculties did not return. She lay in an apparently cateleptic state, and it was discovered that she was endowed with the gift of almost supernatural knowledge. A bouquet of flowers was presented her, and by the sense of touch alone, she distinguished the different colors, that composed it, and she was said to be able to tell the time of day without seeing or hearing a time-piece. Her wonderful powers were spoken of abroad, and hundreds came to visit her in the comfortable room that Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre had assigned her, and she was put to the severest tests. To make things sure, she was securely blind-folded, and she told the different colors of dozens of aaticles with exactness, whether bits of colored paper or articles of dress or flowers. Her skill at this excited the wonder of all. Her attendants say that she knew and told of things taking place out of the room, that she could not learn from any outside source. On Friday evening her sight and hearing returned, and she was much better in health, but her wonderful powers vanished with improved physical condition.

ANGELIC ASSISTANTS.

Winnie Tracy is a bright girl of eighteen, and came about a month ago from Barrie. She has a fine, large, lustrous black eye, and is a rather attractive girl. To our reporter she stated that her apparently wonderful knowledge, was imparted to her by an angel, of which there were three in constant attendance on her while her "power" lasted. The angels were females clad in white with golden wings and were unlike any pictures she had ever seen. One, which acted as "speaker" had a crown of gold silver, and this angel would tell her everything she wanted to know during her unconscious, sightless condition. At last, on Friday as Miss Tracy says, the angel touched her, "bade her good-by and wished her luck" and told her to say five Pater Nosters and five Ave Marias, and she would recover. After repeating the prayers four times there came a glimmer of sight and at the conclusion of the fifth time her sight and hearing returned, but her mysterious power was gone. The angels seemed to float in the air against a back ground of unearthly light through which "baby-angels" were flying. Her health improved and she recovered the use of her limbs which were before lost, and to-day (Wednesday) she is able to walk about.

Our reporter took copious notes of the case, but her sudden loss of power robs the case of its interest, and the above sketch will show that Winnie Tracy has had a weird and wonderful experience.

All who saw her were greatly impressed with her apparently miraculous powers, but some were skeptical, and suspected trickery, but if there was such, it was performed with a skill that was as wonderful as the "manifestations." Some of the older physicians, who did not, however, see the case, think it was an ordinary case of hysterical malingering, and scout the idea of anything supernatural. But the facts given above were vouched for with the greatest solemnity, and the absence of any apparent object for trickery adds to the mystery of the whole affair.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE. — On Tuesday morning about 3.30 o'clock, a destructive fire of doubtless incendiary origin, broke out in the blacksmith shop in the west end of Whyte & Co's foundry, and before it could be stayed, the whole building was consumed together with Wilson's Woollen factory about 100 feet to the south. Owing to a pair of baulky horses, the engine was not on hand in time to accomplish much. So rapid was the spread of the fire that little was saved. Whyte & Co's loss on foundry is about $11,000, and on the woollen mills building, which they own about $3,000, covered by an insurance of $7,000. Mr. A. Sawers owned the woollen mills machinery, loss about $4,200, insured for $3,200. The loss of Mr. Wilson, lessee of the mill, is about $1,000, insurance $500. Workmen in the foundry lost between $700 and $800 worth of tools. About 40 persons were thrown out of employment.

In Toronto.

Since the removal of Dr. M. Souvelle's Throat and Lung Institute to his new quarters, 173 Church street, hundreds suffering from catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and many diseases of the throat and lungs have received treatment by his new and wonderful instrument, the spirometer, which conveys medicines in the form of cold inhalations to the parts diseased. Physicians and sufferers can try it free. Poor people bearing certificates will be furnished with spirometer free. Write enclosing stamp for pamphlet giving full particulars, to Dr. M. Souvelle, ex-aide surgeon of the French army, 173 Church street Toronto, or 13 Phillips' Square, Montreal. 44-tf

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT US.

We publish below the flattering remarks that our exchanges have been kind enough to make on our recent improvements and enlargement of the EXAMINER. We set more value upon them, as the opinions of those best qualified to judge upon such matters:—

A Handsome Weekly.

The Peterborough Examiner makes its bow in a new dress, coming from an enlarged office, and new presses. It is one of the handsomest weeklies in Ontario now, and is very welcome to our exchange list.—Dundas True Banner.

Better than the Most.

FIRST-CLASS PAPER.—The Peterborough EXAMINER has again enlarged, and is now a 56-column paper. It is really a first-class weekly, as good as any in the province, and better than most. The hearty appreciation and liberal patronage of the enterprising people of Peterborough have, of course, contributed mainly to the gratifying result.—Collingwood Messenger.

Extensive Enlargement.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has made extensive improvements, including the enlargement of the paper. This is a very satisfactory indication of the prosperity and progress of our town, on which we congratulate our contemporary in having its share. For a town, not yet arrived at the rank of a city, Peterborough certainly is not behindhand in respect to its local press.—Peterborough Review.

Greatly Improved.

The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to us this week, enlarged to 56 columns, in an entire new dress, and otherwise greatly improved. We tender the enterprising publisher our hearty congratulations, and trust that the $5,000 lately invested in new presses and plant, may prove to him a lucrative investment.—Millbrook Messenger.

Deserved Success.

We must congratulate our contemporary the Peterborough EXAMINER, upon the improvements it has been able to make in its columns. We are always glad to see our brethren of the press meeting with deserved success.—Irish Canadian.

Improved in Print.

The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to hand this week enlarged and improved in print. We are glad to notice these signs of continued prosperity. Peterborough may well be proud of its newspapers.—Toronto World.

Second Place to None.

The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to us this week enlarged and otherwise greatly improved. For size and appearance it will now hold second place to none in Canada. The office has added two new Wharfdale presses, power paper-cutters, numbering and perforating machines, etc., causing an outlay in all of about $5,000. This enterprise and energy deserve a full and just reward from the public.—Perth Courier.

A Paper to be Proud of.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE.—As intimated last week, the Peterboro' EXAMINER made its appearance in an enlarged form. Business men in Peterboro' appreciating the benefits to be derived from extensive advertising, make heavy demands upon the publisher's space, and so our contemporary, in order to not neglect either reader or advertiser, has extended its borders, and now measures 56 columns, 30 of which are given to the reader. It is now the same size as the Times. In print and morals the EXAMINER claims to be the "cleanest" in the Province. Peterboro' has now two papers of which any town of its population may be proud.—Port Hope Times.

Most Wide Awake.

NEWSPAPORIAL.—The Peterboro' EXAMINER, always one of the brightest and most wide awake of our contemporaries, came to hand last week in an enlarged and improved form. The EXAMINER is now an eight-page 56 column paper, is printed from new type and a new press, and is a perfect model in its general get-up. The efforts of the able and enterprising publisher, Mr. Stratton, appear to be appreciated by the people of the Peterboros.—Galt Reformer.

Ablest of the Local Papers.

A GOOD PAPER.—The Peterboro' EXAMINER comes to hand in greatly improved form and appearance. The enterprising publisher has made improvements in his premises to the extent of $5,000. The EXAMINER is one of the ablest of the local papers of Ontario, and has been doing it's share in giving the local press the position of influence in the province which the good of the country requires. We wish our cotem. the increased prosperity which its able management merits.—Woodstock Sentinal Review.

"Ahead in the Country."

A WORTHY EXCHANGE.—The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to us in a new and enlarged form. Mr. Stratton, the worthy proprietor, has ever tried to make his paper ahead of all competitors in his county and we think he has been successful. He has now one of the finest sheets in Ontario and his facility for turning out job work have recently been supplemented with several new fast presses.—Bruce Telescope.

A Credit to the Town.

The Peterboro' EXAMINER is our latest exchange. It is a handsomely printed sheet, and a credit to the town in which it is published.—Huron Signal.

Constantly Improving.

ENLARGED.—The Peterborough EXAMINER came to hand last week considerably enlarged and printed throughout with new type. The EXAMINER, during the past few years, has been constantly improving, and its merits as a newspaper coupled with its unflinching advocacy of sound Reform principles have made it so prosperous that its enterprising proprietor has been enabled to invest no less a sum than five thousand dollars in new presses and printing material. We congratulate him on his success, which we hope may increase rather than diminish in the years to come.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

A Lively Exchange.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has given itself a bright brushing. In fact it has cast off its old clothes and donned a bran new dress. This is proof that our friend's labours are appreciated as they ought to be. The EXAMINER is one of our liveliest exchanges. May it long prosper.—Brockville Recorder.

A Fine Business.

The Peterborough EXAMINER, already one of the best local papers in the province has enlarged to seven columns on each of its eight pages. Its enterprising proprietor has made extensive additions to the office, including two wharfdale presses, and talks of establishing a bookbindery. Mr. Stratton is a shrewd and successful publisher, and his energy and enterprise will no doubt be duly appreciated by his constituents. Mr. Stratton has built up a fine business, and has aided very materially in upholding the Reform cause and advancing Reform principles in Peterborough town and county.—Lindsay Post.

A Handsome Paper.

STILL PROGRESSING.—Only a few months ago the Peterborough EXAMINER was enlarged, decked off with new type and converted into the popular eight page form. Again it has taken a fresh advance in the way of enlargement, being as acute in enterprise as it is crisp in journalistic style. Besides being a handsome paper, it has handsome premises, newly remodelled, with large and airy press, editorial and composing rooms and neat business offices.—Kingston Whig.

Adds to its Influence.

The Peterborough EXAMINER came to hand last week enlarged and improved in many ways. The EXAMINER has large new Wharfdale presses, and has added other new material to its plant, which still further adds to its influence and business requirements. We are glad to notice this onward course of our contemporary.—Lindsay Warder.

An Able Paper.

JOURNALISTIC.—The Peterboro' EXAMINER has lately been much improved. It has now an enlarged office, new presses, new type, a prosperous business and a paper of 56 columns dimensions. The EXAMINER is an able paper, and the inhabitants of that part of the county will appreciate the enterprise of its proprietor.—Guelph Mercury.

Leading Weekly.

The office of the Peterboro' EXAMINER has been undergoing large improvements. The building has been thoroughly remodelled on the most improved plan, and new presses, type, etc., have been added. Last week the EXAMINER came to hand in a much enlarged form and arrayed in a new dress throughout. We are pleased to notice the improvements made and hope the push and enterprise shown by the proprietor will be duly appreciated by his patrons. The EXAMINER can now be justly ranked as one of the leading weekly newspapers of the province.—Strathroy Age.

In the Front Rank.

The Peterboro' EXAMINER reached us last week in an enlarged form. It is certainly in the front rank of country journalism—excelled by none, equalled by few.—Colborne Express.

An Admirable Weekly.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has been enlarged to a fifty-six column, eight-page paper, two new Improved Wharfdale presses have been added to the "plant" of the office, and additions have been made to the premises. The "EXAMINER" is an admirable weekly, and we write nothing out of the way in stating that it deserves the credit of being among the foremost of a few weekly journals in the Dominion,—a credit to the publisher, Mr. Stratton, and a live evidence of a live town in which it is printed. We commend the publisher and his enterprise.—Campbellford Herald.

Second to None.

The Peterborough EXAMINER came to hand last week in an enlarged and improved form. It is now a 56-column newspaper, well edited, nicely printed and "second to none" in the Province.—Walkerton Telescope.

A Good Paper.

The Peterborough EXAMINER rejoices in an enlarged office, new presses, new type, a prosperous business and 56 columns of space. A bindery is to be added. The EXAMINER is a good paper and deserves to succeed. It is a readable sheet.—Hamilton Daily Times.

A Pleasure to Handle.

The Peterborough EXAMINER is one of the weeklies that it is a pleasure to handle. It is never without ideas, presented clearly as to language and typography. Its success is such that it now comes to us printed from new type and enlarged.—London Advertiser.

Carries the Palm.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.—We are glad to note the prosperity of any of our confreres, and none more so than the Peterborough EXAMINER. Not only does it announce that extensive additions have been made to its premises, but the improvements on last week's issue of the paper are so marked that the most obtuse can see them at a glance. The EXAMINER was one of our best exchanges previously, but now it carries the palm. The cost of the whole improvement has been over five thousand dollars. Go on, friend Stratton, and prosper, is our best wish.—Port Hope Daily Guide.

Up With the Times.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has been greatly improved, and shows a purpose to keep up with the times.—Belleville Intelligencer.

Enlarged to 56 Columns.

NEWSPAPER BOOM.—The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to hand enlarged to 56 columns and an entire new dress. We heartily wish a continued prosperity.—Hastings Star.

Best Printed and Most Readable.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has always been one of the best printed and most readable of our exchanges, but last week it came to us still more improved. It has been enlarged and is printed on new type and with new presses. A bindery is to be added to the office. Success to the EXAMINER.—Belleville Ontario.

The Very Best.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has been enlarged to a 56 column paper, and presents an improved appearance. It is now one of the very best and neatest weekly newspapers in Canada.—Almonte Gazette.

Deserves Success.

The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to us this week enlarged and improved. It is now a 56-column newspaper, and the last issue contains about thirty columns of reading matter. Improvements have been made in plant that have cost the proprietor about $5,000. It is pleasant to see those signs of prosperity on the part of the publisher, and to be able to add that we think he deserves it, as he conducts his paper with much more than average ability.—Picton Times.

One of the Best.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE IN PETERBOROUGH.—The EXAMINER, published in the busy town of Peterborough, is determined to do its little best to keep up the reputation of the local press, having recently enlarged its premises, and made extensive additions to its plant and machinery. The paper last week assumed a new and improved form, and is now one of the best papers published in the Midland district. It deserves to succeed, and we have no doubt it will, for if there is one thing more than another that the people of Peterborough—and Lindsay as well—are noted for, it is their intelligent support of a deserving local press.—Markham Economist.

Best Paper East of Toronto.

The Peterborough EXAMINER, one of the best weekly newspapers published in the province, and certainly the best published east of Toronto, has lately been enlarged and greatly improved. It has now an enlarged office, new presses, new type, a prosperous business and a paper of 56 columns dimensions. The inhabitants of that part of the country will appreciate the enterprise of its proprietor.—Bruce Reporter.

Upright, Always Adhering to Justice and Truth.

Our contemporary, the EXAMINER firm has been enlarging its very readable, upright speaking, and truth preserving sheet. It is a paper which has always dealt with the topics of the day in an unprejudiced manner, always adhering to justice and truth despite all allurance to ways which are evil. We hope it may succeed in the future as it has in the past.—Peterborough Times.

The Mechanical Work Good.

The Peterborough EXAMINER, one of the ablest Reform journals in the province, enlarged last week to a mammoth sheet. We are gratified at this evidence of success and extend to friend Stratton our heartiest congratulations. The mechanical work of the paper is equal to that of any weekly journal published, and its merits as a newspaper will be acknowledged by the people of Lennox when it is stated that upon it, F. R. Yokome plies his facile pen.—Napanee Express.

Creditable Appearance.

Last week the Peterborough EXAMINER came to hand in an enlarged form, and presents a very creditable appearance. In addition to the enlargement, the enterprising manager has also purchased two new presses and otherwise improved his plant. The EXAMINER is one of our best exchanges, and we congratulate the editor upon his success.—West Durham News.

Greatly Improved.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has been enlarged. The office has also been greatly improved, presses, type, etc., having been added to the value of $5,000. Peterborough printing offices are well patronized.—Whitby Gazette.

Better than Ever.

Thn Peterborough EXAMINER has come to hand in an enlarged form. This evidence of enterprise speaks well for the esteem in which the EXAMINER is deservedly held by the community. It has always been considered a first class paper, now it is better than ever.—Port Hope News.

Very Handsome Paper.

The Peterborough EXAMINER came to hand last week considerably enlarged and improved, and presenting in every respect a handsome appearance. The writer well remembers the time when the EXAMINER was but little more than half its present size, and poorly printed at that. The enterprise of the present proprietor has, however, made an excellent general newspaper of it, and one of which, barring its execrable politics, the community where it is published has reason to feel proud.—Napanee Standard.

Second to None.

Last week the Peterborough EXAMINER came to hand printed entirely from new type and much enlarged. The EXAMINER ranks second to none now. We wish our cotem. continued and increasing prosperity.—Omemee Herald.

Reliable Paper.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER.—We are pleased to notice that the Peterborough EXAMINER, a staunch and reliable Reform journal, has been considerably enlarged and otherwise improved. The proprietor has also purchased new presses, type, &c. We congratulate our cotem. on these marks, not only of improvement, but of tangible success.—Berlin Telegraph.

Floods in England.

The great part of England is now flooded by the heavy rains which have been falling of late almost without intermission. In scarcely any districts has autumn wheat been sown. The traffic in some parts of such towns as Canterbury and reading is carried on in boats and the country on each side of the railways looks like a lake.

A Brutal Method of Execution.

Milton and Samuel Hedges, negroes and brothers, were hanged at Knoxville, Tennessee, on Friday, for the murder of Jas. W. Farland. The execution took place in an open field. Two upright posts were placed in the ground with cross-beams from which ropes were suspended. A waggon with the prisoners drove under the beam. The ropes were adjusted and the waggon was driven away, leaving the men dangling. They choked to death.

She got up out of bed after prayer, in which she joined, and walked to another room on October 31st. She is gaining strength ever since.

Home Rule Looking Up.

The Irish parliamentary party admits that Gladstone's speeches during the week has placed the cause of home rule in Ireland upon a practical political footing, and given it a standing before the government as astonishing as it was unexpected. It is not improbable that one of the earliest steps will the granting of elective county boards with the right to nominate sheriffs and magistrates, elect boards of education, poor laws and public works. Some wholly unexpected contingency arises, home rule will shortly be accepted as a natural and peaceful incident of political progress of the country.

Who Should Suffer?

The many who daily suffer agony from corns, bunions and callous lumps, when the means of remedy can be so easily procured. Putnam's great remedy for corns is the new article, but it commands the confidence of every druggist in Canada, as all can testify that PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR is a sure thing. The man who neglects this suggestion to try PUTNAM'S EXTRACTOR ought to suffer. Use not the article "just as good." Flesh-destroying and dangerous substitutes are offered as a substitute for Putnam's. Of such beware.

McKEE & DAVIDSON

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 16, 1882.

Thanksgiving.

Last Thursday was nominally celebrated throughout the Dominion of Canada, as a day of thanksgiving to Heaven for the "blessings of a bountiful harvest." As a Christian country the formality could hardly be evaded consistently with its character. As a nation we have much to be thankful for; an abundant harvest, peace in all our borders, prosperity in all our commercial and business relations. In fact we enjoy all the blessings eloquently epitomised in the phrase,—peace and plenty. True, the Empire of which we form a part, has been during the past year engaged in war, but in this there is also cause for thankfulness, for as usual she has come out victorious, and has been once more successful in extending the bounds of her christian influence, and forecasting the benefactions of that christian civilisation and material improvement that so surely follow her triumphal progress.

On that day in the general heart expansion of thankfulness all sectarian bitterness was forgotten, and all believers, no matter how widely differing in the essentials of their creeds, could unite on the common ground of expression of gratitude for the blessings of the past year.

But mere expression of gratitude is not the whole duty involved in the becoming observation of a thanksgiving day. The day itself does not end our responsibility. Attendance at church and unctuous utterances of thankfulness, with ceiling-seeking eyes, piously upturned, are, if sincere, good and acceptable, but not the greatest good and acceptability. "Faith without works is dead." This is a world of action, not sentiment, alone; the most earnestly sung songs of thanksgiving are empty and vain—but sounding brass and tinkling cymbals—unless they are crystalised into action. It is a plain duty of all who have cause of thankfulness to see that others are placed in a position to indulge similar feelings of gratitude. He that is blessed in store and confines his gratitude to set words of thankfulness falls far short of his duty. The poor and the unfortunate should be the objects of the practical and most essential part of his outpourings of gratitude. Employing a carrier to insinuate a load of wood into a needy widow's back yard, is, if done in a right spirit, a more acceptable sacrifice than a cord of canticles of praise, whose sincerity is not practically attested by works.

The season of cold and storms and sufferings, terrible to the poor, is at hand, and he that is truly grateful will find a thousand opportunities of doing deeds of kindness, that will secure the approbation of Him who has declared that even a cup of cold water given in His name to "the least of these my little ones" is a service of the supremest acceptability.

Editorial Notes.

HONEST politicians don't find the business a paying one. Hon. Edward Blake has resumed the practice of his profession, which at a great sacrifice he relinquished about a year ago to give his exclusive attention to public affairs. He appeared a short time since as counsel for the Grand Trunk Railway in two important cases at the Toronto Chancery Sittings.

REFERRING to the administration of the Department of Crown Lands during the past ten years, the Toronto Telegram says:—"Mr Pardee, the Crown Lands Commissioner, is one of the ablest members of the Ministry. In matters requiring the exercise of good judgment and what the Scotch call longheadedness, Mr. Pardee may be said to take the lead. He is a capital man at the head of a Department."

THE chief thing Messrs. Smith and O'Donohoe, Senators, have accomplished by their "manifesto" against Archbishop Lynch is to secure from him a bill of sale—an authoritative certificate as it were, from the Bishop, that they keep said themselves. But this satisfaction is somewhat alloyed by the fact that their purchaser has begun to think them dear wares, even at the hollow price paid for them.

THE London Advertiser inquires what Sir John has done for the Irish in the past thirty years he has had the power. Why, he has given the empty honors of Senatoral dignity to Smith and O'Donohue, who are not only not in accord with Irish Canadians, but who use their first opportunity to insult the highest dignitary of the Church and scoff at his authority. Thirty years in office and then only recognizing the claim of the Irish to Government favors by appointing two "bastard Irishmen," as Archbishop Lynch calls the senators who would "sell themselves for a situation."

THE London Advertiser thus cogitates:—"Our sugar lords hanker for fresh worlds to conquer, and to that end ask the Dominion Government to put a larger drawback on all sugar exported. This would be simply paying the millionaires to supply foreigners with sugar at lower rates than they sell it to our own people. Would it not be better to remove the duty from raw sugar and in that way enable our refiners not only to supply foreign markets, but to reduce the price to Canadians? Why should we not have the privilege of cheap sugar as well as outsiders?"

THE remarks of Bishop Cleary on the "Marmion" question, and his cutting rebuke to the Mail and other Tory organs, is a whole bale of straws showing the direction of the wind. The Mail is now doubtless sorry that it "put its foot in it" so elaborately, when it estimated the Irish so low that it thought it could win them to its party by bullying them and their highest prelate, and we wot of a certain ambitious newspaper man, not a thousand miles from George street who would give largely of his possessions if he could unsay a thousand spiteful and insulting things he has said against the Irish, and not the least contemptuous, only last summer, and recall some things he has done, discriminating against Irish interests. The chickens may wander far afield but they come home to roost sooner or later.

THE Dominion Government boasts of a big surplus, wrung by unnecessary taxation from the pockets of the people. This surplus is useful to Ministers, if for no other purpose, to enable them to reward their friends. A few days ago a contract for $16,000 worth of blankets was given to an Ottawa man and a Quebec firm without the ordinary formality of calling for tenders! This is a palpable job. Not only are wool-growers compelled to take twenty cents and less per pound for their wool but they are forced to see the money wrung out of their pockets by taxes on almost everything, lavished in contracts on political favorites, without competition. One beauty of a surplus is that the Government may be in a position to reward its supporters.

THE Mail has lost apparently all self-respect, and in the selection of Billingsgate can discount a police gazette. As the organ of the N. P. party that promised farmers higher prices for their grain if they supported the N.P., it comes with certainly very bad grace, to use such language as this:—"Another Grit victor—grain is down. If it goes down ten or fifteen cents lower the farmer will be just as happy as if Mr. Blake was in power." This is simply adding insult to injury. The farmers have been grossly deceived. At the June elections they voted for the N.P. and wheat at $1.30 per bushel. If the elections were to take place now, and the farmers asked to express an opinion, with wheat at 87c, as to the effect of the N.P. in raising the price of grain, there is no doubt that the verdict would be vastly different. But the farmers served the purpose of the N.P. party and now they must be jeered at and insulted by their authorized organ, as is done in the sentence above quoted from the Mail.

A PROTEST.

THE DOMINION ALLIANCE AND THE CROOKS ACT—SIR JOHN'S COURSE CONDEMNED.

At a recent meeting of the Toronto branch of the Dominion Alliance the following resolution was passed:

That the Toronto branch of the Dominion Alliance regards the action of the Licensed Victuallers, in seeking the influence of Sir John A. Macdonald, for the extension of the hours of Saturday night liquor selling, with great concern and indignation; and thereby assure the Dominion Government that any attempt to relax the present license laws in the direction of further opportunities for the sale of liquor will meet with the strongest expressions of disapproval on the part of the Christian and temperance people of the country and this meeting, representing all temperance societies in the city of Toronto, hereby pledges itself to give the most practical and earnest support to the Provincial Governments in their efforts to restrict the liquor traffic. In order that immediate action may be taken in this direction, this question is now referred to our committee on legislation.

Resolved, that a copy of the resolution be sent to Sir John A. Macdonald and to the press.

It is stated on high authority that the Dominion Government are seriously considering the propriety of assuming that the Dominion Parliament alone has the right to charter railways and that all Provincial Acts incorporating railway companies will hereafter be subject to disallowance by the Federal authority.

The Witness thus speaks of Hon. Mr. Mowat's administration:—"The Ontario Government is an honest, economical and fairly able executive, and the electors have probably wisely decided in favor of letting well enough alone."

The "Mail," Marmion and Ontario Tory Politic

The Brantford Expositor epitomizes the utterances of the Mail for the last month or two on the Marmion question, and its selections will show how worthy the Mail, the authorized organ of the Conservative, the journal of gentlemen, is of being a guide on social, moral or even literary matters:

'Ours was no political task at all.'—Mail, Oct. 3rd

'We have, in fact, conducted this discussion without a thought of its purely political effect.'—Mail, Oct. 10th.

'But we will challenge His Grace, or any other citizen of Toronto, to point out anything in the Mail since the beginning of this controversy which has been unkind, unfair, untruthful, ungenerous, or that has not been a legitimate literary argument regularly and decently used.'—Mail, Oct. 13th.

The above extracts taken from the editorials of the Mail on the Marmion controversy, are perhaps unparalleled in Canadian journalism for impudence, toughness of cuticle, and a want of recognition of the principles which should govern a literary controversy. No political motive, indeed. If we understand the Mail's attack at all, it was from the begining, political. It had perhaps, no other object, point or force. Had not the twenty-three editorials which have appeared in the organ, upon this subject, bristled with party politics, they would have been looked upon by the public as the ravings of a man improperly let loose from Bedlam. Their object was political, and personal insult and vituperation has been lavishly shewn through every article, to point the political attack. If the object was not political, what means the following expressions:

'We hope to rid the Province of Ontario of the whole Grit cabal.'

'A whiff of political immorality may be detected, by nice nostrils, in the affair.'

'If there is one man, Grit or Conservative, who does not think as we do.'

'The Globe, as the representative of Scotch Liberals, is the willing accomplice.'

'Mr. Crooks has contributed much to the gratification of some of his business friends—to bring about a favorable result in dollars for some Grit creatures.'

'The same influence, although we doubt it, which has enslaved the Ontario Government, may, by secret circulars, overawe Catholics in some constituencies.'

'Now we do not believe it will catch the Catholic vote.'

'It (the Globe) first stultifies their (the Catholics) intelligence and impugns the purity of their imaginations, and then sly asks for their votes. It will not get them.'

'And for these reasons it is obviously the present duty of Mr. Crooks to resign, and of Mr. Mowat to demand his resignation.'

'If a strong suspicion is being entertained that a trap was laid for the Archbishop by the Mowat Government, for the purpose of making a desperate effort to keep a remnant of the Catholic vote, the tactics of the Globe gave a color to it, and the chuckling notes of some of the Grit party deepened the color.'

'We will not permit the Globe to do this. The organ of Mr. Mowat must either fight openly or consent to be kicked in a corner.'

'If we can induce it to come out of the holes and corners into which it creeps, we will promise to put it out on the sidewalk, so to speak, with a momentum that will carry it forever out of the lingering remnant of respect and confidence entertained for it by the Grit party in Canada.'

'Between them (the Archbishop and Mr. Crooks) they have helped to kill out Mr. Mowat's Government; for now there is no doubt at all in anyone's mind that the end is at hand. The Globe's pathetic and poodle-like appeals to 'the Catholics' are quite thrown away—they, as well as the rest of the population, are muttering, 'Must go.' 'Must go.'

'Nearly every Catholic of education, of ability, of good sound understanding, is undoubtedly a Conservative.'

'Elsewhere a Conservative Catholic, who is also a gentleman, is eagerly welcomed; here he is undermined.'

'His Grace made himself the agent of the Grit Local Government.'

'In every province of the Dominion the Catholic church, its faith, its ceremonies, its priests and nuns, have been at various times the objects of ruffianly ribaldry on the part of the very men with whom Archbishop Lynch is now in alliance.'

'In the first place, the action of the Archbishop places the Catholic church (so far as he represents it) in offensive antagonism to the Conservative party, which has always been friendly to the Catholics; and in a position of alliance with the Grit party, which has always been their bitterest enemy.'

'Against the evident conspiracy by which the Archbishop engaged to talk politics in his pulpit if Mr. Crooks would talk prurient nonsense about 'Marmion' in the Globe.'

'In order to hide, if possible, from the public knowledge the fact that Mr. Crooks had sold his Government, and that Archbishop Lynch had tried to sell the Catholic church—for purely political purposes.'

These extracts mean no politics with a vengeance! What else do they mean, in the name of all that is political?

But the Mail challenges any citizen to point out anything which "has been unkind, unfair, untruthful, or ungenerous," or, that has not been "a legitimate literary argument regularly and decently used," and further alleges that its endeavor has been to pursue the argument that "no word of theirs shall cause bitterness or be remembered with regret." Let us take a few samples of its "kindness, generosity, and literary decency.'

'The latest bee-haw of the unsanctified ass in our education office.'

'The act of His Grace was a mad one.'

'I axed him if his mother was a monkey!'

'Crooks has a base motive; gross ignorance; and a nasty imagination.'

'The braying of the educational donkey.'—'Whether from ignorance, vanity, meddlesomeness or instability.'

'Mr. Crooks' imbecility, his filthy and depraved imagination.'

'A man of very nasty ideas.'

'That unspeakable booby.'

'Mr. Crooks is the donkey that goes; His Grace (Archbishop Lynch) is the driver.'

'A corrupter of youth.'—Mr. Crooks.

'Marmion was never offensive to any Roman Catholic who has even an average education or an intellect above the level of a poodle.'

'Our objections to the actions of Mr. Crooks are endorsed by every man in Canada, who is not a puppet and a partisan, or who is not a booby or bad minded.'

'Against the evident conspiracy by which the Archbishop engaged to talk politics in his pulpit if Mr. Crooks would talk prurient nonsense about 'Marmion' in the Globe.'

'We venture frankly to recommend the consideration of His Grace's conduct to the ecclesiastical council of the Province.'

Why does he not in plain terms say "the Archbishop dares to differ from Squiffin of the Mail." "The Archbishop must go." That is what he means, but is afraid to say.

Nothing ungenerous; nothing unfair; nothing personal; nothing but decent literary discussion!! The man who ventures to thus speak of his ribald guffaws must have a forehead of brass, a cheek of leather and the epidermis of a crank.

The proprietors of the Mail will in time learn that low personalities and the vicious excrescences of Nova Scotia journalism, when made the principal feature on their editorial page, will neither elevate the tone of the Ontario press nor contribute to the standing and influence of their journal. We cite in proof of this the cool desertion of the organ upon this question by a considerable number of the journals of its own party.

The Globe, on the other hand; its tone, temper, toleration, entire freedom from vulgar personalities, fair and candid argument—though we think mistaken in its early article in which Marmion was treated as an immoral poem—has, in this discussion, set an example which Canadian journalists may well strive to emulate.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

When a man trades on his religion for political preferment, there ought to be an end of him.—Ottawa Free Press.

It is said the Prince of Wales will come to Canada to preside over the next meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science which takes place at Montreal during the coming winter.

The new Bible recently brought out by a New York religious maniac contains thirty-two commandments. As it has more commandments to break, it may possibly become more popular than the old one.

We have several times referred to the evidence tendered by many persons, mostly clergymen, regarding the character of our city, town and municipal councils. The witnesses all object to the license system going into the hands of the municipalities.—Toronto Mail.

A Kingston telegram informs us that the civil service examinations, under the auspices of the Dominion Government, were a perfect farce. The regulations issued were violated openly, the candidates being seated three at a desk, and in such a position that they could copy as they pleased, and this they no doubt did.

The latest scandal at Ottawa, first published several days ago and never denied, is to the effect that the Government purchased a lot of blankets from a man who was not a dealer, and did not advertise for tenders. This method of corruption is not new, but as Sir John makes his bed so must he lie on it. This blanket transaction may yet help to make it warm for him.

While the protectionists have been proclaiming the necessity of a tariff to secure the American workingman his higher wages, it turns out that his employer, instead of paying him higher wages, pays him less than the English employer pays his workingmen, and that it is only by working harder, longer and using his brains that the American is able to earn more than his English fellow-workingman. He owes his prosperity not to the tariff, but to his own talents and industry.—Detroit Free Press.

"In Montreal the deaf and dumb are being taught to speak. The process is effected by what is known as lip reading, by means of which the deaf and dumb person is taught to move his mouth and his tongue, and to emit sounds, in imitation of his teacher. But this is not the only miracle performed. The mutes are also taught to read the utterances of a speaker by the movement of the lips."—Toronto Mail.

If our esteemed rib-stabber would only tell, it might say that this self-same process is pursued at Belleville, at the institution supported by the Mowat Government. It is in such works as this that the Ontario Government spends a portion of the surplus.—London Advertiser.

The Mail is too utterly delicious. We call upon Mr. Smiff, the gentleman who writes leading articles for the Bobcaygeon Independent, to rise and defend his patent as the only original exponent of "the good, the true and the beautiful." With a flourish of rhetoric, worthy of that greatest of literary critics, Mr. Blood Spavin, the Mail ranges itself on the side of "all that is honest, truthful, cultivated and pure in this country." In other words the Mail ranges itself on the side of honesty as examplified by Sir Charles Tupper; truthfullness, as personified by Sir John Macdonald; cultivation, as seen in Mr. F. Smith, and purity as we know it at Ottawa under the present regime. Of course, as the chief organ beautifully remarks, those who oppose it are "every thing that is vile, and vulgar, and false, and malignant." Archbishop Lynch and the Catholic hierarchy of Ontario, the government and legislature of the province, the great body of thinking, tolerant people of all faiths and parties, condemn the course taken by the Mail, therefore they are all vile, vulgar, false, malignant. Let us weep.—Ottawa Free Press.

MR. GLADSTONE'S IRISH POLICY.

The tone of Mr. Gladstone's remarks at the Lord Mayor's banquet recently was more conciliatory than the utterances of any Premier upon a similar occasion. Without absolutely committing himself to any very radical policy, he yet pledged the Government to give such free scope for discussion and such ample consideration of all demands made in the name of the Irish people as to throw a terrible responsibility upon all who may hereafter encourage illegal acts with a view to coercing the Government. We do not aquit the authors of past outrages of responsibility for their actions, but the prompt manner in which Mr. Gladstone takes advantage of the improved condition of society in Ireland to offer due consideration of Ireland's wants will take away from future outrages every semblance of excuse or reason. Ireland's worst "friends" cannot injure her more fatally than by promoting disturbance just now. No Government can with safety make concessions when its authority is menaced, but Mr. Gladstone now says:—"The foundations of society in Ireland are now in but little danger. The monthly return of agrarian outrages is only 111 as compared with 511 in October, 1881. There may be in Ireland extravagant opinions and desires that can never be fulfilled, but if the Irish are content to walk in the ways of legality, the Empire is strong enough and free enough to entertain in friendly, kindly spirit any demand made for free discussion and perfect publicity in matters relating to its Irish policy." The recent action of the Irish members of Parliament in abandoning their obstructive tactics is an indication that the representatives at least of the Irish people, are willing to meet the Government in a friendly spirit. The Premier evidently means more than the mere discussion of Irish grievances, for he remarked that British institutions would have strength enough, he was truly convinced, to effect a settlement of every political controversy by bringing it to a completely satisfactory or at least a fair and tolerable issue. It is to be earnestly hoped that this pacific prospect may not be marred by any Phœnix Park tragedy; whatever else Ireland needs, her most pressing want is a period of tranquility, during which she will probably accomplish by peaceful means, more than will ever be achieved in her name by Communism and assassination.

Ireland and Arabi.

In the House of Commons Gladstone said that the extra expenditure for Ireland would be £450,000 for police, £150,000 for the land courts, beside a small amount for the military. After a lively passage between Gladstone and O'Donnell respecting Arabi, Gladstone expressed the fullest confidence in the khedive and the Egyptian government as to the fairness of the trial of Arabi.

NORFOLK (VA.) VIRGINIAN.

"Yes, sir, it is all that it is claimed to be. I have tried it, and have advised and witnessed its trial on others. I tell you its effects are simply wonderful. It gives a cure, and without much trouble at that. I had been suffering a great deal for over a month with very severe pains, contracted from a cold. I first experienced a pain in my side; and from its peculiar nature, I thought that it might be the premonition of paralysis. My friends were fearful; but after it shifted about from one side to the other, from arm to leg, shooting through my body in a most infernally torturing manner, I knew that it was rheumatism that had me, and I sought remedies of different kinds without effect, until I chanced to see the advertisement of St. Jacobs Oil, and read of its wonderful cures, when I resolved to give it a trial. That was about two months ago, and I had then been suffering a month of considerable agony. Securing a bottle of the Oil, I applied it to the parts affected, and that night I had the first good night's rest that I had since the commencement of my attack. I gave two other applications and I became perfectly cured—not suffering from Rheumatism since—and that has been two months ago.

This was the story of his cure by St. Jacobs Oil, as told by Capt. Jack McLean, who for fifty years has been a resident of Norfolk and Portsmouth, and who is as well known in Norfolk and Portsmouth as almost any of its citizens. It was in reply to some questions put to him by our reporter, who had heard of his remarkable cure, as well as of others that through Mr. McLean's instrumentality, had been brought about by the use of St. Jacobs Oil. After he had told the story of his own case, we asked him about the others, and he did not hesitate to relate them.

One was the case of a druggist from Warrenton, North Carolina, who while on a business trip to Norfolk, during the recent snowy and sleety spell, had the misfortune to fall on the ice and bruised himself very severely, so much so that he was confined to his room at his hotel. Mr. McLean happened to visit the hotel when he heard of the accident, and having formed the acquaintance of the gentleman injured, advised him to give St. Jacobs Oil a trial. The druggist consenting, Mr. McLean brought him some of his Oil, which he applied, and with such a happy result, that he was enabled to go on his way home rejoicing. Another case was that of Mr. Walter Howard, a well-known fish and oyster dealer in our city. Mr. Howard had also during the recent sleety spell fallen and injured himself. Being intimate with Mr. Howard, Mr. McLean says he sought him, and finding what his injuries were, he recommended the use of the Oil. The result as in the previous case was a cure—and a thorough cure. Mr. Howard is now a firm believer in the curative properties of St. Jacobs Oil.

But a more remarkable cure than all of the rest—and which our reporter had heard of before having any knowledge of Mr. McLean's connection with the case—was that of a venerable lady about seventy years of age, who, some two weeks ago, while seated at the supper-table, was stricken with paralysis, the whole of the left side being afflicted. Her speech was even affected. The family physician was sent for and he at once prescribed the usual remedies but without effect. The old lady was a family connection of the wife of Mr. McLean, and Mrs. McLean on hearing of her affliction visited the house, and learning that no relief had been secured from the physician's remedy, recommended the use of St. Jacobs Oil, relating its effect upon her husband. The Oil was procured and applied. The afflicted side was well rubbed and partial feeling was restored. The second day after the first application the afflicted lady was able to sit up, and the third day she was well enough to sew. Since then she goes about the house apparently as well as she ever was, and she considers that she owes her life to the great curative virtues contained in St. Jacobs Oil. These statements of cures coming to our notice from our interview with Mr. McLean, brought to our recollection a statement made to us by Prof. G. B. Cromwell, who last February exhibited in our city his beautiful "Art Illustrations" at the Opera House, which each night attracted crowded and cultivated audiences. It was in connection with his recommendation to a gentleman who was suffering a great deal from Rheumatism, and who on that account had been unable to attend the exhibitions. Prof. Cromwell advised him to try St. Jacobs Oil—even urged him to do so—and at last bought him a bottle of the Oil, that he might have no excuse for not using. The gentleman, however, was then under the treatment of his physician, and did not use the Oil. In explanation of the desire on his part why the Oil should be used, Prof. Cromwell stated that he had some year or so before suffered excruciating torments from Rheumatism, and that he had tried all kinds of medicines and so-called cures—all without effect. He heard, however, of St. Jacobs Oil, and resolved to give it a trial, which he did, and he stated that its effect on him was almost magical. A complete cure was effected, and since then he had never suffered from Rheumatism. But in order that he might be at all times prepared for the enemy, he never travelled without carrying in his trunk a bottle or so of St. Jacobs Oil.

While the above facts relate to the very remarkable curative properties of this Great German Remedy, it appears, judging from what our druggists say, that the belief in its virtues is wonderfully strong among the people of all classes, and that they secure it as a sure relief from pain. No patent medicine, it is asserted, has ever had the sale that St. Jacob Oil has had. No doubt much of this has been due to the extensive use of printers' ink, in the way of advertisements, almanacs, posters, sign bills, cards, puzzles, and everything in the printing line. But the many and many of certified cures and the interest which they have excited has had a vast deal to do with its popularity. It is sought by all, and is a boom to our druggists. Yesterday we detailed a reporter to visit the different drug establishments and to learn from them some facts regarding the sale of the Oil. He visited, among others, the house of Walke & Williams and saw Dr. Walke, who informed him that the demand for the Oil was simply wonderful. He stated that it exceeded the demand for any patent medicine he had ever handled, and this was saying a great deal, as Dr. Walke has been engaged in the drug business for many years, and the business of his house is very great. He next called on the old and well-known drug house of M: A. & C. A. Santos. The senior of the house was not in, but his son was approached, and he said in reply to the inquiry of our reporter, that the sale of St. Jacobs Oil was tremendous—never anything like it. He next visited the extensive establishment of J. W. Burrow, and finding that gentleman present, asked him: How about the sale of St. Jacobs? His reply was: "Splendid; the demand is very great. I make large sales of the Oil." The drug store of Dr. H. R. Vaughan was next sought, and in answer to our reporter's interrogatory, Dr. Vaughan readily answered: "My sales have been remarkable. The Oil goes fast."

We only conclude after the above statements of cures and sales, that there is a great deal in St. Jacobs Oil—and that when the benefactions have been so great, the Messrs. Vogeler & Co. may well be classed as benefactors—deserving the blessing of the multitude who have been cured.

ALIVE IN HER SHROUD.

On Tuesday afternoon last Mrs. W. L. Pettit, wife of the teller of the First National bank of Fort Wayne, apparently died, and the undertaker took charge of the body. Arrangements were making for the funeral, and watchers sitting with the supposed corpse. At 10 o'clock at night a faint sigh was heard coming from the body. The watchers started to their feet with alarm, stepped to her side, found her eyes wide open, while in a voice that was scarcely an audible whisper she recognized them and asked for her husband. For a moment the attendants were speechless with wonder at this resurrection of the dead; then, with the revulsion of feeling, they almost screamed with excitement. The husband came in haste, and with joy unspeakable clasped again his living wife in his arms. The doctor was sent for, and he was as much astonished as the rest of the household at beholding living what in his exact medical science he had declared dead. He administered the proper restoratives, and the patient rapidly recovered.

A WOMAN RESCUES A BOY IN MID-OCEAN.

A short time ago, Mrs. G. A. D. McArthur Campbell, formerly a resident of Coonamble, Australia, distinguished herself by a deed of admirable bravery. Mrs. Campbell was a passenger in a steamer from Hong Kong to one of the northern ports of Queensland, and one day a little boy about 4 years of age, to whom the lady was much attached, fell overboard, the accident occurring through a sudden lurch of the vessel. With the exception of Mrs. Campbell and the man at the wheel all the passengers and crew were at dinner. Without waiting for a life buoy or divesting herself of any clothing, and simply saying to the man at the wheel, "Don't tell the child's mother," Mrs. Campbell plunged into the water, swam to the boy and held him up till both were rescued, the steamer having been promptly stopped and a boat lowered. Neither the lady nor the boy was much the worse for the immersion.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

A FATHER RECLAIMS HIS DAUGHTER—PUTS NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN HER HAND—AFTER LONG YEARS.

About eighteen years ago there lived in the Scotch block, or Allan tract (called after the father of Senator Allan, Toronto), nine miles from Hamilton, a farmer named Andrew Porteous. His wife left him and ran off with another man, having first stripped his house of all effects of value. She levanted with a young man who was engaged to one of the handsomest girls in the township of Ancaster. A well-to-do farmer named Moffat allowed his daughter Mary to go and keep house for Porteous, with the result that in the course of time the young housekeeper bore a daughter to Porteous. Porteous had to leave the township in consequence and went away to California. Nothing was heard of him for years. At last he heard that his wife was dead and he returned to Canada intending to make Mary Moffat his wife, and atone for the wrong he had done her. He came as far Hamilton, went into Davy White's hotel, met an old neighbor, and learned from him that the mother of the child was married and living at Caledonia. He felt so bad at the news that he never went to see them, but packed up and left at once again for the States. The other day he returned to Canada a second time bound to see his child if not her mother. He repaired to the Scotch block, got an old neighbor to tell him of the whereabouts of Mary Moffat and to accompany him thereto. They drove to Caledonia and up to the house of Mary Moffat's husband. The husband was away and she was visiting a neighbor. The girl was there doing the housework. She was told two men wished to see her. She would not receive them till she had changed her attire. In a few minutes she was introduced to her father, who put $9,000 in bills in her hand, and after a few minutes conversation left, telling her he had lots of more money for her and for himself and would be back soon again. The girl had indeed a strange tale to tell her mother when the latter returned. Miss Porteous, as the young woman ought now to be called, is 17 years of age and well known in Caledonia and in the Scotch block.

A Dairy in Blue China.

At the left wing of Sir Henry Peek's nearly completed house at Rousdon, Devon, is situated the dairy, which for beauty, solidity and originality of design has never been surpassed, and cannot be matched in all England. The floors and shelves and central tables are all formed of slabs of the purest marble, and in the centre there is a fountain, the spray of which lends a delightful coolness to the air and Arcadian beauty to the scene. There is depicted on blue China tiles, arranged in a continuous chain all round the apartment, scenes from every phase of rural life. There is also a magnificent marble fountain in the large yard beyond.

A DISGRACEFUL COMPACT.

If the report be true that Sir John Macdonald has promised the licensed victuallers that the liquor laws shall, on their petition be assimilated to those of Quebec, then nothing could be more scandalous and disgraceful. In Quebec intoxicating drinks are sold up to midnight on Saturdays, and the licensed victuallers are anxious to have the same privilege in this Province. Now, it is notorious that whatever increases the facilities for the sale of intoxicants directly and immediately adds to the number of criminals and the already fearful catalogue of alarming crimes. Poverty, insanity and crime are the natural and inevitable results of the liquor trade. If anyone should doubt this let him read the records of the Criminal and Police, of the insane asylums, and of charitable institutions that seek to mitigate the distress and misery produced by whiskey and its congeners. To diminish the sale of intoxicating drink is the desire of every true philanthropist and statesman, and the Government that would lend itself, because of its political necessities to the extension of this baleful traffic cannot but be branded as a traitor to the best interests of society. Instead of giving greater scope to the liquor dealers, their numbers should be greatly diminished, and their dealings placed under far more rigorous restrictions than at present. The well-being of society demands this, and we trust that Sir John Macdonald, for his own sake as well as for the sake of the party which he leads, will speedily disclaim any such disgraceful compact as that which he is currently reported as having made with the licensed victuallers of the province.—Toronto Telegram.

The Bad and Worthless

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H.B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits. 46-4t

GIVE HEED TO A COUGH.—If we except those tremendous epidemics which sometimes often half depopulate the regions of country where they prevail, no diseases are so destructive as those which affect the breathing organs. Unfortunately also, there are few maladies which at the outset are so frequently disregarded as trivial. No warning is fraught with graver meaning than this—Give heed to a cough! To neglect it, is simple madness. So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen that often in a few short weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption, that terrible enemy to human life.

The best pulmonary remedy which medical science has developed, and which seems peculiarly adapted to the suppression of a cough or cold, Asthma, Spitting of blood, Bronchitis, or other throat or lung complaint, is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Experience has shown that the oil obtained from the Cod's liver exercises a powerful control over pulmonary diseases. In the above preparation, not only is this main ingredient specially pure, but its efficacy is greatly increased by addition to it of these hypophosphites which are among the most powerful invigorating and blood fertilisers known to materiæ medicæ. While the lungs are soothed and healed by the Cod Liver Oil, the rapid physical decay attending lung disease is stayed and the system built up and fortified by the hypophosphites. Ample evidence proves this. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 16, 1882

Inventing an Issue.

"Be sure you are right, and then go go ahead," is a good Yankee motto that the Review might lay to heart and carry into practice. In a recent number it invents an issue—fabricates a statement—in order to get an opportunity for venting its spleen upon the EXAMINER. The editor of the Review under the appropriate heading of "Rubbish" indulges in a wonderful amount of merriment in an attempt to be playfully sarcastic, with about as much success as an elephant imitatiting the graceful gambols of a fawn. But in order to do so he has to invent a foundation. He pokes unlimited fun at us for having made the alleged statement that the pork market was glutted, and on this "fabricated fact" endeavours to annihilate us. If his premises were correct the Review man's conclusions would be less out of place. The fact is that the editor of the Review dishonestly puts words in our mouth that we never uttered, and dishonestly attempts to make capital out of them at our expense. The most we had to say in reference to pork was to predict that the low price of grain the blessed N. P. brings the farmers, or to be exact, which prevails under the N. P., would compel them to feed it to their pigs and that it would follow that the pork market would become glutted. That is not by any means saying that the market is now glutted. To say that the Review will utter a journalistic lie next week to injure a contemporary, is not saying that he has done so to-day. We do not decline any responsibility for what opinions we express, or what facts we assert, but we do object, on the score of decency, to having statements put into our mouths that we never uttered, and then being held responsible for them. We did not make the statement the Review attributes to us, and hence all its superstructure of quasi humorous comment falls to the ground. This last sample of the Review's journalistic ethics is on a par with the act of one neighbour slyly slipping his watch into another's pocket and then arresting him for theft.

The Late Father Stafford.

The news of the sudden taking off of Rev. Father Stafford, Lindsay, as noted in another column, will be heard with deep regret throughout Ontario, but more especially in the Midland district, where a personal acquaintance on the part of the people intensified the love and respect which his blameless life and labors for the benefit of his fellow-men, have evoked amongst people of all religious faiths. A zealous and faithful priest of the Roman Catholic Church, he did not feel himself circumscribed by her pale in his endeavours to do good, and while he neglected no opportunity of promoting the interests of the Mother Church, he laboured earnestly and successfully, in promoting the interests of secular education and the cause of temperance. His labors in Lindsay and vicinity have wrought wonders in the social condition of his parishioners and others brought within the circle of his influence. Under his pastorate, as a community they have become temperate and law-abiding citizens. As a Catholic, he took catholic views of society, men and public questions. His principles were liberal and tolerant, and thus he won respect from even those whose opinions differed from his own. His character may be epitomized in the saying that like the Master he so diligently served, he "went about doing good." Rev. Father Stafford will need no monument in carven stone to keep him in remembrance. His memory will live embalmed in the hearts of those who have been the blessed objects of his benefactions, or were the witnesses of his many and successful efforts to improve the religious, moral and social condition of his fellow men. Whether regarded as a priest, a social reformer, a christian gentleman or a friend,—

He was a man, take him for all in all,
We shall not look upon his like again.

OUR CIVIC SIRES.

A Brief but Lively Session—Improvements on Dickson's Race—Iron and Steel Works—Collector's Duration.

Council met in regular session. Members present, His Worship, Mayor Smith, in the chair, Messrs. Cahill, McNaughton, Possette, Wilson, Menzies, Denne and Richardson.

OBJECT OF THE MEETING.

The Mayor said he had called the meeting to dispose of the appplication of Mr. Hazlitt, in reference to platforms in front of his building on Dickson's Race, but before considering that he would ask the clerk to read the

COMMUNICATIONS:

From Mr. Hilliard, M. P., requesting that the Council instruct the Street Inspector to look over the platforms in front of his premises and if they needed replacing or repairing to direct the work to be done at once before the frost came on.

Mr. Denne asserted that a part of these platforms were on Mr. H.'s private property and the committee had no power to expend money on them. Referred to the Street Committee with power to act.

IRON AND STEEL WORKS.

The Mayor submitted the following communication, which was received:

72 YOUNG ST. TORONTO, Nov 11, '82.

To His Worship, Mayor of Peterborough.

DEAR SIR.—I have your favour of yesterday, in re Iron Works. I am at present simply gathering information, which will in due course be submitted without reserve to my principals, who are practical men, and will come and inspect the field for themselves. I shall have much pleasure in submitting your letter.

Faithfully Yours,
MATTHEW ROBBINS.

SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

From Mr. T. M. D. Crowley inclosing an account of work on Smith Street Bridge, $369.29.

On motion to refer the bill to the Street and Bridge committee with power to act, Mr. Cahill said that the Midland Railway had agreed to pay half of the expense. The work had been done under proper supervision, and Mr. Crowley was entitled to his money.

Mr. Denne said that a portion of this bridge was dangerous and if it was not repaired the town would have to pay damages for an accident that would surely happen. He charged the chairman of the Street committee with not looking closely enough after his duties, and if he did not improve he should be replaced.

Mr. Richardson closed a few remarks in reply to Mr. Denne by saying that the streets of Peterborough compared favourably with any in the Province, a statement that was endorsed by His Worship.

Mr. Cahill rose to speak but Mr. Denne raised the point of order that he had spoken before.

His Worship called Mr, Cahill to order and said that he was bound to keep the rules of the council.

Mr. Denne—

His Worship—Now Mr. Denne you are out of order in keeping your seat while addressing the chair. If Mr. Cahill has spoken once on this matter I shall not allow him to speak again.

Account ordered to be paid.

An account of James Stevenson, $38.38, for gas fixtures for the engine house was ordered to be paid.

DICKSON'S RACE.

Mr. Cahill read the report of the committee on Streets and Bridges, recounting that the committee had in accordance with instructions received at the last meeting of the council, examined the street along Dickson's Race. The committee found that two or three new factories had been erected during the present year, which give employment to a large number of hands. Believing that the council is desirous of encouraging the establishment of such industries, the committee recommended that a sum not exceeding $300 be appropriated to erect platforms, etc., in front of the above factories. Mr. T. G. Hazlitt agreed to do the work required in a substantial and satisfactory manner for the above sum, and if the work could be done for a less amount, to charge the corporation only the sum actually expended, and in case the necessary amount should exceed $300, to pay the balance.

Mr. Cahill in moving the adoption of the report said that he was not well enough posted in such work to give close estimation, but he was willing to accept the figure of $300 of Mr. Hazlitt as stated in the report. The council had passed resolutions in favor of encouraging manufactures and their sincerity should be proved by the adoption of the report.

Mr. Richardson said if this were granted applications would come in from all quarters. It would be a bad precedent to establish.

In answer to Mr. Menzies, Mr. Hazlitt who was called on, explained that the width of the street was, he thought, 60 feet. What was asked was only what was done in other parts of the town. He had made large improvements along Dickson's Race this summer and had started up a large manufacturing business on the canal, and the Council which desired to encourage manufacturers, might be of material assistance in the way asked for. He only asked to be treated as others were treated. He sought no favors and would accept none. He demanded these platforms as a right and only as such would he accept them. He intended to erect another factory for a large manufacturer, and, as his time would be pretty well engaged at this, he hoped the Street Committee would act promptly so that the work could be done at once.

Mr. Denne said the matter had been referred to the Street Committee before. He asked if the Chairman of the Street Committee had examined the premises to see if the site of the proposed platforms was on the street.

His Worship said that he and the Chairman had done so and the site was on the street.

Mr. Denne resumed and spoke warmly in favor of the work being done. He stated that he had not the slightest objection to repairing that portion of Mr. Hilliard's platforms on the public street, but the Council had no right to expend public money on private property.

Mr. Possette said that a by-law passed in 1851 opened this street to forty feet and the factories came to the edge of the street. Mr. Hazlitt was entitled to the platforms asked for and the Council was in duty bound to give them to him. He deprecated the introduction of personal matters and said that every application should be decided on its merits.

Mr. Cahill made explanations arising out of the remarks of previous speakers and the report was adopted.

SOUTHERN RESERVE.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the clerk be and is hereby directed to procure from the Crown Lands Department, copies of all correspondence between the Corporation and the Government or the representative of this town or county, or any other person or persons for, or on behalf of this Corporation, in reference to what is known as the Southern Reserve.—Carried.

COLLECTOR'S BONDS.

His Worship stated that the last year's collector's roll had been regularly returned and that the collector wished to give new bonds for the roll of the present year but could not do so till the Council consented to delivering up the old bonds.

On motion of Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Denne, the old bonds were directed to be given up to the collector.

The Council adjourned sine die.

MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor of THE EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I notice in your issue of the week before last that a member of the Grange Mutual Aid Association makes inquiries regarding the stability and standing of the Association and the wisdom of his continuing to pay endowment calls. I also noticed that you placed your columns at the disposal of any person desiring to give an answer to the inquiries of your correspondent, but none of the trustees or promoters of the Association having taking advantage of the permission, I will give a few facts with reference to the company, its constitution and its mode of carrying on business that may be of interest to "A member," and be to a certain extent, an answer to his anxious inquiries. From the attention I have paid the matter, I may give a few facts that will decide "A member" as to continuing to pay endowment calls.

For nearly a year different members have been anxious to secure some information as to the mysteries of the Association—whether they were required to make a deposit with the Government, whether they have done so, and other facts respecting the election of directors, etc. From all that I can learn, the Canadian Mutual Aid Association has no charter, nor Government deposit; it seems to be a mere assessment society living on the credulity and payments of the public.

It is deficient in the two chief cardinal principals that should underlie such an association—responsibility of the officials and the representation of members. From my reading of the by-laws I can see that no provisions made for any member having the slightest control over the affairs of the Association. He is merely to impose a blind trust in the integrity of the trustees, who are bound under no bonds to enable a member to enforce his rights. The general control of the affairs of the company is given to trustees who elect themselves—for life. The officers, which are eight in number, are responsible only to themselves and their co-trustees. No matter what their short comings, their peculations, their disregard of the rights of members, no member has the slightest voice in asserting his claims or removing an offending trustee. Those who supply the funds have nothing to say in its disbursement. Eight being a majority of the board of trustees, they can as long as they stick together conduct the business in their own way without those in whose interest the business is conducted—the members—being allowed a voice in the matter. In a word, the members are at the mercy of the trustees who count the ballots of the members and officials, elect themselves for life, and fill vacancies by their own votes alone. The member is to be a creature of faith and to trust implicitly to a body of men who will look after their own interests, especially when not likely to be called to account for anything they do.

It is true there is a semblance of a Government deposit made to secure something. The circulars of the officials state that they have "deposited with the Government of Ontario, bonds to the amount of $60,000 in security for the proper fulfilment of the provisions of its certificates and the terms upon which membership was taken." This sounds well and would be well if it were true, but these bonds are simply personal bonds held by the officials themselves to secure one official from being robbed by another. The bonds are not the least security for the payment of claims in favor of deceased members' representatives. The alleged security is no security whatever to the confiding member, but only a safeguard against one official stealing from another.

To recapitulate, the officers of the Mutual Aid an irresponsible, they owe their election and retention of office to themselves, and the persons who have the greatest right, the members, have not a word to say in the the matter, as the Trustees count the ballots and elect whomsoever they please.

There is no security for the member. There is no redress for frauds perpetrated on members however flagrant. The members for whose benefit alone the association purports to be in existence have no voice in the election of the guardians of their interests, or no voice in the control of their moneys that compose the funds of the association.

With these facts before him, perhaps "A Member" will be in a position to decide whether it is safe and wise to continue paying endowment calls.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew more so, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE:—Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

CROWN LANDS DEPARTMENT.

Figures Respecting it—A Brief Record Respecting its Administration, and the Success Attending it—Some Items of Interest—Ten Years of Efficient and Economical Management.

The Crown Lands Department is the great revenue-producing branch of the Government, and, with the exception of the amount received as subsidy from the Dominion, provides the largest part of the annual income of the Province. The duties of the Department, instead of decreasing, are year by year going growing and more complex. They comprise the the sale and management of the Crown, Clergy and School lands still undisposed of; the locating of settlers in the Free Grant districts; the surveying of new townships from time to time, as they are required for settlement or the purposes of the timber trade; the construction of Colonization roads and bridges in the new and sparsely settled portions of the Province where the settlers are as yet unable to assume the burden of such works; the supervision of the vast area over which licenses to cut timber have been granted (such supervision becoming much more difficult year by year as settlement increases); the collection of Government charges and dues leviable upon such timber; and the settlement of the multifarious and often complicated questions which of necessity arise in the course of transactions covering so large a territory. The following figures and statements show the very decided increase in the work now performed by the Department, as compared with the years 1868-71—and increase which explains and far more than justifies any small additional expenditure which has occurred.

The correspondence in connection with the Colonization Roads branch has also very materially increased, as the following figures show:

EXPENDITURE ON ROADS.

The expenditure on Colonization roads and bridges since 1872 has been large, amounting to no less a sum than $973,511. The effect in developing and promoting settlement in the newer portions of the Province, has been confessedly great. That, in addition, the money has been well and economically spent is proven by the following figures:

During the period 1868-71 the average number of miles of road built per year was 53, and of road repaired 110, the average annual cost being $44,500, while from 1872 to 1881 the average per year was 162 miles of road built and 314 miles of road repaired at an average annual cost of $97,315. In other words, during the latter period as compared with the former, there were three times as much road built and nearly three times as much road repaired per year, at an average annual cost of little more than double the amount expended in the former period.

COLONIZATION ROADS IN MUSKOKA.

It may be interesting to know what was done in the way of building and repairing Colonization roads and bridges in Muskoka district between 1868 and 1871, under the administration of the Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald, and also what has been done since that time under the present Government.

During the former period there were 120 miles of new road built, 112 miles of road repaired, 7 bridges built, and 1 bridge repaired, the the total cost of the work being $69,355. During the latter period there were 754 miles of new road built, 920 miles of road repaired, 43 bridges built and 15 repaired, at a total cost of $410,669. That is to say, between 1868 and 1871 there were on an average 30 miles of road made, 28 miles of road repaired, and 2 bridges built per year, at an annual cost of $15,000, while from 1872 to 1881 there were on an average 75 miles of road made, 92 miles repaired, and 4 bridges built, an an annual cost of $41,066.

WOODS AND FORESTS.

The number of licenses issued (in duplicate) from 1868 to 1871 was 754, or 188 per annum, but from 1872 to 1881 they numbered 3,630, or 363 per annum. Increase, 100 per cent.

TIMBER RETURNS.

Saw logs and square timber returns received and checked:

1868 to 1871	5,525 or 1,381 annual av'g
1872 to 1881	25,885 or 2,588 "

Increase, 160 per cent.

FREE GRANTS—A COMPARISON BETWEEN MUSKOKA AND MANITOBA.

The area set apart as Free Grant Territory covers about 10,750,000 acres, and of this there now surveyed about 9,000,000 acres. The rate at which the population of the Free Grant Territory is increasing, notwithstanding the prominence which has been given to other parts of Canada—notably to Manitoba—as a desirable field for immigrants, and the consequent withdrawal of a part of the stream of immigration which would undoubtedly have found its way to the Muskoka and other districts, is very gratifying. Without attempting in any way to belittle the advantages offered by Manitoba, or to detract from the progress which that province has made of late years, it may be interesting to institute a comparison, founded on the census returns of 1871 and 1881, between the "Prairie Province" and the newer portions of Ontario, a comparison which will prove anything but unfavorable to the latter. In 1871 the white population of Manitoba was 12,228, and in 1881 (exclusive of an extension of the province made shortly before taking the census and not included in 1871) it had risen to 47,548. The addition made to the population during the decade was at the rate of 3,562 per annum, the total increase for the ten years being 288 per cent. Comparing these figures with those given for Muskoka alone, we find that in 1871 the population of the latter district was 6,910. In 1881 it had increased to 27,204, or at a rate of 2,028 per annum during the ten years, the total increase for the period being 293 per cent. Manitoba, between 1871 and 1881, received one additional settler for every 230 acres of land; Muskoka during the same period received one for every 159 acres. Again, in Manitoba and the North-West the number of acres settled upon in 1881 by means of "homesteads" and "pre-emptions" was about 704,320, or one acre in every 112; while in Muskoka there were 104,522 acres of land located as Free Grants and sold during the same year, or one acre in every 30 throughout the whole district. And when it is remembered that in Muskoka there are no such centres of population and trade as Winnipeg and other places in Manitoba, the facts we have given will tell still more in favor of the Muskoka district. Taking all the circumstances into consideration, it must be admitted that the newer portions of Ontario are advancing towards their full development with rapid strides, and the state of facts revealed by the last census, as compared with that of 1871, cannot but be gratifying to every one who has the progress and prosperity of the outlying districts of our Province at heart.

LETTERS ON FREE GRANT BUSINESS.

The average number of letters written from the Free Grant branch of the Department during the years 1868-71 was 818 per annum, while during the period 1872-81 it was 2,928 per annum, or an increase of 257 per cent.

TOWNSHIPS.

In 1872 the number of townships open for location under the Free Grants Act was 54, and the number of Agents for the disposal of Free Grant lands 10. In 1881 the number of townships open for location was 122, and the number of agents 17.

The average increase per year, during the latter period, was thus 29,853 acres, or 34 per cent.

The total acreage located up to the end of 1881, was 1,519,266, as compared with 348,780, the acreage located up to the end of 1871.

The number of townships surveyed in 1881 over those surveyed up to end of 1871, was	68

A PARTIAL EXPLANATION.

This progress in the settlement of our new and free grant territory will be considered most encouraging and satisfactory by every fair-minded person, when it is remembered that for the last few years the North-West Territory has overshadowed every other field for immigration. That the unsettled districts in our Province have been able to compete so successfully with the rich prairie country of the North-West, may to some extent be explained and accounted for by the fact that the intending settler has not been hampered in selecting his lot and making his location, by unwise regulations, and by his finding locked up in the hands of companies and speculators the lands that should have been left open and free for bona fide settlement.

WORK CONNECTED WITH FREE GRANTS.

It may be pointed out that the amount of work and expense connected with the giving away of land under the Free Grants Act is fully as great as, if not greater than, that which attends the disposal of it by sale. When a man buys a lot, all that the Department has to do is simply to carry out the sale and receive the money when paid in by the purchaser; whereas in the case of a free grant, affidavits have to be made in proper form, and examined by the Department, before the intending locatee can be located for the lot; then the Department has to see that the regulations as to settlement duties, etc., are duly performed; and finally, at the expiration of the term, it has to receive and pass upon fresh affidavits made by the locatee and at least two others, respecting the due fulfilment of all conditions of the grant, before the Department is in a position to issue a patent for the lot. In addition, applications for the cancelling of locations are frequently and constantly being made on account of the settlement duties not having been performed, when the Department is obliged to examine in each case the evidence upon which such cancellation is asked, and decide upon it. It will thus be seen that every location is the subject of no small amount of work and attention on the part of the Department.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Council met at Warsaw, Nov. 3rd, 1882. All the members present and the minutes of last meeting were read confirmed.

The clerk was instructed to notify the collector to abate a statute labor tax of $2 to Wm. Crowe, as the work was done under Lazarus Payne, pathmaster.

George Grant was allowed to commute $3.91 of arrears of taxes on east ½ lot 27, con. 12, by doing road labor to that amount under Mr. Drain, commissioner.

Wm. Crowe was allowed to commute his statute labor for three years on side-road between lots 25 and 26, 7 con.

A deed for a portion of the 5th con. line was executed in duplicate in favor of Mr. David Rose, the purchaser.

KNOX COLLEGE, TORONTO.

The endowment of Knox College was considered at a meeting of the representatives of the Presbyterian Church throughout Ontario, held at Knox Church, Toronto, on Tuesday. Since the union of the Presbyterian churches in Canada, the three colleges—Knox, Queen's and McGill—have been supported by a common fund, and it has proved insufficient. McGill and Queen's have each been pushing their independent endowment schemes, and it is considered that the time is now ripe for a movement to be made in favor of Knox. Principal Caven said the debt now amounted to $11,340. Knox, he said, was to receive $10,000 of the $19,000 which was supposed to be raised in support of the three; but as only $15,970 had been raised, only $8,426 went to Knox. All that was asked, the Principal said, was to put Knox on a footing with the other two colleges with respect to an independent endowment. A general discussion took place, from which it was plain that the necessity of further endowment was fully recognized. Speeches in favor of the movement were made by the Rev. Dr. Cochrane and others, and it was resolved that $200,000 should be raised, payable in two years.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 45

In Toronto,

Since the removal of Dr. M. Souveille's Throat and Lung institute to his new quarters, 173 Church street, hundreds suffering from catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and many diseases of the throat and lungs have received treatment by his new and wonderful instrument, the spirometer, which conveys medicines in the form of cold inhalations to the parts diseased. Physicians and sufferers can try it free. Poor people bearing certificates will be furnished with spirometer free. Write enclosing stamp for pamphlet giving full particulars, to Dr. M. NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

The attention of subscribers in arrears is directed to the date on the address label on their papers, which shows the time paid to, and they are requested to remit the amount without delay.

The importance of prompt remittance will be recognized from the fact that the total amount due is very large. We want each subscriber to take the hint home and remit at once.

There are a few who through carelessness or something else, have shown no disposition to pay. We advise them to settle at once. It will be their own fault if costs are incurred.

The full rate of $2.00 a year will be charged to all in arrears. Subscribers forwarding their subscriptions before the expiration of the year will be charged only $1.50.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Thanksgiving day has come once more,
The busy harvest days are o'er,
The farmer, tired in anxious care,
Has once more sought the Lord in prayer,
The bells ring forth in joyous peals,
And he who hears them surely feels
Thankful for God's infinite love
In watching o'er us from above.

Who else could give us all we need,
And bring to life the tiny seed,
But He who rules the universe;
And bids us all with Him converse;
Who sends the rain in sparkling drops,
Refreshing all the thirsty crops,
'Tis He who gave his Son to die
That we, through Him might meet on high.

This day all toil is put aside
By all who in this land reside,
And thousands on their knees do bend,
While up to God their prayers ascend,
And thankful we should ever be,
Whether on land or stormy sea,
Knowing that God will ever send,
If thankful, blessings in the end.

Then let us loud our voices raise
In joyful lays and sing His praise
With heartfelt thanks for blessing us
And making harvest plenteous,
And may the coming years be crowned
With plenty scattered all around,
Nor let the nations cease to sing
Praises to our Almighty King.

Farm, Garden and Household.

The Farmer's Life.

There is a quiet about the life of a farmer and a hope of a serene old age, that no other business or profession can promise. A professional man is doomed sometimes to feel that his powers are waning. He is doomed to see younger and stronger men pass him in the race for life. He looks forward to an old age of intellectual mediocrity. He will be last where once he was first. But the farmer goes, as it were, into partnership with trees and flowers—he breathes the the sweet air of the fields. There is no constant and frightful strain upon his mind. His nights are filled with sleep and rest. He watches his flocks and herds as they feed upon the green and hilly slopes. He hears the pleasant rain fall upon the waving corn, and the trees he planted in youth rustle about him as he plants others for the children yet to be.

How to Feed Pigs.

The nice point in growing pigs is to keep them growing. This is easily accomplished for the first three or four weeks by feeding the sow bountifully on nourishing slops, but the time comes very early in the life of a pig when it is impossible for the sow to supply nutriment as rapidly as they are assimilating the food, and, as they have not in the meantime been taught to eat for themselves, there comes a period of retarded growth. I usually prepare for this by providing a trough apart from the sow, to which the pigs can have access, and commence by giving them a little sweet milk, which they soon learn to drink greedily; this is gradually changed to skim milk, then to sour milk, buttermilk or whey, with crumbs of bread scraps from the kitchen table, etc. As the pigs grow older I feed cornmeal cooked into a mush and mixed with whey, skimmed milk, and other house slops, and finally soaked corn, by which time they are old enough to take kindly to grass and clover, and this, with the soaked corn, keeps them growing rapidly. Do not depend too largely upon corn, but provide grass in abundance. A most excellent food for the purpose of increasing the flow of milk may be prepared by grinding oats and corn together, in about equal quantities by measure, and making a slop of the mixture. To this may be added oil meal with profit. Ground rye, barley, or wheat may be substituted for the corn or oats, and a mixture of all these grains will make an excellent diet; but do not forget the grass.

Honey Crop in Russia.

An English gentleman, Mr. W. H. Hoge, in a long letter to the Pall Mall Gazette, corrects the hypothesis of that journal that the short honey crop in Russia last season was due to the decline in the price of beeswax. The real cause was the failure of the blossoms to secrete as much honey as usual. Mr. Hoge states that bee-keepers prefer to keep the honeycombs for refilling, instead of selling them for wax, as it pays them better to do so. He says:—"In the United States broken combs are carefully preserved and made over into "comb foundation." This is done by running thin sheets of wax through a machine constructed somewhat like a clothes-wringer; the rollers instead of being made of rubber are made of engraved metal, which makes impressions on each sides of the sheets exactly like the bottoms of the natural cells. The foundations are placed in the frames, and the bees accept them only when made of pure beeswax, and thankful for that much of a start go at once to work to lengthen out the cells and fill them with honey. With the utilization of broken combs for these foundations the export of beeswax from the United States has steadily decreased, while the production of honey is constantly on the increase."

Experiments in Fattening Hogs.

An Iowa farmer put 21 year-old hogs for fattening, and for the first twenty days fed them on shelled corn, of which they ate 83 bushels. During this period they gained 837 pounds, or upwards of ten pounds to the bushel of corn. He then fed the same hogs for 14 days on dry cornmeal, during which time they consumed 47 bushels and gained 535 pounds or 11½ pounds to the bushel. The same hogs, next fed for 14 days on cornmeal and water mixed, consumed 55½ bushels and gained 731 pounds, or 13½ pounds of pork to the bushel. He then fed them 14 days on cornmeal cooked, and after consuming 45 bushels of the cooked meal the hogs gained 786 pounds or very nearly 15 pounds to the bushel of meal.

Clover and Manure.

It may seem to some that frequent cropping with clover and grain, instead of renovating the soil will exhaust it. Experience, however, proves the contrary. Clover, it is believed, in some way draws its nitrogen from the air. How this is done is not well settled. Some have held that the leaves have power to gather the nitrogen directly from the air, while others have thought that it drew its nitrogen from the subsoil. It is probable, however, that the leaves either absorb nitrogen from the air, or else the surface soil kept moist by decaying leaves, absorbs the nitrogen or ammonia from the air and imparts it to the roots of the plant. Experiments have shown that soil on which clover have been grown contained more nitrogen than it did before the growth of the clover notwithstanding the large amounts removed in the hay. It seems pretty well proved that the clover in some way draws its nitrogen largely from other sources than from the soil and consequently by growing it the soil is made richer in nitrogenous elements.

Prof. Voelcker is one of the strongest advocates for clover in a farm rotation and gives these as his conclusions upon its value and general character:

1. A good crop of clover removes from the soil more potash, phosphoric acid, lime and other mineral matters, which enter into the composition of the ashes of our cultivated crops, than any other crop usually grown in the country.

2. There is fully three times as much nitrogen in a crop of clover as in the average product of the grain and straw of wheat per acre.

3. Clover is an excellent preparatory crop for wheat.

4. During the growth of clover, a large amount of nitrogenous matter accumulates in the soil.

5. This accumulation, which is greatest in the surface soil, is due to decaying leaves dropped during the growth of clover, and to an abundance of roots, containing when dry, from 1½ to 2 per cent. of nitrogen.

6. The clover roots are stronger and more numerous, and more leaves fall on the ground, when clover is grown for seed, than when it is mown for hay; in consequence, more nitrogen is left after clover seed than after hay.

7. This crop causes a large accumulation of nitrogenous matters, which are gradually changed in the soil to nitrates.

8. Clover not only provides abundance of nitrogenous food, but delivers this food in a readily available form (as nitrates) more gradually and continuously, and with more certainty of good results, than such food can be applied to the land in the shape of nitrogenous spring top-dressing.

Thoughts for the Season.

The "fall of the leaf" is the season of death and decay. The gorgeous coloring of the leaves and the changing hues of the lower vegetation, are all significative of this. It is the ripening which precedes death that produces the varied tints which clothe the woods and the shrubbery; and the beauty which pleases the eye is nothing less than the covering that hides the unpleasant and unwholesome ruins of the summer's verdure. The Fall season with its dying vegetation, its damps and fogs and dripping moisture and its sudden changes, is one that calls for special care and precaution. Decay and death reproduce themselves, and there is nothing so hurtful to life as dead matter. From it are spread upon every breeze germs which produce decomposition in living matter and disease in animal life; and unless pains are taken to fortify ourselves against these influences, we are in constant danger.

There are a few simple directions which might be usefully given just now that may, if noted and followed, prevent serious disorders; and first—because the most dangerous—the drinking water calls for the most serious thought. Do we ever think of what becomes of the myraids of insects that have until now infested almost every leaf, and that with all the filth they have produced, have fallen to the ground and have died and disappeared, and of all the dead, rotting matter under our feet everywhere? It is in great part dissolved and carried into the soil, into streams, ponds and springs; and from all these we directly or indirectly procure our supply of drink. It is hardly safe to use any water, even from the deepest wells, because these are all more or less polluted by surface water special care should be taken against drinking any water that has not been thoroughly boiled. It is just now that fevers, colds, sore throats and intestinal disorders become frequent, and a very little prevention may be more useful than a very large amount of cure.

The closest attention should be given to the health. The feet should be kept dry and warm, and a chill to the body be carefully guarded against. The perspiration throws off much of whatever unwholesome matter may be taken into, or produced in the system; and a sudden stoppage of it throws back all this into the circulation and poisons the blood with it. The result may be what we call a cold; or it may be more serious and appear in a fever, or pneumonia or diptheria; and all of these differ chiefly in degree and location, and not so much in character; for the former may easily change into the latter. The doctor is not always at hand, and so every person should be as much as possible his own and family's doctor, so far as the prevention of sickness is concerned. Precaution and good nursing save more lives than medicines. A simple cooling laxative, a warm bath, a simple sweating drink of gruel and wrapping in a blanket and going to bed, will frequently ward off a serious illness and avert the danger, before the doctor can be reached. And to use these, no one need wait for the doctor's orders. So that, to sum up, it may be repeated that at this season it is very safe to be extremely particular in regard to drinking water; to avoid damp or wet feet or clothing; to avoid getting heated and then chilled by cooling; to eat moderately and at the first intimation of anything wrong, to use the simple remedies pointed out, and then send for the doctor.

House Plants.

Don't wet potted plants too often. They should not be watered until they really need it. It will be evident that they require wetting, if in taking the earth from the pot it crumbles to pieces like dust; a sure sign is to knock on the side of the pot, near the middle, with the finger knuckle. If it gives forth a hollow ring, the plant needs water; if there is a dull sound, there is still moisture enough to sustain the plant. Plants must not be wet more than one or twice a day; on dry, clear days they require more water than on damp, cloudy days. On the other hand the earth must not be allowed to dry out entirely, for that is also very injurious. In wetting them the water must be poured on in such a way that it will run out again through the hole in the bottom of the pot. If the earth gets too dry, it is best to place the pot in water so that the water will saturate the dirt very gradually. They may be watered at any part of the day, except when the sun is shining on the pot or has just left it; for the earth gets hot when the sun shines on it, and then if cold water is poured on it, it will cool off too rapidly. Keep them free from dust, if possible. Cover them over at sweeping time. If the plants are on a table, contrive an upright post or stick to be set in a hole in the middle of the table to hold up the centre of a spread of some kind that will cover the plants. In the absence of such protection, contrive some method of using old newspapers. Before sweeping protect the plants by the use of a covering, and let this remain over them until the dust has completely settled. All smooth leaved plants, especially ivy, cape jessamine, camellias, and the like, should have their leaves washed with a soft sponge—a rag will answer—on both sides, with tepid water, at least once a week. If this is once tried it will be found much less trouble than one would suppose, and the increased beauty of the foliage will lead to its repetition. Rough-leaved plants, such as geraniums and many others, cannot be washed to advantage. Set these in a bath-tub, or in a sink, and give their leaves a good drenching by using a garden syringe, if one is at hand, or else a watering-pot, one with fine holes, holding it up high so that the water will fall with force upon the leaves.

Culinary Cullings.

Noodles for Soup.—Beat two eggs until very light, add flour enough to make a stiff dough; a pinch of salt, roll thin, then roll up tightly. Begin at one end and shave down fine like cabbage for slaw.

Baked Fish.—Fill the fish with plain dressing and dredge with flour; put in a pan with a little water; salt, pepper and butter, and bake to a nice brown. Serve with egg sauce.

Stewed Lamb Chops.—Cover the chops with water and stew until tender, keeping well covered except when skimming. When done season with salt and pepper and thicken the gravy with flour. Pour the stew over toast when ready to serve.

Fried Sweet Breads.—Wash in salt and water, parboil, cut into small pieces, dip into beaten eggs, then in cracker crumbs and fry brown in butter or lard.

Cream Cabbage.—Beat together the yolks of two eggs, one-half cup of sugar, one-half cup of vinegar, butter size of an egg, salt and pepper. Put the mixture into a sauce-pan and stir until it boils; then stir in one cup of cream. Pour over the cabbage while hot.

Potato Cakes.—Add to two pounds of mashed potatoes, one-half cup of butter, salt, pepper, two pounds of flour, and milk enough to make a batter, one-half cup of yeast. Set it to rise, and when light make in small rolls.

Poached Eggs.—Have the water well salted, and let it boil hard. Break the eggs separately into a saucer, and slip gently into the water; when nicely done, remove with a skimmer. Trim neatly and lay each egg upon a small tin square of buttered toast, then sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Apple Pancakes.—Mix with three pints of milk and six beaten eggs, flour enough to make a thick batter, add salt and six large apples chopped very fine. Fry in hot lard.

Buckwheat Short-cake.—Three cups sour milk; one teaspoon saleratus dissolved in the milk, with a little salt; mix up a dough with buckwheat flour thicker than you would for batter cakes—say, quite stiff. Put into a buttered tin and bake in hot oven thirty minutes.

Apple Dumplings.—Pare and quarter ripe, tart apples; place them in a deep dish, adding a little water; make a crust as you would tea-biscuits, of sour cream or rich buttermilk, if you have it; if not, any of the nice baking-powder recipes will do; roll about an inch think; place over the apples and steam half an hour. Serve with sauce made of one-third butter to two-thirds sugar, stirred to a cream. This dumpling may be made of any kind of fruit, fresh or canned.

Beefsteak with Onions.—Heat the frying pan until it smokes, put in the meat, without butter, turn constantly until done; a few minutes before removing put in a tablespoonful of butter or lard; as soon as the meat is taken out put in the sliced onions and fry brown; care being taken that they do not burn. Put the meat on a platter and cover it with the onions. Serve immediately.

Roast Veal.—Stuff a loin of veal with plain dressing, tie the loin firmly with twine, dredge with flour to which has been added salt and pepper; put it into a dripping pan with a little water. While cooking baste frequently. When done thicken the gravy with flour rubbed in butter. Remove the twine before sending to the table. A roast weighing eight pounds should cook two and one-half hours.

Prune Pudding.—Heat a little more than a pint of sweet milk; when boiling, stir in gradually the following: One large spoonful corn starch, mixed smoothly with a small quanty of cold milk; add four well-beaten eggs; enough sugar to sweeten; one teaspoon butter, and little grated nutmeg. Let this come to a boil. Then pour it into a well-buttered dish, adding one teacup seeded prunes just before placing in the oven; bake about twenty minutes. The prunes must be previously stewed until tender. Serve with or without sauce as is preferred.

FRESH FASHIONS FOR THE FAIR.

Cloaks for walking and carriage wear are sufficiently long to conceal the dress.

Flowers are banished from millinery, and feathers of all descriptions take their place.

Small bonnets will be worn for opera and the theatre, larger ones for calling and church.

Jaunty toques, caps, and turbans of velvet felt will be worn with cloth dresses.

From five to ten longstemmed roses are the most desirable flowers for corsage bouquets.

Vigogne, nun's veiling, foulard, or sateen are pretty fabrics for inexpensive evening dresses.

Carnations, poppies, marsh-mallows, and oxeye daisies are the most fashionable fall flowers.

The nap beavers are shown in all the new shades, but fine French felt hats are more dressy.

Court trains sloped to a point like a bird's tail are worn with the pointed bodices of evening dresses.

Laurels, pansies, elderberry blossoms, and lilies of the valley will be much used for dress garniture.

Jet and metal buttons come in new and handsome design, and are suitable for the most elegant costumes.

Oriental lace will be largely employed in the trimming of ball and reception dresses for the approaching season.

New clasps to fasten cloaks are wooden masks with open mouths; other clasps are animal's heads of bronze or silver.

Jean Baptiste cloth is the French name for a new camel's hair cloth that is as soft as India chuddah, but has a rough finish.

White and grey doves are the favourite birds for autumn hats for girls. They are also worn on the corsage, amid the bouquet of flowers.

The favorite colors for quilted satin linings for wraps or strawberry red, shrimp pink, violet, sapphire, or some dull old-green shade.

The drapery on the latest walking skirts consists entirely of flowing folds and puffs, which fall from the belt to the foot of the skirt.

A lovely little jet bonnet is made of jet lace over cardinal velvet, and finished by a wreath of crushed damask roses and red velvet ties.

The plaited flounces on black satin skirts made for winter have the inner plaiting of terra-cotta or strawberry red instead of the white stripes so fashionable for summer dresses.

The Jeanne d'Arc corsage, open on one side and laced with silk cords and corselets under the arm, will be worn with full evening dress.

Network of silk cords with drooping tassels is used to give the appearance of vests and aprons on French dresses of corded Sicilienne and velvet.

A handsome imported costume for street wear has a skirt of dark bronze brown satin, with plush embroidered drapery; pointed bodice with bouffant back.

Small muffs of dark feathers have two birds' heads—one head split—for ornamenting the front. A collar to match has another pair of heads on the left shoulder.

Paris is setting women a sensible fashion in dispensing with high-heeled shoes. Flat soles are to be the order hereafter, and women will be able to walk without a rotary motion.

Jersey wool gloves, very long and without buttons, are made in all shades to match cloth dresses, and are so well shaped that they fit the hands as neatly as Swede kid gloves do.

Large clasps of steel or gilt play a great part in fashions nowadays. They are used to trim hats, shoes, dress bodices and cloaks, and to drape tunics or to ornament the sash bow on the back.

Broad-brimmed picturesque hats, laden with ostrich plumes, are worn by young ladies because their coquettish curves and waves are far more becoming than the newer but stiff masculine hats with close bands and short game feathers.

Brown and Pompeiian red are very popular colors for bonnets. Brown Sicilienne and red velvet are folded together for trimming fine felt bonnets, and there are three short ostrich feathers of these colours forming a panache on the crown.

There is a preference for having the upper part of the costume of some plain material, with a damask or brocade of large scroll or floral patterns for the skirt. Genoa velvets, plush, and broacatelles make handsome skirts for plain Indian cashmere bodices and plaited tunics.

Plain velvet is more stylish than figured velvet. It is being used for mantles with marabout fringe, chenille, or fur trimmings, but it must be loaded with trimmings to make it acceptable, and fine satin cord gimp is laid upon it so closely that the velvet becomes merely a groundwork for decoration.

The daintiest evening wraps are long Japanese shapes made of light blue plush with white lambskin fringe, or blue and silver brocatelle with a border of white and grey dove's feathers, or gold and black damark velvet with chenille and gold fringe as a garniture, and Pompeiian and red plush lining.

A pretty and effective bridesmaid's costume is of pale blue velvet, draped with cream nun's veiling. The cavalier hat is trimmed and lined with blue plush and cream ostrich feathers. The boots and stockings are of blue silk. The necklet and locket are of silver, and the bouquet is of blue and white flowers.

Cloth basques with square tabs and braided vests are capital things for giving sufficient warmth to silk and wool dresses without adding a mantle or jacket. Hungarian blue, terra-cotta red, and dull green cloth are the colors most useful, as they harmonize well with nearly all the dresses of the period, whether colored or black.

KIDNEY-WORT

DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS, I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Bentley, of this place, and have received great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremour which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

Yours truly,
J. S. WETHERILL.

TIRED OF SUFFERING.

THE STORY OF AN EX-POLICE OFFICER—THE AGONY IS OVER—'IT DID NOT FAIL HIM.'

[Sacramento, (Cal.) Record Union.]

Mr. M. Hymen, proprietor of the Pioneer Store, No. 102 J Street, is now one of the happiest men in Sacramento, whereas a short time since the fields for him strove in vain to look gay in their garb of winter-green, and the sunshine of California was as a glimpse of the midnight sun at Spitzbergen. He had the rheumatism. What man tortured with rheumatism can delight in the beauties of nature or care a fig whether the sun shines or not? Mr. Hymen did not know what to do about it. He had taken the prescriptions of physicians, but the dull, dead ache and the horror and dread agony were still there. The heavens to him were as though covered with the pall of unending night. Others might smile, but Mr. Hymen found no cause to allow a ray of mirth to creep into his face. This sort of thing had gone on with him at intervals for years, and there seemed no help for him. But the post tells us that the darkest cloud has a silver lining. The darkest hour is always just before the dawn. There was help for him—relief present and permanent for his racked body. At last some one told him of the Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil. "What! use a mere liniment, after exhausting the skill of doctors? Why, it is madness to talk of it!" Well, just try the Great Remedy, 'said the voice of his friend. He tried it. "What is this?" Relief! He tried it again. More relief! "Is this the wand of the magician? Yes, it is relief—sweet relief, after wakeful nights of agony and days long drawn out with "suffering?" At last he had discovered the solution of his trouble. He was cured. Since this happy recovery the gentleman cannot say enough in praise of the Great German Remedy. He advises all to use St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism. He says there is nothing under the dome of the universe comparable to it as a pain annihilator. His recommendations in the past few weeks have been the means of selling hundreds of bottles of the wonderful specific, and many are glad of the time when he urged them to use it. His was a wonderful cure.

Mr. W. B. Ferrall, the well-known policeman of this city, has also felt the powerful friendship which the St. Jacobs Oil extends in the hour of physical suffering. Mr. Ferrall was severely afflicted with rheumatism. He got tired of suffering, and determined to call in the aid of the grand old specific. It did not fail him. The disease was deep seated and declined to yield without a struggle; but the application of two bottles of the Oil made it fly away and cease from troubling. He is now well and hearty. He recommends the afflicted to rely on St. Jacobs Oil as the most steady and efficient cure for pain in the world. Captain O. O. Laraway, who runs that most thriving and well stocked grocery, corner of Sixth and N streets, is a great sufferer from neuralgia. While the reporter was in there the other day, waiting his turn for supplies, the Captain told him that the Great German Remedy was a powerful liniment. It had relieved him of neuralgia, and given him many hours of ease. His clerk also owned to having had the backbone taken out of some ugly rheumatic pains which had possessed his legs, much to his annoyance, for some time.

The foregoing should convince even the most skeptical that the article in question is indeed a great remedy and conquerer of pain. "We indorse it," is heard on all sides.

A BRIDAL COUPLE'S EXPERIENCE IN A BATH-ROOM.

A newly married pair, who arrived on their honeymoon trip at a celebrated Scotch watering place when accommodation was at a premium, had a matrass spread for them by a compassionate innkeeper in one of his bath-rooms. In the middle of the night the house was alarmed by loud shrieks proceeding from the nuptial chamber. What was the matter? Well, this: The young bride, wishing to ring for a servant, had caught hold of what she supposed to be the bell-rope, and pulled it smartly. Unhappily for her and her spouse it was the cord of the shower bath over their heads, and forthwith down plunged such a deluge of cold water as would throw a damper upon the most devoted honeymooning couples. Her husband, in dismay, caught frantically at another cord on his side of the extemporized couch, but the only response was an equally liberal deluge of water, this time nearly boiling hot. The unhappy pair then screamed in unison. When the servants came they found the floor of the room flooded with water, and the wife was perched like a monkey on her husband's back, uttering the most lamentable cries, while her good man was fumbling about in the dark, trying his best to find the door.

PUT THIS IN YOUR PIPE.

"Frank P. Warner came into our store to purchase a sample bottle of Zopessa for a friend, and stated that he (Mr. Warner) was afflicted with kidney and liver troubles for five years, and had paid $200 or $300 doctor's bills, and has now been completely cured by the use of two large bottles and one sample bottle of Zopessa. He was so bad at one time that he lost 37 pounds of flesh, but after using Zopessa, claims that he is a sound man, and now weighs 145 pounds. He was loud in its praise, and readily consented to allow us to use his name for reference."

Again, Mrs. Forbes, wife of Mr. R. C. Forbes, Tilsonburg, Ont., through Mr. C. Thomson, Druggist, says: "She was ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and was reduced to a mere skeleton, but through the use of Zopessa entirely recovered and has gained 38 pounds."

We could present very many such, but have not the time nor space. Zopessa is not a cure-all, but acts directly upon the liver, stomach, and kidneys, correcting the digestion, giving activity to the liver and health to the urine. This corrects the whole system and the blood becomes pure. 44-4t

AN OLD DEBT PAID.

Twenty-two years ago Alexander Sullivan left Amherstburg, his native town, and started busines in Detroit with money borrowed from J. D. Burk and H. J. Brown, both of Amherstburg. He failed, and was unable to repay the money. He then went to Chicago, where he met with many ups and dows, holding at one time a prominent position in the City School Board, and at another time being on trial for murder for shooting a man who had insulted his wife, and was twice acquitted. One day last week Messrs. Burk and Brown, of Amherstburg, were surprised by receiving checks for the lent money with interest, the former a check for $775, and the latter one for $1,050.

We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Taylor & Macdonald.

SICK OF HIS PROFESSION.

A young man in Detroit who studied medicine, and was regarded as an uncommonly promising student, was graduated last spring from the Medical Department of the Michigan University. During his student life he visited the sick assiduously as an observer and assistant, was engaged in many surgical cases, and everywhere demonstrated his remarkable adaptability for the profession. On coming home from college he one day walked into his old preceptor's office and said, "I have travelled with you several years and seen more woe than I ever dreamed existed in the world. Now the simple fact is, I shall never do it again. The thought of spending the remainder of my life surrounded by the wretched miseries of the sick-room, and being forever haunted by the piteous sights an active physician must encounter, it is too horrible to be thought of with anything like indifference or equanimity. I'll not do it, and there's an end of the whole matter. Remonstrance was useless. He gave up the results of years of study, and is now hard at work in a manufacturing establishment learning a new business.

MRS. WM. ALLAN, of Acton, says she has never been without a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in the house for the last twenty years, and would not be for ten times the cost; adding that she has never known it to fail for Colds and Croup, Sore Throat, Stiff Neck, Burns, Scalds, etc. She concludes saying, "if any one doubts its efficacy, refer them to me." 45-2t

HOW IT WORKS.—Malarial Diseases, so prevalent in the Spring and Fall, such as Ague, Chill Fever, Bilious Fever, &c., depend upon an inactive state of the liver, bowels, skin, kidneys, etc., for did these outlets of morbid poisonous matter free the system properly, no sickness would result. Burdock Blood Bitters effectually regulates these organs and corrects the absorbent and secretory system as well. 45-2t

An explosion took place at noon on the 8th, in a powder mill at Windsor Mill, Quebec, by which one life was lost. Had not the employees been at dinner a terrible holocaust must have ensued, as the various buildings were blown to atoms.

"No eye like the master's eye." Had Æsop lived in our day he might well have added, "No popular curative like Kidney-Wort." All eyes are beginning to turn to it for relief from diseases of the liver, bowels and kidneys. Kidney-Wort is nature's remedy for them all. Those that cannot prepare the dry can now procure it in liquid form of any druggist.

It is estimated that the free canal amendment to the constitution has been adopted in New York by a majority of from 150,000 to 190,000. Others, on the other hand, consider the amendment to be in danger.

Many thousands of people yearly are saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in the matter of properly cleansing the system in the spring season, from the accumulated impurities, which if left undisturbed, breed disease. As a purifier Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits.

The United States cutter, Corwin, reports that the Hoatsco Indians in Alaska, are very troublesome and aggressive. Before leaving the Corwin shelled their village in reprisal for an outrage upon the whites.

"When the fountains of life are not corrupted and embittered by suffering; when the functions of womanhood are strictly normal, woman's life is like music, with no discord to jar her delicate sensibilities and break the vital and organic harmony. But many who suffer from vital and functional disorders have found immediate relief and a permanent cure by using Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Local News Record.

A PAINFUL MISHAP.—On Thursday last Mr. J. E. Belcher, resident Engineer of the Water Works Company, was driving to the pump house, when his horse fell, smashing the shafts, wrecking the harness, throwing Mr. B. out and inflicting divers cuts and bruises on one of his legs. His wounds, which we are glad to say were not of a serious nature, were dressed at the Pump House by Dr. Boucher.

THE JUBILEE SINGERS.—On Tuesday night this band of singers gave one of their unique and unrivalled entertainments to the largest audience that ever assembled in Bradburn's Opera House. Their singing for sweetness, pathos, sublimity and grandeur, was absolutey charming; there is no chance for comparison, for in their line they stand unrivalled. The rendition of the various selections seemed to hold the house entranced. Encores demanded, even the second time, were frequent. The Jubilee Singers scored a big success here.

THE LATE THOMAS MALLOY.—We record with great regret the death of Mr Thomas Malloy, one of the most popular and best known of the newer citizens of Peterborough. The deceased, while only living a short time in town had, by his good qualities of heart and mind, endeared himself to a vast number of friends. He was open-hearted, lively, affable and generous to a fault, and all who ever met him retain the memory of a kindly word or obliging action. He was a faithful and pious member of the R. C. Church. His funeral, which took place on Friday, was very largely attended.

A SOLID FACT.—It is a solid fact that for solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

Diamond Brand ..... only 30c per Can Selects ..... " 35c " "
J. B. L. Selects ..... " 40c " "
J. L. & Co's (Blue Points) " 50c " "
Bulks from 40 to 50 cents per quart. Quotations every day at SMITH'S MARKET. 46-

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Society was held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 8th. The Treasurer reported a cash balance of $170. The following officers for 1883 were elected:—

PRESIDENT—Thomas Telford, Esq.
FIRST VICE PRESIDENT—John Patterson.
SECOND VICE PRESIDENT—A Hewie.
THIRD VICE PRESIDENT—A. Turner.
TREASURER—Wm. Cummings.
SECRETARY—John Logan, jr.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—John Stewart (Convener), Wm. Telford, Henry Bowie, D. Burnside, Peter Flanis and Robert Telford.

LAW ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of the Law Association was held last week when the following officers were elected:—

President—C. A. Weller.
Vice-President—G. Edmison.
Secretary-Treasurer—E. B. Edwards.
Trustees—A. P. Poussette and W. H. Moore.

FORMER RESIDENT HEARD FROM.—We learn from the St. Mary's Journal that Messrs. J. & G. Jopling, former residents of Peterborough, have disposed of their valuable farm of 150 acres, being north half of lot 19 and lot 20 in the 11th concession of the township of Downie, known as the Avonbank farm near the village of Avonbank, Perth County, for $8,250 cash, purchased eight years ago for $5,400. Much regret is expressed through the township at the prospect of losing such valuable residents. Mr. J. G. Jopling occupies the position of president of the South Perth Agricultural society and is also secretary of the Avonbank cheese company, and president of the farmers' club, and if he should decide to remove from the neighborhood altogether he will leave a gap which it will not be easy to fill. It is to be hoped, however, that Mr. Jopling will settle somewhere in the vicinity.

A. THRIVING BUSINESS.—In spite of the warm weather Mr. H. LeBrun has been doing a rushing business in clothing all this fall and now that the cold weather has set in, himself and staff are almost wild with the demands on their capacities. In the ordered clothing department, with Mr. Ross cutter, there are employed twenty-five hands in two shops and there is no time for play with them. For this department there is an immense stock of broadcloths, tweeds and overcoatings of all grades of quality and price, and the man, rich or poor, that cannot be suited here in material, stylish fit and excellent make is too particular for this world. In the ready-made department there is a mammoth supply on hand and it is constantly being increased by a special cutter and staff of hands for this department. If the quantity of ready-make clothing and cords of overcoats &c., are a surprise, the prices are still more wonderfully cheap. A full stock of gents furnishings in every class completes the stock of an establishment whose immense patronage and extensive business shows that the goods are what they are represented and that it is worthy of the public confidence. When you want anything in the way of gents furnishing or clothing, ready-made or to order, don't neglect to call on H. LeBrun, George street, Peterborough.

LITTLE TOWN TOPICS.

The water in the river is high and low, "by fits and starts."

Now ready a large line of couches cheap at Clegg's. 45-4t

The fire brigade band favoured the town with a public serenade on Thanksgiving day.

Use Clegg's improved flour, it has no equal, sold at the usual price. 45-4t

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Hawthorn left for Winnipeg on Thursday last to look after investments in that city.

The Bible Christian missionary meeting will be held in the church Murray street, on Thursday night Nov. 16th.

Farmers can get Clegg's Improved flour in exchange for their Grist at Clegg's mill. 45-4t

Chief Johnson has done a good work in putting down four new crossings on the corners of Hunter and George streets.

Cracked wheat, Graham flour, Oat meal and Corn meal at Clegg's, may be ordered at the office, George St. 45-4t

Mr. A. Rutherford has taken a contract for enlarging the buildings of the Montreal Bank, Lindsay, the Post says.

A CHOICE line of millinery in the newest styles. A full range of mantles, ulsters, &c., at R. GRAHAM & SON'S, Lakefield. A call solicited. 45-4ins

On Monday two carloads of stone arrived here from Belleville, to the order of Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E., to be used in building the Nassau bridge.

There was a magnificent show of the Aurora Borealis combination last Monday night, which explains the subsequent storm and cold snap.

The special musical part of the thanksgiving services in St. John's Church on Thursday was highly appreciated; and well worthy of appreciation it was.

Chairs, bedsteads, tables, sideboards, mattresses, pillows, and the largest assortment of spring beds ever offered in Peterboro', at Clegg's Warerooms, George street. 45-4t

We are pleased to note the recent improvements made in the Campbellford Herald, which is a live paper, and consequently gives signs of life by continual improvements.

Wood was "higher" on the market last Saturday than it ever grew in the primeval forest—for instance—$4 for hardly enough hardwood timber to build a paling around a baby's grave.

Who is to be Mayor for 1883? It is about time candidates declared themselves and mothers made arrangements for the annual wash of baby faces for the coming campaign.

You will find with us a very large stock of clouds, wool squares, shawls, gloves, hosiery, and a full assortment of dry goods, at close prices. Call and see them. R. GRAHAM & SON, Lakefield. 45-4ins

The Markham Economist celebrates its twenty-seventh birthday by coming out blooming in a new dress, and enlarged form. It is a neat, newsy sheet and we congratulate it on the success it deserves and is winning.

A son of Mr. Councillor Denne, attending the Guelph Agricultural College, while wrestling in the grounds had the misfortune to break his thigh bone. He is now doing as well as could be expected.

Boys in the western part of the town have the dangerous habit off firing off revolvers promiscously in the streets and popping off domestic pigeons with shotguns. A taste of the law and the lockup would have a good effect.

Mr. Tobias Fitzgerald's carriage shops have been rebuilt and are now in full running order. The rapid manner in which they have been pushed by Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald, contractor, is a credit to all parties concerned.

The G. N. W. Telegraph poles have been removed from George street and there is an improvement of a thousand per cent, so to speak, in the appearance of this busy thoroughfare,—the vista opening out grandly to the south and closing with blue and misty mountains of North Monaghan.

Since the opening of the grain season Mr. J. R. Dundas has shipped to Chicago from Midland, over 60,000 bushels of barley. The route via Midland railway, and by boat from Midland to points in the western states is said to work very favourably to shippers in the Midland district.

We are requested by a prominent west end gentleman to give the authorities "fits" respecting the condition of the walk on the south side of Brock street between Stewart and Rubidge. The planks are loose and provocative of broken bones, extra-judicial oaths, and promiscous profanity. The walk needs not only repairing but rebuilding.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—This day was celebrated in several of the churches by divine service. The other forms of thanksgiving were not so seemly. Every old shot gun in the town was resurrected for sporting purposes. Very many poured forth their thanks with liberal libations of whiskey, and in one way or other the day was very generally observed.

PRESENTATION.—On Monday evening last, Mrs. Baxter took her departure for the North-West. On Friday evening previous, she was presented by the officers and members of Carswell Lodge of Good Templars, with an address and a set of jet earrings and broach inlaid with gold, and also a pair of bracelets to match. The address was signed on behalf of the lodge by G. J. Early and Mrs. G. A. Mitchell.

CHANCERY SITTINGS.—Chief Justice Ferguson presides at the Chancery Sittings that opened at the Court House on Tuesday. The Toronto bar was represented by Messrs. A. Z. Lash and G. T. Blackstock, while there were several local lawyers looking after the interests of the several cases. The first case was that of the Township of Monaghan re. Wm. Dobbin, respecting the location of a fence. It was trid at the last Chancery Sittings here, the township contending that defendant's fence was 21 feet south of the line, but the Court held that the true line was the original Burney line, and defendant was ordered to build his fence—a stone one—in accordance, and having done so he claims that his fence now stands on the Burney line. The town seems to be equally divided as to the defendant's correctness. The costs so far are $1,000 and the land in question is not worth nearly so much. The case is in progress as we go to press; there are about 40 witnesses to be examined; the court counsel and parties concerned visited the disputed territory on Wednesday morning. Messrs. Dennistoun and Hall for plaintiff. A. Lash, counsel: Mr. D. W. Dumble for defendant.

Now that the reaping and mowing season is coming on, farmers should remember that "Kaiser" Machine Oil is the best reaper and mower oil in the market. For sale by all dealers. 5-38t
